Squabble: Sam Yorty-U.S. Feud Blocks $250,000 L.B. Fund for Antipoverty Project

By CHARLES SUTTON

A heated feud between federal officials and Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty is holding up more than $250,000 in Long Beach anti-poverty funds, it was learned Saturday.

George Logan, head of the Long Beach-area Community Welfare Council, which has been directing the local poverty war, acknowledged that one project —a summer recreation program for underpriviledged youngsters—may have to be dropped this year if the hassle isn't resolved within 10 days.

The recreation project was to be financed by a $66,500 federal appropriation. But, along with a $151,471 work-training program and a $23,700 program development plan, it is being delayed as a result of Yorty's refusal to agree to a reorganization of the county's Youth Opportunities Board, a screening agency for local anti-poverty plans.

THE Youth Opportunities Board (YOB) was formed in 1962 by city, county and state governments, as well as city and county school systems, to coordinate youth programs with federal help.

When the poverty war began, YOB seemed like a natural choice for the local overseeing body.

But federal officials insisted that overseeing bodies balance their representations between public and private groups, and minority and poverty communities.

Accordingly, the YOB agreed to merge with the Economic Opportunity Federation, a group composed largely of private agencies. However, Yorty objected, declaring that private agencies should not have a hand in the disbursal of taxpayer funds.

As a result of the stalemate, about $20 million worth of local projects are being stalled in Washington. These include the three Long Beach programs.

The largest of the three, the work program, would involve the training of 150 low-income men and women by Goodwill Industries and Community Rehabilitation Industries.

The recreation project envisions a special summer program of sports and handicraft at several boys clubs in depressed neighborhoods.

The third involves a grant to the Community Welfare Council here for the development of new anti-poverty programs.

Logan said none of the three projects is critical. He said Long Beach already has received more than $1 million for other programs. Nevertheless, the three new programs are important, he added, and the sooner they're started, the better.

If the stalemate over YOB goes on indefinitely, Logan said, the Long Beach people "will have to consider" going it alone.

KIMMY DIRNER . . . A Fighter

L.B. Baby, Twice 'Dead,' Faces Surgical Crisis

By BEN ZINSER
I. P-T Medical Writer

If little Kimmy Dirner, only 1½, could write about her operations, she'd be a cinch for the Pulitzer Prize.

Her medical history is positively sensational.

Thanks to repeated use of Red Cross blood, and doctors at Childrens' Hospital of Los Angeles, Kimmy is alive today.

She gave her parents, Reba and Albert Dirner, 3413 Karen Ave., their first nervous moments the day she was born, for she was an Rh baby — victim of a blood disorder.

A blood transfusion was required immediately. Kimmy won Round No. 1.

Only a few weeks later, at home, Kimmy suddenly turned gray and had trouble breathing.

RUSHED to Childrens' Hospital, Kimmy was taken first to the infants' ward, where doctors decided that an operation was in order.

But before surgery could take place, Kimmy's heart stopped beating, while she still was on the ward.

One doctor administered closed-chest heart massage. An anestesiologist tended to her breathing needs. Someone else brought up an electrical device called the defibrillator, to restore a normal beat to the restarted heart.

That done, doctors then took Kimmy to surgery. Again her heart stopped beating, this time in the operating room, but before scrubbing procedures had been completed.

There was no time to be lost. Doctors promptly opened Kimmy's chest and massaged her heart manually.

When heartbeat had been restored, surgeons re-

Brown Asks 1% of U.S. Tax Go to State

Federal Treasury Has Surplus, He Tells Governors

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) —Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California proposed Saturday that the federal government return 1% of its income-tax collections to the states.

He said this would give California $250 million for the next two years, "and would exactly bridge the gap between revenue and program needs with which my legislature is struggling in session right now."

Brown issued the plea in a press conference at the Western Governors' Conference under way here.

* * * *

HE SAID he would urge other western governors to support the proposal.

Brown said the federal government had an income surplus, while there was a tax squeeze at the state level.

Under his plan, 1% of all income taxes collected by the federal government would be earmarked for the states, with distribution to be on a population basis.

He said he wanted state legislatures to determine how the federal money would be spent.

* * * *

HE SAID he didn't feel federal taxes should be cut, because "you can't get state legislatures to replace the taxes in the same amounts. That is a political impossibility."

He said his proposal would help preserve the states.

He said he had discussed the idea with President Johnson, and that the President said he wanted to give the proposal more study.

Turning his attention to California problems, Brown said some politicians in his state were "fighting over fat-salaried positions" in the war-on-poverty program. He said some Los Angeles legislators were seeking jobs for their friends. He did not name anyone.

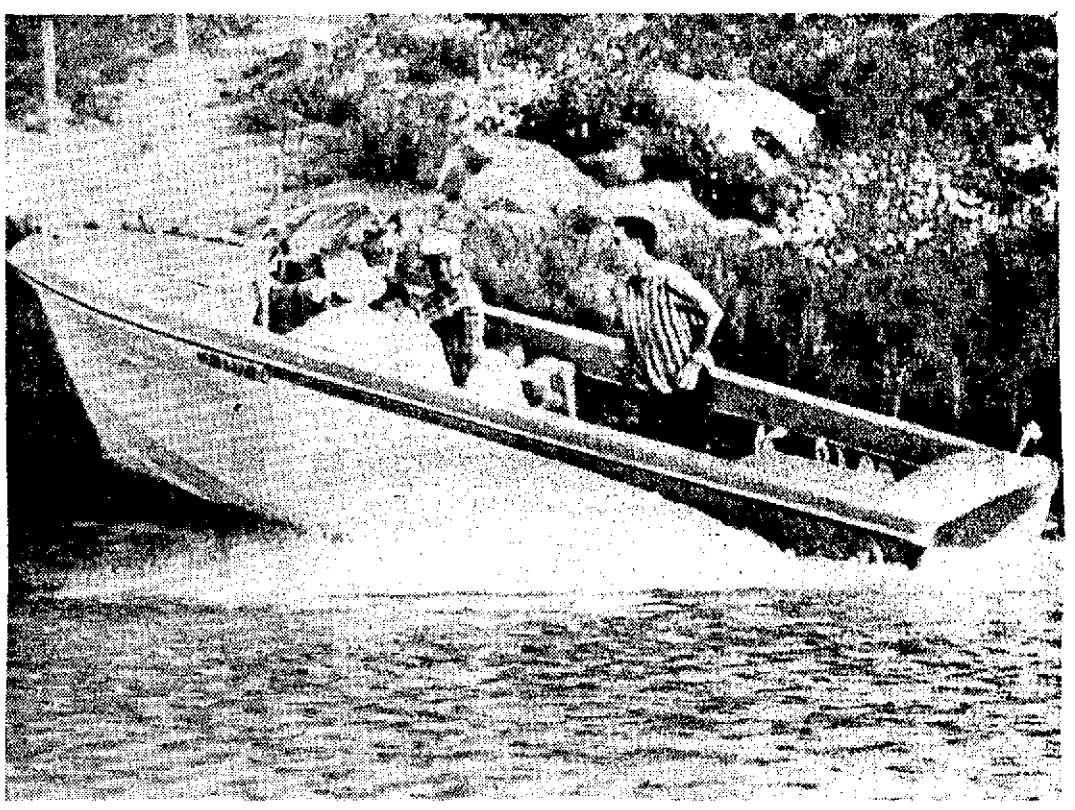

He warned, "Patronage is a two-way street that can hurt as much as it can help."

He said, "It is scandalous that politicians try to get in on programs dedicated to help the unfortunate."

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson, resting at his ranch, studied detailed reports Saturday on the new government upheaval in South Viet Nam. The Texas White House said he is following the situation "very closely."

Press Secretary George E. Reedy told reporters the President had a number of telephone conversations "with various officials of the State Department, the Defense Department, members of the National Security Council staff," and White House aides.

Reedy said the President also received his customary morning intelligence briefing and "has followed the situation in South Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic closely." But the White House had no comment on developments, beyond that.

Among the reports coming in to Johnson was a definitive follow up to a preliminary report the President got Friday from Acting Ambassador Alexis Johnson on the Saigon Government shift. Generals there decided to replace the four-month-old civilian government with a military regime.

SAIGON, Sunday (UPI) — A Communist guerrilla counterattack near the battered town of Dong Xoai failed to pick up steam Saturday following skirmishes with pursuing government paratroopers.

A battalion of Vietnamese paratroopers battled with a Viet Cong force of undetermined size and then fell back on the district town, an American military spokesman said.

There was no reported contact between the government and Communist troops after midnight Saturday, the spokesman said. Dong Xoai is some 60 miles north of the capital.

A U.S. military spokesman said the "bulk of the battalion" of paratroopers had retreated to Dong Xoai.

Subway Fire Traps 2,000

NEW YORK (AP) — An electrical fire stalled three subway trains under Brooklyn's Prospect Park Saturday, trapping more than 2,000 passengers in a dark, smoky tunnel for up to two hours.

No serious injuries were reported, although 100 people were treated at hospitals for smoke inhalation or heat exhaustion. There was no panic.

Except for about 500 elderly persons, most of the passengers groped their way along catwalks and up steep emergency exits, emerging between the zoo and the botanical gardens.

'THE TRAPPED GENERATION'

Articles Slated on Middle-Aged

Are you in your 40's or 50's—or about to be?

Then welcome to "The Trapped Generation," the middle generation trapped between the extremes of death control, the ability of science to keep elderly parents alive, and infant mortality control, plus the changes which have delayed the financial independence of children.

The plight and problems of the middle-aged are explored in a new 10-part series, "The Trapped Generation," starting next Sunday in The Independent, Press-Telegram.

Written by Thelma Purtell, author of the best-selling "The Intelligent Parent's Guide to Teen-Agers," the series deals with the peculiar crises, frustrations, and tribal practices of men and women in their 40's and 50's.

While the problems of both the elderly and the young have been getting boundless attention and sympathy in recent years, the generation born between 1913 and 1927 has been largely ignored. Thelma Purtell has now set this lamentable state of affairs to rights.

Miss Purtell gets right to the point in dealing with the unique problems of the middle-aged: Man's last fling; the older woman in love; what to do about aging; how long should a child be dependent; the demands of longer-lived parents; should a wife go to work; and dozens more of the problems that torture the generation caught between the young and the old.

Striking illustrations by Dick Hodgins dramatize each installment. "The Trapped Generation" will appear daily except Saturday in The Independent, Press-Telegram starting June 20.

15 Swept Through Spillway of Dam

IONE, Wash. (AP) — Fifteen people—in a motorboat and six canoes—were swept through the spillway of the Box Canyon Dam on the Pend Oreille River upstream from this northeastern Washington community Saturday.

The Washington State Patrol said one of the 12 young men in the canoe party was missing.

"It's unbelievable that only one of them is missing," said Arnold Waggoner, operator at the Box Canyon Dam. "I had just returned to the powerhouse from home when I saw the broken canoes, lifejackets and debris floating in the river below the dam. There was a youth sprawled on top of the spillway gate."

The canoe party was believed to be from the Moses Lake, Wash., area. The two men in the motorboat were unhurt. They were identified as Roy Matson and Bob Haney, both of Ione.

All 15 were swept through the spillway gate on a 30-foot high wall of water. The river is moving at 75,000 cubic feet per second at the dam.

L.A.C. Says:

How to Keep Industry Away

As California carries on a strong advertising program to induce industries to locate here, a current Reader's Digest article gives a discouraging picture to such prospective new industries for the state. Heading of the article is "California Jackpot for the Jobless." Its subhead says: "Welfare chiselers in America's most populous state have helped to push its unemployment benefit costs to a staggering half-billion dollars a year and the end is not in sight."

It is a subject this column has covered many times. But now to have it be given national prominence in the Reader's Digest will offset many of the advantages we offer for new plants and installations in the state. The payroll costs are a major factor in any industry where these costs are a major part of production. Where there is a wide difference between two possible localities these costs can be a decisive factor in the choice.

The article points out that in 1964 the state paid out $511 million in unemployment benefits; about $100 million more than New York state with a population only slightly smaller. It was more than the combined benefits paid out by 30 smaller states. It says: "In California this rush to the public trough has reached fantastic proportions."

It gives some examples of cases involved as follows: A California housewife who quit her salaried job but filed a claim for unemployment compensation some time later. The following statements were made at her hearing:

Q. Why did you leave the job? A. Because I wanted to stay home and be a housewife. Q. You just wanted to take a vacation from work? A. Yes. Her case was approved by the board so she could collect up to $55 a week for 26 weeks. All this cost was paid by the employer, who pays the entire cost of unemployment insurance. The governor now asks that this be raised to $65 a week.

Some other cases cited, where benefits were paid were: A stenographer who quit because a manual typewriter was beneath the dignity of fingers trained for an electric machine; a clerk who was fired after it was discovered that he lied about his arrest record, his school and previous employment record; a supermarket cashier who was fired after he rang up a $5.59 tab for a friend's grocery order that actually totaled $53.71.

It is clearly stated that these types of cases account for only a small percentage of those who receive benefits. The great majority of benefits go to people who are honestly seeking jobs after losing one due to being replaced by a machine or by a reduction in employment where the job was held. But it says 13% of the $511 million paid out last year went to these cases where the person voluntarily quit, or was discharged for valid reasons.

This all applies to U. I. (unemployment insurance), all paid for by an average 3% payroll tax on the employer. But of equal significance is the U. I. D. (unemployment insurance disability), which is supposed to pay for 12 days hospital and weekly benefits to a disabled worker. This fund has been provided by the 1% tax on the worker's paycheck—paid by the worker. But this fund is bankrupt. Hospital benefits have not been paid since April 1. The governor is asking for higher taxes on both U. I. and U. I. D. All of these are payroll taxes, made higher by benefits paid to people who do not qualify under the legal and moral interpretation of the law. It is certainly one way of discouraging new industries from locating in a state where such laxness prevails.—L.A.C.

Bandit Suspect Gets to Visit With Family

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Duane Pope, charged with robbing a Nebraska bank and murdering three persons, spent 40 minutes with members of his family at county jail Saturday after a long session with FBI agents.

He had surrendered to police here Friday, saying he was "tired of running."

The prisoner's father, Earl Pope of Roxbury, Kan., would not answer newsmen's questions.

"Let's leave it at that," he said as he was leaving the courthouse.

With him were his wife; a son, Dennis, 17, and a daughter, Ello, 14. On the elevator on the way down from the 11th floor jail section of the courthouse, his sister and mother began sobbing.

The family had driven here from their farm home about 180 miles west. They waited about 20 minutes in a room near where Pope had been closeted most of the day with FBI agents. Then they were ushered into another room for the family meeting.

* * * *

POPE, who gave up after a week's widespread search for him, is held under a federal bank robbery charge and a Nebraska state charge covering the slaying of the bank president and two employes.

The Pope family was grimfaced as they left the room where they had met with Duane. Tears welled in the eyes of the father and his younger son, Dennis.

The father, a tall heavy-set man wearing a shirt unbuttoned at the collar and tan slacks, stood stiffly facing his wife and daughter in the elevator. Dennis, a tall, athletic-looking youth dressed in a short-sleeved sports shirt, turned his face to the wall.

Captive U.S. Navy Fliers Interviewed

LONDON (UP)—The Sunday Times published accounts of interviews granted a London trade unionist with two U.S. Navy fliers captured during missions over North Viet Nam.

The report was headlined: "No Complaints, Say American Prisoners," and ran under the by-line of Ralph Bond.

The fliers said to be interviewed were Lt. Cmdr. Robert Schumaker, of New Wilmington, Pa., and Lt. Philip Neal Butler of Lemoore, Calif.

Both were described as confident, composed and without sign of physical ill treatment.

Bond was described by the Sunday Times as one of a group of 60 invited individually to Hanoi by the North Vietnamese government.

* * * *

SCHUMAKER was the first to be interviewed. Five other visitors, from Europe, Asia, South America and Africa and several North Vietnamese civilian officials were said by Bond to be present in a house at Hanoi for the interview.

Bond said Schumaker seemed pleased to hear an English voice when addressed.

He replied, "I have been treated humanely. I am well fed and clothed, and I have a bed to sleep in, I drink mineral water. I hope that if one of the Vietnamese were to be captured by us he would be treated as well as I am."

Schumaker, who was shot down Feb. 11, was asked why he took part in the action, among the first attacks on North Viet Nam by U. S. planes.

"I am a military officer and I obey orders," he responded, "but I thought the purpose of my attack was retaliation. I thought my attack justified, but I doubt it now."

* * * *

SCHUMAKER then left the room, and Butler entered.

Questions also were addressed to him about his condition and the war in Viet Nam.

"I live under hygienic conditions. I have suffered no physical violence. I am well fed and looked after. I am allowed to sleep all night. I have no complaints," he replied.

"I think this is a very dirty war. It would end with America for the Americans, Viet Nam for the Vietnamese."

Butler was shot down April 20.

Both he and Schumaker are married and each is the father of one child. In each case, the babies are under one year of age.

Mass Grave Found

WARSAW (UPI) — A mass grave containing the remains of 40 persons massacred by the Nazis has been discovered in the Lodz district of Brus, the newspaper Zycie Warszawy reported Saturday. The newspaper said police found German rifle shells among the scraps of clothing, shoes and bones in the excavated grave.

L.A.C. Says:

How to Keep Industry Away

As California carries on a strong advertising program to induce industries to locate here, a current Reader's Digest article gives a discouraging picture to such prospective new industries for the state. Heading of the article is "California Jackpot for the Jobless." Its subhead says: "Welfare chiselers in America's most populous state have helped to push its unemployment benefit costs to a staggering half-billion dollars a year and the end is not in sight."

It is a subject this column has covered many times. But now to have it be given national prominence in the Reader's Digest will offset many of the advantages we offer for new plants and installations in the state. The payroll costs are a major factor in any industry where these costs are a major part of production. Where there is a wide difference between two possible localities these costs can be a decisive factor in the choice.

The article points out that in 1964 the state paid out $511 million in unemployment benefits; about $100 million more than New York state with a population only slightly smaller. It was more than the combined benefits paid out by 30 smaller states. It says: "In California this rush to the public trough has reached fantastic proportions."

It gives some examples of cases involved as follows: A California housewife who quit her salaried job but filed a claim for unemployment compensation some time later. The following statements were made at her hearing:

Q. Why did you leave the job? A. Because I wanted to stay home and be a housewife. Q. You just wanted to take a vacation from work? A. Yes. Her case was approved by the board so she could collect up to $55 a week for 26 weeks. All this cost was paid by the employer, who pays the entire cost of unemployment insurance. The governor now asks that this be raised to $65 a week.

Some other cases cited, where benefits were paid were: A stenographer who quit because a manual typewriter was beneath the dignity of fingers trained for an electric machine; a clerk who was fired after it was discovered that he lied about his arrest record, his school and previous employment record; a supermarket cashier who was fired after he rang up a $5.59 tab for a friend's grocery order that actually totaled $53.71.

It is clearly stated that these types of cases account for only a small percentage of those who receive benefits. The great majority of benefits go to people who are honestly seeking jobs after losing one due to being replaced by a machine or by a reduction in employment where the job was held. But it says 13% of the $511 million paid out last year went to these cases where the person voluntarily quit, or was discharged for valid reasons.

This all applies to U. I. (unemployment insurance), all paid for by an average 3% payroll tax on the employer. But of equal significance is the U. I. D. (unemployment insurance disability), which is supposed to pay for 12 days hospital and weekly benefits to a disabled worker. This fund has been provided by the 1% tax on the worker's paycheck—paid by the worker. But this fund is bankrupt. Hospital benefits have not been paid since April 1. The governor is asking for higher taxes on both U. I. and U. I. D. All of these are payroll taxes, made higher by benefits paid to people who do not qualify under the legal and moral interpretation of the law. It is certainly one way of discouraging new industries from locating in a state where such laxness prevails.—L.A.C.

Former U.S. Nazis Join Minutemen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Disenchanted former members of the American Nazi Party were reported Saturday to have joined the ranks of the Minutemen, right - wing extremists whose guerrilla warfare training camp near Washington was raided last week.

A Pennsylvania state police commander said a group with "Fascist leanings" had been holding target practice at an abandoned strip mine near Reading, Pa. Some of them, he said, were Nazis.

At Nazi headquarters in suburban Arlington, Va., deputy commander Alan Welch denied that any of his "stormtroopers" had joined the Minutemen. But he added that 8 or 10 had quit the party and "are now actively participating in Minutemen activities."

"They fooled around too much with guns," Welch said. "A couple were asked to quit but the rest left the party voluntarily because we wouldn't let them play with their guns. We don't approve of that sort of thing."

FBI agents led a raid Thursday on what government sources described as a Minutemen close - combat school on a privately owned, 3,000-acre tract of timberland near Woodbridge, Va., less than 25 miles south of the nation's capital.

Police confiscated a cache of dynamite, fuse and blasting caps at the camp.

Scholarship Winner Confesses 30 Sex Attacks on Girls, Ages 8 to13

NEW YORK (AP) — A former high-school track star Saturday was accused of using his vacation time from a New England university to track down and rape teen-aged girls in Manhattan and Bronx housing projects.

Police said Alfred L. Gonzague, 19, a Bronx Negro, admitted some 30 sexual attacks on girls ranging in age from 8 to 13 years.

All the attacks, police said, took place in holiday periods over the past 18 months.

One of the girls, police said, was struck speechless by the shock of an attack some months ago.

GONZAGUE, AN ACADEMIC scholarship student of political science at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., was charged with two specific counts of rape and held in lieu of $50,000 bail.

Police said the victims were both Negro and white.

In most cases, police said, the girls were followed into elevators by their assailant and raped on the top floors of buildings on the threat of being stabbed with a knife. Many were beaten severely.

The boy's stepfather, appearing at the arraignment, said, "This will kill his mother."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Alexander Scheer said Gonzague appeared frightened when arrested but later admitted the attacks "very matter-of-factly and without any emotion."

Judge Bernard O'Connell, in setting the high bail, said, "This comes about as close to a capital crime as possible."

Wearing horn-rimmed glasses and a tan windbreaker, slacks and dirty canvas shoes, the defendant showed no emotion at his arraignment.

Police used a composite sketch drawn up from descriptions given by victims to help trap the suspect.

AMONG THE VICTIMS WHO, police said, identified Gonzague as their attacker, was a 10-year-old girl who, her parents said, hadn't spoken or smiled since the attack more than a month ago.

Another girl, who, police said, "for weeks had refused to leave her mother's side or discuss the rape," was brought face to face with the suspect at the police station. Police gave this account of the interrogation:

Q—"Have you ever seen this girl before?"
A.—"Yes."
Q—"Did you ever do anything to her?"
A—"Yes, I attacked her."

4 Exiles Held for Slav Plot

MEERSBURG, Germany (UPI)—Four anti-Communist Yugoslav exiles were under arrest Saturday as suspects in the near-fatal shooting of a Yugoslav diplomat the Communists charged was lured into a trap by a woman.

Belgrade press reports said waitress Dara Rogic, 38, lured Consul Andrija Klaric, 35, for two gunmen who wounded him at the wheel of his automobile Tuesday night in this Lake Constance town.

Miss Rogic escaped unhurt from her seat alongside Klaric when the shooting started. She was arrested along with brothers Ante and Stanko Hardum, owners of the blue station wagon in which the gunmen made their getaway.

A fourth Yugoslav exile, said to be an associate of the Kardum brothers in past anti-Tito activity, was arrested Friday night, police said. His identity was not revealed.

* * * *

MISS Rogic set Karic up for the gunmen by telephoning him and claiming she wanted to return to her Communist-ruled homeland, according to the Belgrade reports.

She, the Kardum brothers and other "Fascist terrorists" in the plot acted on orders of the "Ustacha," the reports said. The "Ustacha" was an organization of Croatian nationalists that cooperated with Nazi occupation forces in Yugoslavia in World War II.

Police said none of the arrested persons had admitted any knowledge of a plot against Klaric. The West German attorney general Friday night ordered a news blackout on further investigation of the shooting.

DE GAULLE GOES HOME

France, W. Germany Split on Mart Isssue

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle ended a two-day visit to West Germany Saturday with the two countries apparently as far apart as ever on questions of European unity.

A West German spokesman first announced that De Gaulle and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard had agreed to call for a Common Market political summit conference this year. This would have been a big assist for Erhard in the forthcoming West German elections since such a conference is highly popular here.

After the German news conference, however, the president and chancellor went back into conference again.

* * * *

AFTERWARDS French Premier Georges Pompidou said that calling such a conference would depend on events of the next few weeks—a clear reference that France's consent to the conference would depend on Bonn yielding to Paris on the thorny question of agricultural subsidies in the Common Market.

This conditional acceptance was not at all what Erhard sought.

The conference would deal with political cooperation among the six member nations. This has lagged far behind their progress in economic matters.

De Gaulle and Erhard reached their agreement at the end of a two-day meeting held under the French-West Germany Treaty of Cooperation.

The consent of the other Common Market members—Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—will have to be obtained if the summit conference is to take place. Earlier attempts at arranging meetings on political cooperation have failed because of resistance to De Gaulle's views.

* * * *

THERE has not been a meeting of the six heads of government since 1961.

De Gaulle insists on a loose confederation dominated by France. Erhard and other Common Market leaders would like to work toward a real United States of Europe.

There was no indication that either De Gaulle or the chancellor had changed his basic views.

Erhard had long sought De Gaulle's agreement to a conference which, it is believed, would help him in this summer's election. The political integration of Europe is a popular cause in West Germany.

Erhard's spokesman, Karl-Guenther von Hase, said the De Gaulle-Erhard talks produced "a good result." He said chances are favorable that a summit conference will take place.

De Gaulle and his ministers returned to Paris Saturday afternoon.

Greek Coup Rumors Fly in Uproar

ATHENS (UPI)—A general police alert and reports that a dozen persons had been arrested for alleged military sabotage Saturday touched off rumors of a possible attempted coup against the Greek Government.

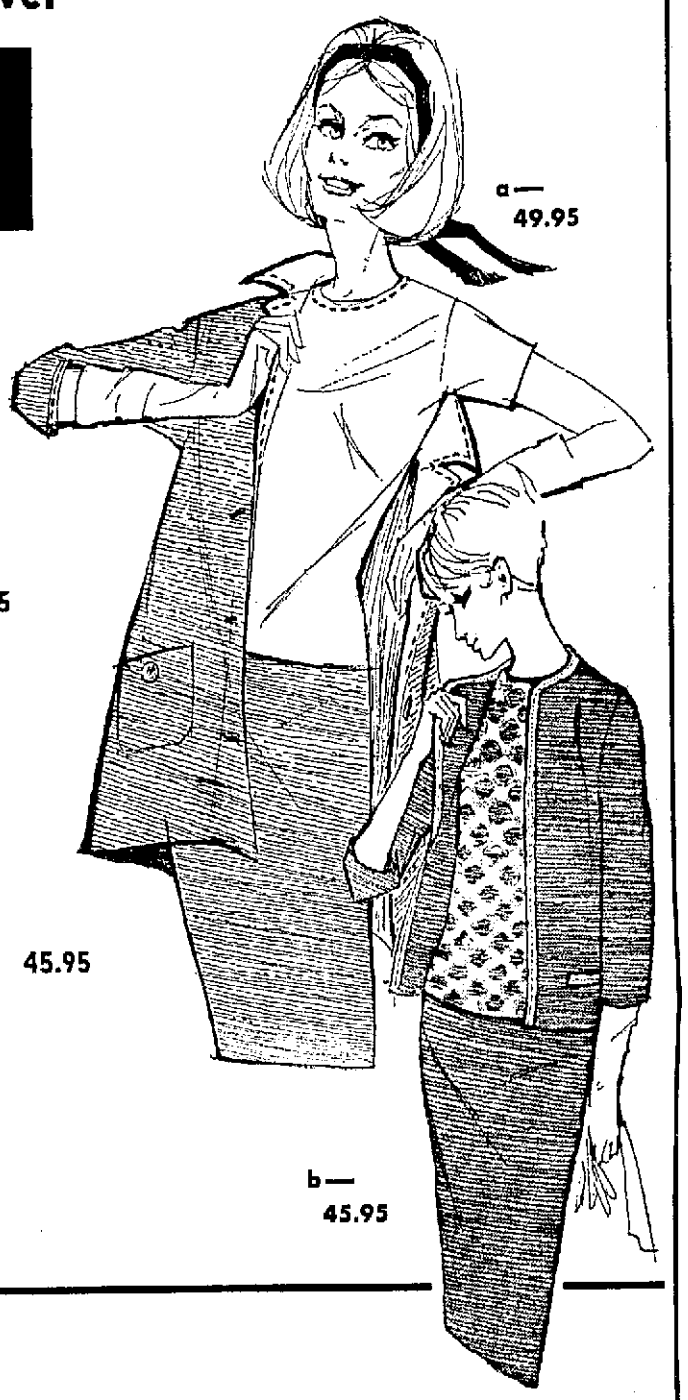

But the Greek premier said the press reports of widespread arrests following an investigation into acts of sabotage against the army were erroneous.

"Investigations carried out by a commander of an army unit into mechanical failures of the recently delivered army trucks led him to the conclusion there was sabotage by two soldiers," the premier said in a statement.

WHAT FIRE?, SAVE THE FIREHOUSE!
A volunteer fireman in Machiasport, Maine dons his hat and coat as he runs past a burning house Saturday. He was on his way to save the firehouse located next door. The house, just seven feet from the fire station was destroyed, but the firemen were able to save their fire station.

Former U.S. Nazis Join Minutemen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Disenchanted former members of the American Nazi Party were reported Saturday to have joined the ranks of the Minutemen, right - wing extremists whose guerrilla warfare training camp near Washington was raided last week.

A Pennsylvania state police commander said a group with "Fascist leanings" had been holding target practice at an abandoned strip mine near Reading, Pa. Some of them, he said, were Nazis.

At Nazi headquarters in suburban Arlington, Va., deputy commander Alan Welch denied that any of his "storm-troopers" had joined the Minutemen. But he added that 8 or 10 had quit the party and "are now actively participating in Minutemen activities."

"They fooled around too much with guns," Welch said. "A couple were asked to quit but the rest left the party voluntarily because we wouldn't let them play with their guns. We don't approve of that sort of thing."

FBI agents led a raid Thursday on what government sources described as a Minutemen close - combat school on a privately owned, 3,000-acre tract of timberland near Woodbridge, Va., less than 25 miles south of the nation's capital.

Police confiscated a cache of dynamite, fuse and blasting caps at the camp.

Scholarship Winner Confesses 30 Sex Attacks on Girls, Ages 8 to13

NEW YORK (AP) — A former high-school track star Saturday was accused of using his vacation time from a New England university to track down and rape teen-aged girls in Manhattan and Bronx housing projects.

Police said Alfred L. Gonzague, 19, a Bronx Negro, admitted some 30 sexual attacks on girls ranging in age from 8 to 13 years.

All the attacks, police said, took place in holiday periods over the past 18 months.

One of the girls, police said, was struck speechless by the shock of an attack some months ago.

GONZAGUE, AN ACADEMIC scholarship student of political science at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., was charged with two specific counts of rape and held in lieu of $50,000 bail.

Police said the victims were both Negro and white.

In most cases, police said, the girls were followed into elevators by their assailant and raped on the top floors of buildings on the threat of being stabbed with a knife. Many were beaten severely.

The boy's stepfather, appearing at the arraignment, said, "This will kill his mother."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Alexander Scheer said Gonzague appeared frightened when arrested but later admitted the attacks "very matter-of-factly and without any emotion."

Judge Bernard O'Connell, in setting the high bail, said, "This comes about as close to a capital crime as possible."

Wearing horn-rimmed glasses and a tan windbreaker, slacks and dirty canvas shoes, the defendant showed no emotion at his arraignment.

Police used a composite sketch drawn up from descriptions given by victims to help trap the suspect.

AMONG THE VICTIMS WHO, police said, identified Gonzague as their attacker, was a 10-year-old girl who, her parents said, hadn't spoken or smiled since the attack more than a month ago.

Another girl, who, police said, "for weeks had refused to leave her mother's side or discuss the rape," was brought face to face with the suspect at the police station. Police gave this account of the interrogation:

Q—"Have you ever seen this girl before?"
A.—"Yes."
Q—"Did you ever do anything to her?"
A—"Yes, I attacked her."

4 Exiles Held for Slav Plot

MEERSBURG, Germany (UPI)—Four anti-Communist Yugoslav exiles were under arrest Saturday as suspects in the near-fatal shooting of a Yugoslav diplomat the Communists charged was lured into a trap by a woman.

Belgrade press reports said waitress Dara Rogic, 38, lured Consul Andrija Klaric, 35, for two gunmen who wounded him at the wheel of his automobile Tuesday night in this Lake Constance town.

Miss Rogic escaped unhurt from her seat alongside Klaric when the shooting started. She was arrested along with brothers Ante and Stanko Hardum, owners of the blue station wagon in which the gunmen made their getaway.

A fourth Yugoslav exile, said to be an associate of the Kardum brothers in past anti-Tito activity, was arrested Friday night, police said. His identity was not revealed.

MISS Rogic set Karic up for the gunmen by telephoning him and claiming she wanted to return to her Communist-ruled homeland, according to the Belgrade reports.

She, the Kardum brothers and other "Fascist terrorists" in the plot acted on orders of the "Ustacha," the reports said. The "Ustacha" was an organization of Croatian nationalists that cooperated with Nazi occupation forces in Yugoslavia in World War II.

Police said none of the arrested persons had admitted any knowledge of a plot against Klaric. The West German attorney general Friday night ordered a news blackout on further investigation of the shooting.

DE GAULLE GOES HOME

France, W. Germany Split on Mart Isssue

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle ended a two-day visit to West Germany Saturday with the two countries apparently as far apart as ever on questions of European unity.

A West German spokesman first announced that De Gaulle and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard had agreed to call for a Common Market political summit conference this year. This would have been a big assist for Erhard in the forthcoming West German elections since such a conference is highly popular here.

After the German news conference, however, the president and chancellor went back into conference again.

* * * *

AFTERWARDS French Premier Georges Pompidou said that calling such a conference would depend on events of the next few weeks—a clear reference that France's consent to the conference would depend on Bonn yielding to Paris on the thorny question of agricultural subsidies in the Common Market.

This conditional acceptance was not at all what Erhard sought.

Viet Nam Patrol No Picnic Tour

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Howard Brodie, the famous combat artist, is back in the Far East once more, getting down on paper for the benefit of this newspaper's readers the appearance and the feel of a nation at war. Brodie sent back this article and the accompanying pictures from a region in which heavy fighting occurred a few days later.)

By HOWARD BRODIE

QUANG NGAI PROVINCE, Vietnam — We assembled at 1300 in the barbed wire compound of the Gia Vuc Special Forces Camp: an American sergeant in his tiger camouflaged fatigues, an officer, an interpreter, a couple of squads of Popular Forces for security guard, Nungs (Chinese mercenaries), and a medic. Sacks of Bulgar wheat and corn were loaded on three trucks, along with cooking oil, soap, sandals. Our mission: to distribute food supplies and give medical aid to the surrounding Montagnard hamlets.

On the first and third trucks 30 caliber machine guns were mounted. I climbed aboard the first with two Americans.

"Can't have three Americans in one truck," said Sgt. Maddy Madison of New York. As I climbed into the second, I heard the sergeant kid one of his security guards about taking the "suicide seat" (right of the driver).

* * * *

WE DROVE PAST the bunker sentry post at the first barbed wire gate, then past the second barbed wire gate. Sergeant Maddy barked his orders:

"We'll start right out before the VC get any plans . . . we'll test fire up ahead . . . keep your eyes open and face outwards."

The security force pointed their weapons toward the foliaged banks and hills of the narrow valley through which we were now riding. Soon, I was vividly reminded of being with the French in a convoy north of Hanoi; for ahead were two long destroyed bridges, and now, like then, we had to ford boulder-strewn creeks.

We passed Montagnard tribesmen in loin cloths with baskets on their backs, water buffalo rolling in rice paddy mud, butterflies, dragonflies, and red and purple flowers. Nevertheless, I felt uneasy and crouched in my seat.

* * * *

THE SERGEANT shouted and the trucks turned onto a gently sloping hillock with hamlets on the adjoining hills. The security force immediately set up a defense. The sergeant ordered, through his interpreter, two soldiers to each hamlet to spread the word that food, and aid to the sick, would be given. They jogged away.

The sergeant drove forward up the road with his squad. I joined them. Heavy clouds built up.

A couple of kilometers ahead, we pulled off the road on a slope. Three deeply bedded logs at a 45-degree angle toward us formed a Viet Cong block across the road ahead. It was surrounded by panji sticks (sharply pointed, bedded bamboo shafts) to prevent taking cover.

"This is the twilight zone," said the sergeant as we walked down the slope with his squad fanning out. Suddenly, a guard shouted on the left, then shot. The sergeant and two Nung bodyguards moved forward. They raised their weapons and bursts crackled.

A mother with two little girls and a baby crouched behind a hut. A wizened woman emerged from a foxhole beneath a hut and warmly motioned for me to join her. But there were no incoming shots. A young man had failed to heed the guards' challenging shout and was fleeing over a rice paddy. The guards followed, firing. Then there was quiet.

* * * *

THE GUARDS returned, followed by two women carrying a young man. They were joined by an old man. The three moaned and wailed for their wounded kinsman.

Sgt. Maddy ordered the youth to be placed in a truck and sped to the compound dispensary. We distributed the food and the medic rendered aid to the ill. At one stop by a stream, a villager told us the VC had fired at planes from his village that morning.

The sergeant took a dip fully clothed to cool of, shaking off leeches as he emerged. He saw one bone-thin, sore-ridden old villager and offered him a stay at the dispensary, where he might be strengthened. He was given a place on a truck. Thunder cracked overhead.

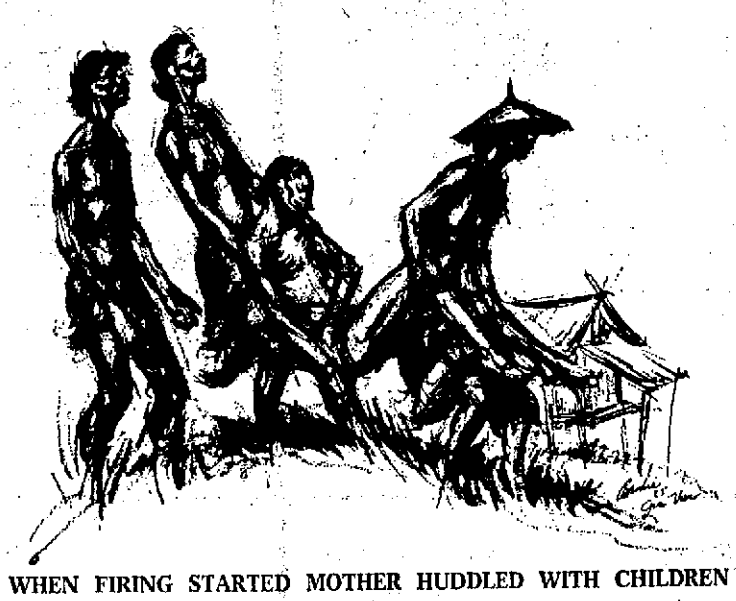

Down the road, the truck with the wounded youth returned. He was dead. The patrol headed back to Gia Vuc.

COMMUNIST LABOR ORGANIZER CALLS FOR POLL

Can Red-Run Union Use NLRB Facility?

By CHARLES SUTTON

Can an employer refuse to deal with an avowedly Communist-run labor union?

The Southern California Car Wash Association thinks so.

The association has raised the question in an effort to block a representation election that could install a Communist union at one of its member washes—the Slauson Car Wash in Los Angeles.

But more than Slauson is at stake. The Auto Maintenance Workers Union, which claims to have contracts with five small car washes already, says it intends to unionize the entire industry in Southern California.

The union, led by an outspoken young Marxist named Mike Laski, has conducted an organizing campaign at the car washes since Jan. 16. However, it has scored only limited success thus far.

At Slauson, the AMWU faces its second major test of strength. (Its first was at the Rosecrans Car Wash in Gardena, where, after sporadic picketing that involved a near riot on one occasion, it failed to organize the facility.)

Should it win the election at Slauson, observers agree, it will have gained an important toehold in the industry.

Laski applied for representation elections at nine car washes, but the regional office of the labor board said only one wash did sufficient business to fall under NLRB jurisdiction. And that's the Slauson wash.

Unless the board cancels the election there, scheduled for July 10, the 40-odd workers at Slauson will get a chance to vote for Laski's Auto Maintenance Workers' Union, or no union at all.

Management leaders hope to prevent the election on the ground that a Communist union has no right to use the facilities of the NLRB.

Observers agree it's a unique case, and one that could become a landmark.

No union, they explain, has ever admitted it was Communist-run. Laski's union has.

Under federal law a labor union found to be dominated by Reds cannot bargain for or represent employes under the National Labor Relations Act.

But there's been no finding in the case of Laski's union, and thus far the Justice Department has made no move to bring the union before the Subversive Activities Control Board for a determination.

Norman Jones, representing the car washes, says this isn't necessary, however. Laski, he says, has made no secret of his Communist affiliation. Therefore, Jones adds, the association is asking the board to deny the union privileges under the federal labor law.

Laski, whose Marxism places him closer to Mao Tse-tung than the Russian Communist leaders, is a member of the Provisional Organizing Committee to Reconstitute the Marxist-Leninist Communist Party in the United States (POC), a splinter group which has been highly critical of the regular Communist Party apparatus.

In moving into the car wash field, Laski and his associates in the POC have entered a field that has virtually been given up by other unions, which consider it too difficult and too costly to try to organize.

Workeers at the car washes are paid anywhere from $1.15 an hour to $1.25, and Laski asserts these are substandard rates. A union, he says, is the workers' only hope for bettering their lot.

Five Tourists Perish in Egyptian Desert

CAIRO (UPI)—An attempt by five West German tourists to cross the treacherous Egyptian Western Desert by car ended in death for them all, police said Saturday.

A police report from Mersa Matruh said two were found dead about 20 miles from the place where the bodies of the three others were found Friday.

The two cars in which the Germans started the dangerous trip were found also.

The bodies of two men and one woman were found in an area still containing unexploded land mines of the last war. Their partly decomposed bodies were under a slight cover of sand.

Unconfirmed reports said the cars had run out of gasoline and that the party apparently tried to reach the Siwa oasis on foot. This might explain why bodies were found far apart.

'Kremlin' to Go—

BUFFALO (UPI) — Crews will go to work tearing down the Kremlin Sept. 30.

The group of buildings in downtown Buffalo, known as the Kremlin block after the Moscow structure in the days of the Czars, is being destroyed to make way for new construction.

Clause From Constitution Hits McNamara in the Eye

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

WASHINGTON — As he started to testify before the House Armed Services Committee last week, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's gaze fell directly in line with six lines of gold lettering newly added to the committee podium.

They read: "U.S. Constitution—Article 1, Section 8. The Congress shall have power . . . to raise and support armies . . . provide and maintain a navy . . . make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces."

Seated above the inscription and peering down at McNamara, was the committee chairman, Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., who had ordered the constitutional quotation added to the committee room's decor.

If McNamara didn't get the inscription's import then, he did by week's end, when Rivers took the floor of the House to make it clear that his committee intends to have greater say in military affairs, specifically on closures of or significant reductions in facilities.

* * * *

TO THE military construction bill, his committee had added a section giving veto power over such closures to his committee and its Senate counterpart. Rivers described this as "our way of once again advising the executive branch . . . that we are partners in maintaining the defense of the nation."

The section was impelled by McNamara's plans to close three naval shipyards, a move Rivers and his committee believe is unwise. A proposal to merge the Army Reserve with the National Guard also was a large factor. Both were announced without congressional approval.

"If we have the exclusive authority to raise and support armies and provide for a navy, are we powerless to prevent their dissolution? If we, and we alone, can build military camps and stations, are we powerless to prevent their closing? I certainly hope not," said Rivers.

The House approved the measure, which faces White House opposition up to and including a veto, and emphasized the dramatic change which River's chairmanship has brought to the committee.

Rivers took over the chairmanship last January following retirement of Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., who had headed the powerful group since it was organized in 1947.

In his brief leadership, Rivers has won the respect and loyalty of committee members of varied political persuasions. One longtime Republican committeeman put it this way:

"Under 'King Vinson,' none of the rest of the committee ever got to say hardly a word. He'd make deals with the military and the committee was informed of them only when he demanded their approval."

Rivers, who served under Vinson since 1947 and became ranking majority member in 1961, gives committeemen great leeway in asking questions but insists that they keep informed on military matters.

AT RIVERS'S urging, a Pentagon officer conducts weekly briefings for the committee. The briefings are held Tuesdays at 8 a.m.—virtually the break of day for congressmen — and absentees earn demerits in Rivers's regard.

But above all, the white-maned, 25-year House veteran is determined to bring the committee out from under what he feels was its domination by the military under the Vinson regime.

"We are supposed to rubber-stamp only what is submitted for approval," he remarked last week. "I was not elected for that purpose."

McNamara's first glimpse of the message on the podium came as he testified in favor of an administration military pay plan which proposes a scale less than that in a bill introduced by Rivers.

There's no doubt that the committee will approve the basic Rivers proposals and McNamara may ponder a comment made by Rivers when he felt that the secretary was getting a bit uppity:

"Mr. Secretary, Carl Vinson is gone. Carl Vinson is gone."

U.S.-Type Democracy Urged for Africa

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Sir Roy Welensky, who headed the Rhodesias-Nyasaland Federation before it broke up over race questions, says only the U.S.-type presidential system can save democracy in Africa.

He told a university audience here the British parliamentary system is too complicated for Africa, and popularly elected presidents, protesting minorities and safeguarding human rights, would minimize discrimination.

$18.8 Billion Spent on New U.S. Cars

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Americans spent a record $18.8 billion to buy new cars in 1963 University of Michigan researchers said Saturday.

The university's Survey Research Center's findings, contined in a book titled "1964 Survey of Consumer Finances," also observed that 6 out of 10 American families own their homes, and "35% of American families interviewed in early 1964 reported that they had no savings, investments or reserve funds in the form of bank deposits, bonds or stocks."

The center said the data in its book was based on "several thousand interviews across the nation."

IT REPORTS in the book that the average net outlay by consumers for new cars in 1963 "reached a new high of $2,310", with half of all the cars bought during that period purchased by families with incomes of $10,000 or over.

It noted that about four-fifths of all families own at least one car and more than one out of five family units owns two or more cars.

* * * *

MULTIPLE car ownership, it said, was "most frequent among families aged 45 to 54, among college graduates, and among families who live in suburban areas.

Among the families interviewed, it said, one-third of those having an income between $5,000-7,500 had no savings and almost one quarter of the families with incomes up to $10,000 had no savings. However, about one half of American families had savings of $500 and over.

"Families have a wide variety of reasons for saving," it said. "Families with incomes of $7,500 and over tend to report the long-term objectives of retirement and of children's education somewhat more frequently than do those with lower incomes. Half of all the reasons given by families with under $3,000 income fall into short-term categorites of illness, emergencies, unemployment, etc.

Huge Jet Aids Tiny Aircraft

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—A giant, four-engined commercial jet airliner Saturday played nursemaid to a small, single-engined private aircraft.

The big jet aided a lost private pilot to find a landing field after he started having engine trouble.

Capt. J. S. Solomon, of Thousand Oaks, supervisor of flight operations for TWA, escorted the unidentified pilot to San Fernando Airport after the pilot radioed for aid from the Mt. Wilson vicinity.

Solomon had been giving an instrument check to two other TWA pilots when officials in the International Airport tower asked if he could assist the troubled pilot.

The large jetliner was guided to the lost pilot with radar and escorted the small craft to a safe landing.

Titan Test Scheduled Thursday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—At high noon Thursday, if there are no hitches, the strangest-looking, most powerful rocket ever fired will rumble away from Cape Kennedy.

Riding with the giant Titan 3C on its maiden test will be U.S. hopes of developing a military capability in space.

Sometime during the week, perhaps in connection with a successful launching, the Defense Department may announce the go-ahead for a series of manned orbiting laboratories which will be boosted by later Titan 3C rockets. The laboratories would orbit the earth for 30 days or more with two or more astronauts to determine how effectively man can perform military tasks in space.

* * * *

WHEN the Titan 3C takes off, alligators, bobcats, rattlesnakes and other swamp creatures of this missile base are certain to stir. Missile watchers should be treated to quite a sight—perhaps even better than the first after-dark firing of the Saturn 1 on May 25.

Until now, Saturn 1 has been the most powerful rocket ever launched. It generates 1.5 million pounds of booster thrust, slightly higher than the 1.43 million of Russia's biggest booster.

Titan 3C will generate 2.4 million pounds of takeoff thrust — produced by two large solid-fuel engines.

Sheppard Asks New Review

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard Saturday opened the way for a historic supreme court ruling on pre-trial newspaper coverage by asking a federal court to reconsider an order returning him to prison for killing his wife.

Sheppard filed a petition with the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals as a necessary first step in taking the long, controversial case to the highest court in the land.

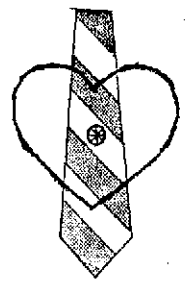

The handsome brain surgeon will continue free until the court acts on his petition, probably in the next two or three weeks. If he is turned down, as such petitions usually are, the courts will then decide whether he continues his romantic idyl with his second wife or returns to prison while the case is appealed to the Supreme Court, which will not be in session until fall.

Dr. Sam dwelt heavily on the hot controversial issue of pre-trial newspaper coverage of crimes in setting out six reasons he felt the court erred in overturning the federal district court which set him free last July after nine years in prison.

PIRACY CHARGED

U.S. Tuna Fish Boats Seized by Peruvians

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., Saturday described as an "outbreak of official piracy" the detention of Southern California tuna boats by Peru.

The California representative said the Peruvian Government is reported to have imposed fines totalling about $20,000 against three American fishing vessels last month. Each of them claims to have been operating legally, Van Deerlin said in a statement.

Van Deerlin said he has sent S. W. Smith, his top assistant, to Peru to investigate the matter.

"State Department sources have not yet determined what is behind this new outbreak of official piracy," Van Deerlin said. "I have asked Mr. Smith to help find ways of making Latin waters safe for our fishermen."

* * * *

THE congressman said that as of Saturday afternoon only one vessel, the San Juan, remained in custody at Chimbote, after being seized early Friday 60 miles from shore. Van Deerlin said the San Juan carried 75 tons of fish.

A Peruvian destroyer reportedly directed machine-gun fire across the San Juan's bow.

Owners of the San Juan, Van Deerlin reported, said they ordered her skipper to pay license charges and an anticipated fine possibly totalling $10,000.

To remain in Chimbote over the weekend, it contended, could cost $20,000 in lost time.

Van Deerlin said the tuna boat Clibberton has just been released from Chimbote after paying an assessment of $7,138.

The congressman added that earlier this month the San Jason, making its way to port to seek help for a sick crewman, was seized and fined $2,000 for alleged violation of Peruvian waters.

* * * *

VAN DEERLIN said that although the United States recognizes the 3-mile territorial limit, Peru, Ecuador and Chile variously claim jurisdiction over waters 12 to 200 miles from shore.

Van Deerlin said radio reports Saturday indicated that Peruvian Government planes were making observation flights over three other clippers of the Southern California fleet, the White Star, owned by Van Camp; the Day Island, fishing for Starkist, and the Hornet, in which the Del Monte Company is half owner.

'Hi, Daddy, I Love You,' Hurt Boys' First Words

DALLAS (UPI) — Dorsey Earnheart, 17, critically injured in an automobile accident, spoke his first words Friday since last October 17. He told his daddy he loved him.

"Hi, daddy. I love you," the boy told his father, the Rev. Marvin W. Earnheart.

"His doctors now say they are amazed and it is a miracle," the father said. "I attribute it to faith. They (doctors) said there was absolutely no hope."

The father, pastor of Oak Cliff Baptist Temple, said "it brought tears to my eyes and I rejoiced greatly."

"He is still in bed and increasing in strength," the elder Earnheart said. "We hope he can return to school next year."

The boy was injured when his car spun on loose gravel and threw him out. He had to be fed with a tube and gave no indication he recognized anybody. His parents and a nurse moved his limbs to exercise them.

Dorsey spent about a month in a hospital and was put in a private home. Finally his parents returned him to their Dallas home.

"For about a week now he has been working his lips but no sound came out," his father said. "He had been saying some words to his mother and the nurse all morning. When I came home, he said, 'hi, daddy, I love you.'"

The boy is beginning to eat and drink although with difficulty. He also can move his neck.

U.S. and Czech Films Split Top Festival Prize

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP)—The "Grand Golden Seashell," or first prize, of the International Film Festival was divided Saturday between the features "Mirage" of the United States and "Zlata Reneta" ("Golden Apple") of Czechoslovakia.

The jury unanimously decided to split the prize because of the "great technical values" of both features.

"Mirage" is a 110-minute mystery feature directed by Edward Dmytryk and starring Gregory Peck and Diane Baker.

"Zlata Reneta" is an 85-minute feature depicting the life of a man in his 50s who, after many years in the capital, returns to his village to recall his youth and how much he missed by leaving it.

Course in How to Drink Urged by Sociologist

TAHOE CITY (UPI) — American colleges should teach students that, if they drink, "there's a right way and a wrong way."

This was the message brought to a meeting of top college and university administrators by Ira H. Cisin, research sociologist from Washington, D. C.

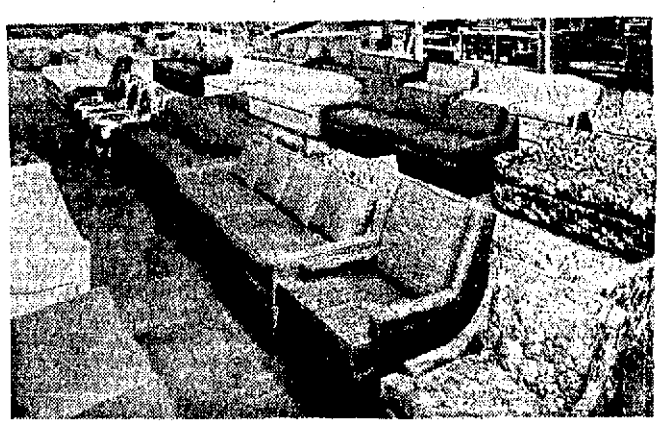

"Drinking can be dangerous, and the young deserve to be instructed in its uses just as they are taught how to swim and drive a car," Cisin said.

Car-Smog Curb, Private-Troops Ban Gain Ground

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A tough new automobile-smog bill and a measure aimed at curbing private armies took major strides toward enactment Saturday as both the Assembly and Senate met in weekend session.

The Senate gave final approval by a surprisingly lopsided vote to a bill to require anti-smog equipment on most California cars — new and used—and to hike registration fees a total of $60 million over three years to pay for doubling the size of the Highway Patrol.

Across the Capitol, the Assembly passed a bill banning more than two members of "paramilitary groups" from assembling to conduct drills amid charges the measure was "a creampuff bill that gets lots of publicity but won't do anything."

* * * *

THE WEEKEND meetings were held to clear heavy legislative files with less than a week remaining before mandatory adjournment of the 1965 session at midnight next Friday.

The vote on the antismog measure by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, was 32-3. The big margin came as a surprise because the bill's major provisions were tacked on in the Assembly.

These included raising the $8 basic auto registration fee $1 a year each year for the next three to provide for hiring 2,600 more highway patrolmen. It also gives the patrol the right to stop motorists at random checkpoints throughout the state for mechanical and equipment inspections.

The Collier bill, which now goes to Gov. Brown, would have no effect on new cars—1966 models and later must come equipped with both crankcase and exhaust pollution-control devices.

But it would require devices on millions of used cars manufactured after 1954, particularly in urban areas.

It requires all cars manufactured between 1955 and 1962 to be equipped with the devices when they are sold or transferred to an owner living in a county with an air-pollution-control district.

Exemptions would be granted for special districts in Sacramento and Contra Costa counties and the eastern portions of San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

* * * *

CARS BUILT after 1962 would need both devices, as would new foreign cars beginning with 1968 models.

The lower house voted 43-11 for the measure to ban private armies from training after Assemblyman James R. Mills, D-San Diego, said members of such groups as the Minutemen and California Rangers had been caught with large stores of machine guns, bazookas, bombs and hand grenades.

"I don't know who they're planning to blow up," said Mills, "but they ought to be stopped."

The "creampuff" remark was leveled at the measure by Assemblyman Howard J. Thelin, R-Glendale, who nevertheless said he'd support it to avoid putting himself "in the position of supporting sabotage."

Brown Seeks 1% of U.S. Tax for State Use

should retain the right to veto poverty programs. Such a resolution is before the conference here.

He predicted the California Legislature would adjourn by next Saturday, but admitted "it looks like they won't get a reapportionment bill."

He said he didn't know if the courts could mandate him to call a special session on reapportionment, and indicated he thought the courts might reapportion the state Senate if the legislature fail to do so. The California Senate faces a July 1 court deadline to adopt an apportionment system based on population.

Brown said he expected tax reform and measures to increase state revenue to be approved during the final week of the legislative session. He termed a cigarette-tax increase "the easy one."

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Some 500,000 persons lined curbstones along a five-mile parade route Sunday to see the Rose Festival Grand Floral Parade.

The state of Wyoming won the non-commercial sweepstakes for its float depicting the theme "Out of the Scrapbook."

The commercial grand sweepstakes winner was the Meier & Frank Co., of Portland.

Pets and Pals, 175 of Them at L.B. Show

One little girl brought fleas to the annual Pet Show of the Long Beach Recreation Department in Bixby Park Saturday morning.

Some of the numerous dogs and cats also brought their own pet fleas, but the pets of pets could not qualify for judging.

Altogether, 175 contestants entered pets ranging from ducks to a greyhound, chickens to a goat, said Dan Dyer, supervisor of special activities. The young pet owners were accompanied by parents and friends.

Prize ribbons were lavishly distributed.

English Beef May Become Memory

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) —The roast beef of old England may become just a memory in many British homes, Jack Dunman of Oxford University told a Labor Party affiliate group meeting here. He said beef is likely to be so expensive that it will be as rare to the average Briton as fresh Scotch salmon is today.

DEMONSTRATORS CARRIED TO VANS

Police in Chicago Saturday carried civil rights demonstrators to police vans for transportation to jail. They blocked traffic at State and Madison streets by sitting in the intersection after breaking off a march to City Hall to protest retention of School Superintendent Benjamin Willis.

Marchers Arrested in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—Hundreds of civil rights demonstrators flung themselves into the street at "the world's busiest intersection" Saturday and police hauled them into paddy wagons.

Police estimated at least 200 persons were arrested in the sit-in at State and Madison streets in the heart of Chicago's Loop.

It was the third consecutive day of marching protests against the hiring of controversial School Superintendent Benjamin C. Willis and the second day of mass arrests. Police arrested 248 persons Friday in another street sit-in.

Priests and nuns were among those picked up from the street and carried to paddy wagons. An estimated 50 children under 10 were also carried away.

At a press conference in the local headquarters of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People 2½ hours after Saturday's arrests, Albert Raby, a leader of the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations, announced that today's march had been canceled. He reiterated plans for a demonstration Monday during the visit of astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White.

"There's no march tomorrow," Raby said. "There will be a 3 o'clock rally at Washington Park. There will be a 5 o'clock meeting at the Mozart Baptist Church. There will be a 7:30 rally at the First Congregational Church."

Raby said Chicago churches will be asked to take up "dollar day" special collections to raise funds for bail money and pay other costs of the demonstrations.

Raby announced at the press conference that he sent a telegram to Mayor Richard J. Daley which read:

"We regret that the police department has again prevented our peaceful march from reaching city hall. We shall try again on Monday.

"Our first demand is that the people who have been arrested will be immediately released."

Red Chinese Charge Taylor Is 'Emperor'

TOKYO, Sunday (UPI)—Communist China charged Saturday the U.S.-backed government in Saigon no longer exists. It said U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor was "emperor" of the country.

This was Peking's reaction to the latest political upheaval in Saigon that saw the civilian government of Premier Phan Huy Quat hand over the power to the military.

The comment came in Saturday's editorial of the Peking Peoples Daily — the official organ of the Chinese Communist Party — which broadcast over Peking Radio and monitored here.

The newspaper said "the puppet government in Saigon no longer exists politically. It no longer represents anybody."

The Peking dispatch said President Johnson "and his gang have said again and again that the reason the U.S. remains in South Viet Nam is to protect the country's independence."

* * * *

HOWEVER, the editorial said "it has been shown clearly that the so-called independent South Vietnamese Government is a handful of tools unable to stand by themselves once Emperor Taylor leaves."

This last was an obvious reference to the fact that the military takeover in Saigon came as the U.S. ambassador was in Washington for consultations with Johnson and other administration officials.

The Communist paper said the government in Saigon was a "toy" which the U.S. takes out of its "pocket and shows it to other people."

Peking said the South Vietnamese Government therefore was not qualified to attend any international conferences.

dead, with another 13 missing and 15 wounded.

Vietnamese losses were estimated as high as 500 dead and wounded, and the government said 700 Viet Cong were killed in ground fighting and U.S. air strikes.

Air activity continued Saturday, north and south of the border.

U.S. pilots hit military and transportation targets in North Viet Nam and Viet Cong concentrations in the south.

* * * *

THE PILOT killed Saturday was strafing Viet Cong troops building up against the government forces around Dong Xoai.

Communist groundfire downed his F100 Air Force jet. The pilot was seen ejecting from his plane, but when a helicopter reached him he was dead.

The surprise Communist attack shattered 36 hours of relative calm around Dong Xoai, which was overrun by the Viet Cong Thursday and retaken Friday by Vietnamese rangers and paratroopers.

* * * *

THE COMMUNISTS, estimated at 500 men, attacked a company of airborne troops north of the town. The paratroopers had pushed northward after securing the town Friday. They were trying to establish contact with a missing Vietnamese relief force.

The relief force was flown by helicopter to an area four miles north of Dong Xoai Thursday with orders to fight its way to the town. The Communists cut it up and it never reached Dong Xoai.

LBJ Keeps Check on Viet War

tional Security Council meeting attended by Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Ambassador to Saigon. Taylor said after that meeting that "some hard fighting" is in store in Viet Nam in coming months.

Reedy was asked whether Taylor's comment reflected the administration's view. Reedy said that Taylor "was reporting a factual assessment of a man who was on the scene."

"I certainly know of no one who would dispute Ambassador Taylor's judgement," Reedy said. "But I'm not going to say it is an administration view."

The President is expected to return to Washington late today or Monday.

At the White House press center, in Austin, Reedy issued this series of announcements:

—Malcolm M. Kilduff, assistant press secretary, since June, 1962, is resigning to form a public relations firm in Washington. Kilduff, on duty in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, issued the official announcement that President John F. Kennedy was dead from an assassin's bullets.

—Johnson, in a statement, said he is "gratified by the thoroughness" with which federal officials are complying with his ban against "June buying" — last-minute surges in spending to beat the June 30 ending of the fiscal year.

—The President has been advised by Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman "that a new record will be set by rural electric cooperatives this fiscal year on reductions of rates to their consumers." Johnson called this "as significant as a gain in rural income."

—The Coast Guard is expanding to the Pacific Coast its Automated Merchant Vessel Report Program under the program now, a vessel of any nation sailing off the Atlantic Coast may report its position to a nerve center in New York City and its progress will be tracked by computer in case of emergency. The West Coast operation will be based in San Francisco.

—The President has named 12 public members to the Consumer Advisory Council which advises the government on programs to protect consumer interests.

—Johnson issued his annual Flag Day proclamation, calling on all Americans on June 14 "to pledge once more his allegiance to our flag and to rededicate himself to the principles and ideals for which it is an inspring tangible symbol."

RED CROSS BLOOD HELPS

Kimmy Prepared for New Surgery

paired two birth defects they found in the area of Kimmy's heart — a coarctation of the aorta, a narrowing of the great artery, and a patent ductus, a disorder resulting in abnormal blood circulation.

Three pints of blood were required for this operation. Round 2, to Kimmy.

Five months later, Kimmy was back in Childrens', afflicted with pneumonia. Her heart began to falter and again she was taken to surgery, where another repair was made in the aorta, the body's major artery.

Three more pints of blood were required. Round 3, to Kimmy.

On her first birthday, last January, Kimmy was readmitted to Childrens' Hospital for a five-hour operation to close a hole in the wall between the heart's two lower chambers. Six pints of blood this time. Round 4, to Kimmy.

TIMES ARE BETTER NOW for Kimmy, the youngest of three children. (She has a brother, Charles, 10, and a sister, Donna, 3.) Kimmy chatters contentedly. Her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hall, live across the street at 3412 Karen Ave., where they can enjoy her progress. Her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Dirner, also is in Long Beach now, having moved here from New York.

Kimmy's mother is a Poly High School graduate and met Kimmy's father when he was on Navy duty here. Dirner now is a quality-control engineer at Autonetics.

Soon the Long Beach chapter of the Red Cross will be rounding up blood donors for a fourth operation Kimmy must undergo. Doctors expect to operate once more on Kimmy's aorta.

The oddsmakers are betting on Kimmy.

Car-Smog Curb, Private-Troops Ban Gain Ground

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A tough new automobile-smog bill and a measure aimed at curbing private armies took major strides toward enactment Saturday as both the Assembly and Senate met in weekend session.

The Senate gave final approval by a surprisingly lopsided vote to a bill to require anti-smog equipment on most California cars — new and used—and to hike registration fees a total of $60 million over three years to pay for doubling the size of the Highway Patrol.

Across the Capitol, the Assembly passed a bill banning more than two members of "paramilitary groups" from assembling to conduct drills amid charges the measure was "a creampuff bill that gets lots of publicity but won't do anything."

THE WEEKEND meetings were held to clear heavy legislative files with less than a week remaining before mandatory adjournment of the 1965 session at midnight next Friday.

The vote on the antismog measure by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, was 32-3. The big margin came as a surprise because the bill's major provisions were tacked on in the Assembly.

These included raising the $8 basic auto registration fee $1 a year each year for the next three to provide for hiring 2,600 more highway patrolmen. It also gives the patrol the right to stop motorists at random checkpoints throughout the state for mechanical and equipment inspections.

The Collier bill, which now goes to Gov. Brown, would have no effect on new cars—1966 models and later must come equipped with both crankcase and exhaust pollution-control devices.

But it would require devices on millions of used cars manufactured after 1954, particularly in urban areas.

It requires all cars manufactured between 1955 and 1962 to be equipped with the devices when they are sold or transferred to an owner living in a county with an air-pollution-control district.

Exemptions would be granted for special districts in Sacramento and Contra Costa counties and the eastern portions of San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

CARS BUILT after 1962 would need both devices, as would new foreign cars beginning with 1968 models.

The lower house voted 43-11 for the measure to ban people under 21 from training after Assemblyman James R. Mills, D-San Diego, said members of such groups as the Minutemen and California Rangers had been caught with large stores of machine guns, bazookas, bombs and hand grenades.

"I don't know who they're planning to blow up," said Mills, "but they ought to be stopped."

The "creampuff" remark was leveled at the measure by Assemblyman Howard J. Ting, R-Glendale, who neverthe less said he'd support it as rare to the average farmer as fresh Scotch salmon [illegible] supporting dog.

should retain the right to veto poverty programs. Such a resolution is before the conference here.

He predicted the California Legislature would adjourn by next Saturday, but admitted, "it looks like they won't get a reapportionment bill."

He said he didn't know if the courts could mandate him to call a special session on reapportionment, and indicated he thought the courts might reapportion the state Senate if the legislature fail to do so. The California Senate faces a July 1 court deadline to adopt an apportionment system based on population.

Brown said he expected tax reform and measures to increase state revenue to be approved during the final week of the legislative session. He termed a cigarette-tax increase "the easy one."

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Some 500,000 persons lined curbstones along a five-mile parade route Sunday to see the Rose Festival Grand Floral Parade.

The state of Wyoming won the non-commercial sweepstakes for its float depicting the theme "Out of the Scrapbook."

The commercial grand sweepstakes winner was the Meier & Frank Co., of Portland.

Pets and Pals, 175 of Them at L.B. Show

One little girl brought fleas to the annual Pet Show of the Long Beach Recreation Department in Bixby Park Saturday morning.

Some of the numerous dogs and cats also brought their own pet fleas, but the pets of pets could not qualify for judging.

Altogether, 175 contestants entered pets ranging from ducks to a greyhound, chickens to a goat, said Dan Dyer, supervisor of special activities. The young pet owners were accompanied by parents and friends.

Prize ribbons were lavishly distributed.

English Beef May Become Memory

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) —The roast beef of old England may become just a memory in many British homes, Jack Dunman of Oxford University told a Labor Party affiliate group meeting here. He said beef is likely to be so expensive that it will be [illegible] as rare to the average Briton as fresh Scotch salmon [illegible] supporting dog.

DEMONSTRATORS CARRIED TO VANS

Police in Chicago Saturday carried civil rights demonstrators to police vans for transportation to jail. They blocked traffic at State and Madison streets by sitting in the intersection after breaking off a march to City Hall to protest retention of School Superintendent Benjamin Willis.

Marchers Arrested in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—Hundreds of civil rights demonstrators flung themselves into the street at "the world's busiest intersection" Saturday and police hauled them into paddy wagons.

Police estimated at least 200 persons were arrested in the sit-in at State and Madison streets in the heart of Chicago's Loop.

It was the third consecutive day of marching protests against the hiring of controversial School Superintendent Benjamin C. Willis and the second day of mass arrests. Police arrested 248 persons Friday in another street sit-in.

Priests and nuns were among those picked up from the street and carried to paddy wagons. An estimated 50 children under 10 were also carried away.

At a press conference in the local headquarters of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People 2½ hours after Saturday's arrests, Albert Raby, a leader of the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations, announced that today's march had been canceled. He reiterated plans for a demonstration Monday during the visit of astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White.

"There's no march tomorrow," Raby said. "There will be a 3 o'clock rally at Washington Park. There will be a 5 o'clock meeting at the Mozart Baptist Church. There will be a 7:30 rally at the First Congregational Church."

Raby said Chicago churches will be asked to take up "dollar day" special collections to raise funds for bail money and pay other costs of the demonstrations.

Raby announced at the press conference that he sent a telegram to Mayor Richard J. Daley which read:

"We regret that the police department has again prevented our peaceful march from reaching city hall. We shall try again on Monday.

"Our first demand is that the people who have been arrested will be immediately released."

Home Burglarized

A tire tool was used Saturday in a $60 burglary at the home of Dennis L. Garcia, 3001 Thompson Ave. He told police the tool was used to pry off a door spring.

Red Chinese Charge Taylor Is 'Emperor'

TOKYO, Sunday (UPI)—Communist China charged Saturday the U.S.-backed government in Saigon no longer exists. It said U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor was "emperor" of the country.

This was Peking's reaction to the latest political upheaval in Saigon that saw the civilian government of Premier Phan Huy Quat hand over the power to the military.

The comment came in Saturday's editorial of the Peking Peoples Daily — the official organ of the Chinese Communist Party — which broadcast over Peking Radio and monitored here.

The newspaper said "the puppet government in Saigon no longer exists politically. It no longer represents anybody."

The Peking dispatch said President Johnson "and his gang have said again and again that the reason the U.S. remains in South Viet Nam is to protect the country's independence."

HOWEVER, the editorial said "it has been shown clearly that the so-called independent South Vietnamese Government is a handful of fools unable to stand by themselves once Emperor Taylor leaves."

This last was an obvious reference to the fact that the military takeover in Saigon came as the U.S. ambassador was in Washington for consultations with Johnson and other administration officials.

The Communist paper said the government in Saigon was a "toy" which the U.S. takes out of its "pocket and shows it to other people."

Peking said the South Vietnamese Government therefore was not qualified to attend any international conferences.

dead, with another 13 missing and 15 wounded.

Vietnamese losses were estimated as high as 500 dead and wounded, and the government said 700 Viet Cong were killed in ground fighting and U.S. air strikes.

Air activity continued Saturday, north and south of the border.

U.S. pilots hit military and transportation targets in North Viet Nam and Viet Cong concentrations in the south.

THE PILOT killed Saturday was strafing Viet Cong troops building up against the government forces around Dong Xoai.

Communist ground fire downed his F100 Air Force jet. The pilot was seen ejecting from his plane, but when a helicopter reached him he was dead.

The surprise Communist attack shattered 36 hours of relative calm around Dong Xoai, which was overrun by the Viet Cong Thursday and retaken Friday by Vietnamese rangers and paratroopers.

THE COMMUNISTS, estimated at 500 men, attacked a company of airborne troops north of the town. The paratroopers had pushed northward after securing the town Friday. They were trying to establish contact with a missing Vietnamese relief force.

The relief force was flown by helicopter to an area four miles north of Dong Xoai Thursday with orders to fight its way to the town. The Communists cut it up and it never reached Dong Xoai.

tional Security Council meeting attended by Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Ambassador to Saigon. Taylor said after that meeting that "some hard fighting" is in store in Viet Nam in coming months.

Reedy was asked whether Taylor's comment reflected the administration's view. Reedy said that Taylor "was reporting a factual assessment of a man who was on the scene."

"I certainly know of no one who would dispute Ambassador Taylor's judgement," Reedy said. "But I'm not going to say it is an administration view."

The President is expected to return to Washington late today or Monday.

At the White House press center, in Austin, Reedy issued this series of announcements:

—Malcolm M. Kilduff, assistant press secretary, since June, 1962, is resigning to form a public relations firm in Washington. Kilduff, on duty in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, issued the official announcement that President John F. Kennedy was dead from an assassin's bullets.

—Johnson, in a statement, said he is "gratified by the thoroughness" with which federal officials are complying with his ban against "June buying" — last-minute surges in spending to beat the June 30 ending of the fiscal year.

—The President has been advised by Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman "that a new record will be set by rural electric cooperatives this fiscal year on reductions of rates to their consumers." Johnson called this "as significant as a gain in rural income."

—The Coast Guard is expanding to the Pacific Coast its Automated Merchant Vessel Report Program under the program now, a vessel of any nation sailing off the Atlantic Coast may report its position to a nerve center in New York City and its progress will be tracked by computer in case of emergency. The West Coast operation will be based in San Francisco.

—The President has named 12 public members to the Consumer Advisory Council which advises the government on programs to protect consumer interests.

—Johnson issued his annual Flag Day proclamation, calling on all Americans on June 14 "to pledge once more his allegiance to our flag and to rededicate himself to the principles and ideals for which it is an inspiring tangible symbol."

RED CROSS BLOOD HELPS

paired two birth defects they found in the area of Kimmy's heart — a coarctation of the aorta, a narrowing of the great artery, and a patent ductus, a disorder resulting in abnormal blood circulation.

Three pints of blood were required for this operation. Round 2, to Kimmy.

Five months later, Kimmy was back in Childrens', afflicted with pneumonia. Her heart began to falter and again she was taken to surgery, where another repair was made in the aorta, the body's major artery.

Three more pints of blood were required. Round 3, to Kimmy.

On her first birthday, last January, Kimmy was readmitted to Childrens' Hospital for a five-hour operation to close a hole in the wall between the heart's two lower chambers. Six pints of blood this time. Round 4, to Kimmy.

TIMES ARE BETTER NOW for Kimmy, the youngest of three children. (She has a brother, Charles, 10, and a sister, Donna, 3.) Kimmy chatters contentedly. Her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hall, live across the street at 3412 Karen Ave., where they can enjoy her progress. Her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Dirner, also is in Long Beach now, having moved here from New York.

Kimmy's mother is a Poly High School graduate and met Kimmy's father when he was on Navy duty here. Dirner now is a quality-control engineer at Autonetics.

Soon the Long Beach chapter of the Red Cross will be rounding up blood donors for a fourth operation Kimmy must undergo. Doctors expect to operate once more on Kimmy's aorta.

The oddsmakers are betting on Kimmy.

Lost Pushkin Ms. Discovered

MOSCOW (UPI)—A long-lost manuscript by Aleksandr Pushkin—considered by most Russians to be their greatest writer—has been discovered in Leningrad. Called "On Public Education," it was last heard of in a second hand bookstore in the 1870s by which time it had already been published.

Domingo Commie Activity Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An organized effort by three Communist parties to capture the revolt in the Dominican Republic and seize power has been documented in an official United States paper, the Sunday Star said today.

The newspaper said the document, which it termed virtually "a white paper" on the Dominican revolt, was compiled by intelligence sources expert in Communist activities.

The report describes the day-by-day activities in Santo Domingo between April 24 and May 5 of 11 persons, characterized as known Communists, many trained in Cuba.

Many of the 77, the newspaper said, were previously identified as participants in the revolt by U.S. Government sources, but the new document gives intimate details of their participation.

The Star's story, written by its Latin American writer, Jeremiah O'Leary, said the document was obtained Friday night. It did not say from what source.

McGeorge Bundy Protest

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — More than 100 members of Phi Beta Kappa Saturday protested the designation of presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy as orator for literary exercises of the Harvard Phi Beta Kappa chapter Tuesday.

BUNDY

The dissenting members of the nation's oldest leading academic honor society said in a statement that they dissociated themselves "from the honor accorded McGeorge Bundy...

"Mr. Bundy has been clearly identified as an architect and defender of American policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. Not only do we feel that these policies endanger the peace and threaten the deepest spirit of our republican institutions; we hold, moreover, that by his outspoken contempt for critics . . . Mr. Bundy has disqualified himself to address a group dedicated to humane inquiry and the strengthening of a free society through honest debate."

Unruh Taking Rest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, was resting in an unknown retreat Saturday after his release from the University of California Medical Center for a knee ailment, a spokesman said.

He was reported in excellent condition, with the knee healing well. Unruh was released from the hospital late Friday, and planned a short holiday away from Sacramento before returning to the Assembly floor Monday, a spokesman said.

British Honor Queen

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II rode through London at the head of a glittering cavalcade of household cavalry Saturday for the traditional trooping-the-color ceremony in honor of her official birthday.

An hour-long downpour which had drenched the thousands lining the one-mile route from Buckingham Palace to the horse guards parade in Whitehall stopped as the queen, accompanied by Prince Philip, her husband, emerged from the palace gates. The crowd broke into cheers and waved.

Watching for the first time from a window above the parade ground, Prince Andrew, the queen's 5-year-old son, saluted solemnly as the royal parents rode past.

Flood Victims Sought

SANDERSON, Tex. (UPI) — Texas rangers Saturday organized a party to go out on horseback and search the gulches south of Sanderson for 12 persons still missing in a 15-foot flood Friday. Fifteen others were officially reported dead.

"They may be all the way to the Rio Grande, 20 miles south of here," a Department of Public Safety (state police) man said. "The way that flood crumpled automobiles, it certainly could have washed people to the Rio Grande, especially if they were kids."

The Rio Grande rose sharply from the flood that poured into Sanderson from the mountains through Sanderson Canyon after a 8-12 inch rain. The flood washed away 60-70 homes, four motels, three or four drivein restaurants and a big part of the business district.

Body Is Recovered

MANILA, Utah (AP) — A teen-ager's body was recovered late Saturday five miles down a flooding northeastern Utah canyon from an overturned car belonging to a missing Salt Lake City family.

Daggett County Sheriff Kenneth Reed said there was no chance any of the family's five members or two nephews survived.

Army Lieutenant Beaten

CANTON, Miss (AP) — A newly graduated Negro college student, starting a duty tour as a reserve Army officer, was savagely beaten by whites Friday night.

Investigators said the fledgling second lieutenant, 22-year-old Harry Bartee of Canton, took his bride to a former Negro nightclub — without knowing it had swapped ownership and is now for whites. He was so fiercely mauled he had to be taken to a hospital in nearby Jackson for facial surgery.

Congo Seeks Aid in Smallpox Battle

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — The World Health Organization office in Leopoldville said Saturday it has issued an appeal for a supply of 300,000 antismallpox vaccine doses for the epidemic region of Bunia.

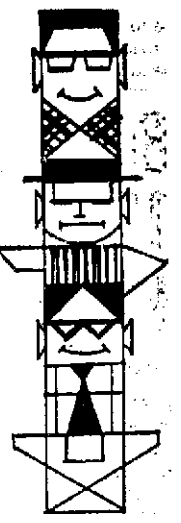

The disease, along with an outbreak of bubonic plague, has killed 500 persons in Kibali-Ituri province since its outbreak two months ago. Officials fear that as many as four times as many deaths have occurred without being registered. The population of Kibali-Ituri Province is 850,000. Buna's population is 35,000.

Watching for the first time from a window above the parade ground, Prince Andrew, the queen's 5-year-old son, saluted solemnly as the royal parents rode past.

Flood Victims Sought

SANDERSON, Tex. (UPI) — Texas rangers Saturday organized a party to go out on horseback and search the gulches south of Sanderson for 12 persons still missing in a 15-foot flood Friday. Fifteen others were officially reported dead.

"They may be all the way to the Rio Grande, 20 miles south of here," a Department of Public Safety (state police) man said. "The way that flood crumpled automobiles, it certainly could have washed people to the Rio Grande, especially if they were kids."

The Rio Grande rose sharply from the flood that poured into Sanderson from the mountains through Sanderson Canyon after a 8-12 inch rain. The flood washed away 60-70 homes, four motels, three or four drivein restaurants and a big part of the business district.

Body Is Recovered

MANILA, Utah (AP) — A teen-ager's body was recovered late Saturday five miles down a flooding northeastern Utah canyon from an overturned car belonging to a missing Salt Lake City family.

Daggett County Sheriff Kenneth Reed said there was no chance any of the family's five members or two nephews survived.

Army Lieutenant Beaten

CANTON, Miss (AP) — A newly graduated Negro college student, starting a duty tour as a reserve Army officer, was savagely beaten by whites Friday night.

Investigators said the fledgling second lieutenant, 22-year-old Harry Bartee of Canton, took his bride to a former Negro nightclub — without knowing it had swapped ownership and is now for whites. He was so fiercely mauled he had to be taken to a hospital in nearby Jackson for facial surgery.

Congo Seeks Aid in Smallpox Battle

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (AP) — The World Health Organization office in Leopoldville said Saturday it has issued an appeal for a supply four times as many as of 300,000 antismallpox vaccine doses for the epidemic region of Bunia.

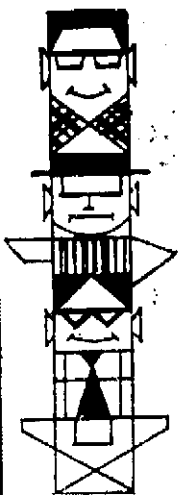

The disease, along with an outbreak of bubonic plague, has killed 500 persons in Kibali-Ituri province since its outbreak two months ago. Officials fear that as many as deaths have occurred without being registered. The population of Kibali-Ituri Province is 850,000. Bunia's population is 35,000.

Hunger Top Problem, Graduates Are Told

BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF LBSC GRADUATION SCENE IN ARENA

A world-renowned scientist told the graduating class of Long Beach State College Saturday that it is entering a world in which 50% of the people are hungry.

"The problems of human subsistence, of human persistence in the face of starvation, of death by disease, and of death from violence" have always existed, declared botanist Dr. E. C. Stakman, a consultant to the Rockefeller Foundation.

Yet the fact is, he added grimly, "the problem of human subsistence is acute on a scale . . . that was never dreamed of."

* * * *

STAKMAN said the task of wiping poverty, starvation and illiteracy off the face of the globe poses a monumental challenge of "wisdom and ethics" to those leaving school.

Directing his remarks to the 2,511 candidates for degrees, the largest such class in the school's history, the 80-year-old former University of Minnesota professor asked:

"Will those who receive degrees ignore these problems, or will they help solve them '"

Earlier, the candidates marched into the cavernous arena in two single files, filling the center of the hall with a sea of black caps and gowns.

* * * *

THEY, in turn, were preceded by the faculty, whose academic hoods gave the somber floor setting its only splash of color.

In the stands, more than 6,500 parents, relatives and children were gathered in their Sunday best to watch the conferral of degrees and listen to the featured speaker raise one of mankind's most persistent problems: that of a civilization which is constantly learning to prolong life while improving its means of annihilation.

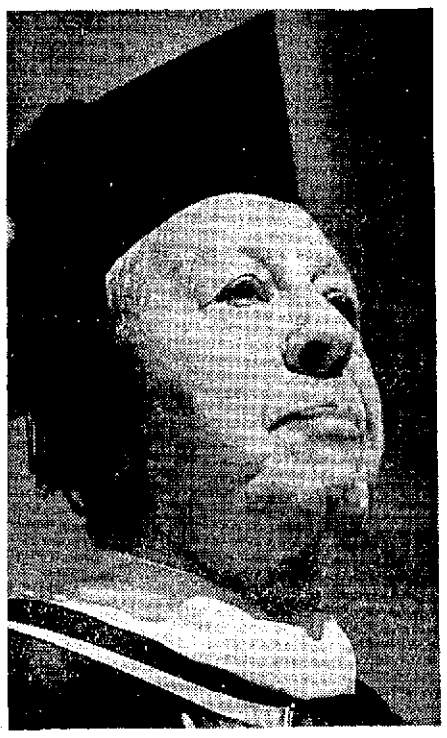

* * * *

"OBVIOUSLY, something is wrong, grotesquely wrong," said Stakman, whose own pioneering work on the problem of wheat rust has enabled mankind to vastly improve its food supply.

"Is it true," he asked, "that man has developed a marvelous material civilization before he was spiritually ready for it? Stakman, whose contributions to plant pathology has been called "epochal," pointed out that while the world has been increasing the efficiency of its food production, two World Wars have taken 25 million lives.

Nevertheless, hunger, too, stalks the earth, he declared.

The answer? Wisdom and ethics and a new humanism which substitutes "facts for fancies, intellectural integrity for mental slickness, truth for propaganda, education for indoctrination, statesmanship for partisan politics, broad humanity for narrow tribalism and the Golden Rule for the law of the jungle," he declared.

Alien Property Office to Close

WASHINGTON (AP) — An agency that seized and sold hundreds of millions of dollars worth of enemy property as part of the war effort is going to shut up shop at the end of next June.

President Johnson told Congress the office of alien property, as such, will go out of business then, although a few odds and ends still will have to be cleaned up by a single-full-time employe.

At its peak in 1943 the office had nearly 1,300 people on the payroll.

'OH, WHAT A GREAT DAY THIS CAN BE'

U.N. Sets S.F. Meeting to Mark Founding in 1945

Editor's Note: The United Nations will meet in San Francisco on June 24 to observe the 20th anniversary of its founding. In this dispatch, a newsman who covered the founding conference for UPI recalls the highlights.

By RODNEY GUILFOIL

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —"Oh, what a great day this can be in history!"

With those words, broadcast from the White House, President Harry S Truman provided a storm of applause from a glittering assembly of delegates representing 50 nations of the free world.

He spoke them on June 26, 1945. The occasion was the final session of the United Nations Conference on International Organization. (UNCIO). The scene was the floodlighted War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco.

"There is a time for making plans—and there is a time for action," said Mr. Truman. "The time for action is here now!

"Let us, therefore, each in his own nation and according to its own way, seek immediate approval of this charter—and make it a living thing."

The charter was the constitution of a world organization to maintain peace and security and to advance the political, cultural and economic welfare of all men.

* * * *

NINE WEEKS before, on April 25, leaders of free nations — many of them still locked in a life and death struggle against tyranny — gathered in the same Opera House for the opening of UNCIO. Fifteen hundred newsmen from all over the world were on hand.

On that day, the RAF bombed Hitler's chalet near Berchtesgarden; Russian forces completed the encirclement of Berlin; U.S. 3rd Army tanks punched to within 15 miles of the German-Austrian border and American and French forces raced unchecked across South Germany.

The conference opened on a showery day—under the shadow of a tragedy that had befallen the United States. Thirteen days earlier, death had taken President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and his successor was an unquantity in a grave crisis facing a nation at war in Europe and in Asia.

The session ended with an announcement from a handsome and slender young man that the first business plenary session would be held the following day. He was the conference's secretary-general—Alger Hiss.

* * * *

THE SOVIET Union had surprised many in the free world by its heroic struggle against the Nazi war machine. The U.S.S.R. representative, Foreign Commissar V.M. Molotov, was applauded whenever he appeared in public. But that was at the beginning.

The next day, Molotov showed the signs of intransigency that were to mark Soviet policy during the postwar era. He objected to the selection of U.S. Secretary of State Edward Stettinius as chairman of the steering committee.

Mexico's Ezequiel Papilla suggested the conference follow the usual diplomatic procecure and courtesy and name Stettinius as chairman. Molotov replied he hoped no one was trying to give him lessons in diplomatic procedure. And as for courtesy, he said, UNCIO was not a tea party.

* * * *

ENGLAND'S Anthony Eden climaxed speeches by the Big Four with a brief and dramatic oration. He asked the delegates to complete their work in four weeks' time.

The Russians exasperated their fellow delegates beyond endurance. It appeared they could take no action—no matter how trival it seemed —without first clearing it with Moscow.

Somehow, with patience and hard work and compromises, the charter got drafted. The actual signing, on June 26, got underway at noon in the auditorium of the Veterans' Building next to the Opera House.

* * * *

AND ON a sunny afternoon, delegates to the UNCIO gathered for the last time.

The list of speakers was imposing. It included Stettinius; China's Wellington Koo; Russia's A. A. Gromyko; the United Kingdom's Earl of Halifax; France's Joseph Paul-Boncour; Brazil's Pedro Leao Velloso; Czechoslovakia's Jan Masaryk; Mexico's Ezequiel Padilla; Saudi Arabia's Faisal; and South Africa's Jan Christian Smuts.

And finally President Truman:

"Oh, what a great day this can be in history."

On the table beside him lay the U.N. charter in its blue binding with golden lettering. It was Mr. Truman's first major address on international affairs since taking office slightly more than two months before. It was broadcast to the world.

"Upon all of us, in all our countries, is now laid the duty of transforming into action these words which you have written," he said.

". . . Let us not fail to grasp this supreme chance to establish a worldwide rule of reason—to create an enduring peace under the guidance of God."

7 Religions to Voice Their U.N. Support

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Representatives of seven religious faiths, whose world following exceeds two billion members, will be addressed by U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, June 27 at a Convocation of Religion for World Peace.

The Cow Palace meeting, emphasizing worldwide support of all religions for peace objectives of the U.N., will follow 20th anniversary sessions June 25 and 26 of the United Nations in its San Francisco birthplace.

Protestants, Catholics, Hindus, Jews, Muslims, Buddists and members of the Greek Orthodox faith will be represented.

The first Negro president of the Board of Bihops of the Methodist Church, Bishop Prince Taylor, will be spokesman for the Protestants.

OTHER representatives will include:

HINDUS—Chakravarthi V. Narasimhan, chef de cabinet of the United Nations secretary-general and a long-time member of the government of India.

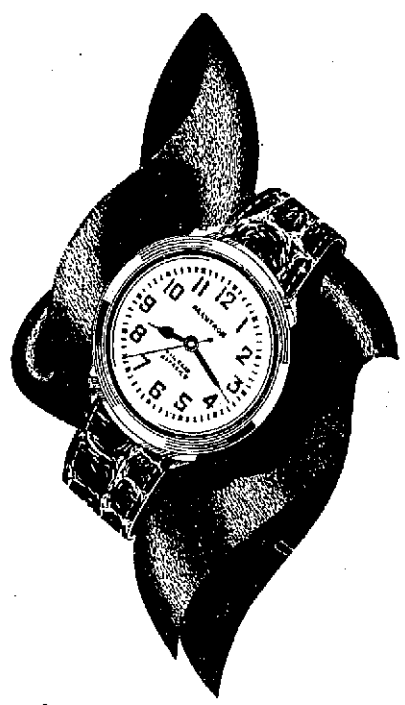

CATHOLICS — Archbishop Martin J. O'Connor, president of the Pontifical Commission for Social Communications, and the Rt. Rev. Alberto Giovanneti, the Vatican's permanent observer at the United Nations.

JEWS—Rabbi Louis Jacobs of the New London Synagogue, London, England.

MUSLIMS—Sheikh Hassan Ma'Amoon, rector of Azhar University, Cairo.

BUDDHISTS — Dr. G. P. Malalasekera, first president of the World Federation of Buddhists, Ceylon.

GREEK ORTHODOX — Archbishop Iakovos, primate of that church for North and South America.

'OH, WHAT A GREAT DAY THIS CAN BE'

U.N. Sets S.F. Meeting to Mark Founding in 1945

Editor's Note: The United Nations will meet in San Francisco on June 24 to observe the 20th anniversary of its founding. In this dispatch, a newsman who covered the founding conference for UPI recalls the highlights.

By RODNEY GUILFOIL

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —"Oh, what a great day this can be in history!"

With those words, broadcast from the White House, President Harry S Truman provided a storm of applause from a glittering assembly of delegates representing 50 nations of the free world.

He spoke them on June 26, 1945. The occasion was the final session of the United Nations Conference on International Organization. (UNCIO). The scene was the floodlighted War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco.

"There is a time for making plans—and there is a time for action," said Mr. Truman. "The time for action is here now!

"Let us, therefore, each in his own nation and according to its own way, seek immediate approval of this charter—and make it a living thing."

The charter was the constitution of a world organization to maintain peace and security and to advance the political, cultural and economic welfare of all men.

* * * *

NINE WEEKS before, on April 25, leaders of free nations — many of them still locked in a life and death struggle against tyranny — gathered in the same Opera House for the opening of UNCIO. Fifteen hundred newsmen from all over the world were on hand.

On that day, the RAF bombed Hitler's chalet near Berchtesgarden; Russian forces completed the encirclement of Berlin; U.S. 3rd Army tanks punched to within 15 miles of the German-Austrian border and American and French forces raced unchecked across South Germany.

The conference opened on a showery day—under the shadow of a tragedy that had befallen the United States. Thirteen days earlier, death had taken President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and his successor was an unquantity in a grave crisis facing a nation at war in Europe and in Asia.

The session ended with an announcement from a handsome and slender young man that the first business plenary session would be held the following day. He was the conference's secretary-general—Alger Hiss.

* * * *

THE SOVIET Union had surprised many in the free world by its heroic struggle against the Nazi war machine. The U.S.S.R. representative, Foreign Commissar V.M. Molotov, was applauded whenever he appeared in public. But that was at the beginning.

The next day, Molotov showed the signs of intransigency that were to mark Soviet policy during the postwar era. He objected to the selection of U.S. Secretary of State Edward Stettinius as chairman of the steering committee.

Mexico's Ezequiel Papilla suggested the conference follow the usual diplomatic procecure and courtesy and name Stettinius as chairman. Molotov replied he hoped no one was trying to give him lessons in diplomatic procedure. And as for courtesy, he said, UNCIO was not a tea party.

* * * *

ENGLAND'S Anthony Eden climaxed speeches by the Big Four with a brief and dramatic oration. He asked the delegates to complete their work in four weeks' time.

The Russians exasperated their fellow delegates beyond endurance. It appeared they could take no action—no matter how trival it seemed —without first clearing it with Moscow.

Somehow, with patience and hard work and compromises, the charter got drafted. The actual signing, on June 26, got under way at noon in the auditorium of the Veterans' Building next to the Opera House.

* * * *

AND ON a sunny afternoon, delegates to the UNCIO gathered for the last time.

The list of speakers was imposing. It included Stettinius; China's Wellington Koo; Russia's A. A. Gromyko; the United Kingdom's Earl of Halifax; France's Joseph Paul-Boncour; Brazil's Pedro Leao Velloso; Czechoslovakia's Jan Masaryk; Mexico's Ezequiel Padilla; Saudi Arabia's Faisal; and South Africa's Jan Christian Smuts.

And finally President Truman:

"Oh, what a great day this can be in history."

On the table beside him lay the U.N. charter in its blue binding with golden lettering. It was Mr. Truman's first major address on international affairs since taking office slightly more than two months before. It was broadcast to the world.

"Upon all of us, in all our countries, is now laid the duty of transforming into action these words which you have written," he said.

". . . Let us not fail to grasp this supreme chance to establish a worldwide rule of reason—to create an enduring peace under the guidance of God."

7 Religions to Voice Their U.N. Support

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Representatives of seven religious faiths, whose world following exceeds two billion members, will be addressed by U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, June 27 at a Convocation of Religion for World Peace.

The Cow Palace meeting, emphasizing worldwide support of all religions for peace objectives of the U.N., will follow 20th anniversary sessions June 25 and 26 of the United Nations in its San Francisco birthplace.

Protestants, Catholics, Hindus, Jews, Muslims, Buddists and members of the Greek Orthodox faith will be represented.

The first Negro president of the Board of Bihops of the Methodist Church, Bishop Prince Taylor, will be spokesman for the Protestants.

OTHER representatives will include:

HINDUS—Chakravarthi V. Narasimhan, chef de cabinet of the United Nations secretary-general and a long-time member of the government of India.

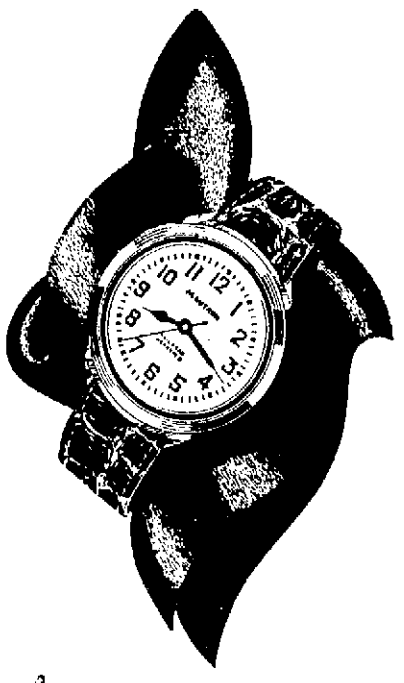

CATHOLICS — Archbishop Martin J. O'Connor, president of the Pontifical Commission for Social Communications, and the Rt. Rev. Alberto Giovanneti, the Vatican's permanent observer at the United Nations.

JEWS—Rabbi Louis Jacobs of the New London Synagogue, London, England.

MUSLIMS—Sheikh Hassan Ma'Amoon, rector of Azhar University, Cairo.

BUDDHISTS — Dr. G. P. Malalasekera, first president of the World Federation of Buddhists, Ceylon.

GREEK ORTHODOX — Archbishop Iakovos, primate of that church for North and South America.

RECORD CLASS

LBCC to Hold Rites Outdoors

A record number of graduates has driven the Long Beach City College commencement outdoors for the first time in more than a decade.

Associate in Arts degrees will be awarded 922 students at the 37th annual graduation ceremonies which start at 9:30 a.m. Thursday on the lawn in front of the auditorium at the liberal arts campus.

WILLIAM A. NORRIS
Commencement Speaker

The graduating class includes 626 students from the liberal arts campus and 296 from the business and technology campus who completed their City College studies last January or this month.

Commencement speaker is William A. Norris, 37, Los Angeles lawyer and member of the State Board of Education.

Norris, a Democrat and leader on the board, has engaged in several verbal clashes with State Supt. Max Rafferty, most recently over the proposed removal of the daily physical education requirement in the public schools. Norris is the board's legislative chairman and heads a special committee on the reorganization of the State Department of Education.

A PRINCETON honor graduate who received his law degree at Stanford, Norris served as a law clerk to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas before joining the Los Angeles law firm of Tuttle and Taylor. He has been a member of the state board since 1961.

Jerald S. Jacobs, president of the Long Beach Board of Education, will award diplomas after presentation of the graduating class by Dr. Wiley Garner, college president.

Music groups participating will be the City College band and choir. A reception for graduates, guests and faculty will follow the commencement.

Meet a Beauty From Australia

Carole Jackson, Miss Australia of 1965, became the first international entrant in the International Beauty Pageant to be held here August 4-14, Executive Producer Wayne Dallard announced Saturday.

The statuesque, "fair-haired, olive complexioned" beauty is a native of Perth, Western Australia. She was chosen following a series of national and state contests sponsored by the Australian Cerebral Assn. Inc. to aid spastic children.

An advertising fashion artist by profession, the 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Jackson of Perth studied art, sculpture, silk-screening, oil painting and graphic design.

As "Miss Australia 1965," Carole won a trip around the world, a lavish wardrobe, an automobile, plus a trip to Long Beach to represent her country in the world's foremost beauty event, the International Beauty Pageant, where she will compete with contestants from nearly 50 states and 50 countries for the highly coveted title of "International Beauty Queen," a cash prize of $10,000, plus numerous other awards and trophy.

THE OFFICIAL entry form listed some of Miss Australia's measurements as follows: 37-26-37; height, 5'8"; weight, 9 stones, 6 lbs. (132 pounds); dress size, SSW, Australian; shoe size, 8b Australian.

"Australia has always had outstanding beauties in the International Beauty Pageant, as witnessed by Tania Verstak's winning the 'International Beauty Queen' title in 1962," Robinson A. Reid, President of the IBC and prominent Southern California civic leader, commented. "We are naturally pleased to have another outstanding entrant from Australia," he added.

The 14th annual International Beauty Pageant is co-sponsored by the City of Long Beach, the Port of Long Beach, the County of Los Angeles and Long Beach business firms and executives.

DAILARD ALSO announced that the National Band of New Zealand, twice voted the champion concert band of the world, will open its first tour of the United States with appearances in the International Beauty Parade on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 8, and at the Hollywood Bowl that evening.

Accompanying the band, and appearing in both the IBC parade and the Hollywood Bowl, will be the Maori Dancers. This group performs the rhythms, melodies, dances, chants, games and action songs that are part of the heritage of New Zealand.

In 1962, the National Band of New Zealand won the World Band Championship in Holland, gaining 537 points of a maximum of 540 in competition against 214 bands from all over the world.

The same year in Edinburgh the band swept aside all competition, gaining 197 points out of a possible 200. The band has played command performances for Queen Elizabeth of England and has toured Europe several times.

The New Zealand Band will also play for the Iowa picnic in Long Beach Saturday, Aug. 7, and will return in the fall for a concert in the area.

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

ATLANTA, Ga.—With our serious-pitched newspapermen's tour of Alabama at an end, it's time to review some of the lighter incidents and experiences of this foray into the Deep South.

Like what happened to me in Montgomery when I visited the office of a Negro attorney to discuss the civil rights issue. In the outer office of the rather shabby second-floor suite I gave my last name to the receptionist, an attractive Negro girl.

"First name, pelase?" she asked.

I gave it and observed that she spelled it correctly, which in my experience is rather unusual. I remarked about that and she looked up, with a twinkling eye:

"Malcolm X," she said.

SOUTHERNERS are specialists in good food, and dishing it out in great quantities to visitors is a part of their hospitality that is pure instinct with them. All of us on the tour were staggering from gastronomic overloads before it was over.

I got a good introduction to this on the way to Alabama. I was served a fine dinner on the jet from L.A. to Atlanta. Here it was discovered there was no seat left on the plane to Montgomery, though I had a reservation, and an apologetic Delta Airlines man insisted on taking me to dinner while I waited for another plane.

When I finally got aboard, first thing the stewardesses did was to serve dinner. Upon arrival in Montgomery, I hustled over to the gathering-place of the editors with Gov. George Wallace. As I walked in, everybody sat down to dinner.

That turned out to be training for a week of outlandish gormandizing.

BY the way, perhaps the skinniest persons I saw in Alabama were two white youths in the party of seven young fellows who staged a roadside demonstration for us at the site of a civil rights shooting.

The Negroes with them, especially the leader, a lad from Chicago, were well on the plump side. But the whites were gaunt and hungry-looking.

Somebody remarked that there must have been reverse discrimination at the dinner table.

I TRIED some missionary work among the white Alabamans I met concerning their pronunciation of the word "Negro." Their "nigra" sounds so much like something else, to a northerner, that it often creates a bad impression, and is especially undesirable when southerners are eager to show their tolerance.

It's doubtful if I accomplished much. A member of the state legislature to whom I made the suggestion at dinner argued with me.

"Now take the word 'tomato'," he said. "Suppose I say tow-may-tow but you pronounce it tow-mah-tow. Would you change to my way?"

"If I discovered 50 million people were offended or misled by tow-mah-tow, you're danged right I would," I shot back.

We argued on, but without heat. This charming fellow remained so friendly he took me to the Capitol next morning and introduced me on the floor of both houses of the legislature.

AT Redstone Arsenal near Huntsville, where we went for a static firing of the great Saturn 5 rocket, we witnessed a new gimmick for keeping a captive audience captive.

It was a blistering hot afternoon, we waited more than an hour for the firing, and when it was over everybody was set to make a run for cars, buses and shade.

But the man on the loud speaker warned us that we mustn't leave the firing area until the all-clear signal was given, implying if we did it would mean great danger. So we held still in the hot sun while Space Leaders Werner Von Braun and James Webb made speeches. Despite the fame of these men, I'm sure there would have been little audience without that warning and they knew it.

The moment the speech-making was over, the all-clear siren sounded. An amazing coincidence!

Kansas Picnic

The Harper County, Kan., picnic will be in Bixby Park June 20 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mrs. Elisabeth Hershberger, of 8500 E. Sixth St., Downey, is president pro tem.

City's Tax Rate to Remain Stable

For the fifth successive year, the Long Beach city property tax rate will remain substantially unchanged in the face of rising costs, except for a special levy authorized by the voters.

This was the prospect, counter to the county trend, as city administrative officials worked over the figures to go to the City Council Tuesday in the proposed 1965-66 budget. As revised by the council, it will be effective for the 12 months beginning July. 1.

Indications were that City Manager John R. Mansell will recommend a rate a cent or two under this year's bite of $1.4195 per $100 assessed valuation for normal tax purposes.

A SPECIAL new levy of 10 cents will be added for park expansion and improvements, as approved by the electorate in a 1964 charter amendment. It is limited to eight years.

Advance reports pointed to a total budget of about $38.5 million for tax-supported purposes exclusive of the $750,000 park improvement fund, an increase of around $1.5 million over current appropriations.

On the revenue side, the only new income source to be proposed is a cigarette tax of 2 cents a package, estimated to raise $1 million a year. Already approved in principle by the council, the smokers' payments will go into a special fund for off-street parking and capital improvements.

Other increased costs will be met for anticipated gains in property valuations, sales tax and similar sources.

Non-tax funds, principally tideland oil trust income, will pay for the largest public works program ever projected by the city for one year.

City officials anticipate the budgeting of more than $42 million in tideland oil funds for shoreline and harbor projects alone, of which some $22 million is expected to be under contract or in progress before Dec. 31, 1965. Another $5.5 million will go into streets and general improvements, much of it from state gasoline taxes.

PERSONNEL increases are planned for the engineering work on this program and also for a continuing expansion in police patrols throughout the city.

Management recommendations for salary increases are expected to average about 3% — far under the requests of some employe groups. The disparity is normal at this stage of the budget-making.

Air Force Reserve Names 6 Colonels

Six Long Beach area men have been promoted to the rank of colonel in the Air Force Reserve, it was announced last week by 2478 Air Force Reserve Sector headquarters at Municipal Airport.

The lieutenant colonels who have been promoted to full colonel are Thomas B. McCray, Long Beach; Kenneth I. McCloud, Buena Park; Alfred C. Krueger, South Gate; Arthur W. Knievel, Downey; Louis Dyer, Torrance; and C. F. Conrad of Manhattan Beach.

Three of the men, McCray, McCloud and Krueger, were key staff members of Long Beach's 8646 Air Force Reserve Recovery Group, which was deactivated in April.

Dyer is a member of the Long Beach Information Flight and Knievel and Conrad are assigned to the 8450th Air Force Reserve Squadron at Long Beach Airport.

Assisted by Foundation

A $10,000 grant for nuclear-medicine research involving lung-disease diagnosis has been awarded to Dr. Earl K. Dore and associates at Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.

The grant is being awarded by the James Picker Foundation. Selection of the researchers was made by the National Academy of Science-National Research Council.

Dr. Dore, director of the radioisotope laboratory at Memorial, will use radioactive agents and scanning devices to find abnormalities in the lung area.

DR. DORE and his associates, Drs. George V. Taplin and Norman D. Poe, will use two approaches in their attempt to perfect diagnostic techniques for lung disorders.

In one, they will inject radioactive materials into the blood to view blood-flow patterns in the lungs.

In a newer tack, they'll have the patient inhale very tiny particles tagged with radioactive substances so that the scanning device can show airway patterns within the lungs.

H.S. Graduation Dance Thursday

Thousands of Long Beach high school graduates will celebrate at the seventeenth annual All-Night Graduation Dance starting at 11 p.m. Thursday, at Municipal Auditorium.

Festivities will continue until 5 a.m.

The dance was originated by The Independent, Press-Telegram in 1948 so that graduates could be entertained locally rather than risking late-hour highway dangers. The inaugural followed a traffic tragedy involving celebrating seniors.

Reb Foster, the KFWB disc jockey, will emcee Thursday's event, which will feature Chad and Jeremy, the British singing stars and two other recording duos, Joe and Eddie and Dick and Dee Dee.

Bands will include the Lively Ones, Pyramids, Spats and the Keith Williams New Starburst big band, directed by Gale Martin.

H.S. Graduation Dance Thursday

Thousands of Long Beach high school graduates will celebrate at the seventeenth annual All-Night Graduation Dance starting at 11 p.m. Thursday, at Municipal Auditorium.

Festivities will continue until 5 a.m.

The dance was originated by The Independent, Press-Telegram in 1948 so that graduates could be entertained locally rather than risking late-hour highway dangers. The inaugural followed a traffic tragedy involving celebrating seniors.

Reb Foster, the KFWB disc jockey, will emcee Thursday's event, which will feature Chad and Jeremy, the British singing stars and two other recording duos, Joe and Eddie and Dick and Dee Dee.

Bands will include the Lively Ones, Pyramids, Spats and the Keith Williams New Starburst jazz band, directed by Dale Martin.

Out Ahead in the Space Race

RUSSIA TRIED TO upstage the United States in the space race this week but only succeeded in underscoring the fact that the methodical, persistent American effort has put this country out in front.

Luna 6 was apparently intended to take the wind out of the sails of Gemini-4. However, Luna 6, believed by Western experts to be an attempt by the Soviets to stage a "soft" landing on the Moon, went off the mark by approximately 100,000 miles.

Meanwhile, motion pictures of Astronaut Ed White's walk in space clearly showed the superiority of the latest U.S. exploit. Reinforcing these are the more than 17,000 close-up pictures of the moon which Ranger probes have furnished the United States.

Suddenly, the Russians appear to be the ones who are behind.

IF SUCH IS INDEED the case, the answer apparently lies in the close, plodding attention which the American space scientists give to details. The Americans take that extra bit of time and exert that extra bit of effort to make sure that things work as they should. And they go a step farther and prepare for the possibility that things may not work as they should.

For example, when Ed White returned to the space capsule after his walk at the end of his tether, the crank which is supposed to tighten down the door of the hatch failed to function properly. This could have meant disaster. If the hatch had remained ajar, the astronauts would have died upon re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

But as Ed White revealed in the press conference at Houston Friday, he and Jim McDivitt in their training for the Gemini-4 flight had taken the hatch apart and put it back together time and again and knew how it functioned in every detail and how it could be repaired in case of malfunction. Because of this training, they were able to get the hatch clamped down.

Painstaking and time-consuming attention to details has caused the United States to come in second several times, but it also has allowed the American astronauts to perform with greater precision and consistency. Thus while the U.S. space program may have been behind on several occasions, the possibility that ultimately it will emerge the winner has been steadily increasing. Certainly at the end of this historic week it is clear that the U.S., not Russia, is setting the pace.

Lyndon's Retort

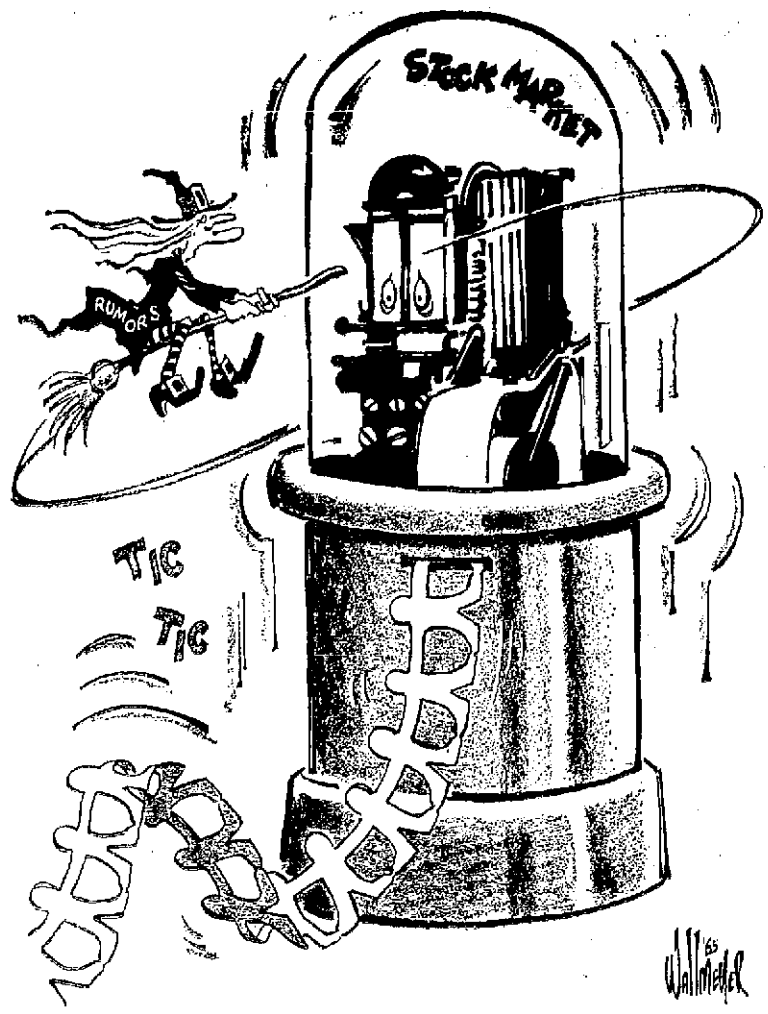

BESET BY ISOLATIONISTS preaching peace at any price, President Johnson has retorted with words which deserve the attention of every American. Here is the key passage from his recent speech on foreign policy:

"In the 1930s, we made our fate not by what we did but by what we failed to do. We propelled ourselves — and all mankind — toward tragedy, not by decisiveness but by vacillation, not by determination and resolution but by hesitancy and irresolution, not by action but by inaction.

"The failure of free men in the 1930s was not of the sword but of the soul—and there just must be no such failure in the 1960s.

"Let us not delude ourselves again by the belief that peace can be secured by submissiveness or extended by expediency . . .

"Let us not return again to the impulsiveness which accepts as safe every promise of peace from the enemies of peace and rejects as dangerous every proposal for strength from its friends."

Election Losers Find New, Better Jobs With the State

I, P-T State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Best way to land a state job these days is to lose an election.

The Capitol is swarming with losers.

Highest-ranking one is Harold (Butch) Powers, the lieutenant governor during the Knight Administration. Powers, who endorsed Gov. Brown in the 1962 election, is now holding the $21,500-a-year job as director of the Professional and Vocational Standards Department. He also is drawing a retirement check for his service as a Republican lieutenant governor.

The top-pay job, the $27,500-a-year directorship of the State Resources Agency, went to Hugo Fisher, who in 1962 was dumped as San Diego County senator.

William F. Grader of Fort Bragg, onetime Democratic Congressional nominee, is Fisher's $16,212 assistant.

Myron Frew, defeated in a 1964 re-election bid for his Assembly seat, has wound up as the $10,983-a-year assistant chief of the Bureau of Electronic Repair Dealer Registration.

Gov. Brown also is reputed to have prepared a list of possible appointments for cow-county senators who face extinction under the federal court's order for Senate reapportionment.

Edwin J. Regan of Weaverville, a senator till last year, already has been handed a court bench. Other judicial appointments beckon other northern senators after reapportionment.

Other Sacramento Soundings:

POPULATION GUESS — State population experts are trying to meet a mid-June deadline for publishing new state population estimates. Long Beach still is listed under its low 1960 census figure, but is expected to be pegged at around 370,000. It means the city will be in line for bigger allocations—which are handed out according to population.

* * * *

LETTER DEARTH — The state's fund pinch has killed a number of proposals during the 1965 legislation session, including the plan for an emergency-phone dialing system in the South Bay area. Gov. Brown declined to give the program fiscal clearance, and withheld an enabling letter. As a result, the program appears to be dead. A letter from the governor is necessary before a budget-item can be considered ahead of the budget.

* * * *

VANISHING ASSEMBLYMEN — Virtually all Long Beach area Assembly seats are likely to be vacated in an aftermath of Senate reapportionment. The incumcumbent assemblymen are likely to run for the Senate if the district lines make a a successful run probable. As the lines are drawn now, look for these legislators to throw over their Assembly seats for a crack at the Senate: Joseph Kennick, D-Long Beach; George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach; Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro; James Whetmore, R-Los Alamitos, and William Dannemeyer, D-Fullerton. Only Thomas has announced officially, but the others are interested.

* * * *

NEW GENERATION — The last names of two top political figures popped up in the list of new attorneys who recently were sworn in after passing the state bar examination. One is David M. Kennick, son of Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach. The other is Edmund Brown Jr., son of the governor.

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING—

The glory which surrounded him in life will continue to shine from him even after death and as long as there is a free man on this earth his name will be remembered with gratitude.

San Jose's Spencer Williams Sure Bet to Seek AG Office

I, P-T Political Editor

IN THE SEASON when most potential candidates may only be pencilled into political future sheets, it's nice to write one down in ink: Spencer Williams, 43, Santa Clara County Counsel, father of six, Republican.

The anomaly of Williams' almost certain entry into the 1966 contest against incumbent Democrat Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch is the fact that, outside of his home county, Williams has received some of his best press notices in Augusta, Ga. and Chicago. The Augusta article, result of a press interview during a visit, told the ambitious story of "How Republicans Will Regain State (California) in '66."

HOUSER

Williams' personal groundwork in exploring the feasibility of opposing Lynch matches the theme he advanced in Augusta.

ALTHOUGH Williams will not declare his candidacy officially until fall, probably, the reservations he harbors about running—discouragement from political pros or significant opposition within his party—have already seemed to dissolve.

For example, Williams has already contacted all the Republican state senators and assemblymen, both United States Senators Thomas Kuchel and George Murphy, all California Republican congressmen, all previous GOP candidates for attorney general who ran in 1958 and 1962 as well as a number of GOP committee chairmen. None of these contacts has deterred him from his campaign of exposure to the state's party people and the press.

In fact Rep. Charles Gubser, R-Gilroy, says he has "never been so enthusiastic" about a candidacy. State Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, noted his "100% support." The four GOP and one Democrat makeup of the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors which appointed him attended a recent luncheon launching his prospective campaign.

The San Jose Mercury-News has already editorialized in his favor a year in advance of the 1966 primary—" . . . he would bring admirable ability and dedication to the job."

OUTSIDE OF his lack of statewide familiarity, Williams seems to be the ideal blueprint for candidacy that scores of Republicans have drawn in their post mortems of party failure in 1964. This is not to diminish the long odds against overturning an attractive incumbent Democrat AG, Lynch, who in his conduct of office and public speeches has struck the middle road so vital for survival in this state's political success.

That consideration aside, Williams is fetching raw material indeed for a party looking for the dynamic new package. At 43, he has been married 22 years, has a family well worthy of pictorial inclusion in his "Spence-o-gram" publicity releases. He is legal advisor to a county and school district whose combined budgets are nearly $250 million. He has been county counsel for 10 years out of 15 years of county service; was 1963-64 president of the District Attorneys Assn. of California; was San Jose's 1954 Young Man of the Year; is admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court; saw Navy service in WW II and the Korean War, ending service as a lieutenant commander; extensive community service credits.

Williams seems to be well received by all factions of GOP philosophy judging from appearances before volunteer party organizations.

ADDED TO ALL THIS is the knack he has demonstrated to date of saying the right things. Although the office he seeks is partisan, he would regard it "as a professional assignment. . . . The problems of the office are not partisan in character. Opinions to the various public clients should be straightforward and honest, not slanted to give political advantage to members of one party or another, or with an eye to advancement up the political ladder."

He assails court decisions which have "handcuffed law enforcement officers" and hits reversed convictions "due to technical infringements on newly discovered constitutional rights, despite overwhelming and uncontroverted evidence of guilt."

Don't Ban Jeeps in Back-Country

EDITOR:

Regarding the closing of sand-dunes and back-country to motorized traffic: in this time of tension when a person wants to be able to relax a bit pursuing his hobby, be what it may, it's tragic that someone else tries to keep him from doing so.

Some people like to fly, some like to swim, some like to hike and some like to climb hills. If, in doing these things a man does damage to an area then something should be done to prevent him from going into that area. But, when no damage is done by his actions and the elements, wind and rain, soon cover his tracks, then why should a person, club or institution try to stop such a hobby?

As a member of a Jeep Club it doesn't seem right that a walking club should oppose another outdoor club. There are many people belonging to Jeep Clubs who are not physically able to hike or ride horses over miles of rough country. Yet they do enjoy getting out into the back country or sand dunes.

Great Society or Military Society?

EDITOR:

The disgusting spectacle shown on TV news of American soldiers searching Dominicans on their own soil brings home more acutely the stupidity of a foreign policy based on force rather than diplomacy. Our military interference in the internal affairs of small, but sovereign nations makes us look like the bull in a china shop, or perhaps like a "shoot from the hip" Texan.

One can only hope the Latin Americans have a good sense of humor and are able to laugh at the actions of a powerful, rich and arrogant nation that assumes it has the right to decide the fate of other peoples.

Many hoped that after the last election the internal problems of the United States would be first on the agenda, but the Great Society is well on the way of becoming the great military nightmare unless the people object loudly now.

Dimes and Dollars Become Valueless

Editor:

I am wondering how many citizens gave second thoughts, if any at all, to our government's recent announcement that starting next year, the silver content will be greatly reduced in some coins and a substitute of copper will be used for others.

Our paper bills used to have imprinted upon them, "Silver Certificate" with the obligation to hand over an equal amount of silver to the bearer upon demand. That has long ago been replaced with, "Federal Reserve Note" and in the minds of many people, is not worth the paper it's written on.

Little by little such things are being done, and little by little the apathetic citizens accept it. There are, however, many citizens who realize the trend this country is taking, but being in the minority, few care to listen.

Modern Boxing on a Par With Wrestling

Newsday Specials

THERE has been some pressure on me—not enough to crush a grape — to say something about the state of prizefighting. All right.

In a court of law an expert is required to state his qualifications, or the opposing counsel concedes them. Since there are some readers who concede me nothing, I shall state my qualifications on this subject, and graciously concede that they are dubious.

From age five to age 10 I took boxing lessons from my father's chauffeur, a Negro named Arthur Woodward. Whatever I learned I usually forgot in the heat of battle. In my early journalistic career I covered prizefighting on about as low a level as you could get. Mickey Walker once came to my home town, counted the house, and refused to go on. In later years I attended many fights, in the course of which I became an admirer of Joe Louis, Henry Armstrong, and not many others. In a sense the high point of my attendance at the fights was when I escorted Tallulah Bankhead to the Louis-Baer fight. In another sense, the high point was the first Louis-Schmeling fight, when I won $1,000 from a movie director and $500 from a drama critic, neither of whom has paid me to this day. The only friend I ever had in the fight mob was the last Hymie Caplin, who died shortly after he got out of prison where he had been doing a bit on a crooked-gambling rap. I have known lots of others, but Hymie was the only one I would call a friend of mine. The last fighter I met was Rocky Marciano, to whom I was introduced by Humphrey Bogart. I like Marciano, and still do, but as Bogart died in 1957 it is obvious that I have not been keeping in close touch with boxing.

THE SIMPLE truth is that I don't give a damn about prizefighting and haven't for a long time. I would not pay $10 for a ringside seat for a world's heavyweight championship fight if they held it in Trenton. Trenton is less than 10 miles from my house. I might watch the fight on TV, but if Peggy Lee were on the Johnny Carson show at the same time, I doubt if I'd look at the fight. Why?

Well, apart from the fact that I have no more interest in present-day fighters than I have in present-day tennis players, the excitement of a business that was always a business vanished when I became finally convinced that the business was a racket. Through the years I saw many fights in which the losers appeared to be doing half-gainers, but I used to believe that most of the important fights were on the level. Now I have a hard time believing that any fight is on the level.

The prizefight racket has reached the point where professional wrestling has been since the days of Jimmy Londos — and it might be safer to say since the days of Frank Gotch. An entire generation has grown up without ever taking wrestling seriously. It exists only as a TV performance that has its appeal among the devotees of Soupy Sales, yound and old. That is what prizefighting has become, and from now on it should be so regarded.

The populace grew restive and remained so for all of 36 hours after the Clay-Liston exhibition. With the help of some alert politicians, there was a noisy demand for federal investigation of the prizefight racket. But that doesn't really make much sense. It is conceivably within the jurisdiction of the federal government to provide the kind of protection that is aimed for under the Pure Food and Drug Act. It is a duty of the federal government to provide for the common defense. But federal supervision of the prizefighting racket is another matter. I do not believe that the federal government should abolish prizefighting. In principle, at least, I do not even believe that the federal and state and local governments should use their taxation powers to put prizefighting out of business. If the chumps want wrestling and prizefight, let them have it, and let them have it as long as they want it. When they come to the right stage of wearines and cynicism, they will stop going to the fights and cease to watch them on TV. Until then, prizefighting will be profitable, and money talks, and it talks the same language to the racketeers and the TV executives.

An honest fight is, of course, a disgusting and degrading exhibition on the part of the participants and the onlookers. In an honest fight one man is trying to kill another man, and sometimes he succeeds. Pugilism is less revolting than a contest in which the two men have at each other with meat cleavers, but the basic idea is the same. A fixed fight is a mean thing because the chumps who watch are deprived of their money's worth of manslaughter.

In fact Rep. Charles Gubser, R-Gilroy, says he has "never been so enthusiastic" about a candidacy. State Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, noted his "100% support." The four GOP and one Democrat makeup of the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors which appointed him attended a recent luncheon launching his prospective campaign.

The San Jose Mercury-News has already editorialized in his favor a year in advance of the 1966 primary—" . . . he would bring admirable ability and dedication to the job."

OUTSIDE OF his lack of statewide familiarity, Williams seems to be the ideal blueprint for candidacy that scores of Republicans have drawn in their post mortems of party failure in 1964. This is not to diminish the long odds against overturning an attractive incumbent Democrat AG, Lynch, who in his conduct of office and public speeches has struck the middle road so vital for survival in this state's political success.

That consideration aside, Williams is fetching raw material indeed for a party looking for the dynamic new package. At 43, he has been married 22 years, has a family well worthy of pictorial inclusion in his "Spence-o-gram" publicity releases. He is legal advisor to a county and school district whose combined budgets are nearly $250 million. He has been county counsel for 10 years out of 15 years of county service; was 1963-64 president of the District Attorneys Assn. of California; was San Jose's 1954 Young Man of the Year; is admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court; saw Navy service in WW II and the Korean War, ending service as a lieutenant commander; extensive community service credits.

ADDED TO ALL THIS is the knack he has demonstrated to date of saying the right things. Although the office he seeks is partisan, he would regard it "as a professional assignment. . . . The problems of the office are not partisan in character. Opinions to the various public clients should be straightforward and honest, not slanted to give political advantage to members of one party or another, or with an eye to advancement up the political ladder."

He assails court decisions which have "handcuffed law enforcement officers" and hits reversed convictions "due to technical infringements on newly discovered constitutional rights, despite overwhelming and uncontroverted evidence of guilt."

Don't Ban Jeeps in Back-Country

EDITOR:

Regarding the closing of sand-dunes and back-country to motorized traffic: in this time of tension when a person wants to be able to relax, a bit pursuing his hobby, be what it may, it's tragic that someone else tries to keep him from doing so.

Some people like to fly, some like to swim, some like to hike and some like to climb hills. If, in doing these things a man does damage to an area then something should be done to prevent him from going into that area. But, when no damage is done by his actions and the elements, wind and rain, soon cover his tracks, then why should a person, club or institution try to stop such a hobby?

As a member of a Jeep Club it doesn't seem right that a walking club should oppose another outdoor club. There are many people belonging to Jeep Clubs who are not physically able to hike or ride horses over miles of rough country. Yet they do enjoy getting out into the back country or sand dunes.

Great Society or Military Society?

EDITOR:

The disgusting spectacle shown on TV news of American soldiers searching Dominicans on their own soil brings home more acutely the stupidity of a foreign policy based on force rather than diplomacy. Our military interference in the internal affairs of small, but sovereign nations makes us look like the bull in a china shop, or perhaps like a "shoot from the hip" Texan.

One can only hope the Latin Americans have a good sense of humor and are able to laugh at the actions of a powerful, rich and arrogant nation that assumes it has the right to decide the fate of other peoples.

Many hoped that after the last election the internal problems of the United States would be first on the agenda, but the Great Society is well on the way of becoming the great military nightmare unless the people object loudly now.

Dimes and Dollars Become Valueless

Editor:

I am wondering how many citizens gave second thoughts, if any at all, to our government's recent announcement that starting next year, the silver content will be greatly reduced in some coins and a substitute of copper will be used for others.

Our paper bills used to have imprinted upon them, "Silver Certificate" with the obligation to hand over an equal amount of silver to the bearer upon demand. That has long ago been replaced with, "Federal Reserve Note" and in the minds of many people, is not worth the paper it's written on.

Little by little such things are being done, and little by little the apathetic citizens accept it. There are, however, many citizens who realize the trend this country is taking, but being in the minority, few care to listen.

Modern Boxing on a Par With Wrestling

Newsday Specials

THERE has been some pressure on me—not enough to crush a grape — to say something about the state of prizefighting. All right.

In a court of law an expert is required to state his qualifications, or the opposing counsel concedes them. Since there are some readers who concede me nothing, I shall state my qualifications on this subject, and graciously concede that they are dubious.

From age five to age 10 I took boxing lessons from my father's chauffeur, a Negro named Arthur Woodward. Whatever I learned I usually forgot in the heat of battle. In my early journalistic career I covered prizefighting on about as low a level as you could get. Mickey Walker once came to my home town, counted the house, and refused to go on. In later years I attended many fights, in the course of which I became an admirer of Joe Louis, Henry Armstrong, and not many others. In a sense the high point of my attendance at the fights was when I escorted Tallulah Bankhead to the Louis-Baer fight. In another sense, the high point was the first Louis-Schmeling fight, when I won $1,000 from a movie director and $500 from a drama critic, neither of whom has paid me to this day. The only friend I ever had in the fight mob was the last Hymie Caplin, who died shortly after he got out of prison where he had been doing a bit on a crooked-gambling rap. I have known lots of others, but Hymie was the only one I would call a friend of mine. The last fighter I met was Rocky Marciano, to whom I was introduced by Humphrey Bogart. I like Marciano, and still do, but as Bogart died in 1957 it is obvious that I have not been keeping in close touch with boxing.

THE SIMPLE truth is that I don't give a damn about prizefighting and haven't for a long time. I would not pay $10 for a ringside seat for a world's heavyweight championship fight if they held it in Trenton. Trenton is less than 16 miles from my house. I might watch the fight on TV, but if Peggy Lee were on the Johnny Carson show at the same time, I doubt if I'd look at the fight. Why?

Well, apart from the fact that I have no more interest in present-day fighters than I have in present-day tennis players, the excitement of a business that was always a business vanished when I became finally convinced that the business was a racket. Through the years I saw many fights in which the losers appeared to be doing half-gainers, but I used to believe that most of the important fights were on the level. Now I have a hard time believing that any fight is on the level.

The prizefight racket has reached the point where professional wrestling has been since the days of Jimmy Londos — and it might be safer to say since the days of Frank Gotch. An entire generation has grown up without ever taking wrestling seriously. It exists only as a TV performance that has its appeal among the devotees of Soupy Sales, young and old. That is what prizefighting has become, and from now on it should be so regarded.

The populace grew restive and remained so for all of 36 hours after the Clay-Liston exhibition. With the help of some alert politicians, there was a noisy demand for federal investigation of the prizefight racket. But that doesn't really make much sense. It is conceivably within the jurisdiction of the federal government to provide the kind of protection that is aimed for under the Pure Food and Drug Act. It is a duty of the federal government to provide for the common defense. But federal supervision of the prizefighting racket is another matter. I do not believe that the federal government should abolish prizefighting. In principle, at least, I do not even believe that the federal and state and local governments should use their taxation powers to put prizefighting out of business. If the chumps want wrestling and prizefight, let them have it, and let them have it as long as they want it. When they come to the right stage of weariness and cynicism, they will stop going to the fights and cease to watch them on TV. Until then, prizefighting will be profitable, and money talks, and it talks the same language to the racketeers and the TV executives.

An honest fight is, of course, a disgusting and degrading exhibition on the part of the participants and the onlookers. In an honest fight one man is trying to kill another man, and sometimes he succeeds. Pugilism is less revolting than a contest in which the two men have at each other with meat cleavers, but the basic idea is the same. A fixed fight is a mean thing because the chumps who watch are deprived of their money's worth of man-slaughter.

Congress Fears Proposal to Overhaul U.S. Constitution

I, P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON—Fear of a Constitutional Convention is driving fence-sitters into the Dirksen Amendment camp.

Twenty-six state legislatures, angry about court-ordered reapportionment, have passed resolutions calling for a Constitutional Convention which could provide a remedy.

The idea of calling the convention, as one judiciary staff member put it, "scares the hell out of us." He pointed out that once the states send delegates to a Constitutional Convention it might be possible (under the Constitution) to change the whole document. The door would be open, for example, to the "Liberty" amendment and other schemes dear to the extreme right wing.

The whole controversy over how states should reapportion their legislatures arose back in 1962 when the Supreme Court ruled that federal courts have jurisdiction to hear and determine cases which challenged the apportionment of state legislatures. In 1963 the court went further and ruled that both houses of a state legislature should be apportioned on the basis of population.

Since then various amendments have been introduced in the Congress, but have not passed out of committee. The most important of these is the so-called "Dirksen Amendment," proposed by Sen. Dirksen of Illinois, which would give the states sole responsibility for reapportioning their legislatures.

Senators who oppose amending the Constitution have said they feel that even though they don't approve of the Dirksen Amendment, they will vote for it as it is the lesser of the two evils—congressional amendment or a Constitutional Convention.

IT WASN'T a good week for Vice Presidents and former Vice Presidents. Richard M. Nixon was trapped off base in Ohio on the subject of Barry Goldwater. Asked at a press conference why Goldwater didn't speak at one of eight fund-raising dinners in the state, Nixon said it must have occurred because Goldwater had other commitments. An Ohio GOP leader broke in and said, "Nobody out here wanted him to speak." Nixon grinned weakly. In New York, Vice President Humphrey confidently predicted at a big political dinner on Wednesday that Wagner would run for re-election. The next day, Wagner pulled out and added he wouldn't waste any energy reconsidering his decision.

The Most-Happy-Fella

NOMINATED herewith for most-happy-fella of 1965 is Vice President Hubert Horatio Humphrey of whom it must be said that he never had it so good.

Horatio Alger couldn't improve much on the story of Horatio Humphrey. Humphrey is near the top after long years of striving, so near he can reach out and touch it. Better than that, President Johnson is expected to order the appropriate Democratic National Convention to nominate Humphrey for President so that he may succeed LBJ in the White House.

Humphrey has been striving for the White House all of these years. As the prize comes closer, the Vice President's sense of well being increases. In the slanguage of the rural folk from whom he came, the Vice President is living high off the hog.

If the Vice President's slumber is haunted by dreams that all of this is too good to be true, there may be some substance in such a fearful presentiment. The curdling truth is that there is another Kennedy in Humphrey's future.

* * * *

THERE WAS a Kennedy blocking Humphrey from the White House in 1960, you may recall, a Kennedy who came from nowhere really to challenge HHH for the Democratic presidential nomination. That Kennedy was John F. and he beat Humphrey in Wisconsin where Humphrey was supposed to be a big, big man; and he beat him in West Virginia where Humphrey was supposed to win because he was a Protestant and Jack Kennedy was a Roman Catholic.

That would have been the end of Hubert Humphrey's legitimate hopes for the Presidency except for factors wholly unforeseeeable such as Johnson's tragic accession to the Presidency in 1963 and his urgent need in the 1964 presidential campaign to establish himself as a dependable left-of-center Democrat instead of a right-of-center Texas Democrat.

So Hubert Humphrey, one of the founders and sparkplugs of the left-wing Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) was tapped by Johnson for Veep. LBJ identified Humphrey as the best man available for the job, the job being to succeed Johnson in the White House if he died in office. So it is that Humphrey properly can expect Johnson to instruct the 1972 Democratic National Convention to nominate the Veep for President.

* * * *

MEANTIME, the Kennedy brothers are going their way building political strong points in New York and Massachusetts, fortifying them as seems necessary and maintaining close and friendly contact with the racial, labor and related voter-blocs which provide the Democratic Party with much of its political muscle.

Although it seems reasonably certain that there is a Kennedy in Humphrey's future there is reason to wonder at this moment which Kennedy it might be. Robert F. Kennedy got the biggest build-up during JFK's White House years and he kept himself on page one by raiding New York State for a U.S. Senate seat at a time when he was not, himself, qualified to vote in New York.

Edward Moore Kennedy, the youngest of the clan, earned more jeers than cheers when he announced in Massachusetts for the U.S. Senate. Edward Moore Kennedy is Teddy and he has proved to be quite a man.

If you had to bet right now, it might be safer to bet that the Kennedy in Humphrey's 1972 future will be Teddy, despite the fact that brother Bobby is right now better known. It shouldn't make much difference to Humphrey. Either Kennedy would be bad news for him.

Old Railroad Merger Case Rises Again

WASHINGTON—It has been 64 years since those two famous railroad tycoons, James J. Hill and Edward H. Harriman, battled for the control of the Northern Pacific Railroad—a battle which caused a stock market crisis and brought bitter criticism from President Theodore Roosevelt.

PEARSON

Next week, the fate of the same Northern Pacific comes up again. On June 16 the Interstate Commerce Commission begins hearing final arguments regarding the merger of the Northern Pacific with the Great Northern.

Jim Hill, President of the Great Northern at the turn of the century, succeeded in keeping the Northern Pacific out of the hands of Ed Harriman, who then controlled the Union Pacific. And since that time, up until this week, the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific have run parallel to each across the vast prairies of the Northwest.

ICC Examiner Robert Murphy has now recommended that they merge. The big financial interests of Wall Street, which favored the merger in Harriman's day, also favor the merger today. And the ICC, as it begins hearings, also is reported leaning toward the merger.

However, the people of Washington and Oregon are opposed. And the Justice Department is so incensed over the preliminary hearings that it has filed an unusual brief, criticizing Examiner Murphy. The brief charges:

"This hearing was not fair . . . the man in charge of it had an overwhelming and undisciplined bias . . . a judgment in this hearing should not be made; it could not stand."

The Justice Department bases its stinging criticism in part on an affidavit filed with the commission reporting Murphy as saying he "could not understand why people would oppose a rail merger."

Murphy even thought it "ridiculous . . . for a resident of the Spokane area to contest the railroad experts' views."

"You don't think I am going to sit on this hard bench for six months and listen to witnesses . . .," Murphy told railway officials. "These railroads should merge."

Earlier hearings disclosed 97% of the Northern Pacific stock was held by the Morgan interests—only 3% by the public.

The original Northern Pacific charter was a federal one which prohibited it from merging with another but not another from merging with it.

So, Wall Street in 1904 organized the Northern Securities Company to buy the securities of these two companies and effect a merger. The Supreme Court blocked it.

THE CLOSED-DOOR House debate over a special law to permit a military man, Lt. Gen. William McKee to head the civilian Federal Aviation Agency didn't leak out to the public. But it was hot and heavy.

Seven Republicans voted against what they called "militarizing" the FAA. All Democrats voted for it, except John Belliams of Mississippi who votes against all administration measures.

"This is a violation of the Federal Aviation Act, passed in 1958 to improve safety in the airways, and which forbids the appointment of a military man as FAA administrator," argued Rep. William Springer, R-Ill. "Gen. McKee should resign from his military rank and give up his military retirement pay while serving in this job, but he won't do it."

The Illinois Republican recalled a similar situation in 1958, when Gen. Elwood Quesada resigned temporarily from the Air Force and forsook retirement pay to become the first FAA administrator. Looking at Democrats Oren Harris, Ark., the committee chairman, and John Moss, Calif., Springer added:

"Some of you were then quite insistent that the FAA be headed by a civilian and agreed to approve Quesada only if he relinquished his military connections. Now you are, in effect, taking an opposite position."

THERE WAS a Kennedy blocking Humphrey from the White House in 1960, you may recall, a Kennedy who came from nowhere really to challenge HHH for the Democratic presidential nomination. That Kennedy was John F. and he beat Humphrey in Wisconsin where Humphrey was supposed to be a big, big man; and he beat him in West Virginia where Humphrey was supposed to win because he was a Protestant and Jack Kennedy was a Roman Catholic.

That would have been the end of Hubert Humphrey's legitimate hopes for the Presidency except for factors wholly unforeseeable such as Johnson's tragic accession to the Presidency in 1963 and his urgent need in the 1964 presidential campaign to establish himself as a dependable left-of-center Democrat instead of a right-of-center Texas Democrat.

So Hubert Humphrey, one of the founders and sparkplugs of the left-wing Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) was tapped by Johnson for Veep. LBJ identified Humphrey as the best man available for the job, the job being to succeed Johnson in the White House if he died in office. So it is that Humphrey properly can expect Johnson to instruct the 1972 Democratic National Convention to nominate the Veep for President.

* * * *

MEANTIME, the Kennedy brothers are going their way building political strong points in New York and Massachusetts, fortifying them as seems necessary and maintaining close and friendly contact with the racial, labor and related voter-blocs which provide the Democratic Party with much of its political muscle.

Although it seems reasonably certain that there is a Kennedy in Humphrey's future there is reason to wonder at this moment which Kennedy it might be. Robert F. Kennedy got the biggest build-up during JFK's White House years and he kept himself on page one by raiding New York State for a U.S. Senate seat at a time when he was not, himself, qualified to vote in New York.

Edward Moore Kennedy, the youngest of the clan, earned more jeers than cheers when he announced in Massachusetts for the U.S. Senate. Edward Moore Kennedy is Teddy and he has proved to be quite a man.

If you had to bet right now, it might be safer to bet that the Kennedy in Humphrey's 1972 future will be Teddy, despite the fact that brother Bobby is right now better known. It shouldn't make much difference to Humphrey. Father Kennedy would be bad news for him.

MULTIPLE GRADUATES

DAD, MOM, 2 SISTERS GRADUATING

Fifth Grader Feels Like a Fifth Wheel Scholar

By ROBERT WILCOX
Education Editor

Craig Collins feels a little left out this spring—scholastically.

Oh, he's getting promoted to the fifth grade all right. But the other four members of his family—father, mother and two sisters—are graduating.

Dad Matthew, 48, picked up his bachelor's degree from Long Beach State Saturday. Mother LaDonna gets a Long Beach City College diploma Thursday morning.

Sister Catherine, 17, graduates from Millikan High School Thursday night. Sister Christine, 14, is leaving Hill Junior High.

Collins, employed full-time at the LBSC medical center, has been plugging away toward his college diploma mostly in night classes since shortly before retiring from the Navy in 1958. His wife waited until the children were all of school age to start LBCC in 1961. The family lives at 2160 Nipomo Ave.

As Collins plans to take graduate work, he will be attending Long Beach State next fall with his wife and daughter Catherine.

Which means that 9-year-old Craig shouldn't lose heart. He's bound to join at least one member of his education-minded family in joint ceremonies one of these days.

HAROLD PERKINS
Post Commander

Legion Post to Install Tuesday

Harold E. Perkins will be installed commander of Arthur L. Peterson Post 27, American Legion, at ceremonies at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Veterans Memorial Building, 241 W. Broadway.

Mrs. Urel "Sis" Perkins will be installed president of the Post's Auxiliary.

Fred Nessler will be master of ceremonies for the Post and Mrs. Winifred Martinson will handle the chore for the Auxiliary.

The new post commander enlisted in the Air Force in 1942 and served in the South Pacific theater. He was discharged as a sergeant.

LBCC Summer Signup to Open

Registration for the 1965 Long Beach City College summer session opens this week for both new and continuing students. Summer classes start on June 21.

Currently enrolled students may register for summer evening classes from 6-8:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Locations will be the women's gymnasium on the Liberal Arts campus, 4901 E. Carson Street, and the Business and Technology campus gymnasium, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

New students may preregister for summer evening classes at the same hours Wednesday in the LAC women's gymnasium or the BTC cafeteria.

* * * *

ADVANCE enrollment for day classes will be conducted Friday at both campuses, by appointment only, for continuing students. New day students will be registered on Monday, June 21, from 8-11:30 a.m. and 1-3 p.m.

Enrollment for Adult Center classes at all locations will be conducted directly in the classrooms beginning June 21.

Because of junior college district changes effective this summer, residents of many communities will no longer be eligible to enroll at Long Beach City College for more than nine hours per week without a special permit from their own districts. Enrollment without a permit would be limited to one 3-unit course during summer session.

Affected are residents of the Downey area, which will become part of the Cerritos Junior College District on July 1, and Orange County communities scheduled to join the newly-formed North County Junior College District. These include Rossmor, Los Alamitos, Anaheim, Buena Park, Olnda, Placentia, Cypress, Brea, Stanton and Yorba Linda.

Cardinals Talk on Mindszenty Asylum Status

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Franziskus Cardinal Koenig of Austria concluded his talks Saturday with Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty in the U.S. Legation where Mindszenty has lived in asylum since the Soviet - smashed Hungarian revolution of 1956.

It was believed Cardinal Koenig talked with Cardinal Mindszenty about leaving the legation, possibly to go to Rome. There was no comment from the legation or from Hungarian church officials.

The Vatican, the United States and the Hungarian Communist Government all are interested in a solution to the Mindszenty case as a prerequisite to better relations between Hungary and the West.

Bumbling Mets Aid Sandy's 5-Hit Gem

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

NEW YORK — No one really expected the Mets to beat Sandy Koufax Saturday. The odds were too staggering and so were the Mets.

Sandy covered the course in one under par. That is, the Mets failed to score and Koufax' lifetime earned run average against them became 1.00. The Dodger margin was 5-0.

Since the Mets were destined to take their eighth successive beating, another near-full house of 51,000 fugitives from Madness, Inc. decided to join Sandy's side for a day. After chanting in vain, "let's go, Mets," they cheered Koufax' 29th career shutout and second of the year. Paid attendance was 38,915.

Sandy's conquest was No. 11 in an all-winning career against the Mets. He gave them his usual quota of five hits. His lifetime ledger against them now reads 12 starts, 99 innings, 11 runs and 58 hits.

The Mets staggered all over Shea Stadium in the fourth inning and that was all the Dodgers needed to stay 2½ games ahead of the runnerup Braves. The Mets made three of their four errors in that round, leading to two unearned runs against loser Al Jackson.

Lou Johnson was hit on the right thumb by a Jackson pitch in the fifth inning and X-rays showed a fracture, but no displacement. A splint was applied and Johnson will be sidelined for an indefinite period. It was the fifth time he has been hit by a pitch in 129 times up.

Jackson (2-8) never has defeated the Dodgers in eight decisions. The Dodgers tried to help him Saturday with some loose outfield play of their own, but Willie Davis couldn't do it alone.

Willie allowed Bob Taylor to take an extra base after a single in the second inning, then misjudged a fly ball by Al Napoleon that fell for a single. Koufax took care of the situation by striking out Jim Hickman and Bobby Klaus.

Willie was so embarrased that he decided to do snmething about it in the presence of general manager Buzzie Bavasi. He singled across the last two Dodger runs after Jeff Torborg doubled and Maury Wills singled in the sixth inning.

The Dodgers' fourth inning farce began when shortstop Roy McMillan muffed Lou Johnson's grounder with one out. Jim Lefebvre doubled home

A VERY UPSET MET

New York Mets' catcher Bob Taylor is upended by Dodger Al Ferrara in violent home plate collision at Shea Stadium Saturday. As the picture shows, Taylor lost hold on ball and Dodgers picked up an unearned run en route to a 5-0 victory.

AAU Given Control of Olympians

NCAA Claims It Was 'Sacrificed' by USOC Move

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States Olympic Committee got into the feud between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association Saturday by approving a measure giving the AAU control of major Olympic Games committees.

Immediate reaction of the NCAA was a caucus meeting after adjournment of the USOC's special session, calling for a "select committee of nationally prominent educational leaders" to challenge the apparent AAU coup.

The USOC voted to grant majority membership for internationally recognized sports groups on its games committees, virtually relegating the NCAA and affiliated groups to a passive Olympic organizational role.

* * * *

THE AAU is the only internationally recognized group in this country for such top Olympic sports as track, swimming and basketball. It has zealously guarded that role in its long and bitter feud with the NCAA.

The protesting caucus was said to have included 40 representatives of the NCAA, National High School Athletic Federation, National Junior College Association and several national coaches' associations.

"They slammed the door in the face of people they ask to discover, train and encourage athletes for Olympic competition," said an informed NCAA source.

The action, in a special meeting of the USOC, was described by an NCAA spokesman as "sacrificing the NCAA on the altar of disharmony."

By a margin of 1,339 to 585 votes, the USOC wiped out previous equal representation between the AAU and NCAA on such prime Olympic committees as track and field, swimming and basketball.

It left the AAU governing 11 of more than 20 games committees which organize America's squads for the Olympics, next to be held in Mexico City in 1968.

* * * *

OTHER internationally recognized groups benefiting are on such games committees as rowing, fencing, tennis, cycling, soccer and skiing.

Cliff Buck of Denver, AAU president, quickly stressed that the AAU would insist that all groups "who have a contribution to make" be given equitable representation on the games committees.

Commissioner Bill Reed of the Big Ten and Bob Kane, Cornell athletic director, had unhappy reactions.

Kane said the vote which was carried by 53 ballots over the necessary 1,286, would make the collegiate realm feel "badly chastised."

Fresno Flyer Flies, 9.5

By JOHN DIXON

Darel Newman has just a little more hair than a bowling ball, he would be perfectly cast in the road show of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," and he's sprint king of the NCAA College Division Track and Field Championships.

The friendly Fresno flyer, who must have different insides than other fellows his size, won the feature event of the third college championships Saturday at Veterans Stadium, and he won it big.

Ed Roberts of North Carolina College and Trinidad, a medal winner in the Olympic Games, was a solid favorite in the 100-yard dash. After all, he coasted to a long-yard victory over Newman in a qualifying race.

But Saturday's main event was all Newman's as soon as the gun sounded.

The starter's pistol barked and Newman accelerated like the guy who's been caught raiding the chicken coop.

Three yards out and he was operating at 100%. The others—one of the outstanding dash fields of the year—were still in slow motion.

Thirty yards down the speedway Newman led Roberts by a yard and one-half, and as he rumbled through the tape there was still a yard of warm air separating the leaders.

Newman was stopwatched in 9.5 over a slow track, Roberts in 9.6 and Sam Workman of Fresno in 9.7.

Saturday, Newman was the smallest man on the field, and he was the best. Newman had won a holiday, but not Roberts.

He came back in the 220, led by three yards around the curve and won charging by four. Bucking a two-mile wind down the short straightaway, Roberts was credited with an excellent 20.6, Workman held off Al Wheatfall of Lincoln in an eye-straining photo for second, both in 21.1.

Last year Fresno and Long Beach State finished 1-2 in the championships, but not this time.

San Diego State won four events Saturday and was a runaway winner in team scoring with 67 points. Little Luther College of Iowa was second with 46, Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo third with 45½ and North Carolina College fourth with 44. Fresno finished fifth with 33, Long Beach was eighth with 25.

The finishes were fast and furious throughout one of the most exciting meets of the year. And there were enough stars to fill the heavens.

Gene Takle of Luther won the "ironman trophy."

The indomitable Takle captured the six-mile Friday, won the three-mile Saturday with a 58-second last lap, and came back two hours later to finish second in the steeplechase. Paint him tired, credit him with 28 points.

Jim Kemp of Kentucky State, a 20-year-old sophomore who oozes Olympic Games class, equaled the classiest quarter-mile time of the year, 46.1. He surpassed his own meet record of 46.6.

Kemp led by five yards at the halfway point and only Nate Hawthorne of Mt. Union (46.8) had a chance to make Kemp go as they rounded the last, long curve. But Hawthorne tied up as tight as a bowline and if the tape had been a yard farther back he would have lost his runnerup spot.

The mile was the strangest race of the day, provided one of the tightest finishes and best times.

Angels Jump on Yankees in 13-3 Spree

By ROSS NEWHAN

Had Johnny Keane been a soothsayer he might have joined his boys for a drink at Newark. In fact, they might never have left.

Keane was ready for a drink—even whistling for one—late Saturday night after the Angels had humbled the Yankees, 13-3, with a 14-hit attack which carried Rudy May (4-5) to his second consecutive complete game.

It was difficult to tell the Yankees without a program, for it was the Angels who boasted the Murderer's Row. The decision was the most lopsided ever registered by the Angels over the Yankees and it was the grandest hit and run barrage of the season.

Albie Pearson and Willie Smith each slashed three hits and Bobby Rodgers drove in five runs as the Angels turned home plate into an airport by landing there with greater frequency than charters at, say, Newark.

On the heels of a fruitless 13-hit assault Friday night, the Angels have obviously found their eye without the use of contacts—except for bat upon ball.

Jim Bouton, Pete Mikkelson, Hal Reniff and Steve Hamilton all were routed as 25,795 fans witnessed the Angels' largest run productivity at Dodger Stadium since April 29, 1963—a span of 189 games.

The Angels sent 11 to the plate while accuring six hits and six runs in the second and 10 to the plate while registering three hits and five runs in the sixth.

* * * *

MAY, who does wear contacts, issued more walks than hits. The 20-year old southpaw (4-5), obviously nervous facing the Yankees and the largest Angel crowd of the season, walked nine to set a club record and yielded eight hits.

The Yankees had been playing well in June but they couldn't handle May. Four walks in the fifth inning accounted for the only New York run until the ninth when, with two out, the tiring May yielded four consecutive hits and two runs.

May made 141 pitches, eight more than Al Downing Friday night, while becoming only the second Angel hurler to dispatch back-to-back complete games this season. His ERA is 3.06.

Pearson, batting leadoff as RBI leader Jose Cardenal was dropped to third in an effort to procure punch around the middle, doubled, singled twice, walked and stole his eighth and ninth bases.

Halas Blocks Franchise, Fears AFL in Chicago

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The National Football League will grant a professional football franchise to Atlanta for 1966 and acquire rental of the new Atlanta Stadium, the Nashville Banner said Saturday.

The paper said the official announcement is expected within the next two weeks. The Banner story Saturday said:

"It is understood that Cox Broadcasting Corp., which obtained an American Football League franchise for Atlanta earlier this week but did not secure use of the stadium, will return the franchise to the AFL.

"EVERY NFL OWNER is said to approve a franchise for Atlanta except George Halas of the Chicago Bears, and NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle hopes to win him over. Halas may oppose the move in the belief that the AFL, if foiled in its plans to add Atlanta, might expand into Chicago."

Banner sports editor Fred Russell wrote April 15 that former Cleveland Browns coach Paul Brown, now sitting out an unexpired contract with Cleveland, would like to return to football as coach of a club in Atlanta.

Bumbling Mets Aid Sandy's 5-Hit Gem

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

NEW YORK — No one really expected the Mets to beat Sandy Koufax Saturday. The odds were too staggering and so were the Mets.

Sandy covered the course in one under par. That is, the Mets failed to score and Koufax' lifetime earned run average against them became 1.00. The Dodger margin was 5-0.

Since the Mets were destined to take their eighth successive beating, another near-full house of 51,000 fugitives from Madness, Inc. decided to join Sandy's side for a day. After chanting in vain, "let's go, Mets," they cheered Koufax' 29th career shutout and second of the year. Paid attendance was 38,915.

Sandy's conquest was No. 11 in an all-winning career against the Mets. He gave them his usual quota of five hits. His lifetime ledger against them now reads 12 starts, 99 innings, 11 runs and 58 hits.

The Mets staggered all over Shea Stadium in the fourth inning and that was all the Dodgers needed to stay 2½ games ahead of the runnerup Braves. The Mets made three of their four errors in that round, leading to two unearned runs against loser Al Jackson.

Lou Johnson was hit on the right thumb by a Jackson pitch in the fifth inning and X-rays showed a fracture, but no displacement. A splint was applied and Johnson will be sidelined for an indefinite period. It was the fifth time he has been hit by a pitch in 129 times up.

Jackson (2-8) never has defeated the Dodgers in eight decisions. The Dodgers tried to help him Saturday with some loose outfield play of their own, but Willie Davis couldn't do it alone.

Willie allowed Bob Taylor to take an extra base after a single in the second inning, then misjudged a fly ball by Al Napoleon that fell for a single. Koufax took care of the situation by striking out Jim Hickman and Bobby Klaus.

Willie was so embarrased that he decided to do something about it in the presence of general manager Buzzie Bavasi. He singled across the last two Dodger runs after Jeff Torborg doubled and Maury Wills singled in the sixth inning.

The Dodgers' fourth inning farce began when shortstop Roy McMillan muffed Lou Johnson's grounder with one out. Jim Lefebvre doubled home

AAU Given Control of Olympians

NCAA Claims It Was 'Sacrificed' by USOC Move

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States Olympic Committee got into the feud between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association Saturday by approving a measure giving the AAU control of major Olympic Games committees.

Immediate reaction of the NCAA was a caucus meeting after adjournment of the USOC's special session, calling for a "select committee of nationally prominent educational leaders" to challenge the apparent AAU coup.

The USOC voted to grant majority membership for internationally recognized sports groups on its games committees, virtually relegating the NCAA and affiliated groups to a passive Olympic organizational role.

* * * *

THE AAU is the only internationally recognized group in this country for such top Olympic sports as track, swimming and basketball. It has zealously guarded that role in its long and bitter feud with the NCAA.

The protesting caucus was said to have included 40 representatives of the NCAA, National High School Athletic Federation, National Junior College Association and several national coaches' associations.

"They slammed the door in the face of people they ask to discover, train and encourage athletes for Olympic competition," said an informed NCAA source.

The action, in a special meeting of the USOC, was described by an NCAA spokesman as "sacrificing the NCAA on the altar of disharmony."

By a margin of 1,339 to 585 votes, the USOC wiped out previous equal representation between the AAU and NCAA on such prime Olympic committees as track and field, swimming and basketball.

It left the AAU governing 11 of more than 20 games committees which organize America's squads for the Olympics, next to be held in Mexico City in 1968.

* * * *

OTHER internationally recognized groups benefiting are on such games committees as rowing, fencing, tennis, cycling, soccer and skiing.

Cliff Buck of Denver, AAU president, quickly stressed that the AAU would insist that all groups "who have a contribution to make" be given equitable representation on the games committees.

Commissioner Bill Reed of the Big Ten and Bob Kane, Cornell athletic director, had unhappy reactions.

Kane said the vote which was carried by 53 ballots, over the necessary 1,286, would make the collegiate realm feel "badly chastised."

The Sunday Sermon

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . Long Beach is known widely as the International City, but one L.A. sheet termed it the "City of Virtue" in an unsigned sports page "editorial" the other day. "With stirring dignity, the City of Long Beach has announced that theater television of prize fights will no longer be permitted in its civic auditorium until the boxing picture has been cleaned up," read the piece. "This stand is noble, indeed. The next thing Long Beach must do is ban college basketball, in which more known fixes have taken place than in boxing. Displays of purity every time boxing is connected with a turkey are sickening. Long Beach is making an ostentatious show of virtue which doesn't impress the real sports fan."

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

. . . Comment: It should impress the promoters. The City Council's action certainly should save the operators' future financial hides!

. . . The Rams' Harland Svare thinks San Francisco's 49ers will be the most improved team in the NFL. Big reason: The addition of running back John David Crow from the St. Louis Cardinals. Explains Svare: "The 49ers have needed a strong runner for a long time and they got him in Crow. The only problem is whether or not John David will get hurt again."

. . . Asked his opinion on the worst team, Svare's only comment: "The poor New York Giants." (How the mighty have fallen.)

. . . Is it true that at the age of 31 Parnelli Jones is contemplating retirement from the ranks of active auto racers? That's what a little bird whispers. Reason: The obvious one. He's been racing 14 years and would like to live a long, less nerve-wracking life.

. . . Did you know that the Angels' outstanding and durable relief pitcher Bob Lee was with Batavia (no, Clyde, not the one in Java, but that Batavia somewhere in the U.S.) in 1963? Few people do. Disgusted with being a Pittsburgh hireling eight years, the Bellflower strong man wrote letters to other major league clubs to "get me out of here." The Angels responded and came up with a lost diamond mine.

MENTION OF DIAMONDS reminds that the Long Beach area can boast three more:

. . . Jerry Wille, who went from Long Beach to Oregon State to become that school's first all-America swimmer. In addition to becoming OSU's initial all-America merman, Wille was the first Beaver to place in the NCAA championship meet. Only a junior, Jerry was re-elected captain for 1966.

. . . Bob Larson of Long Beach, who caught for Colorado State's baseball team this spring. Larson helped Colorado State win its 23rd consecutive Rocky Mountain Conference title! (None of the Greeley Bears play harmonicas, either.)

. . . Tom Snyder, who caught Fresno headlines a weekend ago with home runs that beat Norm Sherry's Santa Barbara Dodgers. Snyder, of Rolling Hills, is an outfielder for the Giant farm club. When Tom belted a grand slammer Saturday he was proclaimed by the Fresno press as "strong man," then when he laced one Sunday he was referred to as the "handsome slugger." (Anyway, obviously, he can swat the ball.)

FRESNO APPARENTLY is the home of pitching diamonds. The Cubs' ace Dick Ellsworth, Cincinnati's star Jim Maloney, and Milwaukee's young find, Wade Blasingame, all hail from that city. Interestingly, both Ellsworth and Maloney played on the same high school team. The conflict was resolved by letting Maloney play shortstop . . . until a Reds' scout was impressed by the way Jim fired the ball to first base and advanced him the money for a pitcher's toe plate.

. . . This corner's opinion of the Braves' problem: Let the club depart Milwaukee after the July All-Star Game break and go to Atlanta. Milwaukee will not support the club this year, Atlanta certainly will. And wouldn't it be ridiculous if the Braves enter the World Series not knowing which city they represent? (Blame the whole stupid mess on baseball's hierarchy. How could anyone expect fans to turn out for a team which they know won't be in their city the next season?)

. . . Opinion on the Yankee fun-boys' problems: So what else is new?

. . . Comment on the Yankees: The whole team believes once Elston Howard is back the club will go on a win streak and laugh back again at the rest of the circuit. I doubt it now. The Yankee-haters' year seems finally to have arrived.

AN ESTIMATED 20,000 people ventured to Cal Stores on Carson St. to view A. J. Foyt's rear-engine racing vehicle last weekend. See what even a small item in your favorite newspaper will do?

. . . Ben Agajanian's a commissioner in demand. Even as head of the new Western States Football League, he has been approached by Green Bay and Dallas of the NFL to help coach their kickers for a week or two. Ben intends to oblige both. (I wonder if NFL boss Pete Rozelle ever would teach Sid Gillman's quarterback how to throw the ball?)

Tresh Claims Keane Saved Yankee Image

By ROSS NEWHAN

If the Yankee Image was teetering on a bar stool at Newark Airport, Tom Tresh reveals that Johnny Keane saved it in the clubhouse meeting which ensued.

"Keane handled it real well," confided Tresh. "He converted possible animosity into admiration."

Thomas Michael Tresh, a 26-year-old switch-hitter occupying a New York outfield berth for the fourth time, studies the state of the Yankee Image with a maturity which reflects his college education.

* * * *

IF THAT image has been altered by Phil Linz's harmonica arrangements or hy the claims of a Newark bartender, Tresh hasn't noticed.

"The actions are no different than they've ever been," said Tresh. "If the Image has changed it's because of the picture being presented to the public by newspapers and television.

"I don't believe things have changed at all. Look at what was written about Babe Ruth. He was no saint. My dad (Mike Tresh was a major league catcher) tells me the actions are the same as they were in his day and that was 20 years ago."

Tresh has helped the Yankees win three pennants. The Yankees have won 29 pennants and that is why there is an Image in the first place.

"Let's face it, we're prime targets," said Tresh. "If we even look at a bar it's big stuff.

"It's wrong for us to relax with a few beers while we're waiting for a plane, but it is all right if a businessman has four martinis at lunch.

"Humans are all alike except that ballplayers have a limited number of years to make their mark and a great many mental pressures making it that much tougher. If you give your best on the field you can't expect to remain in a room every night wrestling with your emotions.

"Until now we hadn't been playing well so that made it easier for everyone to take shots at us. When you're leading you can't do anything wrong."

The Yankees, however, created their Image on the field. Their mere presence intimidated the American League. But this season they sent player after player to the hospital and they approach the All-Star game in the second division and the American League is making brazen statements.

"We realize the respect we carry throughout the league," said Tresh, "but something that isn't realized is that we respect our opponents just as much.

"We've always felt we were the best team and we still do. It's just that this league is so well balanced now that you must respect all your foes."

* * * *

RECENT progress would indicate that the Yankees have not been humbled by the poor start or the airport affair.

"We were in much poorer shape as late as Aug. 22 of last year," said Tresh. "We were six out then with very few games left. All we have to do is pickup three games in two months to be in a similar position."

Ironically, the Yankees arrived here to find erroneous rumors that there is dissension among the Angels. Clarifying the picture, noted:

"I don't look depressed because I'm unhoppy. I'm just old."

DODGERS--

Johnson, Al Ferrara blooped a single and Torborg squeezed in Lefebvre with a safe bunt.

Koufax was safe on Charlie Smith's error and then Ferrara bowled over Taylor, who dropped Smith's throw to the plate for another error and run.

Koufax (9-3) gave up only singles, struck out eight and walked one.

The Dodgers, now 7-5 on this trip, wind up with a doubleheader this afternoon. Claude Osteen (4-6) and Nick Willhite, recalled from Spokane, will be pitching against Jack Fisher (5-5) and Galen Cisco (1-3).

DIS AND DATA: A 13-game home stand begins Tuesday night with the Giants, the first visitors for three games . . . Wills stole his 37th and 38th bases, is 7 games ahead of his 1962 record pace of 104 . . . Three games with the Giants and two with the Dodgers have brought 200,713 customers to Chet Shea in the last five days . . . W. Davis, after driving in two runs with his sixth-inning single, stole second base while Jackson held the ball. It was Willie's sixth steal in eight attempts . . . Koufax is even with his victory timetable of last season: nine in 14 starts. Last year, however, he had four losses.

run sixth), a sacrifice fly and fielder's choice.

Smith contributed two of his three hits in the second, the latter with the bases loaded. Vic Power also had two hits, the second producing two runs in the sixth inning explosion.

Prior to the game, the Angels had optioned Costen Shockley to Seattle and recalled Tom Satriano. In the maneuver, the Angels lost 19 points as Shockley was batting .187 and Satriano .167.

One of the memorable moments of this or any season occurred in the seventh when Mickey Mantle's caddy, 20-year old Ross Moschitto, struck his first major league hit.

So conditioned to making outs, Moschitto tagged first and headed towards the dugout. The Angels' relay from left field nearly nailed the young Roy Riegels before he reversed his field.

It seemed typical of the direction the Yankees are taking this year.

ANGEL ANGLES: Fred Newman (7-3) faces Whitey Ford (5-6) this afternoon in the series finale . . . Angels depart Monday on 13-game trip covering four cities . . . Neither Rigney nor George Brunet received word of a time resulting from Friday's elections.

Elston Howard will probably start today, returning to the lineup for the first time since April 12 when bone chips on his right elbow began restricting his ability to throw.

The swapping of Shockley and Satriano provides Rigney with greater maneuverability and Coslon the opportunity to play every day . . . Other than that, not much can be said for the deal except that it reflects the Angels failure to land Norm Siebern . . . Fred Haney was unwilling to part with Rodgers, who was the key to a major multi-player transaction with the Orioles . . . With 48 hours remaining before the trading deadline, the Angels will probably not act . . . Future deals with Seattle, however, are likely with young Tom Burgmeier (5-1) pitching strong for the junior Angels.

Chiefs Fall to Pomona

By CHUCK MEDICK

POMONA — Dick Zuccato scored on Lee Owen's single in the fourth inning to give the Pomona Bombers a 1-0 win over the Lakewood Chiefs in a Western Softball Congress game Saturday at General Dynamics Park.

Zuccato had advanced to second and third on successive wild pitches by Lakewood's George Pearsnn.

GOING, GOING, GONE

There's a water shortage in New York City, and it was evident on this play as Dodgers' Maury Wills steals second base against Mets and shortstop Roy McMillan in third inning of Saturday's game. There was nothing but dust in last picture sequence but ump Chris Pelekoudas makes "safe" sign without hesitation.

GIBSON LOSES AGAIN

Braves Bomb Cards, 4-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Johnson's three-hit pitching and home runs by Hank Aaron and Mack Jones carried the sizzling Milwaukee Braves to a 4-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Johnson, acquired by the Braves from Houston two weeks ago, now has won two games for his new mates while running his record to 5-2.

Aaron socked his 10th home run in the first inning. Jones hit his ninth homer in the seventh.

Bob Gibson took the loss, his fifth straight after beginning the season with eight victories in a row. The fireballer allowed 10 hits and struck out 10 in eight innings.

The Braves have won nine of their last 11 starts and 14 of their last 19. The Cardinals have lost 8 of their last 10.

Cubs' Late HR Keeps O'Toole Winless, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Williams' seventh homer, a two-run shot in the sixth inning, powered the Chicago Cubs to a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati and lefthander Jim O'Toole Saturday.

The winless O'Toole drew his fifth straight loss after starting and pitching four hitless innings.

Frank Robinson hit his 10th homer and No. 301 of his career for one of the Reds' runs.

Lock's Slam Backs Daniels' Five-Hitter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Don Lock's grand-slam homer backed Bennie Daniels' five-hit pitching as the Washington Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox, 7-1, Saturday.

Lock's grand slam, into the Senators' bullpen, climaxed a five-run third inning off loser Joe Horlen. The homer came after Ed Brinkman's single, Joe Cunningham's run-scoring double and walks to Ken McMullen and Frank Howard.

Daniels, who last year helped knock the White Sox out of the pennant race by blanking them twice in September, held them to one hit in eight innings the only other time he faced them this year.

McMullen extended his hitting streak to 13 games with a seventh-inning solo homer.

Campy Leads A's Assault

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Bert Campaneris rapped three hits, drove in four runs and stole three bases Saturday as Kansas City romped past Cleveland, 7-0, behind the six-hit pitching of Fred Talbot.

Rain fell through most of the game, interrupting play for 43 minutes in the seventh inning, but it failed to dampen the power of the Athletics who jolted Luis Tiant for five runs in the first two innings and broke his four-game winning streak.

Tiant drew a $50 fine from umpire Tom Haller when he was warned for throwing at Wayne Causey in the second inning.

Mays on Hot Streak as Giants Roll

3 S.F. Pitchers Cool Pirates, 4-0, as Willie Homers

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Solid pitching plus Willie Mays's continued power hitting enabled the San Francisco Giants to cool off the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0, Saturday.

Bob Shaw, Bill Henry and Frank Linzy collaborated in pitching the six-hit shutout to snap the Pirates' seven-game winning streak.

Mays hit a two-run homer over the scoreboard clock in the first inning, his 20th of the season.

The Sunday Sermon

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . Long Beach is known widely as the International City, but one L.A. sheet termed it the "City of Virtue" in an unsigned sports page "editorial" the other day. "With stirring dignity, the City of Long Beach has announced that theater television of prize fights will no longer be permitted in its civic auditorium until the boxing picture has been cleaned up," read the piece. "This stand is noble, indeed. The next thing Long Beach must do is ban college basketball, in which more known fixes have taken place than in boxing. Displays of purity every time boxing is connected with a turkey are sickening. Long Beach is making an ostentatious show of virtue which doesn't impress the real sports fan."

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

. . . Comment: It should impress the promoters. The City Council's action certainly should save the operators' future financial hides!

. . . The Rams' Harland Svare thinks San Francisco's 49ers will be the most improved team in the NFL. Big reason: The addition of running back John David Crow from the St. Louis Cardinals. Explains Svare: "The 49ers have needed a strong runner for a long time and they got him in Crow. The only problem is whether or not John David will get hurt again."

. . . Asked his opinion on the worst team, Svare's only comment: "The poor New York Giants." (How the mighty have fallen.)

. . . Is it true that at the age of 31 Parnelli Jones is contemplating retirement from the ranks of active auto racers? That's what a little bird whispers. Reason: The obvious one. He's been racing 14 years and would like to live a long, less nerve-wracking life.

. . . Did you know that the Angels' outstanding and durable relief pitcher Bob Lee was with Batavia (no, Clyde, not the one in Java, but that Batavia somewhere in the U.S.) in 1963? Few people do. Disgusted with being a Pittsburgh hireling eight years, the Bellflower strong man wrote letters to other major league clubs to "get me out of here." The Angels responded and came up with a lost diamond mine.

MENTION OF DIAMONDS reminds that the Long Beach area can boast three more:

. . . Jerry Wille, who went from Long Beach to Oregon State to become that school's first all-America swimmer. In addition to becoming OSU's initial all-America merman, Wille was the first Beaver to place in the NCAA championship meet. Only a junior, Jerry was re-elected captain for 1966.

. . . Bob Larson of Long Beach, who caught for Colorado State's baseball team this spring. Larson helped Colorado State win its 23rd consecutive Rocky Mountain Conference title! (None of the Greeley Bears play harmonicas, either.)

. . . Tom Snyder, who caught Fresno headlines a weekend ago with home runs that beat Norm Sherry's Santa Barbara Dodgers. Snyder, of Rolling Hills, is an outfielder for the Giant farm club. When Tom belted a grand slammer Saturday he was proclaimed by the Fresno press as "strong man," then when he laced one Sunday he was referred to as the "handsome slugger." (Anyway, obviously, he can swat the ball.)

FRESNO APPARENTLY is the home of pitching diamonds. The Cubs' ace Dick Ellsworth, Cincinnati's star Jim Maloney, and Milwaukee's young find, Wade Blasingame, all hail from that city. Interestingly, both Ellsworth and Maloney played on the same high school team. The conflict was resolved by letting Maloney play shortstop . . . until a Reds' scout was impressed by the way Jim fired the ball to first base and advanced him the money for a pitcher's toe plate.

. . . This corner's opinion of the Braves' problem: Let the club depart Milwaukee after the July All-Star Game break and go to Atlanta. Milwaukee will not support the club this year, Atlanta certainly will. And wouldn't it be ridiculous if the Braves enter the World Series not knowing which city they represent? (Blame the whole stupid mess on baseball's hierarchy. How could anyone expect fans to turn out for a team which they know won't be in their city the next season?)

. . . Opinion on the Yankee fun-boys' problems: So what else is new?

. . . Comment on the Yankees: The whole team believes once Elston Howard is back the club will go on a win streak and laugh back again at the rest of the circuit. I doubt it now. The Yankee-haters' year seems finally to have arrived.

AN ESTIMATED 20,000 people ventured to Cal Stores on Carson St. to view A. J. Foyt's rear-engine racing vehicle last weekend. See what even a small item in your favorite newspaper will do?

. . . Ben Agajanian's a commissioner in demand. Even as head of the new Western States Football League, he has been approached by Green Bay and Dallas of the NFL to help coach their kickers for a week or two. Ben intends to oblige both. (I wonder if NFL boss Pete Rozelle ever would teach Sid Gillman's quarterback how to throw the ball?)

'BABE RUTH NO SAINT'

Tresh Claims Keane Saved Yankee Image

By ROSS NEWHAN

If the Yankee Image was teetering on a bar stool at Newark Airport, Tom Tresh reveals that Johnny Keane saved it in the clubhouse meeting which ensued.

"Keane handled it real well," confided Tresh. "He converted possible animosity into admiration."

Thomas Michael Tresh, a 26-year-old switch-hitter occupying a New York outfield berth for the fourth time, studies the state of the Yankee Image with a maturity which reflects his college education.

* * * *

IF THAT Image has been altered by Phil Linz's harmonica arrangements or by the claims of a Newark bartender, Tresh hasn't noticed.

"The actions are no different than they've ever been," said Tresh. "If the Image has changed it's because of the picture being presented to the public by newspapers and television.

"I don't believe things have changed at all. Look at what was written about Babe Ruth. He was no saint. My dad (Mike Tresh was a major league catcher) tells me the actions are the same as they were in his day and that was 20 years ago."

Tresh has helped the Yankees win three pennants. The Yankees have won 29 pennants and that is why there is an Image in the first place.

"Let's face it, we're prime targets," said Tresh. "If we even look at a bar it's big stuff.

"It's wrong for us to relax with a few beers while we're waiting for a plane, but it is all right if a businessman has four martinis at lunch.

"Humans are all alike except that ballplayers have a limited number of years to make their mark and a great many mental pressures making it that much tougher. If you give your best on the field you can't expect to remain in a room every night wrestling with your emotions.

"Until now we hadn't been playing well so that made it easier for everyone to take shots at us. When you're leading you can't do anything wrong."

The Yankees, however, created their Image on the field. Their mere presence intimidated the American League. But this season they sent player after player to the hospital and they approach the All-Star game in the second division and the American League is making brazen statements.

"We realize the respect we carry throughout the league," said Tresh, "but something that isn't realized is that we respect our opponents just as much.

"We've always felt we were the best team and we still do. It's just that this league is so well balanced now that you must respect all your foes."

RECENT progress would indicate that the Yankees have not been humbled by the poor start or the airport affair.

"We were in much poorer shape as late as Aug. 22 of last year," said Tresh. "We were six out then with very few games left. All we have to do is pickup three games in two months to be in a similar position."

Ironically, the Yankees arrived here to find erroneous rumors that there is dissension among the Angels. Clarifying the picture, noted:

"I don't look depressed because I'm unhappy. I'm just old."

run sixth), a sacrifice fly and fielder's choice.

Smith contributed two of his three hits in the second, the latter with the bases loaded. Vic Power also had two hits, the second producing two runs in the sixth inning explosion.

Prior to the game, the Angels had optioned Costen Shockley to Seattle and recalled Tom Satriano. In the maneuver, the Angels lost 19 points as Shockley was batting .187 and Satriano .167.

One of the memorable moments of this or any season occurred in the seventh when Mickey Mantle's caddy, 20-year old Ross Moschitto, struck his first major league hit.

So conditioned to making outs, Moschitto tagged first and headed towards the dugout. The Angels' relay from left field nearly nailed the young Roy Riegels before he reversed his field.

It seemed typical of the direction the Yankees are taking this year.

* * * *

ANGEL ANGLES: Fred Newman (7-3) faces Whitey Ford (5-6) this afternoon in the series finale . . . Angels depart Monday on 13-game trip covering four cities . . . Neither Rigney nor George Brunet received word of a fine resulting from Friday's elections. . . . Elston Howard will probably start today, returning to the lineup for the first time since April 12 when bone chips on his right elbow began restricting his ability to throw. . . . The swapping of Shockley and Satriano provides Rigney with greater maneuverability and Costen the opportunity to play every day . . . Other than that, not much can be said for the deal except that it reflects the Angels failure to land Norm Siebern . . . Fred Haney was unwilling to part with Rodgers, who was the key to a major multi-player transaction with the Orioles . . . With 48 hours remaining before the trading deadline, the Angels will probably not act . . . Future deals with Seattle, however, are likely with young Tom Burgmeier (5-1) pitching strong for the Junior Angels.

Johnson, Al Ferrara blooped a single and Torborg squeezed in Lefebvre with a safe bunt.

Koufax was safe on Charlie Smith's error and then Ferrara bowled over Taylor, who dropped Smith's throw to the plate for another error and run.

Koufax (9-3) gave up only singles, struck out eight and walked one.

The Dodgers, now 7-5 on this trip, wind up with a doubleheader this afternoon. Claude Osteen (4-6) and Nick Willhite, recalled from Spokane, will be pitching against Jack Fisher (5-5) and Galen Cisco (1-3).

GOING, GOING, GONE

There's a water shortage in New York City, and it was evident on this play as Dodgers' Maury Wills steals second base against Mets and shortstop Roy McMillan in third inning of Saturday's game. There was nothing but dust in last picture sequence but ump Chris Pelekoudas makes "safe" sign without hesitation.

Mays on Hot Streak as Giants Roll

3 S.F. Pitchers Cool Pirates, 4-0, as Willie Homers

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Solid pitching plus Willie Mays's continued power hitting enabled the San Francisco Giants to cool off the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0, Saturday.

Bob Shaw, Bill Henry and Frank Linzy collaborated in pitching the six-hit shutout to snap the Pirates' seven-game winning streak.

Mays hit a two-run homer over the scoreboard clock in the first inning, his 20th of the season.

GIBSON LOSES AGAIN

Braves Bomb Cards, 4-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Johnson's three-hit pitching and home runs by Hank Aaron and Mack Jones carried the sizzling Milwaukee Braves to a 4-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Johnson, acquired by the Braves from Houston two weeks ago, now has won two games for his new mates while running his record to 5-2.

Aaron socked his 10th home run in the first inning. Jones hit his ninth homer in the seventh.

Bob Gibson took the loss, his fifth straight after beginning the season with eight victories in a row. The fireballer allowed 10 hits and struck out 10 in eight innings.

The Braves have won nine of their last 11 starts and 14 of their last 19. The Cardinals have lost 8 of their last 10.

Cubs' Late HR Keeps O'Toole Winless, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Williams' seventh homer, a two-run shot in the sixth inning, powered the Chicago Cubs to a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati and lefthander Jim O'Toole Saturday.

The winless O'Toole drew his fifth straight loss after starting and pitching four hitless innings.

Dick Ellsworth, who started for the Cubs, left the game after eight innings due to a pulled muscle in his left side. Ted Abernathy finished up, preserving Ellsworth's seventh victory against three losses.

Frank Robinson hit his 10th homer and No. 301 of his career for one of the Reds' runs.

Lock's Slam Backs Daniels' Five-Hitter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Don Lock's grand-slam homer backed Bennie Daniels' five-hit pitching as the Washington Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox, 7-1, Saturday.

Lock's grand slam, into the Senators' bullpen, climaxed a five-run third inning off loser Joe Horlen. The homer came after Ed Brinkman's single, Joe Cunningham's run-scoring double and walks to Ken McMullen and Frank Howard.

Daniels, who last year helped knock the White Sox out of the pennant race by blanking them twice in September held them to one hit in eight innings the only other time he faced them this year.

McMullen extended his hitting streak to 13 games with a seventh-inning solo homer.

Inside Straight

VENTURI

Comeback Time Again

By RICH ROBERTS

Only a golfer can know how it feels . . . that smooth surge of power down into the ball, that sweet click whipping up through the shaft like an electric shock to tell him the shot is on its way, far and straight.

To most of us, it doesn't happen often. To the pro it happens all the time . . . except to Ken Venturi, to whom it doesn't happen at all.

When the club ceases to be an ax handle and becomes a delicate instrument, an extension of one's self; when the face of the club is the palm of your hand, you're a golfer.

But it has to happen in the hands, this embodiment of a single six-foot arm, forked to the shoulders, because that's where the feeling is . . . except for Venturi, who, for all practical purposes, doesn't feel a thing.

No smooth surge of power, because he doesn't feel that reassurance that the clubhead is whipping into position. No sweet click, because there's a short circuit in the wiring.

* * * *

NO U.S. OPEN champion ever set out to defend his title with less hope than Venturi will have at St. Louis this week, if he decides to play.

His problem is something called Reynaud's Phenomenon, defined but not really explained by the medical profession as a circulatory ailment affecting the hands.

For all the Mayo Clinic knows, Reynaud was a high-handicapper with an incurable slice. Venturi is a scratch shooter with an incurable disease. All he can do is hope it goes away, like a lousy putting streak.

It's the same thing that struck Sandy Koufax three years ago, scaring the hell out of Sandy for his future and costing the Dodgers a pennant.

But to Koufax it was only a scare; to Venturi it's a disaster.

* * * *

KEN'S AILMENT was first brought to light by former I, P-T golf writer Jerry Wynn during the L.A. Open last January. Venturi tried to dismiss it without attracting attention, but Wynn sensed it was more serious than Ken let on. Indeed it was.

Only a few months earlier Venturi had refined his game so expertly after several mediocre seasons that he won recognition for sport's "comeback of the year." But after the L.A. Open it rapidly fell apart.

Finally he quit the tour for a couple of months while undergoing tests to determine, if not a cause, at least a cure for the disease.

No soap. He rejoined the tour two weeks ago for the Buick Open and didn't even make the halfway cut. Last week he flunked out at Cleveland, too.

* * * *

DEJECTEDLY, VENTURI says, "I can play, I can grip the clubs. But nothing happens. My game is terrible. I thought if I took a few weeks off and concentrated on the treatments, it might help. Now I just don't know . . ."

Venturi's record makes him an artist in his profession. But with dying hands it's the degeneration of the master painter going blind, the musical maestro going deaf. The talent and knowledge are there, but the means of execution are gone.

Truly, what Ken needs is a comeback for miracles.

Day Shatters NCAA Mile Mark—3:56

Villanova's Crack Relay Team Upsets Oklahoma State

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — Slender Bob Day of UCLA cracked the national collegiate mile record Saturday when he reeled off the distance in 3:56.4 in the United States Track and Field Federation meet.

The 20-year-old, 155-pound Day shattered the USTFF mile record of 4:02.2 by Cal Elmore of Wichita University in 1963.

Another record shambles was the stadium mark of 3:57.9 which was set in 1958 by the now-retired Herb Elliott of Australia.

Villanova's crack relay team upset world record-holding Oklahoma State in a stirring race at two miles that produced no record but was a highlight of the final competition in the meet.

* * * *

VILLANOVA, clocked in 7:20.4, held Oklahoma State on even terms through the first three laps, and the final circle was a rousing affair between anchor men Noel Carroll of Villanova and Dave Perry of Oklahoma State.

Bob Stoeker of Stanford set a meet record with a throw of 186-9½ in the discus. The old mark of 185-10 was set by Jay Silvester of Utah State.

Pole vault—Fosdick (USC) 15-6, Martensen (Ariz) 15-6, Farrell (Okla) 15-6, tie between Beasley (BakersfieldJC) and King (Texas) 15-0, Graves (Oxy) 15-0.

OUT IN FRONT BUT OUT OF SIGHT

TRACK ROUNDUP

Jazy Just Misses 4th Record

Compiled From Wire Reports

Michel Jazy, France's premier runner, was 2.8 seconds shy of his world record when he won a 2,000-meter race Saturday night in 5 minutes, 4.4 seconds.

A crowd of 7,000 watched Jazy run at Sochaux, France, in anticipation of another record-breaking performance.

Jazy set a world mile record of 3:53.6 last week and European marks of 13:05.6 for three miles and 13:29.0 for 5,000 meters.

Morio Shigematsu of Japan posted history's fastest marathon clocking when he was timed in 2 hours, 12 minutes and 11.2 seconds for the annual Polytechnic's 26-mile distance race at London, Eng.

Shigematsu, a 24-year-old student, sliced 11.2 seconds off the old record of 2-12:22.4 posted by Ethiopian Bikala Abebe in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo.

No official world record is kept for the 26-mile, 385-yard run because terrain varies from country to country.

John Pennel qualified for the National AAU championships with a pole vault of 16 feet at Coral Gables, Fla.

Pennel, first vaulter to break the 17-foot barrier, missed three times at that level. This was his first competition since the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo.

Russ Rogers of the Grand Street Boys Club, veteran of international competition, broke the meet record for the 120-yard high hurdles en route to scoring a double victory in New York's 75th annual Metropolitan AAU senior track and field championships.

The 25-year-old Rogers timed 14 seconds flat. He came back to win the 440-yard hurdles in 52.1.

The New York Athletic Club easily retained the team title. Grand Street was a poor second.

In the battle of Olympians in the 440, Ed Skinner retained his title with a brilliant 46.9 on the chewed-up track.

HIGH-WIRE ACT?

Warren High's Paul Wilson appears to be doing high-wire act, but it all depends on your vantage point. A slight adjustment in this picture and it's evident (well, almost) that Wilson is pole vaulting—an event which he won at 16 feet Saturday in the NCAA College Division championships at Veterans Stadium.

George Lacy of L.B. State warmed up through a few laps in the steeplechase, then began running. He led by 50 yards, finally 80 before jogging home with 30 yards left over and the 49ers' lone victory.

Crespi High broke a national interscholastic record in the four-mile relay, running 17:41.2. Old mark was 17:42.0.

NCAA Title to Arizona State

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—The Arizona State Sun Devils, led by the power hitting of Rick Monday and Sal Bando, downed the Ohio State Buckeyes, 2-1, Saturday night to win the College World Series at Omaha.

Monday hit a 370-foot homer. Bando was named outstanding player of the series.

Bridegroom Cracks Strip Mark at Lions

Denny Milani celebrated his wedding day by driving the Bay Area Gotelli Speed Shop Special to victory over Tom McEwen of Long Beach in Saturday's feature match race at Lions Drag Strip before 6,358 fans.

The bridegroom also tied Larry Faust's record of 208.32 mph. Top fuel eliminator was John Edmunds at 198.56 mph in 8.12 seconds. Gas eliminator went to Rick Stewart, 191.48 mph in 8.22 seconds, while low ET was recorded by Faust at 7.71 seconds.

AAU Weightlift Marks Improve

Gary Cleveland of Minneapolis and Homer Brennum of Dallas, Tex., set meet records Saturday night in their respective divisions in the National AAU weight lifting championships.

Cleveland won the light heavyweight division by lifting 985 pounds to better the former record of 980 pounds set by Tommy Kono of Maui, Hawaii, in 1961. Joe Puleo of York, Penn., was second with a 970-pound lift, while Kono placed third with a 965-pound lift.

Brennum lifted 820 pounds in the 148-pound division to surpass the previous mark by 15 pounds. Russel Knipp of Killeen, Tex., also bettered the previous mark in coming in second by lifting 815 pounds. The 805-pound record was set in 1963 by Tony Garcy.

Third place in the division was won by Lawrence Snitz of New York with a 790-pound lift.

The 123-pound division was won by Gary Hanson of New York by lifting 665 pounds, while Lennell Sheppard of Wilmington, Calif., lifted 600 pounds for second place and Rene Juarez of Pasadena, took third by lifting 580 pounds.

* * * *

WALTER Imaqura of Baton Rouge, La., won the 132-pound division by lifting 790 pounds and Pedro Hernandes of Florida was second with a 700-pound lift. There was no third.

Tony Garcy of Pennsylvania won the 165-pound division with a 880-pound lift, and Kurt Jotcat of Chicago was second with a 860-pound lift. There was no third.

Hodge Wins Decathlon

WALNUT (UPI) — Russ Hodge of the Santa Clara Valley Youth Village Saturday won the SPAAU decathlon competition with 7,624 points after Bill Toomey, who was expected to set a world record, was sidelined with a leg injury.

The holder of a first-day lead with 4,172, Toomey had been expected to break C. K. Yang's world record of 8,089 points.

Toomey's teammate, Carl Herman, came in second with 7,600 points, while Don Shy of Mt. San Antonio College was third with 7,486.

MIKE Bonallack overcame an early triple bogey and a six-hole deficit to defeat Clive Clark, 2 and 1, Saturday in their all-England final of the British Amateur golf championship.

It was, indeed, a lucky day for Bonallack. When he went into the clubhouse for lunch, the man from Essex casually dropped a sixpence (7 cents) into a slot machine. Mike hit the jackpot, 100 sixpenses.

BRAVES manager Bobby Bragan said that crowds were so sparse in Milwaukee "they ought to give the player who hits a fan with a foul ball a home run."

Bragan said the ball park would be full if the Braves win the pennant, and he picked Cincinnati as the team to beat. "The Dodgers don't scare you like the Reds do with that power."

Inside Straight

VENTURI

Comeback Time Again

By RICH ROBERTS

Only a golfer can know how it feels . . . that smooth surge of power down into the ball, that sweet click whipping up through the shaft like an electric shock to tell him the shot is on its way, far and straight.

To most of us, it doesn't happen often. To the pro it happens all the time . . . except to Ken Venturi, to whom it doesn't happen at all.

When the club ceases to be an ax handle and becomes a delicate instrument, an extension of one's self; when the face of the club is the palm of your hand, you're a golfer.

But it has to happen in the hands, this embodiment of a single six-foot arm, forked to the shoulders, because that's where the feeling is . . . except for Venturi, who, for all practical purposes, doesn't feel a thing.

No smooth surge of power, because he doesn't feel that reassurance that the clubhead is whipping into position. No sweet click, because there's a short circuit in the wiring.

NO U.S. OPEN champion ever set out to defend his title with less hope than Venturi will have at St. Louis this week, if he decides to play.

His problem is something called Reynaud's Phenomenon, defined but not really explained by the medical profession as a circulatory ailment affecting the hands.

For all the Mayo Clinic knows, Reynaud was a high-handicapper with an incurable slice. Venturi is a scratch shooter with an incurable disease. All he can do is hope it goes away, like a lousy putting streak.

It's the same thing that struck Sandy Koufax three years ago, scaring the hell out of Sandy for his future and costing the Dodgers a pennant.

But to Koufax it was only a scare; to Venturi it's a disaster.

KEN'S AILMENT was first brought to light by former I, P-T golf writer Jerry Wynn during the L.A. Open last January. Venturi tried to dismiss it without attracting attention, but Wynn sensed it was more serious than Ken let on. Indeed it was.

Only a few months earlier Venturi had refined his game so expertly after several mediocre seasons that he won recognition of sport's "comeback of the year." But after the L.A. Open it rapidly fell apart.

Finally he quit the tour for a couple of months while undergoing tests to determine, if not a cause, at least a cure for the disease.

No soap. He rejoined the tour two weeks ago for the Buick Open and didn't even make the halfway cut. Last week he flunked out at Cleveland, too.

DEJECTEDLY, VENTURI says, "I can play, I can grip the clubs. But nothing happens. My game is terrible. I thought if I took a few weeks off and concentrated on the treatments, it might help. Now I just don't know . . ."

Venturi's record makes him an artist in his profession. But with dying hands it's the degeneration of the master painter going blind, the musical maestro going deaf. The talent and knowledge are there, but the means of execution are gone.

Truly, what Ken needs is a comeback for miracles.

Day Shatters NCAA Mile Mark—3:56

Villanova's Crack Relay Team Upsets Oklahoma State

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — Slender Bob Day of UCLA cracked the national collegiate mile record Saturday when he reeled off the distance in 3:56.4 in the United States Track and Field Federation meet.

The 20-year-old, 155-pound Day shattered the USTFF mile record of 4:02.2 by Cal Elmore of Wichita University in 1963.

Another record shambles was the stadium mark of 3:57.9 which was set in 1958 by the now-retired Herb Elliott of Australia.

Villanova's crack relay team upset world record-holding Oklahoma State in a stirring race at two miles that produced no record but was a highlight of the final competition in the meet.

VILLANOVA, clocked in 7:20.4, held Oklahoma State on even terms through the first three laps, and the final circle was a rousing affair between anchor men Noel Carroll of Villanova and Dave Perry of Oklahoma State.

Bob Stoeker of Stanford set a meet record with a throw of 186-9½ in the discus. The old mark of 185-10 was set by Jay Silvester of Utah State.

AAU Weightlift Marks Improve

Gary Cleveland of Minneapolis and Homer Brennum of Dallas, Tex., set meet records Saturday night in their respective divisions in the National AAU weight lifting championships.

Cleveland won the light heavyweight division by lifting 985 pounds to better the former record of 980 pounds set by Tommy Kono of Maui, Hawaii, in 1961. Joe Pulco of York, Penn., was second with a 970-pound lift, while Kono placed third with a 965-pound lift.

Brennum lifted 820 pounds in the 148-pound division to surpass the previous mark by 15 pounds. Russel Knipp of Killeen, Tex., also bettered the previous mark in coming in second by lifting 815 pounds. The 805-pound record was set in 1963 by Tony Garcy.

Third place in the division was won by Lawrence Snitz of New York with a 790-pound lift.

The 123-pound division was won by Gary Hanson of New York by lifting 665 pounds, while Lennell Sheppard of Wilmington, Calif., lifted 600 pounds for second place and Rene Juarez of Pasadena, took third by lifting 580 pounds.

* * * *

WALTER Imaqura of Baton Rouge, La., won the 132-pound division by lifting 790 pounds and Pedro Hernandes of Florida was second with a 700-pound lift. There was no third.

Tony Garcy of Pennsylvania won the 165-pound division with a 880-pound lift, and Kurt Jotcat of Chicago was second with a 860-pound lift. There was no third.

Hodge Wins Decathlon

WALNUT (UPI) — Russ Hodge of the Santa Clara Valley Youth Village Saturday won the SPAAU decathlon competition with 7,624 points after Bill Toomey, who was expected to set a world record, was sidelined with a leg injury.

The holder of a first-day lead with 4,172, Toomey had been expected to break C. K. Yang's world record of 8,089 points.

Toomey's teammate, Carl Herman, came in second with 7,600 points, while Don Shy of Mt. San Antonio College was third with 7,486.

TRACK ROUNDUP

Jazy Just Misses 4th Record

Compiled From Wire Reports

Michel Jazy, France's premier runner, was 2.8 seconds shy of his world record when he won a 2,000-meter race Saturday night in 5 minutes, 4.4 seconds.

A crowd of 7,000 watched Jazy run at Snchaux, France, in anticipation of another record-breaking performance.

Jazy set a world mile record of 3:53.6 last week and European marks of 13:05.6 for three miles and 13:29.0 for 5,000 meters.

Morio Shigematsu of Japan posted history's fastest marathon clocking when he was timed in 2 hours, 12 minutes and 11.2 seconds for the annual Polytechnic's 26-mile distance race at London, Eng.

Shigematsu, a 24-year-old student, sliced 11.2 seconds off the old record of 2-12:22.4 posted by Ethiopian Bikala Abebe in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo.

No official world record is kept for the 26-mile, 385-yard run because terrain varies from country to country.

John Pennel qualified for the National AAU championships with a pole vault of 16 feet at Coral Gables, Fla.

Pennel, first vaulter to break the 17-foot barrier, missed three times at that level. This was his first competition since the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo.

Russ Rogers of the Grand Street Boys Club, veteran of international competition, broke the meet record for the 120-yard high hurdles en route to scoring a double victory in New York's 75th annual Metropolitan AAU senior track and field championships.

The 25-year-old Rogers timed 14 seconds flat. He came back to win the 440-yard hurdles in 52.1.

The New York Athletic Club easily retained the team title. Grand Street was a poor second.

In the battle of Olympians in the 440, Ed Skinner retained his title with a brilliant 46.9 on the chewed-up track.

HIGH-WIRE ACT?

Warren High's Paul Wilson appears to be doing high-wire act, but it all depends on your vantage point. A slight adjustment in this picture and it's evident (well, almost) that Wilson is pole vaulting—an event which he won at 16 feet Saturday in the NCAA College Division championships at Veterans Stadium.

NCAA Title to Arizona State

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—The Arizona State Sun Devils, led by the power hitting of Rick Monday and Sal Bando, downed the Ohio State Buckeyes, 2-1, Saturday night to win the College World Series at Omaha.

Monday hit a 370-foot homer. Bando was named outstanding player of the series.

Starts Campaign at S.D. Sunday

Peter Snell will be aiming at the new world mile record of 3:56.3 in the National AAU championships at San Diego June 26-27, and he will use the Southern Pacific AAU meet next Sunday for a title tuneup.

"I want a fast 880 to get ready," Snell informed meet director Hilmer Lodge. The heavy-legged New Zealander also holds the world half-mile mark of 1:45.1.

His competition will include Bob Hose, Mesa JC; Ted Nelson and Jim Dupree, Striders, and Frank Tomeo and Charlie Buchta, Quantico Marines.

'Everybody's a Critic' in Baseball

"The big trouble in baseball is that everybody's a critic," says Lefty Gomez, the legendary Yankee pitcher.

"You're always being second-guessed. If it isn't the manager or coaches, it's the sports writers and fans. And in the case of a pitcher, you have to listen to the catcher tell you what you SHOULD have done."

One of the reasons that attracted him to his wife 28 years ago was the fact that she knew nothing about baseball; never discussed it.

LEFTY GOMEZ
He Made DiMaggio Famous

She was the dancer, June O'Dea. In fact, she was the dancing partner of a fellow by the name of George Murphy, who later became a movie star and presently is our newest U.S. senator from California.

Once they were married, though, June began attending the games.

In one crucial game, Gomez' fastball got away from him and got up into Charley Gehringer's strength and the Tiger shortstop walloped a double that toppled the Yankees, 2-0.

Going home in the car after the game, June was unusually silent, and Lefty finally asked her if something was wrong. Was he driving too fast?

"No," she snapped. "The trouble is that you're pitching too high. Don't you know Gehringer can't hit a low ball?"

"You just can't get away from critics," Lefty says.

What made Gomez even more famous than his great pitching ability was his approach to the game. He could laugh at himself and his stories have become part of baseball lore.

He was the fans' beloved "El Goofo."

It was Lefty who originated the story that still makes the rounds at baseball gatherings.

He was pitching against Boston one day and Jimmy Foxx came to bat with the bases loaded.

Lefty kept shaking off the signs and finally the catcher walked out to the mound and asked, "What do YOU want to throw?"

"Nothing," Lefty replied.

"And I was right about that,' he explains. I gave Jimmy my best pitch '. . . and held him to a double."

GOMEZ INSISTS he was the one who really made Joe DiMaggio famous.

"Why, the Yankees didn't know he could go back on a ball until they put him in centerfield one day with me pitching," he explains. "Down through the years, I helped Joe get his reputation as a great fielder."

Lefty is associated with a sporting goods firm and appears at baseball functions from New York to Alaska, relating his funny stories.

He tried managing briefly when he quit pitching, but gave it up after one season.

"I had a very successful year . . . until we opened the season," he reveals.

EL GOOFO WAS ONE of the worst hitting pitchers that ever came along . . . and much of his humor is directed to his batting.

For instance, the favorite cry of fans at Yankee Stadium when he would step up to the plate was "Fool 'em, Lefty, hit a foul."

There was the day he said to the batboy, "Timmy, hand me a bat."

"Why," the kid answered, "what are you planning on doing?"

Lefty hit only two doubles in his long career. "After the first one, I took a lead off the bag—no more than a foot—and I got picked off. Well, I didnt' want to go back to the bench, but there was no place else to go."

"What happened?" one of the coaches asked.

"How do I know," Lefty told him. "I've never been out there before."

ALL THE GOOD BATTERS used to pick up four or five bats and swing them before they stepped up to the plate. Today, the hitters use a bat filled with lead to get the same effect.

Anyway, Lefty decided he'd try it one day . . . but when he swung them, he lost his grip on the bats and one of them cracked him on the right ankle and he had to be carried off the field.

Then there was the time when an opposing pitcher was teasing him with slow curve balls. Even though they looked like watermelons coming up to the plate, Lefty still couldn't hit 'em.

With two strikes on him, Gomez reached out and caught the next pitch with his bare hand, tossed it up and hit a fungo to the outfield.

"Longest ball I ever hit," he concedes. However, all it got him was the heave-ho from the umpl

British Champ Repeats

PORTHCAWL, Wales (UPI) — Mike Bonallack won the British Amateur golf championship for the second time Saturday, erasing a six-hole deficit to defeat fellow Englishman Clive Clark, 2 and 1 in the 36-hole final.

Clark, a 19-year-old "giant killer," literally collapsed in the afternoon round after going six-up over the first 13 holes.

LONGEST COURSE EVER

U. S. Open 'Battle of Muscle'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The format is now but the plot is the same—Jack Nicklaus vs. Arnold Palmer in a match of muscle and look out for Tony Lema—here Thursday in the 65th National Open golf championship.

Nicklaus is eager. Palmer is desperate. Lema is on another hot streak. They present a formidable favored threesome for the rest of the 150-man field in America's premier fairway event.

The powerful, 210-pound Masters champion, Nicklaus, needs the title to keep alive his bid for a professional grand slam which also includes the British Open and the PGA. He has been made a firm 6-1 choice.

Behind him at 8-1 come Palmer, struggling to regain the form that made him the most feared of the tournament pros, and the brash, cocky Lema, again bubbling with champagne and confidence after his victory in the Buick Open.

It was during this same hot weather stretch in 1964 that Lema won four of six tournaments, including the British Open. Palmer, on the other hand, has been in a terrible slump, winning only one title — the Las Vegas Tournament of Champions—in 13 months.

The Open, stretched to four days and abandoning the taxing 36-hole windup, will begin Thursday over the Bellervie Country Club course in suburban St. Louis—at 7,191 yards the longest and on one of the most difficult on which the tournament has ever been contested.

The layout bears the mark of famed architect Robert Trent Jones, who toughened it for the tournament, and this seends shivers up the spines of the strongest golfers.

Jones is the man accused of burying dinosaurs on the greens and of making the fairways so narrow that players and caddies must walk them single-file, Indian fashion.

Jones said, "The greens are large, undulating, and fast. There will be few easy birdie holes. The rough will be strong.

"It's the kind of course that should favor a long hitter like Nicklaus, but Palmer should have a chance. I also look for fellows such as Julius Boros, Gary Player and Bill Casper to play it well. Par is 70, and I doubt anybody will break it for the four days. I look for a winning score between 283 and 286."

Sweltering heat, such as that which plagued the 1964 tournament at Washington, D.C., could present another hazard but few look for Ken Venturi to duplicate his dramatic victory at the Congressional Club.

The hard-luck guy from San Francisco has been sidelined with a circulatory ailment—"My hands are like ice," he says—and he is playing on the remote hope of a miracle. He is rated a 15-1 choice.

A sentimental favorite will be Sam Snead, playing for the 25th time in the tournament he never has won although he has blown numerous opportunities.

"I don't feel jinxed — I could still win it if I got off to a good start," the 53-year-old Slammer said.

Aussie Star Smith Tops Bueno Again

Moffitt Rebounds for Doubles Title; Newcombe Wins

Compiled from Wire Reports

Margaret Smith and John Newcombe brought Australia a double victory Saturday as each captured singles titles in the Kent Lawn Tennis Championships.

Miss Smith, ranked second among the world's women players, defeated arch-rival Maria Bueno of Brazil, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, while Newcomb turned back Lew Gerrard of New Zealand, 6-3, 6-1.

It was the second straight Saturday that Miss Smith had beaten Miss Bueno in women's singles final competition and it marked the 13th time in 17 meetings that the Australian girl had bested her Brazilian foe.

Miss Bueno and Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach captured the ladies doubles final with a 7-9, 7-5, 9-7 triumph over Miss Smith and Lesley Turner of Australia.

DENNIS Ralston and Nancy Richey, the United States' top stars, swept the championships in the West of England tournament.

Ralston, from Bakersfield, took the men's singles title by overcoming Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, 6-2, 6-2.

Miss Richey, of Dallas, then won the women's crown with a 7-5, 6-2 victory over Liz Starkie of England.

Graebner and Martin Riessen of Evanston, Ill., gave the U.S. a third title by winning the men's doubles match over Ramanathan Krishnan, India, and Tomas Koch, Brazil, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5, 12-14, 6-4.

SOUTH Africa stopped a run of 11 successive semi-final appearances for Britain in the European zone Davis Cup tennis competition by scoring a 3-2 quarter-final victory.

Joining sixth-seeded South Africa in the last four was France, which gained an unbeatable 3-0 lead over Yugoslavia at Paris.

Czechoslovakia, the surprise team of this year's competition, led Italy, 2-1, at Prague while Spain gained a similar lead against West Germany at Barcelona.

LASC, Redlands Tie in Tennis

Gary Johnson, down after one set, rallied to take the second and third Saturday, defeating John Yeomans of Redlands for the NCAA college division tennis singles championship.

Johnson's brilliant victory gave his team, L.A. State, a tie for team honors with the University of Redlands. It marked the third successive year that coach Scotty Deeds's charges had either won or tied for the national championship. Last year the Diablos were co-champions with Southern Illinois. The year before, first year for the tourney, L.A. State was undisputed king.

Johnson started slowly, but began to pull his game together while trailing 5-1 late in the first set. He lost that clash, 3-6, but broke Yeomans' service four times in the final two series to win the title.

YEOMANS and Bill Schoen defeated Dave Ciano and Steve Peacock, 6-2, 6-4, in an all-Redlands finals in the doubles.

Marlene Braves Wind, Bags Lead in Western Open

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tiny Marlene Hagge, the smallest player in women's pro golf, braved the wind Saturday to shoot a one-under-par 72 and take a 2-stroke lead after 54 holes of the 36th Women's Western Open with a total of 219 strokes.

Using only 27 putts and chipping with amazing accuracy, she wrested the lead from youthful Susie Maxwell.

A change in the prevailing winds early in the round sent most scores soaring.

Lema Serves Up 66; Champagne Today?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) —Champagne Tony Lema, getting over a cold but staying hot, fired a blistering five-under-par 66 Saturday to grab the third-round lead with a 203 in the $135,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament.

Lema, the defending champion who started his round two strokes behind Tommy Aaron, birdied the first hole and went on to a sizzling 33-33 over the 6,821-yard Highland Park Municipal course.

The torrid round gave Lema a two-stroke lead over Gordon Jones, Orlando, Fla., a former Marine Corps jet pilot who caught fire after making the turn and finished with a 36-32—68.

Lema, who continued to play sparkling golf despite a cold, birdied three of the first six holes to take over the lead from Aaron and he stayed in front the rest of the way.

Champagne Tony, shooting for his second victory in a row after winning the Buick Open in Michigan last weekend, just missed a hole-in-one on the 15th hole, with the ball winding up only 18 inches from the cup. He tapped it in for his fifth birdie of the round to insure that the champagne would be on ice today when he tees off.

Entering the press tent following his round, Lema declared, "Come in here tomorrow and we'll have champagne."

Lema said he was feeling much better. He aded, "My voice is still a little husky, but I'm feeling a lot better."

Jones, a native of nearby Alliance, Ohio, said, "I've just been trying to stay out of trouble. I'm just hoping to keep the ball in play. Tony's such a wonderful golfer that he makes very few mistakes."

Aaron said he started out well but missed too many putts, including a seven-footer on three, a six-footer on five and a seven-footer on 12.

"Then I got to playing bad after I missed all those putts," he said with a rueful grin.

BRUINS THREATEN TO HOG HONORS

UCLA Hosts NCAA Net

By BOB MARTIN

UCLA will play host for the 81st annual National Collegiate Tennis Championships for six days starting Monday, but contestants from other schools may not like the Bruins' hospitality.

The reason for this is that UCLA threatens to Hog all the honors. The Bruins should win the team title, Arthur Ashe of UCLA is a strong favorite for the singles championship and Ashe-Ian Crookenden of the Bruins have a good chance of taking the doubles.

Battling to prevent the Uclans from taking all three honors will be 85 other fine collegiate netters representing 29 teams from all parts of the United States.

The Trojans, who have held the team, the singles and the doubles crowns for the last three years, are not favored to win any of them this time. Jerry Cromwell, a junior from Long Beach who was a quarter-finalist a year ago, will be USC's chief hope since Tom Edlefsen recently was declared ineligible scholastically.

Each university is limited to four singles contestants and two doubles teams. A point is garnered for each victory in singles or doubles.

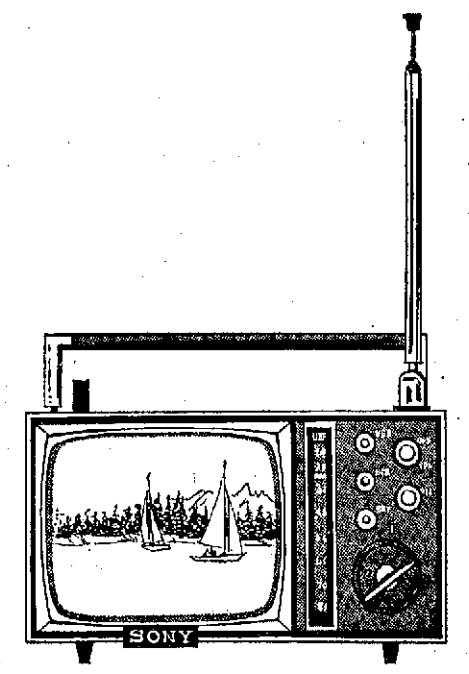

The Bruins' toughest competition on a team basis figures to come from the University of Miami and Trinity University of San Antonio, Tex.

Top seedings:
Singles—#1—Arthur Ashe (UCLA), #2—Mike Belkin (Miami), #3—Ian Crookenden (UCLA), #4—Dave Reed (UCLA), #5—Butch Newman (Trinity), Sanderlin (UCLA), #7—Tim Osborne (Utah), #8—Cliff Buchholz (Trinity), #9—Jerry Cromwell (USC), #10—Andy Lloyd (Trinity).
Doubles—#1—Buchholz-Newman (Trinity), #2—Ashe-Crookenden (UCLA) #3—Reed-Sanderlin (UCLA), #4—Mickey Schad-Frank Tutvin (Miami), #5—Osbourne-Mike Mortimer (Utah), #6—Cromwell-Horst Ritter (USC).

It was during this same hot weather stretch in 1964 that Lema won four of six tournaments, including the British Open. Palmer, on the other hand, has been in a terrible slump, winning only one title — the Las Vegas Tournament of Champions—in 13 months.

The Open, stretched to four days and abandoning the taxing 36-hole windup, will begin Thursday over the Bellervie Country Club course in suburban St. Louis—at 7,191 yards the longest and on one of the most difficult on which the tournament has ever been contested.

The layout bears the mark of famed architect Robert Trent Jones, who toughened it for the tournament, and this seends shivers up the spines of the strongest golfers.

Jones is the man accused of burying dinosaurs on the greens and of making the fairways so narrow that players and caddies must walk them single-file, Indian fashion.

Jones said, "The greens are large, undulating, and fast. There will be few easy birdie holes. The rough will be strong.

"It's the kind of course that should favor a long hitter like Nicklaus, but Palmer should have a chance. I also look for fellows such as Julius Boros, Gary Player and Bill Casper to play it well. Par is 70, and I doubt anybody will break it for the four days. I look for a winning score between 283 and 286."

Sweltering heat, such as that which plagued the 1964 tournament at Washington, D.C., could present another hazard but few look for Ken Venturi to duplicate his dramatic victory at the Congressional Club.

The hard-luck guy from San Francisco has been sidelined with a circulatory ailment—"My hands are like ice," he says—and he is playing on the remote hope of a miracle. He is rated a 15-1 choice.

A sentimental favorite will be Sam Snead, playing for the 25th time in the tournament he never has won although he has blown numerous opportunities.

"I don't feel jinxed — I could still win it if I got off to a good start," the 53-year-old Slammer said.

Aussie Star Smith Tops Bueno Again

Moffitt Rebounds for Doubles Title; Newcombe Wins

Compiled from Wire Reports

Margaret Smith and John Newcombe brought Australia a double victory Saturday as each captured singles titles in the Kent Lawn Tennis Championships.

Miss Smith, ranked second among the world's women players, defeated arch-rival Maria Bueno of Brazil, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, while Newcomb turned back Lew Gerrard of New Zealand, 6-3, 6-1.

It was the second straight Saturday that Miss Smith had beaten Miss Bueno in women's singles final competition and it marked the 13th time in 17 meetings that the Australian girl had bested her Brazilian foe.

Miss Bueno and Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach captured the ladies doubles final with a 7-9, 7-5, 9-7 triumph over Miss Smith and Lesley Turner of Australia.

DENNIS Ralston and Nancy Richey, the United States' top stars, swept the championships in the West of England tournament.

Ralston, from Bakersfield, took the men's singles title by overcoming Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, 6-2, 6-2.

Miss Richey, of Dallas, then won the women's crown with a 7-5, 6-2 victory over Liz Starkie of England.

Graebner and Martin Riessen of Evanston, Ill., gave the U.S. a third title by winning the men's doubles match over Ramanathan Krishnan, India, and Tomas Koch, Brazil, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5, 12-14, 6-4.

SOUTH Africa stopped a run of 11 successive semi-final appearances for Britain in the European zone Davis Cup tennis competition by scoring a 3-2 quarter-final victory.

Joining sixth-seeded South Africa in the last four was France, which gained an unbeatable 3-0 lead over Yugoslavia at Paris.

Czechoslovakia, the surprise team of this year's competition, led Italy, 2-1, at Prague while Spain gained a similar lead against West Germany at Barcelona.

LASC, Redlands Tie in Tennis

Gary Johnson, down after one set, rallied to take the second and third Saturday, defeating John Yeomans of Redlands for the NCAA college division tennis singles championship.

Johnson's brilliant victory gave his team, L.A. State, a tie for team honors with the University of Redlands. It marked the third successive year that coach Scotty Deeds's charges had either won or tied for the national championship. Last year the Diablos were co-champions with Southern Illinois. The year before, first year for the tourney, L.A. State was undisputed king.

Johnson started slowly, but began to pull his game together while trailing 5-1 late in the first set. He lost that clash, 3-6, but broke Yeomans' service four times in the final two series to win the title.

YEOMANS and Bill Schoen defeated Dave Ciano and Steve Peacock, 6-2, 6-4, in an all-Redlands finals in the doubles.

Marlene Braves Wind, Bags Lead in Western Open

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tiny Marlene Hagge, the smallest player in women's pro golf, braved the wind Saturday to shoot a one-under-par 72 and take a 2-stroke lead after 54 holes of the 36th Women's Western Open with a total of 219 strokes.

Using only 27 putts and chipping with amazing accuracy, she wrested the lead from youthful Susie Maxwell.

A change in the prevailing winds early in the round sent most scores soaring.

Lema Serves Up 66; Champagne Today?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) —Champagne Tony Lema, getting over a cold but staying hot, fired a blistering five-under-par 66 Saturday to grab the third-round lead with a 203 in the $135,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament.

Lema, the defending champion who started his round two strokes behind Tommy Aaron, birdied the first hole and went on to a sizzling 33-33 over the 6,821-yard Highland Park Municipal course.

The torrid round gave Lema a two-stroke lead over Gordon Jones, Orlando, Fla., a former Marine Corps jet pilot who caught fire after making the turn and finished with a 36-32—68.

Lema, who continued to play sparkling golf despite a cold, birdied three of the first six holes to take over the lead from Aaron and he stayed in front the rest of the way.

Champagne Tony, shooting for his second victory in a row after winning the Buick Open in Michigan last weekend, just missed a hole-in-one on the 15th hole, with the ball winding up only 18 inches from the cup. He tapped it in for his fifth birdie of the round to insure that the champagne would be on ice today when he tees off.

Entering the press tent following his round, Lema declared, "Come in here tomorrow and we'll have champagne."

Lema said he was feeling much better. He aded, "My voice is still a little husky, but I'm feeling a lot better."

BRUINS THREATEN TO HOG HONORS

UCLA Hosts NCAA Net

By BOB MARTIN

UCLA will play host for the 81st annual National Collegiate Tennis Championships for six days starting Monday, but contestants from other schools may not like the Bruins' hospitality.

The reason for this is that UCLA threatens to Hog all the honors. The Bruins should win the team title, Arthur Ashe of UCLA is a strong favorite for the singles championship and Ashe-Ian Crookenden of the Bruins have a good chance of taking the doubles.

Battling to prevent the Uclans from taking all three honors will be 85 other fine collegiate netters representing 29 teams from all parts of the United States.

The Trojans, who have held the team, the singles and the doubles crowns for the last three years, are not favored to win any of them this time. Jerry Cromwell, a junior from Long Beach who was a quarter-finalist a year ago, will be USC's chief hope since Tom Edlefsen recently was declared ineligible scholastically.

Each university is limited to four singles contestants and two doubles teams. A point is garnered for each victory in singles or doubles.

The Bruins' toughest competition on a team basis figures to come from the University of Miami and Trinity University of San Antonio, Tex.

Top seedings:
Singles—#1—Arthur Ashe (UCLA), #2—Mike Belkin (Miami), #3—Ian Crookenden (UCLA), #4—Dave Reed (UCLA), #5—Butch Newman (Trinity), #6—Dave Sanderlin (UCLA), #7—Jim Osborne (Utah), #8 Cliff Buchholz (Trinity), #9—Jerry Cromwell (USC), #10—Andy Lloyd (Trinity).
Doubles—#1—Buchholz-Newman (Trinity), #2—Ashe-Crookenden (UCLA), #3—Reed-Sanderlin (UCLA), #4—Mickey Frank-Tobyn (Miami), #5—Osborne-Mike Martinez (Utah), #6 Cromwell-Horst Ritter (USC).

TELEPHONIC TOURNEY

I,P-T Bowlers Rally, Claim National Crown

By DAVE TAYLOR

A hard-hitting gang of 30 of the Long Beach area's finest junior bowlers fractured the woodwork at Cal Bowl Saturday to bring home one national championship crown and a third-place title in the National Telephonic Tournament climax to the 1965 All-America Youth Bowl program.

The Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram's crack squad of Junior Division boys whacked a clattering 2,767 three-game team cluster to grab the title from teams in 15 other major cities across the U.S. Meanwhile, the I, P-T's Junior Girls' crew battered out 2,407 to place third in the nation for their division.

Coming from behind to claim the crown with a blistering 926 third and final game, the Long Beach Junior Division boys were sparked by John Jacobs, 15, hitting 225-593, followed by Mike Schiazzano, 15, 225-568; Jim Berry, 14, 222-566; Tom Ditch, 15, 224-552; and Ken Weiner, 15, 183-488.

The Long Beach Junior Girls kicked in their third place 2,407 with a big assist from Marilyn Dinwiddie, 15, whose 194-549 ranked second high individual score for her division in the nation followed by Tammy Curry, 16, 190-544; Jeanette Peters, 15, 170-472; Colene Farbo, 14, 170-430; and Jan Atzinger, 15, 138-138-412.

The field of 480 kids in 16 U.S. cities who shot the National Telephonic Tournament in three boys' and girls' age divisions were local level champions from an entry of nearly 50,000 youngsters who participated in the All-America Youth Bowl program sponsored by the nation's leading newspapers in association with AMF Pinspotters Corp.

* * * *

PARTICIPATING bowling centers in all 16 cities were connected by a unique closed-circuit telephone hookup for Saturday's national Telephonic Tournament so that contestants could follow the game-for-game scoring of teams in their division across the nation.

Big national winners were the teams from Miami, Fla., and Portland, Ore.

Miami teams won first place in the Prep Boys Division, aged through 13 years, with 2,450; second place in Prep Girls with 2,128; second place in Junior Girls, aged 13 through 15, with 2,418; second place in Junior Boys, 2,716 and second place in Major Girls, aged 16 through 18 with 2,517.

Portland won first place in Prep Girls with 2,227; second place in Prep Boys with 2,419 and first place in Major Girls with 2,526.

An unbelievable Major Boys team, aged 16 through 18, in Milwaukee, Wis., fired a fantastic championship 3,106 scratch team cluster on games of 941-1,024-1,141 sparked by Greg Kelly 267-704, Gary Prince 258-669 and John Oscatic 234-603.

Doubles by Tim Lane and Mike Burns, plus an error, got the Stars two runs in third, then after Salta came back to tie, coach Ardie Boyd's preps broke it open with two in the sixth and four in the seventh.

Dave Dickey's single following a hit by Fred Stapenhorst and walks to Rusty Priestly and Larry Albright broke the deadlock and Walt Weller's grounder got in another run. Then in the seventh, Priestly belted a two-run single and Stapenhorst also drove in a run.

Pat Saunders, Jeff Davis, Mike Hodge and Al Hoops limited Salta to four hits, with Hodge picking up the win and Bill Seinsoth, the CIF star from Arcadia, getting the loss.

Beard Sharp, So Lakewood Leads

Righthander Dan Beard hurled a three-hitter and fanned 13 as Lakewood took over the Harbor League lead Saturday with a 3-0 win over Alamitos Bay in Jr. American Legion baseball action.

Beard's sparkling performance left Lakewood with a 3-0 record and bounced Alamitos Bay into a second-place tie at 3-1 with Peterson, which ripped Samuel Thomas, 9-4. Shua clobbered Wilmington 9-1 and San Pedro ripped the Flyers 14-5 in the other Harbor games.

Four extra-base hits paced Lakewood. Doug Stodgel tripled and scored on Mike Baker's single in the third inning; Baker and Rich Jones collected back-to-back doubles in the fifth and Dave Dickey socked a homer in the seventh.

Peterson backed Randy Moffitt with a 13-hit attack, including three by Dale Duncan and two each by Chuck Moore and Steve Smith. Benny Sanchez and Mike George each drove in two runs for the winners. Dennis Parks slapped a double and triple for the losers.

Shua rapped 16 hits, with Dave O'Toole collecting three and Bill Fuller, Dave Reisman and Dave Bisso two each.

TELEPHONIC TOURNEY

I,P-T Bowlers Rally, Claim National Crown

By DAVE TAYLOR

A hard-hitting gang of 30 of the Long Beach area's finest junior bowlers fractured the woodwork at Cal Bowl Saturday to bring home one national championship crown and a third-place title in the National Telephonic Tournament climax to the 1965 All-America Youth Bowl program.

The Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram's crack squad of Junior Division boys whacked a clattering 2,767 three-game team cluster to grab the title from teams in 15 other major cities across the U.S. Meanwhile, the I, P-T's Junior Girls' crew battered out 2,407 to place third in the nation for their division.

Coming from behind to claim the crown with a blistering 926 third and final game, the Long Beach Junior Division boys were sparked by John Jacobs, 15, hitting 225-593, followed by Mike Schiazzano, 15, 225-568; Jim Berry, 14, 222-566; Tom Ditch, 15, 224-552; and Ken Weiner, 15, 183-488.

The Long Beach Junior Girls kicked in their third place 2,407 with a big assist from Marilyn Dinwiddie, 15, whose 184-549 ranked second high individual score for her division in the nation followed by Tammy Curry, 16, 190-544; Jeanette Peters, 15, 170-472; Colene Farbo, 14, 170-430; and Jan Atzinger, 15, 138-138-412.

The field of 480 kids in 16 U.S. cities who shot the National Telephonic Tournament in three boys' and girls' age divisions were local level champions from an entry of nearly 50,000 youngsters who participated in the All-America Youth Bowl program sponsored by the nation's leading newspapers in association with AMF Pinspotters Corp.

* * * *

PARTICIPATING bowling centers in all 16 cities were connected by a unique closed-circuit telephone hookup for Saturday's national Telephonic Tournament so that contestants could follow the game-for-game scoring of teams in their division across the nation.

Big national winners were the teams from Miami, Fla., and Portland, Ore.

Miami teams won first place in the Prep Boys Division, aged through 13 years with 2,450; second place in Prep Girls with 2,128; second place in Junior Girls, aged 13 through 15, with 2,418; second place in Junior Boys, 2,716 and second place in Major Girls, aged 16 through 18 with 2,517.

Portland won first place in Prep Girls with 2,227; second place in Prep Boys with 2,419 and first place in Major Girls with 2,526.

An unbelievable Major Boys team, aged 16 through 18, in Milwaukee, Wis., fired a fantastic championship 3,106 scratch team cluster on games of 941-1,024-1,141 sparked by Greg Kelly 267-704, Gary Prince 258-669 and John Oscntic 234-603.

Beard Sharp, So Lakewood Leads

Righthander Dan Beard hurled a three-hitter and fanned 13 as Lakewood took over the Harbor League lead Saturday with a 3-0 win over Alamitos Bay in Jr. American Legion baseball action.

Beard's sparkling performance left Lakewood with a 3-0 record and bounced Alamitos Bay into a second-place tie at 3-1 with Peterson, which ripped Samuel Thomas, 9-4. Shea clobbered Wilmington 9-1 and San Pedro ripped the Flyers 14-5 in the other Harbor games.

Four extra-base hits paced Lakewood. Doug Stodgel tripled and scored on Mike Baker's single in the third inning; Baker and Rich Jones collected back-to-back doubles in the fifth and Dave Dickey socked a homer in the seventh.

Peterson backed Randy Moffitt with a 13-hit attack, including three by Dale Duncan and two each by Chuck Moore and Steve Smith. Benny Sanchez and Mike George each drove in two runs for the winners. Dennis Parks slapped a double and triple for the losers.

Shea topped 16 hits, with Dave O'Toole collecting three and Bill Fuller, Dave Reisman and Dave Bisso two each.

Mike Burns, plus an error, got the Stars two runs in third, then after Salta came back to tie, coach Ardie Boyd's preps broke it open with two in the sixth and four in the seventh.

Dave Dickey's single following a hit by Fred Stapenhorst and walks to Rusty Priestly and Larry Albright broke the deadlock and Walt Weller's ground-er got in another run. Then in the seventh, Priestly belted a two-run single and Stapenhorst also drove in a run.

Pat Saunders, Jeff Davis, Mike Hodge and Al Hoops limited Salta to four hits, with Hodge picking up the win and Bill Selgoth, the CD star from Arcadia, getting the loss.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Twilight Special at Belmont Pier

Belmont Pier is adding another boat—a Twilight Special—to its services. In fact, it was started last night and will continue through Sept. 7. The boat leaves the pier at 5:30 p.m. and returns at 10 p.m. This type of fishing is proving very popular. Both Pacific and Pierpoint Landings and other landings downcoast have similar runs.

June Ascolesi, secretary-manager for Mickey's Belmont, Inc., announced last week that Bill Emerich, owner of the 52-foot Bessie will operate the Twilight Special. The boat also is open for charters.

June is one of the special persons on the Long Beach waterfront. She has operated the concessions at the sea end of Belmont Pier for a number of years. She fought for the new Belmont Pier with a terrific spirit. It is scheduled to be started in November of this year, perhaps earlier.

Belmont Pier is a famous landmark in this city and probably will be torn down when the new pier is finished. Besides serving persons of all ages in free fishing, it is the terminal for the half-day boat, Queen of the Sea, which leaves at 6:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. daily.

It also is the terminal for the fishing barge Islander, three miles away, with a motor launch leaving at 6 a.m. and on the hour thereafter. It is one of the largest barges on the coast.

THE LONG BEACH Casting Club took a bold step recently when it started a public casting school at its pool in Recreation Park. More than 100 showed up that first Tuesday night and 60 or more are taking lessons each Tuesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

So far, only flycasting has been taught, with a classroom session preceding the actual practice at the pool. Casting techniques, stream and lake fishing, rod, reel and line knowledge are taught at the classroom, then put into practice at the pool.

When the club started the class for the public, it also announced that its members would have their own advanced class on Wednesday nights. Many of the beginners switched from the Tuesday to Wednesday classes in order to gain more casting knowledge.

Jim Eriser, public relations man for the club, says that it isn't too late for beginners to start the Tuesday night classes, inasmuch as the spin-fishing and baitcasting sessions are still on the July schedule. Fred Metzger is the general chairman and Carroll Thorn Jr., chairman.

Incidentally, the 34th annual tournament of the Western Tournament Casting Association is scheduled for the Long Beach Casting Club's pool June 26 and 27. More than 70 awards are up for the tournament, with the main interest centering around the Fenwick and Scientific Angler Trophies.

SAN DIEGO'S FIRST Derby Day fishoff will take place next Friday. Anglers eligible for the fishoff will be notified this week and must return a reservation to the landing of their choice. Eligible landings are Fisherman's, H&M and Point Loma Sportfishing Association

The San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce says that only 225 out of 600 eligible fishermen have notified the landings. Top prize in the June 18 fishoff will be a Ford Mustang. There are about eight other prizes, with one color television set.

Speaking of tournaments, the Bimini, Bahamas, Tuna Tournament is producing some record fish. For instance, Fletcher Creamer, Fort Lee, N.J., took six bluefin the third day of fishing. He missed the first two days, but went into second place for the five-day tournament with 3,236 pounds of tuna. His largest fish weighed 814 pounds, heaviest ever recorded in the Bimini events.

Leader in the tournament was Torrey Hembry, Mathews, N.C., with seven fish weighing 3,512 pounds. The tournament continues through this weekend.

A fisherman who declines to be named sends a picture of his nephew, also unnamed, who caught an eight-pound bass at Lake Mohave, using a plastic worm. An eight-inch trout was in the bass' stomach. The picture was not good enough for reproduction.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—A reader wants to know who won that outdor writers' fishing derby at Lake Havasu. George Herrick, San Diego Evening Tribune, could have taken all three top prizes except that he was limited to one. That was the biggest bass, 3 pounds, 3½ ounces, worth $600.

He also had the heaviest string of fish and the fish closest to the blind bogey bass, but had to be disqualified because of his $600 award. The blind-bogey award of $400 went to George Lobaugh, Western Outdoor News, and the 7½-horsepower McCulloch outboard motor to Bill Beebe, Santa Monica Outlook, for the heaviest string of fish. I also ran.

Grunion are set for another four-night spawning party this week, with the first run scheduled at 9:45 p.m. Monday. Other runs will be at 10:15 p.m. Tuesday, 10:45 p.m. Wednesday and 11:30 p.m. Thursday. There is no bag limit but anybody 16 years of age or older must have a California fishing license. And grunion must be taken with the hands ONLY, no pets, sacks or buckets.

The Department of Fish and Game is trying to determine just how many persons actually fish in the Southland surf. DFG wardens, flying from the Mexican border to Jalama Beach, just north of Point Concepcion, on April 23 counted only 64 surf-fishing outfits. But on June 3, the wardens covering the same area counted 123 outfits. The study is to continue for one year.

Mason's Next Goal: 'Tycoon of Caribbean'

By AL LARSON

No man is an island, least of all, Tommy Mason. But on the other hand, how many professional football players can you name that own an island?

The bon vivant of the Minnesota Vikings has few peers when it comes to leading the good life. He's a plantation owner, guitar player, poetry quoter, singer, weight lifter and pilot.

More important, the 25-year-old bachelor of Pine Avenue is one of the National Football League's most explosive runners.

Mason, who resides in Long Beach during the off season, recently returned from his third and longest trip to the jungles of Central America after inspecting his 11,000 acre sugar cane plantation in British Honduras.

"Actually we are only working 450 acres," said Tommy. But for those who aren't up on the latest sugar prices, Mason may one day qualify for the title of Tycoon of the Caribbean.

"We could realize $2½ million a year if we ever work 5,000 acres into cane production. We may never make it, but at least it's there."

Mason returned to his home in Lake Charles, La., last month looking like a pirate. "I grew quite a beard during my two-month trip. Everything grows fast in British Honduras.

"But I knew Van Brocklin likes his players clean shaven, so I went to work with the razor as soon as I was ready to leave for Long Beach.

"All I want is one year when I can stay healthy all the way. I know what it meant to the team to have an experienced running back out of the lineup for three of four games last year.

"I've never had the really big season I think I can deliver, I mean over 1,000 yards on the ground.

"My two biggest goals this year are first, winning the championship, and secondly, gaining 1,000 yards rushing."

Mason missed important stretches of combat last year with an ailing arm and later with a banged foot. But there was no evidence of either in January's Pro Bowl game when he teamed with Fran Tarkenton's passing and varied deeds of Bill Brown, Grady Alderman and Mick Tingelhoff to make the game a Viking extravaganza.

HIS BEST season was 1962 when he gained 740 yards rushing and 603 on 36 catches for a total of 1343 yards. In 1963, when he made all pro, Tommy rushed for 763 and caught 40 passes for another 365 yards and a total of 1128.

"As far as my flying goes, the club probably has only one thought: 'If you're forced to bail out, don't land on your elbow.'

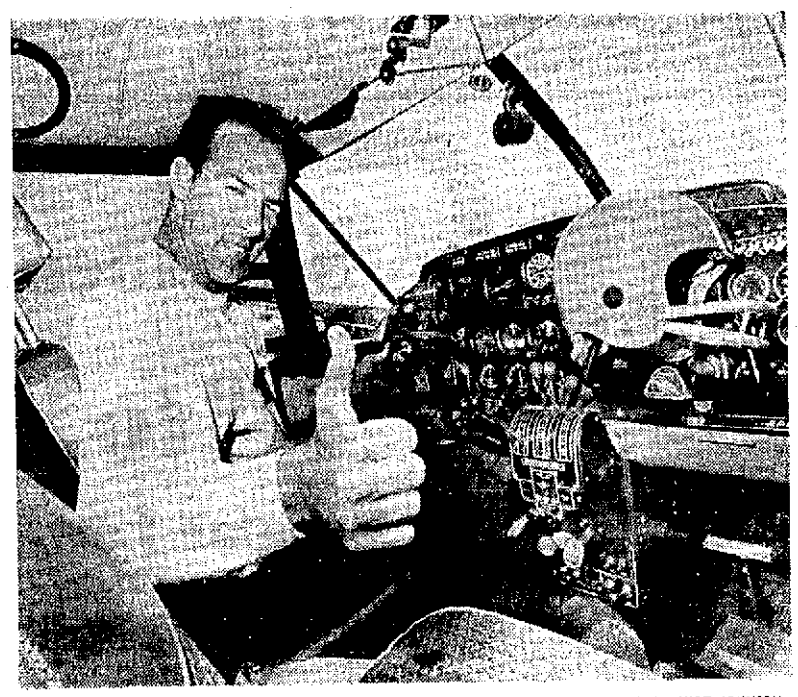

"My brother, Boo, first got me interested in flying. He was a pilot in the Air Force. The reason I enjoy flying is I always get a kick out of knowing how to do something new.

"Piloting certainly can come in handy. Since it's 2,000 miles by car from New Orleans to the plantation and only 850 by air, it would be practical to own my own plane."

Norm Van Brocklin, never known as a coach to pass out an abundance of adulations, says, "After watching Mason as a pro for four years, nothing has happened to make me change my mind that we got the best football player in the country in 1961. He's the best blocker on our team, and if he played defense he'd be the best defensive back."

For a halfback who drives a Cadillac with a stereophonic tape machine on the front floorboard, that's high praise indeed.

However, Van Brocklin might have changed his mind had Mason followed through with his devilish thought of sending him a live iguana from Honduras.

Pair Eye World Drag Ski Record

By DAVE TAYLOR

A head-and-head duel between champ Butch Peterson and former world water ski king Chuck Stearns to crack the world drag record will headline the Los Angeles Boat and Ski Club's seventh Regatta of Champions today (12 noon) at Marine Stadium.

Performing for an anticipated crowd of 10,000, Stearns and Peterson will alternate in attempts to break Peterson's current 117.4-mph quarter-mile record.

Both also are major threats, along with Rick Fowler and defending champion Mike Dixon, in the men's circle ski racing eliminations.

Featured in the women's ski competition will be 1964 national high point champion Jane Welsh, defending Regatta champion Leslie Williams and LaVonne Bushey.

* * * *

A SPECIAL invitational quarter-mile drag speedboat event will pit Ralph DuBois in "Woodpecker", Barry McCowan in the straight gas-powered world record holder, "Banzai", Rudy Ramos in his Rayson-Craft "SK-100", Larry Schuabenland in "Hot Toddy's Ghost" and defending Regatta champion Joe Graffio in "Hobo II".

A field of more than 150 boats was pared to the 32 fastest in Saturday's qualifying for the semi-main and main event circle course money races in today's elimination. Among the top contenders in the elimination runs will be Tony Maricich, Ed Olsen and Dick Freek.

Additional feature events in today's Regatta of Champions will be a peewee ski race for youngsters between seven and nine years, a parakite exhibition, and a women's hot boat race.

Jalopies, Fig-8s in Day-Night Racing at Ascot

Nick Thomas and Ed Sauer spell double trouble at Ascot Park today in both the California Auto Racing Inc.'s program in the afternoon and the ARA figure-8 stock car races tonight.

They are co-favorites in both main events.

CAR will bring out the pupular jalopy stock cars in the afternoon with time trials at noon and the trophy dash at 2.

Tonight at 7:30 the stock cars invade Ascot for the fender-busting ARA figure-8 program.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CLIPPINGER

Twilight Special at Belmont Pier

Belmont Pier is adding another boat—a Twilight Special—to its services. In fact, it was started last night and will continue through Sept. 7. The boat leaves the pier at 5:30 p.m. and returns at 10 p.m. This type of fishing is proving very popular. Both Pacific and Pierpoint Landings and other landings downcoast have similar runs.

June Ascolesi, secretary-manager for Mickey's Belmont, Inc., announced last week that Bill Emerich, owner of the 52-foot Bessie will operate the Twilight Special. The boat also is open for charters.

June is one of the special persons on the Long Beach waterfront. She has operated the concessions at the sea end of Belmont Pier for a number of years. She fought for the new Belmont Pier with a terrific spirit. It is scheduled to be started in November of this year, perhaps earlier.

Belmont Pier is a famous landmark in this city and probably will be torn down when the new pier is finished. Besides serving persons of all ages in free fishing, it is the terminal for the half-day boat, Queen of the Sea, which leaves at 6:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. daily.

It also is the terminal for the fishing barge Islander, three miles away, with a motor launch leaving at 6 a.m. and on the hour thereafter. It is one of the largest barges on the coast.

THE LONG BEACH Casting Club took a bold step recently when it started a public casting school at its pool in Recreation Park. More than 100 showed up that first Tuesday night and 60 or more are taking lessons each Tuesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

So far, only flycasting has been taught, with a classroom session preceding the actual practice at the pool. Casting techniques, stream and lake fishing, rod, reel and line knowledge are taught at the classroom, then put into practice at the pool.

When the club started the class for the public, it also announced that its members would have their own advanced class on Wednesday nights. Many of the beginners switched from the Tuesday to Wednesday classes in order to gain more casting knowledge.

Jim Erlser, public relations man for the club, says that it isn't too late for beginners to start the Tuesday night classes, inasmuch as the spin-fishing and bait-casting sessions are still on the July schedule. Fred Metzger is the general chairman and Carroll Thorn Jr., chairman.

Incidentally, the 34th annual tournament of the Western Tournament Casting Association is scheduled for the Long Beach Casting Club's pool June 26 and 27. More than 70 awards are up for the tournament, with the main interest centering around the Fenwick and Scientific Angler Trophies.

SAN DIEGO'S FIRST Derby Day fishoff will take place next Friday. Anglers eligible for the fishoff will be notified this week and must return a reservation to the landing of their choice. Eligible landings are Fisherman's, H&M and Point Loma Sportfishing Association

The San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce says that only 225 out of 600 eligible fishermen have notified the landings. Top prize in the June 18 fishoff will be a Ford Mustang. There are about eight other prizes, with one color television set.

Speaking of tournaments, the Bimini, Bahamas, Tuna Tournament is producing some record fish. For instance, Fletcher Creamer, Fort Lee, N.J., took six bluefin the third day of fishing. He missed the first two days, but went into second place for the five-day tournament with 3,236 pounds of tuna. His largest fish weighed 814 pounds, heaviest ever recorded in the Bimini events.

Leader in the tournament was Torrey Hembry, Mathews, N.C., with seven fish weighing 3,512 pounds. The tournament continues through this weekend.

A fisherman who declines to be named sends a picture of his nephew, also unnamed, who caught an eight-pound bass at Lake Mohave, using a plastic worm. An eight-inch trout was in the bass' stomach. The picture was not good enough for reproduction.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—A reader wants to know who won that outdoor writers' fishing derby at Lake Havasu. George Herrick, San Diego Evening Tribune, could have taken all three top prizes except that he was limited to one. That was the biggest bass, 3 pounds, 3½ ounces, worth $600.

He also had the heaviest string of fish and the fish closest to the blind bogey bass, but had to be disqualified because of his $600 award. The blind-bogey award of $400 went to George Lobaugh, Western Outdoor News, and the 7½-horsepower McCulloch outboard motor to Bill Beebe, Santa Monica Outlook, for the heaviest string of fish. I also ran.

Grunion are set for another four-night spawning party this week, with the first run scheduled at 9:45 p.m. Monday. Other runs will be at 10:15 p.m. Tuesday, 10:45 p.m. Wednesday and 11:30 p.m. Thursday. There is no bag limit but anybody 16 years of age or older must have a California fishing license. And grunion must be taken with the hands ONLY, no pets, sacks or buckets.

The Department of Fish and Game is trying to determine just how many persons actually fish in the Southland surf. DFG wardens, flying from the Mexican border to Jalama Beach, just north of Point Concepcion, on April 23 counted only 64 surf-fishing outfits. But on June 3, the wardens covering the same area counted 123 outfits. The study is to continue for one year.

Mason's Next Goal: 'Tycoon of Caribbean'

By AL LARSON

No man is an island, least of all, Tommy Mason. But on the other hand, how many professional football players can you name that own an island?

The bon vivant of the Minnesota Vikings has few peers when it comes to leading the good life. He's a plantation owner, guitar player, poetry quoter, singer, weight lifter and pilot.

More important, the 25-year-old bachelor of Pine Avenue is one of the National Football League's most explosive runners.

Mason, who resides in Long Beach during the off season, recently returned from his third and longest trip to the jungles of Central America after inspecting his 11,000 acre sugar cane plantation in British Honduras.

"Actually we are only working 450 acres," said Tommy. But for those who aren't up on the latest sugar prices, Mason may one day qualify for the title of Tycoon of the Caribbean.

"We could realize $2½ million a year if we ever work 5,000 acres into cane production. We may never make it, but at least it's there."

Mason returned to his home in Lake Charles, La., last month looking like a pirate. "I grew quite a beard during my two-month trip. Everything grows fast in British Honduras.

"But I knew Van Brocklin likes his players clean shaven, so I went to work with the razor as soon as I was ready to leave for Long Beach.

"All I want is one year when I can stay healthy all the way. I know what it meant to the team to have an experienced running back out of the lineup for three of four games last year.

"I've never had the really big season I think I can deliver. I mean over 1,000 yards on the ground.

"My two biggest goals this year are first, winning the championship, and secondly, gaining 1,000 yards rushing."

Mason missed important stretches of combat last year with an ailing arm and later with a banged foot. But there was no evidence of either in January's Pro Bowl game when he teamed with Fran Tarkenton's passing and varied deeds of Bill Brown, Grady Alderman and Mick Tingelhuff to make the game a Viking extravaganza.

HIS BEST season was 1962 when he gained 740 yards rushing and 603 on 36 catches for a total of 1343 yards. In 1963, when he made all pro, Tommy rushed for 763 and caught 40 passes for another 365 yards and a total of 1128.

"As far as my flying goes, the club probably has only one thought: 'If you're forced to bail out, don't land on your elbow.'

"My brother, Boo, first got me interested in flying. He was a pilot in the Air Force. The reason I enjoy flying is I always get a kick out of knowing how to do something new.

"Piloting certainly can come in handy. Since it's 2,000 miles by car from New Orleans to the plantation and only 850 by air, it would be practical to own my own plane."

Norm Van Brocklin, never known as a coach to pass out an abundance of adulations, says, "After watching Mason as a pro for four years, nothing has happened to make me change my mind that we got the best football player in the country in 1961. He's the best blocker on our team, and if he played defense he'd be the best defensive back."

For a halfback who drives a Cadillac with a stereophonic tape machine on the front floorboard, that's high praise indeed.

However, Van Brocklin might have changed his mind had Mason followed through with his devilish thought of sending him a live iguana from Honduras.

WRESTLING'S NEW SEASON TO BEGIN

The summer pro wrestling season opens this week in Long Beach with heavyweight king Pedro Morales topping the Tuesday night card.

Morales will oppose one of the Assassins. Others on the card are Ram gridder Joe Carollo and The Mad Butcher.

Big Crowd Seen for Mexico-Milan Fray

A record attendance for Los Angeles soccer is predicted when Club America of Mexico and Milan of Italy meet in the Coliseum next Sunday afternoon (June 20) at 3.

More than 20,000 fans are expected to watch the featured international elevens. Milan's Red Devils have won the Italian national championship nine times, while Club America has won the Mexican Cup the past two years.

Kickers to Play Chicago in U.S. Cup Tilt Today

Kickers-Victoria of Los Angeles and Hansa of Chicago meet today at Wrigley Field in the semifinals of the 1965 United States Open Cup soccer championships with the outcome a predicted tossup.

Survivor—overtime will be played if necessary — goes against the New York Ukrainians for the American pro soccer title and the historic U.S. Open Cup. The K-V's are defending champions as holders of soccer's first triple crown.

Kickoff is at 2:30 with a preliminary game at 12:30.

Probable lineups:

Kickers-Victoria		Hansa

Preliminary game, 12:30 p.m.—Pan Americans vs. Districto Federale for Prep championship of California League.

'THROUGH WITH HOCKEY'

Ex-Blades Coach Now in Building Business

ALF PIKE

Alf Pike has given up trying to build hockey teams and will build houses, instead.

The former coach of the Blades announced today that he has formed a partnership in a new building firm to operate in the Long Beach, South Bay and La Habra areas.

His partner is La Habra businessman Reginald Maguire; the firm's name: Maguire and Pike, Builders.

"I'm through with hockey," says Pike, who was replaced as Blades coach by Lynn Patrick. "I've had a couple of bites to stay in it, but I'd rather try something else. I want to stay in Southern California."

* * * *

PIKE WILL HANDLE sales and management in the firm, which will specialize in residential homes, alterations and additions. An office is planned in North Long Beach.

Pike coached hockey teams, including the New York Rangers, for 17 years. He did construction work during off-seasons.

ALL-CITY BASEBALL TEAM

Millikan's O'Toole Best in Long Beach

Dave O'Toole, Millikan High's multi-talented outfielder, has been named Player of the Year on the All-City baseball team chosen by the Independent, Press-Telegram Board of Athletics.

The junior southpaw swinger, who led the Moore League in batting with a .371 average, beat out pitchers Mike Hodge of Lakewood and Larry Killingsworth of Jordan to headline the 12-man team.

League champion Lakewood and runnerup Wilson each landed three players. Lancers chosen were Hodge, shortstop Tim Lane and first baseman Tony Muser. The Bruins were second baseman Ron Fujikawa, pitcher Mike Coble and outfielder Terry deKraai.

St. Anthony won two spots, third baseman Walt (Spud) O'Neil and outfielder Bob Plutte; Jordan had Killingsworth and catcher Mike Burns, while Poly was honored with utilityman Dale Duncan and Millikan with O'Toole.

Only one vote separated first and second team selections at catcher, first base and deKraai's outfield berth. By far the strongest position was pitcher, however. Any of the four second-team choices probably would have been first-teamers in another season.

O'Toole had no weakness. He batted .371 in league and .348 for the season, stole seven bases in league and did it despite an ankle injury in the first third of the season.

Coach Bob Myers calls him "the complete ballplayer and the boy that kept us in the running late in the season."

'THROUGH WITH HOCKEY'

Ex-Blades Coach Now in Building Business

ALF PIKE

Alf Pike has given up trying to build hockey teams and will build houses, instead.

The former coach of the Blades announced today that he has formed a partnership in a new building firm to operate in the Long Beach, South Bay and La Habra areas.

His partner is La Habra businessman Reginald Maguire; the firm's name: Maguire and Pike, Builders.

"I'm through with hockey," says Pike, who was replaced as Blades coach by Lynn Patrick. "I've had a couple of bites to stay in it, but I'd rather try something else. I want to stay in Southern California."

PIKE WILL HANDLE sales and management in the firm, which will specialize in residential homes, alterations and additions. An office is planned in North Long Beach.

Pike coached hockey teams, including the New York Rangers, for 12 years. He did construction work during off-seasons.

ALL-CITY BASEBALL TEAM

Millikan's O'Toole Best in Long Beach

Dave O'Toole, Millikan High's multi-talented outfielder, has been named Player of the Year on the All-City baseball team chosen by the Independent, Press-Telegram Board of Athletics.

The junior southpaw swinger, who led the Moore League in batting with a .371 average, beat out pitchers Mike Hodge of Lakewood and Larry Killingsworth of Jordan to headline the 12-man team.

League champion Lakewood and runnerup Wilson each landed three players. Lancers chosen were Hodge, shortstop Tim Lane and first baseman Tony Muser. The Bruins were second baseman Ron Fujikawa, pitcher Mike Coble and outfielder Terry deKraai.

St. Anthony won two spots, third baseman Walt (Spud) O'Neil and outfielder Bob Plutte; Jordan had Killingsworth and catcher Mike Burns, while Poly was honored with utilityman Dale Duncan and Millikan with O'Toole.

Only one vote separated first and second team selections at catcher, first base and deKraai's outfield berth. By far the strongest position was pitcher, however. Any of the four second-team choices probably would have been first-teamers in another season.

O'Toole had no weakness. He batted .371 in league and .348 for the season, stole seven bases in league and did it despite an ankle injury in the first third of the season.

Coach Bob Myers calls him "the complete ballplayer and the boy that kept us in the running late in the season."

Argonaut Winner by Nose

up the top prize in the Will Rogers when Carpenter's Rule was moved back to fifth place, gave his arch rival nine pounds, 123-114, and all he could handle, too. But just as Alex Maese attempted to slip past the Shoemaker-powered winner, Terry's Secret reverted to an old bugaboo and lugged in. The few strides Maese lost snatching his colt off the winner and getting him running again, cost him the victory.

Nasharco, the colt which was bothered in the Memorial Day fiasco, held on for third, two and a half lengths back of the first two and another three lengths in front of fourth-place Easy Lime. Trailing, in order, were Parking Ticket, Diamond Lou, Charger's Kin, Perfect Sky, Tango, Hasty Trip and Admiral Clove.

Carpenter's Rule, the 8-5 choice of the crowd of 50,572, returned $5.60, $3.60 and $2.80 across the board. Terry's Secret, whose backers apparently were thinned in number because of the weight differential, paid $4.60 and $3.20 as the 5-1 second choice. And Nasharco returned $3.20 to show. Time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1.42⅘.

Nasharco, with John Longden at the throttle, was the early leader, reaching the quarter in 22⅘ seconds and the half-mile in :45⅗. Diamond Lou forced the pace, while Charger's Kin, Tango and Admiral Clove were close in pursuit.

* * * *

SHOEMAKER, in perfect position early, started his charge with five-eighths of a mile to go. He got through inside of Admiral Clove and Tango and then threaded Diamond Lou and Charger's Kin when he took off after Nasharco.

But things didn't pan out as moothly in the stretch. "He did everything he could to get beat," Shoemaker said as he dismounted. "He caught Nasharco a lot quicker than I wanted to but he was full of run, so I just let him go on. But when he got to the front, he wanted to pull himself up and quit. He thought the race was over."

Del Olivar Tops Bullfight Card at Tijuana Today

TIJUANA — Antonio Del Olivar, whose four appearances here last year were among the best performances of the season, tops this Sunday's card at the downtown ring of El Toro de Tijuana.

The classical bullfighter from Yucatan will share honors with matadores Antonio (El Nayarit) Duarte of Mexico and Agapaito (Serranito) Garcia of Madrid, Spain.

RACING ROUNDUP

Marshua, Our Michael Score

Compiled From Wire Reports

Marshua, ranked high among the 1964 juvenile fillies, put in a strong bid for 3-year-old honors Saturday with a 2½-length victory in the $129,500 Coaching Club American Oaks at Aqueduct.

Following Marshua, who covered the 1¼ miles in 2:02 3/5 and paid out $7.60, $4.80 and $3.50, were Terentia and Desert Love.

At Delaware Park, Our Michael scampered to a $16,055 triumph in the $24,700 Christian Stakes. It was the fourth win in five starts for the son of Bolero.

Under Johnny Sellers, Our Michael toured the 1½-furlong course in a quick 1:04 3/5 and rewarded his backers in the crowd of 18,517 with a $3.20, $2.40 and $2.20 payoff. Flame Tree and New Windsor took place and show money.

Barclay Stables' Turbo Jet edged Western Warrior and Chieftan in a near-triple dead heat of the $25,375 Spring Handicap at Monmouth Park. Coming from fourth place in the final strides, Turbo Jet also had to withstand a foul claim, to earn $15,193 and pay $5.20 and $2.60.

A cautious Larry Adams guided Reverse to victory in the Michigan Derby at Hazel Park. Reverse, the favorite, paid $3.60, $3 and $2.80 for the 1 1/16-mile trek.

Prairie Schooner captured the $25,000-added Macomber Memorial Handicap at Suffolk Downs, California-bred Gumma won the $56,000 Swaps Handicap at Arlington Park in a photo over favored Swift Ruler.

Red Smith's Views of Sports—
Going Home . . . in a Big Car

The Rev. Henry Armstrong had been telling of the early days when he and his trainer Harry Armstrong hoboed around the country looking for fights, how a manager named Tom Cox gave him $3 to sign a contract and set him up as a bootblack on the streets of Los Angeles, how he won 58 of 62 "amateur" bouts and Cox sold his contract to Wirt Ross for $350.

Now he was beginning to make as much with his fists as he did with the shine rag, but he was a long way from fulfilling his dream of going home to St. Louis as a champion in a big, fat car with a chauffeur.

"We went to Mexico City to fight Baby Arizmendi," he said. "We had a $1,500 guarantee against 10% if the gate was more than 20 - some thousand, and they did around $35,000. They said Arizmendi won and told us while we were in the ring a Mexican bandit held up the box office and I haven't got any part of that money yet.

"Wirt Ross told me he was selling my contract to a big manager, Eddie Mead, for $5,000. I'd seen Mr. Mead around the gym and he was really on his uppers. I wondered where he'd get $5,000, but it seemed he knew Al Jolson, who was at the Arizmendi fight and liked it.

"We went up to see Al Jolson and he wrote a check for $5,000. I held it in my hands, the most money I'd ever seen. Mr. Mead said, 'I'm gonna get publicity. I'm gonna announce the price as $10,000.'

* * * *

"WE MADE a mistake. We gave the story to the paper and the next morning it was in all the headlines, 'Al Jolson Buys Henry Armstrong for $10,000.' So then we went to see Wirt Ross 'what contract?' he said, 'what $5,000? It says $10,000 in the paper, and $10,000 it is.'

"Finally Mr. Mead got another $5,000 from George Raft and we came to New York. I made maybe six, ten, twelve thousand dollars. I bought me the biggest car I could get and a chauffeur drove me to St. Louis.

"There was the biggest parade St. Louis ever had except for Lindbergh's, the biggest, and the Cardinals when they won a pennant. I stood up and pointed. 'Look,' I told them, 'that's my car and I own it, and that's my chauffeur.' "

A listener said, "I'll always remember the night you beat Ceferino Garcia in Los Angeles for the middleweight championship and they called it a draw. You had won the featherweight, lightweight, and welterweight titles and this would have been your fourth."

Henry nodded, his face clouding. "They tried to bribe me," he said. "I was training in Pasadena, running in the mountains, and one morning they told me I was wanted in Los Angeles. I went in and here was Mr. Mead and Harry Armstrong, that I called my brother, and these other men.

Mr. Mead dropped a stack of one thousand dollar bills on the desk, it looked like about 15. He said, 'It's all yours and it's nothing to what you'll get, but you have to take it in the third.' I jumped up—"

Henry sprang from the chair and his arm swept a stack of imaginary banknotes from an imaginary desk. "I said, "Mr. Mead, I don't know what you're doing, but, Harry, I should think you'd known me long enough, but I guess you don't.' "

The great

up the top prize in the Will Rogers when Carpenter's Rule was moved back to fifth place, gave his arch rival nine pounds, 123-114, and all he could handle, too. But just as Alex Maese attempted to slip past the Shoemaker-powered winner, Terry's Secret reverted to an old bugaboo and lugged in. The few strides Maese lost snatching his colt off the winner and getting him running again, cost him the victory.

Nasharco, the colt which was bothered in the Memorial Day fiasco, held on for third, two and a half lengths back of the first two and another three lengths in front of fourth-place Easy Lime. Trailing, in order, were Parking Ticket, Diamond Lou, Charger's Kin, Perfect Sky, Tango, Hasty Trip and Admiral Clove.

Carpenter's Rule, the 8-5 choice of the crowd of 50,572, returned $5.60, $3.60 and $2.80 across the board. Terry's Secret, whose backers apparently were thinned in number because of the weight differential, paid $4.60 and $3.20 as the 5-1 second choice. And Nasharco returned $3.20 to show. Time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1.42⅘.

Nasharco, with John Longden at the throttle, was the early leader, reaching the quarter in 22⅘ seconds and the half-mile in .45⅘. Diamond Lou forced the pace, while Charger's Kin, Tango and Admiral Clove were close in pursuit.

* * * *

SHOEMAKER, in perfect position early, started his charge with five-eighths of a mile to go. He got through inside of Admiral Clove and Tango and then threaded Diamond Lou and Charger's Kin when he took off after Nasharco.

But things didn't pan out as monthly in the stretch. "He did everything he could to get beat," Shoemaker said as he dismounted. "He caught Nasharco a lot quicker than I wanted to but he was full of run, so I just let him go on. But when he got to the front, he wanted to pull himself up and quit. He thought the race was over."

Del Olivar Tops Bullfight Card at Tijuana Today

TIJUANA — Antonio Del Olivar, whose four appearances here last year were among the best performances of the season, tops this Sunday's card at the downtown ring of El Toro de Tijuana.

The classical bullfighter from Yucatan will share honors with matadores Antonio (El Nayarit) Duarte of Mexico and Agapaito (Serranito) Garcia of Madrid, Spain.

Trojan Clubbers Meet Wednesday

Trojan Club members of the Long Beach area will have their annual party Wednesday night at 8 in the yard of Chuck Steinman, 1107 Central, Seal Beach.

Guests will be coaches Forrest Twogood and Bill Mulligan, USC basketball coaches, plus area high school and junior college coaches.

Angels Honor Preps

All-CIF and all-Los Angeles city baseball selections, which includes Millikan's Dave O'Toole and Lakewood's Mike Hodge, will be special guests of the Angels at today's Dodger Stadium game with the Yankees. All players will be introduced.

CARPENTER'S RULE was well placed from beginning, saved ground on inside going down backstretch, came to outside of NASHARCO to take command entering last quarter, drew out covering last furlong but needed vigorous handling in final sixteenth to hold TERRY'S SECRET. Latter was slightly wide while on outside on first turn, raced on fast pace down backstretch, came around horses entering stretch and under strong handling was closing on winner at every stride. NASHARCO broke a bit slowly but rushed on between horses on first turn to take command entering backstretch, weakened on last bend when challenged but held on with good courage in drive. EASY LIME improved position steadily in last quarter while saving ground. PARKING TICKET made up a lot of ground while between horses in last quarter. DIAMOND LOU tired after forcing most of the early pace. CHARGER'S KIN had speed to turn then weakened.

Red Smith's Views of Sports—

Going Home . . . in a Big Car

The Rev. Henry Armstrong had been telling of the early days when he and his trainer Harry Armstrong hobored around the country looking for fights, how a manager named Tom Cox gave him $3 to sign a contract and set him up as a bootblack on the streets of Los Angeles, how he won 58 of 62 "amateur" bouts and Cox sold his contract to Wirt Ross for $350.

Now he was beginning to make as much with his fists as he did with the shine rag, but he was a long way from fulfilling his dream of going home to St. Louis as a champion in a big, fat car with a chauffeur.

"We went to Mexico City to fight Baby Arizmendi," he said. "We had a $1,500 guarantee against 10% if the gate was more than 20 - some thousand, and they did around $35,000. They said Arizmendi won and told us while we were in the ring a Mexican bandit held up the box office and I haven't got any part of that money yet.

"Wirt Ross told me he was selling my contract to a big manager, Eddie Mead, for $5,000. I'd seen Mr. Mead around the gym and he was really on his uppers. I wondered where he'd get $5,000, but it seemed he knew Al Jolson, who was at the Arizmendi fight and liked it.

"We went up to see Al Jolson and he wrote a check for $5,000. I held it in my hands, the most money I'd ever seen. Mr. Mead said, 'I'm gonna get publicity. I'm gonna announce the price as $10,000.'

* * * *

"WE MADE a mistake. We gave the story to the paper and the next morning it was in all the headlines, 'Al Jolson Buys Henry Armstrong for $10,000.' So then we went to see Wirt Ross 'what contract?' he said, 'what $5,000? It says $10,000 in the paper, and $10,000 it is.'

"Finally Mr. Mead got another $5,000 from George Rafi and we came to New York. I made maybe six, ten, twelve thousand dollars. I bought me the biggest car I could get and a chauffeur drove me to St. Louis.

"There was the biggest parade St. Louis ever had except for Lindbergh's, the biggest, and the Cardinals when they won a pennant. I stood up and pointed. 'Look,' I told them, 'that's my car and I own it, and that's my chauffeur.'"

A listener said, "I'll always remember the night you beat Ceferino Garcia in Los Angeles for the middleweight championship and they called it a draw. You had won the featherweight, lightweight, and welterweight titles and this would have been your fourth."

Henry nodded, his face clouding. "They tried to bribe me," he said. "I was training in Pasadena, running in the mountains, and one morning they told me I was wanted in Los Angeles. I went in and here was Mr. Mead and Harry Armstrong, that I called my brother, and these other men.

Mr. Mead dropped a stack of one thousand dollar bills on the desk, it looked like about 15. He said, 'It's all yours and it's nothing to what you'll get, but you have to take it in the third.' I jumped up—"

Henry sprang from the chair and his arm swept a stack of imaginary banknotes from an imaginary desk. "I said, "Mr. Mead, I don't know what you're doing, but, Harry, I should think you'd known me long enough, but I guess you don't.'"

CAPTURES HUMAN IMAGES FROM 25,000 FEET

New Cameras Give Spy Planes 20-20 Vision

The fantastic capability of new-type aerial cameras — which can capture human images from above 25,000 feet — were revealed this week in photographs cleared by the United States Navy.

In pictures taken from above the nation's capital, the new aerial reconnaissance cameras, aboard a North American Vigilante aircraft cruising at supersonic speeds, provided resolution previously obtainable only from slower planes at a much lower altitude.

Ability of these cameras, built by the Perkin-Elmer Corp., gives 20-20 vision to America's "eye in the sky" forces.

The highly advanced, horizon-to-horizon scanning dual camera system developed for the Navy's swift Vigilante maintain their high resolution through the range of the plane's speeds and altitude.

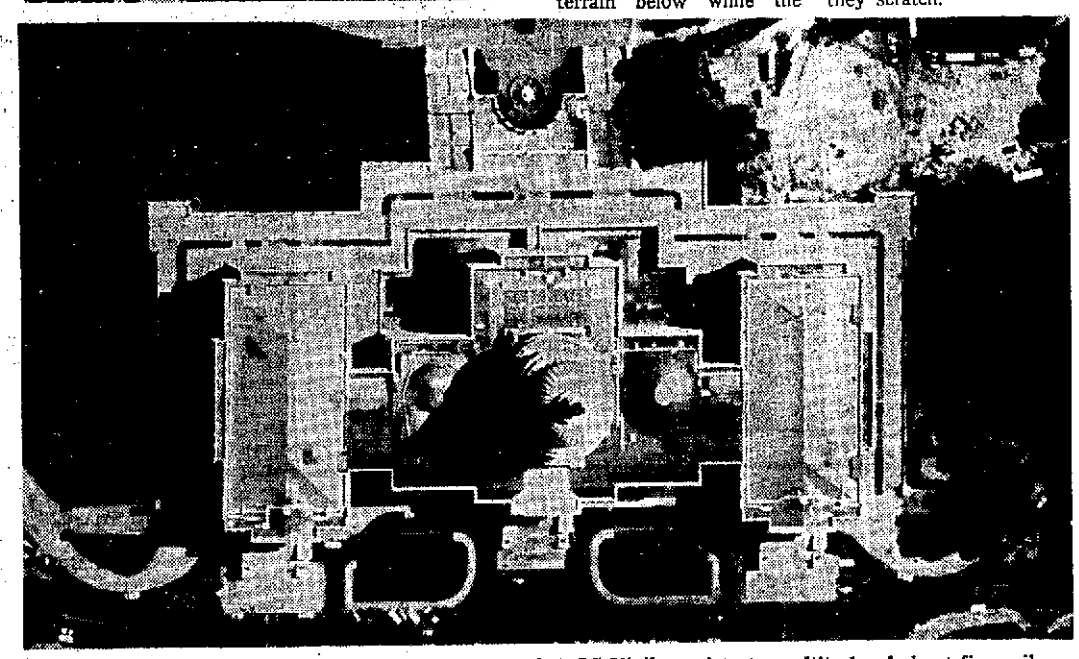

Each of the cameras uses twin lenses with rotating prisms that scan the terrain below while the film is being continuously advanced.

Image motion, the result of the movement of the aircraft relative to the scene being photographed, is compensated for by lens-system movement.

The cameras are equipped for automatic exposure control and a unique mounting for stabilization assures image sharpness. Vibration and shock systems isolate the camera assembly from normal aircraft vibrations.

The dual camera lends binocular vision to this nation's view of potential enemies' activities.

"With these cameras," a high Navy official says, "we'll know it every time they scratch."

Plan for Venezuela Red Takeover Told

By DANIEL HARKER

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The head of the Venezuelan mission in Cuba has outlined a master plan for a Marxist takeover in Venezuela, which the Cuban press calls "the Viet Nam of Latin America."

German Lairet, representative in Cuba of the Venezuelan National Liberation Front (FLN), says the "fundamental aim of the armed struggle in Latin America must be the possession of total political power, destruction of the existing social system and its replacement with a new system following the Marxist-Leninst orientation."

He divides the "fight against the reactionary" governments into two main branches:

—The armed fight, which will have fundamental priority; and —The political struggle, which will be closely related to the armed movement and dependent upon it.

* * * *

THE ARMED struggle, Lairet says, can be divided into three phases: guerrilla warfare, work within the country's army, and action in the cities by tactical units.

The FLN, Lairet assures, is "emphasizing to our combatants that this armed fight will require quite a long time and that they must discard any ideas about a quick victory. We must make clear to them that there is a long road ahead."

He warns also that "American intervention in Venezuela is very likely in case we manage to make noticeable inroads."

Lairet discussed the strategy and aims of the FLN in a recent series of lectures to about 100 Communist Chinese, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and Latin American students in Havana.

The former Venezuelan journalist described the subversion plan as one which could be used by other guerrilla movements to spread revolution throughout the continent.

* * * *

LAIRET'S LECTURES are believed to be the first publicly to outline the FLN's master plan. The FLN is the political organization working with the FALN (Armed Forces for the National Liberation), the terrorist underground movement, for the overthrow of the Venezuelan government.

Lairet follows the credo of Cuba's Ernesto "Che" Guevara that "only with bullets" can revolution be accomplished.

An armed struggle is the only way to a revolution, Lairet explained, because this way is accomplished the destruction of the only major obstacle—"the regular army." Replacement of the army by a "popular army is the way to insure the success of the revolution."

Lairet claimed there are "many officers in the Venezuelan army currently who have deep nationalistic feelings and we must encourage and use those feelings." He said sympathetic officers and enlisted men can supply the national liberation forces intelligence and weapons.

* * * *

THE VENEZUELAN said the FLN could attract many officers by creating a broad "national patriotic front" with representatives of all political parties and tendencies opposing the government and headed by a neutral figure of national stature. But he made clear that Marxist-Lenist doctrine must play an important part in such a front.

He described political action attendant to the armed struggle as taking "advantage of the opportunities presented by political or economic crisis."

"The revolution must support such initiatives as freedom for political prisoners, defense of freedom of the press, higher salaries for the workers and others," Lairet said, but added that if these demands "are satisfied we will not cease in our fight in that case."

PLANS TREK

By Covered Wagon to the Yukon

CHATHAM, Ont. (AP)—A 53-year-old construction foreman from London, Ont., is planning to set out for the Yukon this summer in a homemade covered wagon.

Lawrence McIntyre, who has been spending spare weekends on a Chatham-area farm building the wagon, says the trip has no special significance — he's just looking for adventure, and plans to do a little prospecting.

The 12-foot-long wagon is built of wood and covered with a canvas top. It's pulled by two horses.

McIntyre, who has visited the Yukon before and says "you can enjoy the land," plans to leave in August, figuring the trip will take seven or eight months. He'll travel alone.

Sen. Smith, Bob Hope, Nixon in College Rite

WHITTIER (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a member of the Whittier College board of trustees, assisted Saturday in conferring honorary degrees on U.S. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith and comedian Bob Hope.

Sen. Smith, R-Maine, received a doctorate of laws and was the commencement speaker. Hope received a doctorate of humane letters.

Nixon, a Whittier graduate, delivered an address here Friday at the dedication of a new library.

Also awarded honorary doctor of laws degrees were college alumni Warren Knox, president of the College of Idaho, and Mrs. Evangeline Burgess, late president of Pacific Oaks College, Pasadena. Mrs. Burgess died last April.

College president Paul S. Smith awarded 45 master's degrees and 370 bachelor's degrees to graduating students.

Numismatists' $2-Million Coin Center Planned

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—American numismatists will build their national headquarters and a $2-million rare-coin museum in Colorado Springs.

Charles Johnson, of Long Beach, Calif., of the American Numismatic Association, said the $250,000 structure will be erected on 30,000 square feet of land leased from Colorado College. The college reportedly will lease the land at $1 a year for 99 years.

About 25,000 coin collectors across the United States are members of the ANA.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Call Decline Corrective Phase in Bullish Market

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pessimism prevailed on Wall Street again last week and the market indicators took their worst weekly decline in nearly two years. Trading was active.

The week opened with a deceptive 1:28 gain in the Dow-Jones Industrial Average after bargain hunters jumped into a sharply lower market around mid-day Monday. However, despite their efforts losses still outnumbered gains by 2-to-1 at the close.

Secondary shares made some progress early Tuesday but blue chips were under heavy selling pressure. Whatever buying interest was present in the market early in the session was quickly scared off by news U.S. troops would be used in combat support mission in Viet Nam.

* * * *

DOW-JONES Industrials lost 13.10 in the session, the worst drop since President Kennedy's assasination.

Some institutional demand appeared Wednesday morning but dried up when prices failed to respond. Rumors that President Johnson was ill sent the market into a tail spin around noon. Some recovery was made after the White House denied the rumors but prices later fell off.

A White House economics conference gave the market some support Thursday.

An announcement, which said there was no reason for pessimism was issued after the conference and the market responded with a sharp increase in volume and a reversal of the downtrend.

Trading swelled to the point where the new 900-character-per-minute tickers were forced to run with digits deleted, indicating the tape was coming close to falling behind. However, the activity died out and in the last analysis prices were only slightly above their lows for the day.

* * * *

TRADERS still were cautious Friday but there was some optimism in the market and prices advanced slowly, finishing near their highs.

The analysts continue to believe the decline is a corrective phase in the long bull market and not the start of a bear market. They said, however, that the downtrend was intensified by Federal Reserve Board Chairman Martin's paralleling of the economic conditions of the 1920's with present conditions.

Martin's remarks, they said, damaged investor confidence in the economy and left the market vulnerable to other depressing outside factors.

Dow-Jones Industrials dropped 19.17 on the week to 881.70. The average, which touched an intra-week low of 876.49, is now down 57.92 points from its all-time peak of 939.62 set May 14.

* * * *

RAILS FELL 4.67 to 195.80 and utilities gave up 3.79 at 154.33. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index dropped 1.99 to 85.12.

Trading swelled to 29,235,940 shares from 21,867,815 shares a week before and 20,128,530 shares in the same week last year.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than 5-to-1 as 1,195 issues retreated while only 211 advanced. This marked the largest number of weekly declines since 1,214 issues dropped in the week ended June 15, 1962. Of the 1,528 issues traded, 414 hit new 1965 lows while only 25 touched new highs.

Chrysler was the volume leader. It fell ⅝ to 48 on 398,100 shares. American Telephone slipped ⅞ to 68¼ on 376,600 shares in second place.

* * * *

AMERICAN Photocopy, trading ex-dividend, was third. It advanced 1 to 87⅛ on 358,500 shares. The company has sold non-exclusive rights to several of its products in the office copier field to IBM.

Airlines took three places in the active list. Continental advanced ½ but Eastern fell 4⅞ and Pan American dropper 2⅞.

General Motors also was active. It dropped 2¼. Ford and American Motors slid ⅜ each.

Chemicals were generally in the forefront of the daily declines but did not fare too badly on the week. Du Pont was down 2⅜, Eastman Kodak 2⅛, Union Carbide 3 and Allied Chemical 1¼.

Steels, already long depressed, were mostly firm. Bethlehem Steel added ⅛ and Republic held unchanged. U.S. Steel dropped ¼ and Youngtown Sheet dipped 1¼. Jones & Laughlin was unchanged.

* * * *

ELECTRONICS were weak. IBM sank 19¾. Control Data skidded 5⅛, Motorola 5¼, Litton 3¾, Fairchild Camera 3⅝, Zenith 2½ and Beckman 2. Texas Instruments bucked the trend and rose 1⅜.

The recently high-flying airlines group was hit hard. Northwest tumbled 7½, Trans World 6⅛, National 5⅞, Braniff and United 3⅜ and KLM 3¼.

Stores also were under pressure. Arlan's Department Stores lost 4, Kresge 3⅜, Marshall Field 2¼ and Allied Stores, May Department Stores and Sears Roebuck all dropped 2½. Korvette dropped 4. Friday, the company announced the resignation of its president. Last month, Korvette directors reduced the chairman to a senior vice president and named a new chairman.

* * * *

FRUEHAUF dropped 3⅞ after the Federal Trade Commission ordered it to sell two of its divisions. The commisscion said ownership of the divisions was a violation of the Clayton Act.

CAPTURES HUMAN IMAGES FROM 25,000 FEET

New Cameras Give Spy Planes 20-20 Vision

The fantastic capability of new-type aerial cameras — which can capture human images from above 25,000 feet — were revealed this week in photographs cleared by the United States Navy.

In pictures taken from above the nation's capital, the new aerial reconnaissance cameras, aboard a North American Vigilante aircraft cruising at supersonic speeds, provided resolution previously obtainable only from slower planes at a much lower altitude.

Ability of these cameras, built by the Perkin-Elmer Corp., gives 20-20 vision to America's "eye in the sky" forces.

The highly advanced, horizon-to-horizon scanning dual camera system developed for the Navy's swift Vigilante maintain their high resolution through the range of the plane's speeds and altitude.

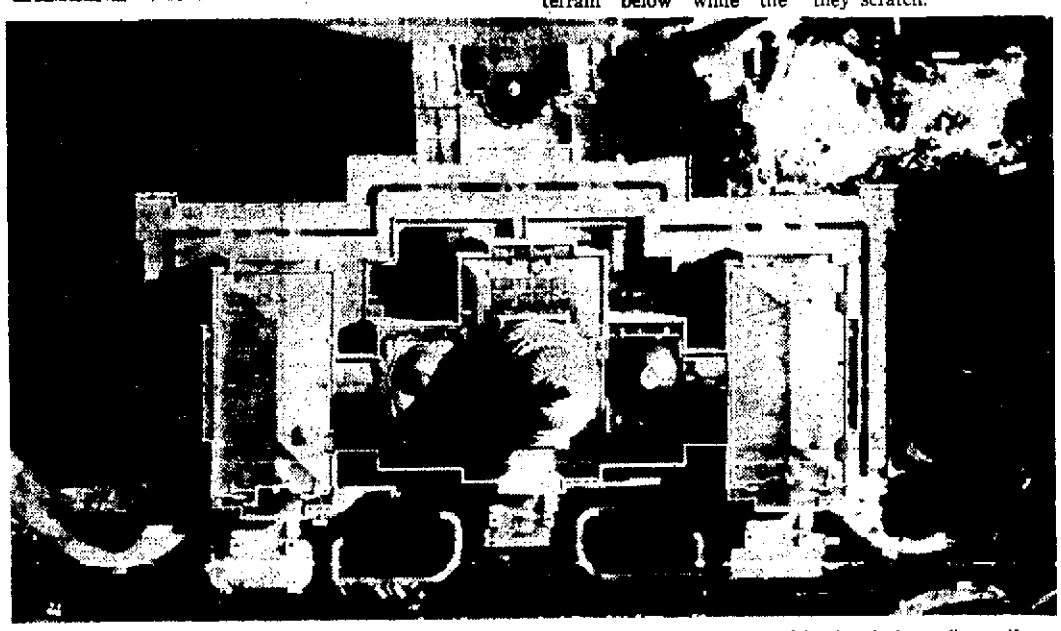

Each of the cameras uses twin lenses with rotating prisms that scan the terrain below while the film is being continuously advanced.

Image motion, the result of the movement of the aircraft relative to the scene being photographed, is compensated for by lens-system movement.

The cameras are equipped for automatic exposure control and a unique mounting for stabilization assures image sharpness. Vibration and shock systems isolate the camera assembly from normal aircraft vibrations.

The dual camera lends binocular vision to this nation's view of potential enemies' activities.

"With these cameras," a high Navy official says, "we'll know it every time they scratch."

UNDERGROUND CHIEF TALKS IN CUBA

Plan for Venezuela Red Takeover Told

By DANIEL HARKER

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The head of the Venezuelan mission in Cuba has outlined a master plan for a Marxist takeover in Venezuela, which the Cuban press calls "the Viet Nam of Latin America."

German Lairet, representative in Cuba of the Venezuelan National Liberation Front (FLN), says the "fundamental aim of the armed struggle in Latin America must be the possession of total political power, destruction of the existing social system and its replacement with a new system following the Marxist-Leninst orientation."

He divides the "fight against the reactionary" governments into two main branches:

—The armed fight, which will have fundamental priority; and —The political struggle, which will be closely related to the armed movement and dependent upon it.

* * * *

THE ARMED struggle, Lairet says, can be divided into three phases: guerrilla warfare, work within the country's army, and action in the cities by tactical units.

The FLN, Lairet assures, is "emphasizing to our combatants that this armed fight will require quite a long time and that they must discard any ideas about a quick victory. We must make clear to them that there is a long road ahead."

He warns also that "American intervention in Venezuela is very likely in case we manage to make noticeable inroads."

Lairet discussed the strategy and aims of the FLN in a recent series of lectures to about 100 Communist Chinese, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and Latin American students in Havana.

The former Venezuelan journalist described the subversion plan as one which could be used by other guerrilla movements to spread revolution throughout the continent.

* * * *

LAIRET'S LECTURES are believed to be the first publicly to outline the FLN's master plan. The FLN is the political organization working with the FALN (Armed Forces for the National Liberation), the terrorist underground movement, for the overthrow of the Venezuelan government.

Lairet follows the credo of Cuba's Ernesto "Che" Guevara that "only with bullets" can revolution be accomplished.

An armed struggle is the only way to a revolution, Lairet explained, because this way is accomplished the destruction of the only major obstacle—"the regular army." Replacement of the army by a "popular army is the way to insure the success of the revolution."

Lairet claimed there are "many officers in the Venezuelan army currently who have deep nationalistic feelings and we must encourage and use those feelings." He said sympathetic officers and enlisted men can supply the national liberation forces intelligence and weapons.

* * * *

THE VENEZUELAN said the FLN could attract many officers by creating a broad "national patriotic front" with representatives of all political parties and tendencies opposing the government and headed by a neutral figure of national stature. But he made clear that Marxist-Lenist doctrine must play an important part in such a front.

He described political action attendant to the armed struggle as taking "advantage of the opportunities presented by political or economic crisis."

"The revolution must support such initiatives as freedom for political prisoners, defense of freedom of the press, higher salaries for the workers and others," Lairet said, but added that if these demands "are satisfied we will not cease in our fight in that case."

PLANS TREK

By Covered Wagon to the Yukon

CHATHAM, Ont. (AP)—A 53-year-old construction foreman from London, Ont., is planning to set out for the Yukon this summer in a homemade covered wagon.

Lawrence McIntyre, who has been spending spare weekends on a Chatham-area farm building the wagon, says the trip has no special significance — he's just looking for adventure, and plans to do a little prospecting.

The 12-foot-long wagon is built of wood and covered with a canvas top. It's pulled by two horses.

McIntyre, who has visited the Yukon before and says "you can enjoy the land," plans to leave in August, figuring the trip will take seven or eight months. He'll travel alone.

Sen. Smith, Bob Hope, Nixon in College Rite

WHITTIER (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a member of the Whittier College board of trustees, assisted Saturday in conferring honorary degrees on U.S. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith and comedian Bob Hope.

Sen. Smith, R-Maine, received a doctorate of laws and was the commencement speaker. Hope reecived a doctorate of humane letters.

Nixon, a Whittier graduate, delivered an address here Friday at the dedication of a new library.

Also awarded honorary doctor of laws degrees were college alumni Warren Knox, president of the College of Idaho, and Mrs. Evangeline Burgess, late president of Pacific Oaks College, Pasadena. Mrs. Burgess died last April.

College president Paul S. Smith awarded 45 master's degrees and 370 bachelor's degrees to graduating students.

Numismatists' $2-Million Coin Center Planned

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—American numismatists will build their national headquarters and a $2-million rare-coin museum in Colorado Springs.

Charles Johnson, of Long Beach, Calif., of the American Numismatic Association, said the $250,000 structure will be erected on 30,000 square feet of land leased from Colorado College. The college reportedly will lease the land at $1 a year for 99 years.

About 25,000 coin collectors across the United States are members of the ANA.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Call Decline Corrective Phase in Bullish Market

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pessimism prevailed on Wall Street again last week and the market indicators took their worst weekly decline in nearly two years. Trading was active.

The week opened with a deceptive 1:28 gain in the Dow-Jones Industrial Average after bargain hunters jumped into a sharply lower market around mid-day Monday. However, despite their efforts losses still outnumbered gains by 2-to-1 at the close.

Secondary shares made some progress early Tuesday but blue chips were under heavy selling pressure. Whatever buying interest was present in the market early in the session was quickly scared off by news U.S. troops would be used in combat support mission in Viet Nam.

* * * *

DOW-JONES Industrials lost 13.10 in the session, the worst drop since President Kennedy's assasination.

Some institutional demand appeared Wednesday morning but dried up when prices failed to respond. Rumors that President Johnson was ill sent the market into a tail spin around noon. Some recovery was made after the White House denied the rumors but prices later fell off.

A White House economics conference gave the market some support Thursday.

An announcement, which said there was no reason for pessimism was issued after the conference and the market responded with a sharp increase in volume and a reversal of the downtrend.

Trading swelled to the point where the new 900-character-per-minute tickers were forced to run with digits deleted, indicating the tape was coming close to falling behind. However, the activity died out and in the last analysis prices were only slightly above their lows for the day.

* * * *

TRADERS still were cautious Friday but there was some optimism in the market and prices advanced slowly, finishing near their highs.

The analysts continue to believe the decline is a corrective phase in the long bull market and not the start of a bear market. They said, however, that the downtrend was intensified by Federal Reserve Board Chairman Martin's paralleling of the economic conditions of the 1920's with present conditions.

Martin's remarks, they said, damaged investor confidence in the economy and left the market vulnerable to other depressing outside factors.

Dow-Jones Industrials dropped 19.17 on the week to 881.70. The average, which touched an intra-week low of 876.49, is now down 57.92 points from its all-time peak of 939.62 set May 14.

* * * *

RAILS FELL 4.67 to 195.80 and utilities gave up 3.79 at 154.33. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index dropped 1.99 to 85.12.

Trading swelled to 29,235,940 shares from 21,867,815 shares a week before and 20,128,530 shares in the same week last year.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than 5-to-1 as 1,195 issues retreated while only 211 advanced. This marked the largest number of weekly declines since 1,214 issues dropped in the week ended June 15, 1962. Of the 1,528 issues traded, 414 hit new 1965 lows while only 25 touched new highs.

Chrysler was the volume leader. It fell ⅝ to 48 on 398,100 shares. American Telephone slipped ⅞ to 68¼ on 376,600 shares in second place.

* * * *

AMERICAN Photocopy, trading ex-dividend, was third. It advanced 1 to 8⅞ on 358,500 shares. The company has sold non-exclusive rights to several of its products in the office copier field to IBM.

Airlines took three places in the active list. Continental advanced ½ but Eastern fell 4⅞ and Pan American dropper 2⅞.

General Motors also was active. It dropped 2¼. Ford and American Motors slid ⅜ each.

Chemicals were generally in the forefront of the daily declines but did not fare too badly on the week. Du Pont was down 2⅜, Eastman Kodak 2⅛, Union Carbide 3 and Allied Chemical 1¼.

Steels, already long depressed, were mostly firm. Bethlehem Steel added ⅛ and Republic held unchanged. U.S. Steel dropped ¼ and Youngstown Sheet dipped 1¼. Jones & Laughlin was unchanged.

* * * *

ELECTRONICS were weak. IBM sank 19¾. Control Data skidded 5⅛. Motorola 5¼, Litton 3¾, Fairchild Camera 3⅝, Zenith 2½ and Beckman 2. Texas Instruments bucked the trend and rose 1⅜.

The recently high-flying airlines group was hit hard. Northwest tumbled 7⅛. Trans World 6⅛, National 5⅞, Braniff and United 3¾ and KLM 3¼.

Stores also were under pressure. Arlan's Department Stores lost 4, Kresge 3⅜, Marshall Field 2¼ and Allied Stores, May Department Stores and Sears Roebuck all dropped 2½. Korvette dropped 4. Friday, the company announced the resignation of its president. Last month, Korvette directors reduced the chairman to a senior vice president and named a new chairman.

* * * *

FRUEHAUF dropped 3⅞ after the Federal Trade Commission ordered it to sell two of its divisions. The commisscion said ownership of the divisions was a violation of the Clayton Act.

'THE ART OF LOVE'

No Expert, Admits Vicki

By DORIS KLEIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Victoria Carroll, all curves and red hair, has led such a sheltered life for an actress that, she says, "I've never even been out of town — except with Jimmy Durante."

Now suddenly, at 23, she's found herself booked on a cross-country tour to lecture on "The Art of Love."

* * * *

"ACTUALLY, I'm going to try to avoid the subject," says Vicki.

"How can you teach people about men and love when you've spent most of your time saying, 'no' to most men?

VICTORIA CARROLL

"Just because I'm an actress, everyone thinks I'm an expert.

"Besides," she added, "I'm not even married."

* * * *

A FORMER art student turned dancer, Vicki was born and reared in Los Angeles.

"The only times I've left Los Angeles were to play in Jimmy's night club act in Lake Tahoe, Nev., and Sacramento, Calif.

"I guess I could have traveled more with him — once you're with him you're with him for life, if he likes you—but I wanted to study."

* * * *

HER DANCING got her an acting role—as a girl in Ethel Merman's chorus in "The Art of Love," and the studio suggested she tour, lecturing on the subject.

"It's a good way to see the country," says Vicki, "but I think I'm going to leave all the talking to the other girls —they're married."

* * * *

HER COMPANIONS will be Miiko Tako, who played Marlon Brando's love interest in "Sayonara," and Dawn Villere, a statuesque former "Miss Urban League." They're in the chorus, too.

The girls will lecture in St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

"I'm going to pack some of my art supplies, and paint while the other girls talk," Vicki said.

"Then, if anyone asks me an embarrassing question, I'll just smile and say, 'Shhhh, artist at work.' "

NO AWARDS

But Some Recognition

NEW YORK (AP)—The first Whitbread Anglo-American Theater Awards didn't make an award. Judges decided that no English play or English actor's performance on the New York stage was outstanding enough.

However, several "recognitions" were voted:

To Rosemary Harris, in the APA repertory at the Phoenix Theater, Ethel Griffies in the off-Broadway "Billy Liar" and Tommy Steele, star of "Half a Sixpence."

To set designer Tony Walton for "Golden Boy" and musical score composers Leslie Bricusse and Anthony Newley for "The Roar of the Greasepaint-the Smell of the Crowd."

A special mention was made of Dame Margot Fonteyn of the British Royal Ballet, as outstanding ballerina-actress.

Satchmo Now Fire Captain in Sweden

MALMO, Sweden (AP)—The fire department of Malmo, Sweden's third largest city, has made jazz trumpeter Louis Armstrong an honorary captain.

Armstrong was met by hundreds of fans when he arrived in Malmo Thursday after a one-night stand in Budapest. Fire Chief Sven Soennerberg put a captain's helmet on Satchmo's head.

Armstrong called the crowd of 80,000 that turned out for his concert in Budapest "The largest audience I ever had during my career."

Judicial Advice for Longhairs

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Teen-agers with long hair had better stay out of Superior Judge A. A. Scott's courtroom unless they want a haircut.

"If any boys come before me with long hair, I will have a barber here who will cut hair free of charge — and we're going to cut their hair right here in the courtroom," the judge said Thursday.

"I hate long hair," he added.

The statement came as the jurist approved a recording contract for a new singing group, "The Young Tigers." He complimented them on their "neat" short haircuts.

882,000 First Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Theater at Lincoln Center registered 882,000 total attendance during its first year of operation.

Pessimism Deplored

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Green, who has penned historical pageants for a number of summer festivals in the South, deplores the trend to "Freudian, visceral drama."

Speaking at the annual convention of the American National Theater and Academy, the veteran playwright attributed the pessimistic work to a group of writers "congregated in one place — New York."

"America," he added, "is full of healthy, heroic characters, most of whom never get any statement in the literature of drama."

Auditions at Off-Broadway

Auditions for Shaw's "Mrs. Warren's Profession" will be held at the Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., from 3 to 5 p.m. today and 8 to 10 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

GROUCHO IN BRITAIN

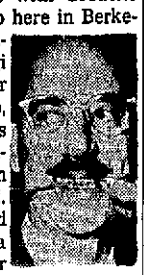

Format's New, Jokes the Same

By EARL WILSON

LONDON — Groucho Marx is here doing 13 television shows "and the series will go on the air Thursday . . . unless they see the first one . . . which will be after I leave the country."

"I planned it that way," Groucho says.

I caught up with Groucho at Siegi's Club here in Berkeley Square, sitting with Siegi Sessler, owner of the club, and Groucho's wife, the beautiful Eden Hartford. Groucho had just filmed a TV show for Rediffusion ("I don't know what it means; it took me four weeks to learn to pronounce it") before a very sharp British audience.

GROUCHO

"We lost $450 to a contestant on a very good question, 'Whose real life story was "Robinson Crusoe" based on?' " Groucho said. "Do you know the answer?"

I didn't. Groucho didn't seem to know, either. So he asked his wife Eden.

"Alexander Selkirk!" Groucho said, upon getting the answer from her. "I think a lot of American audiences wouldn't get that one."

"Is the format the same?" I asked.

"The format's different—the jokes are the same," Groucho said.

* * * *

GROUCHO hopes this show, which features bowler hats, Ascot hats, and pounds instead of dollars, will be seen in the U.S. But whether it does or not, he's being royally treated here by his admirers, one of whom is Ambassador Bruce, with whom he has had four visits.

"The last time there were just eight couples of us . . . including Jackie Kennedy and the Radziwills. One time I was next to Mary Churchill who told me that, when her father was depressed, he watched a Marx Brothers picture.

"She told me that when they brought him the news that Hess had landed in Britain, he said, 'Let me see the rest of this Marx Brothers film and then I'll talk about it.' "

"Where do you go from here?" I asked Groucho.

"To Israel," he said—adding, "I didn't get to Miami Beach this year."

"What do you do when you're not working? Do you watch cricket?"

"No, I watch Eden."

* * * *

GROUCHO'S flinging the barbs around at people as always. He went to Bob Goldstein's famous Sunday brunch, announcing, "I wasn't invited, but I never let that influence me about going to a party. I just stopped in for about four insults," He walked straight over to Nunnally Johnson, the writer-director-producer, and said, "I don't usually defer to anybody this way, but Nunnally, you were a great man—in your time."

To a pub operator, whose place was empty, he said, "How do you handle this business? You're jammed all the time!"

Groucho has a strong opinion of moral tendencies nowadays. "Degeneracy," he said, "today is normal."

* * * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The new "monster jokes" are catching on: "What's the monster's favorite tourist spot?" . . . "The Vampire State Building."

* * * *

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Comic Jackie Vernon philosophizes at Basin St. E., "Some day they'll hold a war—and nobody'll come."

* * * *

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Make ten consecutive correct guesses and you're considered an expert . . . and that lasts till you've made one little mistake."—Anon.

* * * *

EARL'S PEARLS: Prosperity is that short period between the time you hide the money at home and the time your wife finds it.

Red Buttons, who went from "Up From the Beach" (set in the '40s) to "Harlow" (the '30s), next does "Stagecoach" (the 1880s). "At this rate," he says, "next year I'll be wrestling dinosaurs." . . . That's earl, brother.

Princeton Celebration

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The Carter Theater is celebrating its 35th anniversary with record attendance.

Altogether, 150,000 spectators attended 260 performances which included plays, dance, opera, film and folksong entertainment.

The theater is owned by Princeton University, which advances funds each season for the resident drama company, and is reimbursed from box office receipts.

"MONROE THE MAGNIFICENT!"

"It's so much like Marilyn it startles me!" So one of her closest Hollywood friends exclaimed as she stood before the Monroe figure at Movieland Wax Museum.

The amazing realism seen in all the figures here, coupled with lavish costumes and dramatic scenic effects, is making Movieland world famous. Truly this is the "Stars Hall of Fame," honoring as it does such screen greats as Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Gary Cooper, Sophia Loren, Boris Karloff, Gloria Swanson, Charles Chaplin and nearly 100 others—including many new additions.

Movieland Wax Museum is housed in a beautiful building on Beach Boulevard (Hwy. 39) in Buena Park, just south of Santa Ana Freeway. Open every day and evening. Children under 8 admitted free with an adult. Cameras welcome. Plenty of free parking.

'THE ART OF LOVE'

No Expert, Admits Vicki

By DORIS KLEIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Victoria Carroll, all curves and red hair, has led such a sheltered life for an actress that, she says, "I've never even been out of town — except with Jimmy Durante."

Now suddenly, at 23, she's found herself booked on a cross-country tour to lecture on "The Art of Love."

* * * *

"ACTUALLY, I'm going to try to avoid the subject," says Vicki.

"How can you teach people about men and love when you've spent most of your time saying, 'no' to most men?

VICTORIA CARROLL

"Just because I'm an actress, everyone thinks I'm an expert.

"Besides," she added, "I'm not even married."

* * * *

A FORMER art student turned dancer, Vicki was born and reared in Los Angeles.

"The only times I've left Los Angeles were to play in Jimmy's night club act in Lake Tahoe, Nev., and Sacramento, Calif.

"I guess I could have traveled more with him — once you're with him you're with him for life, if he likes you—but I wanted to study."

* * * *

HER DANCING got her an acting role—as a girl in Ethel Merman's chorus in "The Art of Love," and the studio suggested she tour, lecturing on the subject.

"It's a good way to see the country," says Vicki, "but I think I'm going to leave all the talking to the other girls —they're married."

* * * *

HER COMPANIONS will be Miiko Tako, who played Marlon Brando's love interest in "Sayonara," and Dawn Villere, a statuesque former "Miss Urban League." They're in the chorus, too.

The girls will lecture in St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

"I'm going to pack some of my art supplies, and paint while the other girls talk," Vicki said.

"Then, if anyone asks me an embarrassing question, I'll just smile and say, 'Shhhh, artist at work.' "

NO AWARDS

But Some Recognition

NEW YORK (AP)—The first Whitbread Anglo-American Theater Awards didn't make an award. Judges decided that no English play or English actor's performance on the New York stage was outstanding enough.

However, several "recognitions" were voted:

To Rosemary Harris, in the APA repertory at the Phoenix Theater, Ethel Griffies in the off-Broadway "Billy Liar" and Tommy Steele, star of "Half a Sixpence."

To set designer Tony Walton for "Golden Boy" and musical score composers Leslie Bricusse and Anthony Newley for "The Roar of the Greasepaint-the Smell of the Crowd."

A special mention was made of Dame Margot Fonteyn of the British Royal Ballet, as outstanding ballerina-actress.

"If any boys come before me with long hair, I will have a barber here who will cut hair free of charge — and we're going to cut their hair right here in the courtroom," the judge said Thursday.

"I hate long hair," he added.

The statement came as the jurist approved a recording contract for a new singing group, "The Young Tigers." He complimented them on their "neat" short haircuts.

882,000 First Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Theater at Lincoln Center registered 882,000 total attendance during its first year of operation.

Pessimism Deplored

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Green, who has penned historical pageants for a number of summer festivals in the South, deplores the trend to "Freudian, visceral drama."

Speaking at the annual convention of the American National Theater and Academy, the veteran playwright attributed the pessimistic work to a group of writers "congregated in one place — New York."

"America," he added, "is full of healthy, heroic characters, most of whom never get any statement in the literature of drama."

Auditions at Off-Broadway

Auditions for Shaw's "Mrs. Warren's Profession" will be held at the Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., from 3 to 5 p.m. today and 8 to 10 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

GROUCHO IN BRITAIN

Format's New, Jokes the Same

By EARL WILSON

LONDON — Groucho Marx is here doing 13 television shows "and the series will go on the air Thursday . . . unless they see the first one . . . which will be after I leave the country."

"I planned it that way," Groucho says.

I caught up with Groucho at Siegi's Club here in Berkeley Square, sitting with Siegi Sessler, owner of the club, and Groucho's wife, the beautiful Eden Hartford. Groucho had just filmed a TV show for Rediffusion ("I don't know what it means; it took me four weeks to learn to pronounce it") before a very sharp British audience.

GROUCHO

"We lost $450 to a contestant on a very good question, 'Whose real life story was "Robinson Crusoe" based on?' " Groucho said. "Do you know the answer?"

I didn't. Groucho didn't seem to know, either. So he asked his wife Eden.

"Alexander Selkirk!" Groucho said, upon getting the answer from her. "I think a lot of American audiences wouldn't get that one."

"Is the format the same?" I asked.

"The format's different—the jokes are the same," Groucho said.

* * * *

GROUCHO hopes this show, which features bowler hats, Ascot hats, and pounds instead of dollars, will be seen in the U.S. But whether it does or not, he's being royally treated here by his admirers, one of whom is Ambassador Bruce, with whom he has had four visits.

"The last time there were just eight couples of us . . . including Jackie Kennedy and the Radziwills. One time I was next to Mary Churchill who told me that, when her father was depressed, he watched a Marx Brothers picture.

"She told me that when they brought him the news that Hess had landed in Britain, he said, 'Let me see the rest of this Marx Brothers film and then I'll talk about it.' "

"Where do you go from here?" I asked Groucho.

"To Israel," he said—adding, "I didn't get to Miami Beach this year."

"What do you do when you're not working? Do you watch cricket?"

"No, I watch Eden."

* * * *

GROUCHO'S flinging the barbs around at people as always. He went to Bob Goldstein's famous Sunday brunch, announcing, "I wasn't invited, but I never let that influence me about going to a party. I just stopped in for about four insults." He walked straight over to Nunnally Johnson, the writer-director-producer, and said, "I don't usually defer to anybody this way, but Nunnally, you were a great man—in your time."

To a pub operator, whose place was empty, he said, "How do you handle this business? You're jammed all the time!"

Groucho has a strong opinion of moral tendencies nowadays. "Degeneracy," he said, "today is normal."

* * * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The new "monster jokes" are catching on: "What's the monster's favorite tourist spot?" . . . "The Vampire State Building."

* * * *

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Comic Jackie Vernon philosophizes at Basin St. E., "Some day they'll hold a war—and nobody'll come."

* * * *

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Make ten consecutive correct guesses and you're considered an expert . . . and that lasts till you've made one little mistake."—Anon.

* * * *

EARL'S PEARLS: Prosperity is that short period between the time you hide the money at home and the time your wife finds it.

Red Buttons, who went from "Up From the Beach" (set in the '40s) to "Harlow" (the '30s), next does "Stagecoach" (the 1880s). "At this rate," he says, "next year I'll be wrestling dinosaurs." . . . That's earl, brother.

"MONROE THE MAGNIFICENT!"

"It's so much like Marilyn it startles me!" So one of her closest Hollywood friends exclaimed as she stood before the Monroe figure at Movieland Wax Museum.

The amazing realism seen in all the figures here, coupled with lavish costumes and dramatic scenic effects, is making Movieland world famous. Truly this is the "Stars Hall of Fame," honoring as it does such screen greats as Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Gary Cooper, Sophia Loren, Boris Karloff, Gloria Swanson, Charles Chaplin and nearly 100 others—including many new additions.

Movieland Wax Museum is housed in a beautiful building on Beach Boulevard (Hwy. 39) in Buena Park, just south of Santa Ana Freeway. Open every day and evening. Children under 8 admitted free with an adult. Cameras welcome. Plenty of free parking.

'KISMET' RETURNS

Drake, Creator of Role, Is Haaj Again

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Kismet" is a word in Middle East vocabularies that means fate. It also is the title of a musical play that seems to have become part of his way of life in the case of the versatile Alfred Drake, singer, dramatic actor, Shakespearean, director, writer.

On the night of June 22, at the elegant New York State Theater in Lincoln Center, Drake will be portraying the roguish beggar - confidence man, Haaj, in the premiere of a major production of this perennial "Arabian Nights" type of fantasy for the fifth time in 12 years.

Some stars don't even last that long. And, of course, Drake was a star well before his first "Kismet" (vide "Oklahoma!", "Kiss Me, Kate," etc.).

* * * *

WHEN DRAKE completes the 26 weeks of his current commitment, he will have devoted 41 months to this one musical; all in "prime time," as they say in television. And, obviously, for prime money.

Oddly enough, the show almost didn't survive that original civic light opera introduction back in 1953.

"The orchestrations were not exactly right, and the libretto was cumbersome," Drake said. "I asked for changes which the producer and orchestrator did not want to make. Charles Lederer and Luther Davis, who wrote the book, based on Edward Knoblock's old play, were willing to make changes. I said I would not continue with it after the obligatory eight weeks in the two West Coast cities.

"Lederer got the money to buy the controling interest. I believe it was $100,000. I stayed, and the kinks were worked out in subsequent tryout weeks in the east before we came to New York. It seems strange to look back and think that 'Kismet,' a classic of the musical stage, easily could have become a flop no one would remember today."

BRITISH PLAY FALLS FLAT

Deader Than a Dodo . . .

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

"A Dodo in Love," a new British importation, currently at the Community Playhouse, is obviously a play which would rather remain dead than read.

But not heeding the fatal flapping of its title some sturdy soul read the play and recommended it for a U.S. premiere at the local theater.

Seeing the result on opening night Friday, I wished I could disagree with the pearl of wisdom which fell from the lips of one of the major characters, Terence R. Doyle as Britisher Julian Lassiter. Dramatically poised before making one of many exits and reentries in the closing scene, Doyle told his female-traveler dodo, Lena Holmes Smith (Addie Lovell):

"Well, there is nothing deader than a dead dodo. . ."

He was wrong.

This play is.

* * * *

EXCEPT, mercifully, for the intermittent signs of comedy and life, Doyle and Lana Smith flog into it, strictly out of their own self-preservation as actors.

It takes Doyle a while to get his British accent into intelligible gear and his style of speech is often more pinched than clipped. But, like Mrs. Smith, he has something of an acting style and sustains it well, throwing away the play's useless lines with an easy nonchalance and polishing off the few bright ones with adroit timing and inflection.

* * * *

MRS. SMITH, a sharp, sophisticated housewife from Rossmoor, makes an admirable Addie, full of arresting personality, subterranean acidity of speech and capable of writing a book called "Travels on a Yak." Her retort ("dodos are not useless—to other dodos") hits the bulls-eye in sex and devilish delivery. She holds a stage so well and modishly, she deserves a speedy return in a smarter comedy of manners.

Together with Mrs. Smith and Doyle, two well-performing youngsters, Doreen Crossen (Rose Lovell — Addie's daughter) and Brad Wyton (Tom Williams — Lassiter's nephew) almost save the show from becoming deader'n a dodo.

Of the other players, Mrs. Smith's real-life husband and literary agent in the play, Vernon Smith (Geoffrey Martin) is upstaged as Ol' Faithful by his swinging sports coat—serves him right—and Hal Slatton as hoboing author, Fred Hayter, is not disturbed by playing himself.

* * * *

JOHN McNAMARA'S directing has finally shaken off the habit of sweet somnolence, but his easy compromises still haunt him. In transplanting the play to the West Coast he has some of the characters saying they are in England while standing smack dab in the United States. And, more unpardonable, he has them speaking about making whoopee and having a blast and "splitting" all in the same context. Other than these lapses, McNamara moves able, if not daring.

Charles Taylor's set design is also a pleasure to behold.

But the trouble why Dodo won't a-go-a-go is that it has more plots than Forest Lawn Cemetery and more awkward twists and excessive unravelings, especially in the closing scene, than any prehistoric drawing-room charade should have.

* * * *

NINETEEN years prior to the play's opening, these two self-styled "fossilized freaks from the frantic forties" — Doyle (Lassiter) and Lana Smith (Addie)—ditched each other in Nice, France. They kept the torch burning with the playing of favorite records—"That Old Feeling" and "Night and Day." On his cornering her in America, she symbolically breaks the spell by shattering both records over his head. This calls for a flaming reunion.

So far so good. But then the authors, Harold Brooke and Kay Bannerman, re-kill both dodos with extraneous buckshot. So dodo—not so good.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

A Near-Miracle Performance 'Orbited' U.S. Closer to the Moon

U.S. astronauts Edward White and James McDivitt brought closer the day when Americans may land on the moon and return home safely.

They splashed down triumphantly last week in their Gemini 4 space capsule 390 miles off Florida after a 62-orbit, 1-7-million-mile journey that set new U.S. records—including a 20-minute float in space by White—and cleared the way for a seven-day Gemini shot in August.

This latter could provide a chance to link up with another satellite.

Space directors called the White-McDivitt operation a near miracle of scientific achievement. Despite a control computer failure, they parachuted their heat-blistered vehicle to sea only 48 miles from the pre-designated target. A helicopter lifted them to the aircraft carrier Wasp for a rousing, red-carpet welcome.

THANC HUY BUAT

A jubilant President Johnson telephoned the space twins the nation's congratulations. He later flew to Houston, Texas, to greet them before going to his LBJ ranch for the weekend.

Chief astronaut physician Charles Berry pronounced McDivitt, the Gemini 4 pilot, and White, America's first "space walker," in great shape. He said they had "knocked down" a lot of talk about the dread effects of weightlessness—a good omen for the Gemini 5 shot and the still-to-come Apollo moon landing.

BREATH-TAKING color films of White's gyrations at the end of a tether showed spectacular views of a blue earth and a black sky. White used a jet oxygen gun to maneuver—world first—while McDivitt steered the capsule.

Hero welcomes awaited them in Chicago and at the University of Michigan this week.

In South Viet Nam, the four-month-old government of Prime Minister Phan Huy Quat resigned after a growing dispute with Chief of State Phan Khac Suu and dissident Roman Catholics. Suu and the legislative council also stepped down, leaving the military to fill the political vacuum.

The Viet Cong forced the offensive again, overrunning the district capital of Dong Xoai, 60 miles north of Saigon. The fighting began with a mortar barrage Thursday. When it ended a day later, 3 Americans were dead, 15 wounded and 15 missing.

In the Viet Nam war there was confusion over whether Johnson had changed the combat ground rules for 53,500 U.S. troops supporting the hard-pressed South Vietnamese army against Viet Cong Communist Guerrillas.

A STATE DEPARTMENT spokesman said the American field commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, had been authorized to commit his forces to combat when the Vietnamese called for help. This appeared to go beyond their previous defense and advisory role.

But both the White House and the State Department denied that Westmoreland had authority to throw the troops into a general offensive.

The White House said Westmoreland has for some time been empowered to commit his troops when the urgency of the situation requires it. It said that role remains unchanged.

The White House statement was issued while Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Ambassador to Saigon, was here for strategy conferences. Taylor told newsmen "some hard fighting" lies ahead to destroy the Communist offensive. He saw no need for more U.S. troops in Viet Nam now but would not speak for the future.

Senators engaged in hot debate over whether Johnson was waging an undeclared war.

ON THE HOME FRONT the President asserted for all the world to hear that there was nothing on the economic horizon to justify "talk and gloom and doom."

He obviously was trying to take the edge off suggestions by Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr., of the Federal Reserve Board, that there were factors in the economic picture reminiscent of the pre-deprssion 1929 stock market crash. The current market also has been dipping. There was a sharp drop after it was falsely rumored Johnson had had a heart attack.

The President, after meeting with his economic advisers, said the administration expected "a good, steady second half" for 1965. He added that the general outlook was exceptionally good and that "there are no real cross-currents or divisions of unity in the government."

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Texas, of the House Banking Committee, called for Martin's resignation, saying he "had outlived his usefullness" as head of the Central Banking System. He said Martin was defying the President by "singing a siren song of disaster."

Martin replied that he had advocated "safe driving and I'm accused of causing all the accidents." He said he would change nothing in his remarks.

In the midst of this the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to raise the national debt limit from $324 billion to an all time high of $328 billion to cover an impending $4 billion-plus excise tax cut and higher federal spending.

The Senate—working on the House-passed $4.8 billion tax bill—approved a $4.7 billion cut after changing the formula for scaling down the 10% tax on new autos. The measure will be reported to the floor Monday.

THE SUPREME COURT closed shop for the summer with several major decisions.

It reversed, 5 to 4, a 1962 swindling conviction of Texas financier Billy Sol Estes on grounds part of his state court trial was televised. Estes is serving a 15-year federal sentence. The court did not issue a blanket constitutional ban against televising state criminal trials. But the justices said "a defendant is entitled to his day in court, not in a stadium, or a city or a nationwide arena . . ."

The court struck down, 7 to 2, Connecticut's 1879 anti-birth control law which forbade use of contraceptives by anyone, including married couples. The majority said the right of privacy "is older than the bill of rights." They asked: "Would we allow the police to search the sacred precincts of marital bedrooms for telltale signs of the use of contraceptives? The very idea is repulsive to the notions of privacy."

The court also nullified 5 to 4 a federal law which barred Communist Party members from serving as labor union officers. Chief Justice Earl Warren said the law constituted a bill of attainder—"that is, punishment without judicial trial."

IN OTHER NEWS spheres the House Labor Committee overwhelmingly approved Johnson's bill to invalidate state right-to-work laws which bar union shop agreements. But Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., said he would block floor action until the House strengthens the 1964 Civil Rights Law ban on racial discrimination in unions.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told the House Armed Services Committee that the end of the military draft appears to be far in the future instead of close at hand. The Pentagon is studying the military manpower problem at Johnsons' request.

House Republican Leader Gerald Ford, Mich., a member of the Warren Commission, suggested in a book that Lee Harvey Oswald may have assassinated President John F. Kennedy to impress his Russian wife, Marina. Ford wrote that Marina—who recently remarried—spurned Oswald the day before the slaying.

Conservative Republican presidential standard bearer Barry Goldwater was missing when Republicans rallied at eight $100-a-plate dinners and raised a million dollars for the 1966 congressional-state election campaign.

At the main affair in Columbus, Ohio, a so-called unity feast, Goldwater's name was not mentioned, indicating he would not be called to lead the party attack next year. "Nobody wanted him," said Ohio GOP finance chairman Richard P. Niehoff.

CHIEF DINNER speakers were former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. The latter—regarded as a strong contender for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination—seemed mystified by Goldwater's absence.

A cache of dynamite and a guerrilla warfare training school run by the Minutemen organization were discovered by the FBI in a Virginia woods only 25 miles from the nation's capital. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover told Congress recently that the Minutemen claim their primary purpose is to overthrow the government if it ever falls to Communist control.

In the political sphere not even Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had been clued in on New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner's plans. Wednesday, while Wagner listened with a smile, Humphrey predicted publicly that the mayor would run for a fourth term. Thursday, Wagner announced he wouldn't run and, he added, his decision was "irrevocable."

LBJ Viet Policy Puzzles Critics

By United Press International

American actions in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic and the Gemini-4 space flight all figured last week in editorials in the European press.

The TIMES of London said the critics of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy "are puzzled by the variable explanations of American policy. They wonder, in short, whether President Johnson knows where he is going and where to stop."

LE MONDE of Paris said, "America is more and more pledged in Viet Nam. That is the meaning of the decision which the White House has just taken to authorize participation of regular troops in combat."

The Finnish PAIVAN SANOMAT said, "The United States resorts to the ancient and unscrupulous means of power policy: Attack is the best defense. The South Vietnamese are left more and more behind, and the conflict is becoming a war between the United States and Asia."

The Austrian TAGBLATT of Linz said, "Not having learned the lesson which was taught by the futile efforts to protect a reactionary corrupt regime in China from Communist revolution, the United States has now undertaken a similar experiment in Viet Nam . . . The Viet Cong have become liberators, and the Americans oppressors. Unfortunately, this is no Communist propaganda. The Vietnamese people have taken the liberty to choose communism because there is no better alternative."

The Spanish newspaper EL ALCAZAR said of the Dominican situation, "What it is not possible to do with a political community — if one pretends to want to give it peace—is to impose on it modes of conduct which may be the ideals of other communities of different geographical occasions or of different human environments . . . the men best suited to bring peace to the Dominican people are the Spanish people of that side of the sea."

The Austrian VOLKSBLATT said the American astronauts "outstripped their Soviet colleagues" by the Gemini-4 space shot. "The vostoks and voskhods are far less accurately maneuverable than the American Gemini craft, which can change their course as necessary," it said.

The Austrian KURIER said, "Surely there are many people also in the United States who oppose outer space ventures because they would prefer their money to be used for schools and hospitals. It is equally certain, however, that mankind's progress was never halted and that governments with a sense of responsibility always laid the foundation stones for the day after tomorrow even before today's buildings had been finished . . . We all, who passionately profess our faith in the Western way of life, in democracy and freedom, have reason to be proud of the style of Cape Kennedy, of this demonstration of democratic principles"

The KOREAN REPUBLIC commented: "The Gemini-4 has produced a strong challenge to the established belief that the United States was quite behind the Soviet Union in manned space flight."

Collegiate Musical Season Closes on Pleasing Notes

By DANIEL CARIAGA

The closing events of the college musical season took place at City College Thursday and Friday as Akira Endo and Wayne Gard presented concerts by the College Chamber Orchestra and the Schola Cantorum.

Studio "C" was almost filled Thursday night when Endo and the orchestra presented masterpieces of 18th Century music by Handel, Vivaldi, Mozart and Stamitz, together with a compelling and scholarly lecture titled, "Haydn and the Symphony—Was His Fatherhood Legitimate?" a question Endo answered with a well-documented "No."

On the way to that answer, there was some fine music-making by the 18-piece orchestra, including a performance of a charming, meaty work by Francesco Manfredini, a contemporary of Bach and Handel who seems to have been undeservedly swallowed up in the shadows of those giants.

* * * *

THERE was grace and elegance, too, in Endo's playing of Vivaldi's youthful A minor Violin Concerto, which displayed well the virtues of both composer and soloist.

Endo, who is serving his apprenticeship as a conductor in our very midst, shows every promise of a long and distinguished career in the years ahead.

His beat is unmistakable, his intentions clear, his rhythmis deviations natural. Most important, he is unfailingly musical. I wish I could say the same about some very famous conductors I have heard this year.

Friday night the Schola Cantorum presented its annual "Pops" concert, which featured, among other things, what I assume to be the first local performance of Morris Ruger's "Gettysburg," a work which had its world premiere in Hollywood Bowl in 1938.

The work betrays in no way its age, and exhibits Ruger's well-known sensitivity to words and grateful vocal writing. John Noschese was the soloist in the portion using Lincoln's famous speech. He was in fine voice, sang with much polish, and pronounced every word with remarkable clarity.

* * * *

SHARING the solo lines in the Ruger work was another warm-voiced baritone, Louis Owen.

Other features of the long-ish evening were two excerpts from Randall Thompson's "Frestiana," in which the excellent accompanist, Helen Davenport, did some of her best work; and a group of five popular songs sung by the College Chorale, a 29-voice ensemble drawn from the larger body, and assisted by four good instrumentalists.

Outstanding in this group were two arrangements by Robert McCandless, "When Sunny Gets Blue," and the rousing, "Taps Miller."

Other bonus items on the program were baritone Gary Murphy's three solos, and the appearance of harpist Harriet Wood, whose highly professional playing and gracious good looks were, as always, elegant and pleasing.

HARRY D. EASTON
Membership Manager

Easton Joins L.B. C. of C. as Executive

Harry D. Easton, a retired U.S. Army colonel from San Francisco, has been appointed membership division manager of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, according to Harry J. Krusz, executive vice president.

Easton recently served as adviser to the Sixth Army physical evaluation board.

The appointment is effective immediately, Krusz said.

It Takes Too Long To Make the Pants

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia's 35,000 tiny tailor shops should be merged into larger, more efficient clothing factories, Pravda said.

The reason according to the Communist Party paper, is a growing number of complaints about slow service, poor quality and high prices of made-to-measure clothing.

Conference Leader

Miss Blanche Collins, librarian for the Long Beach Public Library, will serve as chairman of a conference of the Economic Opportunity Act June 18 at the University of California Extension Center in San Francisco.

Navy Relief Fund Gets $500 Boost

The Long Beach Clearing House Association boosted the Navy Relief Drive by $500.

Roy H. Showalter, president of the CHA and manager of the First and Pine Security First National Bank, presented the check to Capt. G. C. Heffner, drive chairman and commanding officer, Long Beach Naval Supply Center.

"The commercial and professional community of Long Beach has responded magnificently to assist the Navy Relief Society. This year's contributions have been 2½ times what they have been in previous years.

"This recognition of the banking business in assisting the Navy represents the entire feeling between the military and commercial business in the area that make Long Beach one of the top Navy cities in the world," Capt. Heffner said.

Eight banks comprise the CHA.

Collegiate Musical Season Closes on Pleasing Notes

By DANIEL CARIAGA

The closing events of the college musical season took place at City College Thursday and Friday as Akira Endo and Wayne Gard presented concerts by the College Chamber Orchestra and the Schola Cantorum.

Studio "C" was almost filled Thursday night when Endo and the orchestra presented masterpieces of 18th Century music by Handel, Vivaldi, Mozart and Stamitz, together with a compelling and scholarly lecture titled, "Haydn and the Symphony—Was His Fatherhood Legitimate?" a question Endo answered with a well-documented "No."

On the way to that answer, there was some fine music-making by the 18-piece orchestra, including a performance of a charming, meaty work by Francesco Manfredini, a contemporary of Bach and Handel who seems to have been undeservedly swallowed up in the shadows of these giants.

DEMONSTRATORS CALL FOR OUSTING OF MISSISSIPPI CONGRESSMEN

Post Office March by 50 Civil Righters

Fifty civil rights demonstrators paraded in front of the main Post Office building here in an effort to bring public attention to the challenge of Mississippi's Congressional delegation.

The demonstrators, part of an ad hoc group called Californians for the Congressional Challenge, marched to the Post Office from the Grant Chapel A.M.E. Church at 11th Street and Alamitos Avenue at 12:30 p.m., then paraded in front of the Post Office for two hours before marching back to the church.

They carried placards with signs reading "Free Elections in Mississippi," "Please Mr. (Craig) Hosmer, Vote to Unseat the Mississippi Congressmen," and "Wake Up Hosmer." (Hosmer, a Republican, represents Long Beach in Congress.)

The marchers included Long Beach State College professors Joel Tarr, John McFaul and Joseph White, and ministers James Martin of the Crossroads Community Church, Lakewood, and William Anderson of the Willing Workers Church of Long Beach.

The challenge to the Mississippi Congressional delegation, which includes four Democrats and one Republican, was launched shortly after the 1964 general elections by the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, a largely Negro group. The MFDP contends the five do not represent the true choice of the people of Mississippi because 400,000 Negroes in the state were denied the vote through "terror, violence and harassment."

Hospital Interns Honor Teaching Staff

Dr. Alexander Van Dyke, Long Beach pediatrician, has been named "Teacher of the Year" by interns and residents of Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.

He was designated the physician on the attending staff who contributed most to the teaching program of the hospital's department of medical education.

Dr. Van Dyke was given a plaque at the hospital's quarterly staff meeting.

Honorable mention citations went to Drs. Arthur J. Beland, Jerome A. Cope, Edwin M. Duvall, Myrvin H. Ellestad, Benjamin J. Feldman, Robert T. Fox, William D. Harris, Lyle F. Gray and William H. Olson.

Dr. William D. Carrell Jr. was awarded $75 for the outstanding scientific paper prepared by a house officer. His topic was thyroid surgery.

Second prize of $50 went to Dr. John F. Sullivan.

Six third prizes of $25 each were awarded to Drs. Hans Herbert Dibbern, Donald E. Bauermeister, William G. Cass, James E. Bauer, Elliot Zaleznik and Phyllis C. Walker.

Chiang Gets Checkup

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Authorities at the Veterans General Hospital reported that President Chiang Kai-Shek's health was "excellent."

Chiang, who will be 78 on Oct. 31 underwent a thorough physical examination at the hospital recently.

Q. What is the advantage in buying a demonstrator?

A: First of all it's a great savings on an almost new car. A demonstrator has the best care a car can be given. For example: A doctor's instruments must be in the best of condition to perform his work well. This is also true of an automobile salesman. His car must be in the best condition so that he may use this car to sell from. Throughout the years of selling cars, I have yet to find an unhappy buyer of a Demo. So don't wait, enjoy the Safety and Comfort of a Demo or Executive car, and HAPPY MOTORING.

DH, when at last I come to die, I'll tell you where I want to lie. Out under God's wide open sky On a hill ringed with hills I want to lie. Where the call of a bird is all that is heard, And the breeze in the trees repeats one word. "Peace! Peace! Peace!" When this poor clay is laid away, And to my grave you come one day, Perhaps to weep, perhaps to pray, But do not say I've gone away. Close to Heaven, high on a hill, My soul will await you still. See ad under class 5. ("HILLTOP")

OH, when at last I come in dir. I'll tell you where I want to lie. Out under God's wide open sky On a hill ringed with hills I want to lie.
Where the call of a bird is all that is heard.
And the breeze in the trees repeats one word.
"Peace! Peace! Peace!"
When this poor clay is laid away. And to my grave you come one day. Perhaps to weep, perhaps to pray. But do not say I've gone away. Close to Heaven, high on a hill. My soul will await you still.

Barbie still walks on air

And the atmosphere up here is pretty stimulating. Why not join her in one of these out-of-this-world opportunities the like of which you don't very often find. Working at Mattel can put you into a position that will place you above the crowd. Plus give you such extras as free benefits, top salaries and Modern working conditions.

Credit Clerk — You'll assist our credit men by getting background information, doing paper work and similar activities with our many customers. There's no direct customer contact involved. But it's an exciting job and requires experience in accounts receivable and/or wholesale credit collections.

Customer relations clerk — Here you'll analyze customer inquiries, claims and deductions and process correspondence. You should be a mature woman, with good typing and experience in such areas as bookkeeping, credit memos, shipping and invoices. This is a superb opportunity for the right person.!

Data control clerk—This position is on the graveyard shift and you will check and balance data and assist in setting up computer runs. You should have some experience with IBM computer input-output data and you must be numerically oriented and challenged by detail.

General Clerk—You'll take on a variety of tasks in this department which works mainly on systems & procedures for data processing. Your duties will include writing memos from rough drafts, typing letters and reports and using 10-key adding machine.

A better mouse trap

Build one, the saying goes, and the world will beat a path to your door...

Perhaps. But sometimes, even in this modern, fast-moving world in which we live, we're smart enough to know when we've got a good thing going for us — and leave it alone. Classified Ads are one of these rare and special things.

Classified Ads haven't changed much since the first one was published centuries ago. They're still not very fancy and they're still not very expensive. They just get things done for people . . . all people. There's still no better way to get a job, rent a room, find a child's lost pet or tell someone "All is forgiven, come home" than through a far-reaching little Classified Ad. They put people in touch with other people, and by doing that, they fill needs . . . they solve problems.

Today, more smart, modern families than ever before are using Independent, Press-Telegram Classified Ads to add the extra cash to their incomes that means better, easier living. You can too. It's easy. Here's all you do.

Look around your home and make a list of every worthwhile thing you find that really isn't being used or enjoyed any more. Things like summer sports equipment, appliances, tools, rugs, musical instruments, outgrown baby furniture, clothing and toys, motors, outdoor grills, porch furniture — even sets of books. All of these things, and the others you find, are worth good, hard cash to someone who needs them.

When you have your list, just dial HE 2-5959 any time between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. for the experienced Ad Writer who's waiting to help you. That's all there is to it...

Put the proven power of Independent, Press-Telegram Classified Ads to work for you today. True, they haven't changed much through the years . . . but maybe that's because the very people who build the better mousetraps depend on Classified Ads, just as they are, to get them sold.

A better mouse trap

Build one, the saying goes, and the world will beat a path to your door . . .

Perhaps. But sometimes, even in this modern, fast-moving world in which we live, we're smart enough to know when we've got a good thing going for us — and leave it alone. Classified Ads are one of these rare and special things.

Classified Ads haven't changed much since the first one was published centuries ago. They're still not very fancy and they're still not very expensive. They just get things done for people . . . all people. There's still no better way to get a job, rent a room, find a child's lost pet or tell someone "All is forgiven, come home" than through a far-reaching little Classified Ad. They put people in touch with other people, and by doing that, they fill needs . . . they solve problems.

Today, more smart, modern families than ever before are using Independent, Press-Telegram Classified Ads to add the extra cash to their incomes that means better, easier living. You can too. It's easy. Here's all you do.

Look around your home and make a list of every worthwhile thing you find that really isn't being used or enjoyed any more. Things like summer sports equipment, appliances, tools, rugs, musical instruments, outgrown baby furniture, clothing and toys, motors, outdoor grills, porch furniture — even sets of books. All of these things, and the others you find, are worth good, hard cash to someone who needs them.

When you have your list, just dial HE 2-5959 any time between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. for the experienced Ad Writer who's waiting to help you. That's all there is to it . . .

Put the proven power of Independent, Press-Telegram Classified Ads to work for you today. True, they haven't changed much through the years . . . but maybe that's because the very people who build the better mousetraps depend on Classified Ads, just as they are, to get them sold.

Sale of Freeway Houses Delayed

Planned sales of several dozen state-owned houses adjacent to the San Diego Freeway in the Long Beach Los Altos district have been snagged temporarily by technical delays, Division of Highway spokesmen disclosed to the Independent, Press-Telegram this weekend.

Initial attempts to dispuse of six of the houses at a public auction May 7 failed as prospective buyers shied away from established minimum bids.

* * * *

"IT WAS EVIDENT our price bases were too high," said Vern Smith, Division of Highways right of way agent, sales department, at Los Angeles.

Location of the six houses, all on Vernon Street, just east of Bellflower Boulevard, and minimum bids first asked were as follows:

Property at 5551 Vernon, $23,500; No. 5561, $20,250; No. 5571, $24,250; No. 5601, $22,500; No. 5611, $25,250; and No. 5621, $25,250.

These minimum bid requirements will be reduced 20% when the houses next are put up for sale, Smith announced.

J. W. Grayhead, district right of way agent, said selling of properties which have been bought for freeway purposes has been held in abeyance on a statewide basis; but he expected technicalities to be ironed out in a few weeks.

Long Beach houses involved are on the north side of Vernon between Marber and Ocana Avenues, on the south side of the freeway; on the west side of Marber, just north of the freeway; and some on El Cedral south of Atherton Street.

* * * *

HIGHWAY DIVISION moves to sell the homes are being closely watched by the Los Altos Association, of which Carl Willihnganz is manager with an office at 2001 Palo Verde Ave.

Since it became unnecessary to move the houses for the freeway construction, they have been rented by the state.

Some association members have been unhappy at the reported failure of some of the renters to maintain lawns and tend to proper upkeep of the properties to association standards.

As soon as the state sells to private owners, the association can insist on better upkeep comparable to neighborhood standards, Willihnganz explained.

* * * *

AT THE TIME of the May 7 auction attempts, the state was stipulating no outside escrows. Sales agent Smith has disclosed that when the Long Beach houses again come up for sale this restriction will be removed and terms relaxed, in addition to lowering of minimum bid requirements.

Grayhead explained that the Division of Highways mails out hundreds of auction notices to parties who have indicated interest in buying up access properties. He said anyone could receive these notices by requesting them from the Los Angeles offices.

ANNIVERSARY, OPEN HOUSE

F&M Bank to Mark Two Events Saturday

In a dual celebration the Anaheim Street and Obispo Avenue office of the Farmers & Merchants Bank will hold open house from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, June 19, Gus A. Walker, president, announced this weekend.

The occasion marks that branch office's 44th anniversary of service in East Long Beach; and its all-new office building will be formally dedicated, Walker said.

Contests with many cash prizes, computer demonstrations and refreshments for guests are among highlights of the day as scheduled by Walker and R. F. "Dick" Shoemaker, vice president and branch manager.

44 DOLLARS AND 44 YEARS
Forty-four shiny silver dollars are presented by Gus Walker (left), president of the Farmers & Merchants Bank, to George Clay, owner of Clay's Market, in observance of Clay's patronage of the Anaheim & Obispo office of the bank since its opening 44 years ago. On opening day in 1921, Clay, then a teenager, opened a savings account; and the part-time teller who handled his transaction was Walker.

A house full of money" will be on exhibition, and guests will be invited to guess the amount of money the house contains. A total of 104 prizes will be awarded the closest guessers. As a tip, most of the money will be shiny, uncirculated silver dollars.

A silver bullion brick weighing approximately 73 pounds will be on exhibition. Rare coins and currency up to and including a rare $10,000 bill also will be shown.

A Burroughs computerized sorter-reader will be in operation, and demonstrations of its check sorting function will be made.

* * * *

NOSTALGICALLY, Walker recalled opening day in 1921. He worked part time in the bank as a teller.

It was the year, he pointed out, when Congress ratified the World War I peace treaty; John McGraw's New York Giants won the first of four successive National League baseball pennants; "Behave Yourself" won the Kentucky Derby, and California's population was a "whopping" 3,427,000, about half that of Los Angeles County alone today.

The southeast corner of Anaheim and Obispo then was the "Zafaria" railroad station, and many older citizens remember the area as Zafaria rather than East Long Beach.

Downtown Property Deals Made

Showing increased interest in the future of downtown Long Beach, two properties in the heart of the area recently were purchased by investors.

George Ditson Jones, Realtor, represented the buyers in both sales.

Mrs. Gladys Weitzner, owner of several Long Beach hotels and apartment houses, purchased the property at the northeast corner of Third Street and Locust Avenue.

McBRIDE REALTY CO. purchased the property at the northeast corner of Fifth Street and Locust.

"New high-rise buildings under construction or in the planning stage in downtown Long Beach and the contract for off-shore oil development should result in a good increase in business for the area," said Mrs. Weitzner.

Jones, long known for downtown realty sales and management, also voiced much optimism for the downtown section.

The property purchased by Mrs. Weitzner has 116 feet of frontage along Third Street and 160 feet on Locust and now houses a number of small business places.

The McBride firm has owned various downtown properties, having built the structure at Fifth and Pine Avenue, which houses the J. C. Penney Co., store.

* * * *

THE PROPERTY purchased by McBride has 150 ft. frontage on Fifth and 125 ft. on Locust Avenue, and is used now as a parking lot.

Jones said the McBride Co. purchased the property to be certain it would be continued for parking purposes to serve nearby buildings.

Jones also announced that he has moved his offices from the Times Building to the recently remodeled and refurbished F & M Building.

STATE TO SELL HOMES NOW RENTED

Houses at right are some of state-owned properties adjoining San Diego Freeway along Vernon Street, just east of Bellflower Boulevard in the Los Altos area of Long Beach, now being rented and slated to be sold. Los Altos Association is displeased with reported lax upkeep of properties by some of renters. well, who says:

"We not only want new industries in Long Beach, but we like to recognize the achievements of firms already established here."

Present head of the firm is Jack Zink, son of the late Howard Zink, who founded the firm in 1917. Additional plant facilities are located at Fremont, Ohio.

* * * *

"WE'RE PLEASED with our diversified progress so far," comments Norbert G. Zink, vice president and Western Division general manager, and nephew of the late Howard Zink who founded the business in 1917.

"The public, as well as furniture store dealers, have responded nicely to our 'Created in California's label, Norbert Zink continues.

"We concluded there would be a definite demand for quality, decorator-styled products with a California or Western look. Historically, the great majority of hassocks and ottomans are manufactured in the East. Their styling in most cases reflects Eastern tastes. We concluded that this created an opportunity for a Western manufacturer."

* * * *

ALMOST IMMEDIATELY, the Long Beach plant became the largest West Coast producer of these products.

Home Products Division sales manager is Gilbert Gusland. He notes that the Western style of home products is winning a "good response" in eastern states.

"Our styling, quality and price tie in with growing demand," says Gusland.

"The U. S. home furnishing market exceeds $3 billion a year . . more than $80 million in chairs alone."

The Long Beach home products shipments are widespread, including Hawaii, Japan and the Philippines.

"We're always working on new products, due to extreme competition," Gusland observes. "We aim for volume sales in a popular price range at styles people want."

* * * *

UP TO NOW, the Sure-Fit Division of the company has restricted itself to the automotive field. Now, Zink says, a number of these franchised stores are testing home product sales.

Outlets, including the Long Beach store at 538 Long Beach Blvd., are testing home product sales.

Zink believes that in this day of revolutionary retail changes the merging of home and auto products already has proven acceptable to consumers.

"It's a form of one-stop shopping," he says.

Contractors to Meet Tuesday

Contractors and associate members of the Harbor Area Chapter of the Building Contractors Association will "go to school" Tuesday night at the dinner meeting at Hody's Lakewood to learn the latest development in construction of multi-parking garages and pouring of concrete decks for multi-story buildings.

The dinner meeting program is presented by Concrete-Tie Co. of Compton, members of the local chapter, by M. A. Peters and Ken Burnath. A special film will be shown.

Robert Stromberg, program chairman, is in charge of the evening. Guests will be welcome at 6:30 for the social hour and dinner at 7 p.m.

Business Properties on E. 2nd St. Sold

Sale of several East 2nd Street business properties were announced Saturday.

The Sport Bar at 5215 E. 2nd, Belmont Shore, was told by the long-time owners and operators, James and Bobby Vance, to Paul Deats and Al Taucher, local residents and merchants for many years.

The property now occupied by the A & P Food Stores, at 5116 E. 2nd, was sold by Mrs. Kathryn Ramsey of Salt Lake City to Sandy and Evelyn Christensen, also local residents and merchants.

Negotiations for both sales were handled by Lou Francis, owner of the A-1 Realty Service, 5223 E. 2nd. Each sale approximated $100,000.

Francis and one of his associates, John Weise, handled an earlier deal involving the northwest corner of St. Joseph Avenue and E. 2nd Street, the buyer being Don Phillips, Chicken Pie Shops owner.

Salsman belongs to the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce, Apartment House Association, and American Legion Post 27, and is vice president of Long Beach Chapter No. 342 AHEPA (American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association).

LONG WAITING LIST FOR THESE Naval Housing Apartments Near Completion in L.B. and San Pedro

By BILL DUNCAN

One of Long Beach's best designed and largest apartment complexes is nearing completion with first occupancy scheduled for August. A sister project, using the same basic design, will open next month in San Pedro.

These apartments seldom, if ever, will be vacant and a waiting list for occupancy already is facing its owners—even though the foundations haven't been laid for the entire project.

What's more the apartments will be rented on what the renter can pay and on a first-come, first-served basis.

* * * *

THE APARTMENTS are for Navy personnel stationed in the Long Beach district.

Two years ago the first contract was let to the Main Cornice Works, Inc., of Los Angeles for 250 units. Five were constructed as officers' quarters at the U. S. Naval Weapons Station at Seal Beach.

The others, 245 units, have been built on a knoll overlooking San Pedro at the U. S. Navy Fuel Depot in San Pedro.

Personnel will begin moving into this development next month. The apartments, extremely functional, were designed by Edward H. Pickett and Associates of Los Angeles.

* * * *

SEVEN DIFFERENT floor plans were used in the design, and, with the exception of two single units, all buildings are rambler type duplexes. Exteriors are of stucco and wood siding with occasional panels of brick.

The interiors are plastered. Floors are covered with vinyl tile and the baths are of ceramic tile.

The units have three and four bedrooms and each apartment has a fenced patio. Refrigerators, range and garbage disposals are furnished.

A master TV antenna system serves the entire project.

The second contract was let last June for an additional 140 units at the San Pedro site and 260 units at the U. S. Naval Station's Cabrillo housing area in Long Beach.

Prior to construction of the initial Long Beach units, the old wooden barracks style Navy housing, built in World War II had to be demolished. The Navy saved the large trees and fitted in the apartment complex around them.

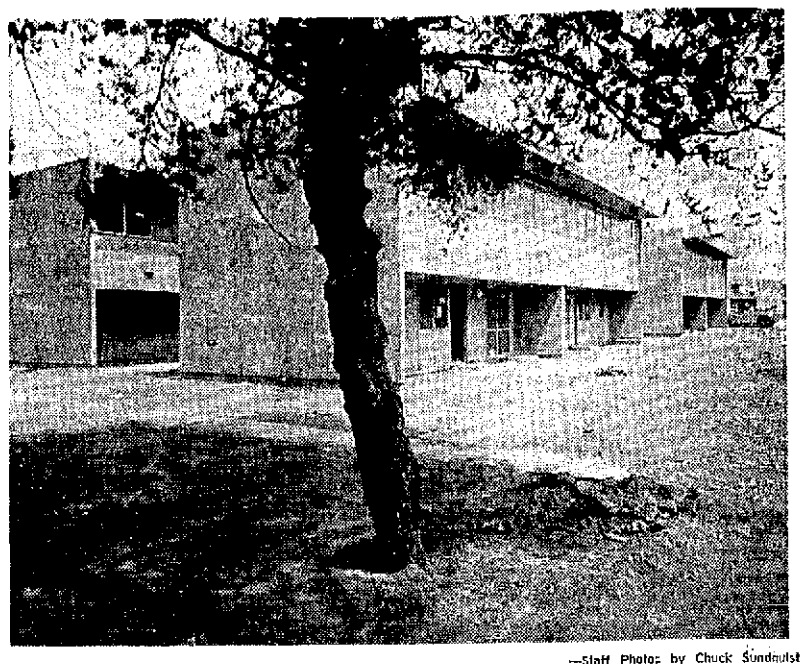

A. Quincy Jones and Frederick E. Emmons of Los Angeles are the designers, and the contractors are Murray J. Shiff Construction Co. of Tucson and the R. P. R. Construction Co. of Phoenix.

* * * *

THE LONG BEACH project uses three basic floor plans, including two, two-story models. Apartment units are arranged in duplex or four-plex layouts. Carports are provided on common parking sites.

The building exteriors are stucco and the interiors are drywall. Ceramic tile is used in the baths.

Meeting the Defense Department's land use criteria, the Long Beach units involve relatively high unit density with private, fenced patios and large open play areas similar to the condominium land use. This project is scheduled for completion in early 1966 with some occupancy this summer.

TREES RETAINED IN L.B. NAVY HOUSING DEVELOPMENT

* * * *

A SECOND CONTRACT for apartments at the Long Beach site was awarded in February to the F. D. Rich Co. of Stamford, Conn. This involves construction of 224 apartments on the Cabrillo housing site, with a layout similar to the first Long Beach units.

The first increment will be completed by November and the entire project is scheduled for completion by June 1966.

The Rich Co. also was awarded, as part of its bid, a contract to construct 78 officers' quarters at White's Point on the Palos Verdes Peninsula.

There are six different floor plans with three and four bedrooms built in one story single units, duplexes and fourplexes.

* * * *

THE WHITE'S POINT project is scheduled for completion in December.

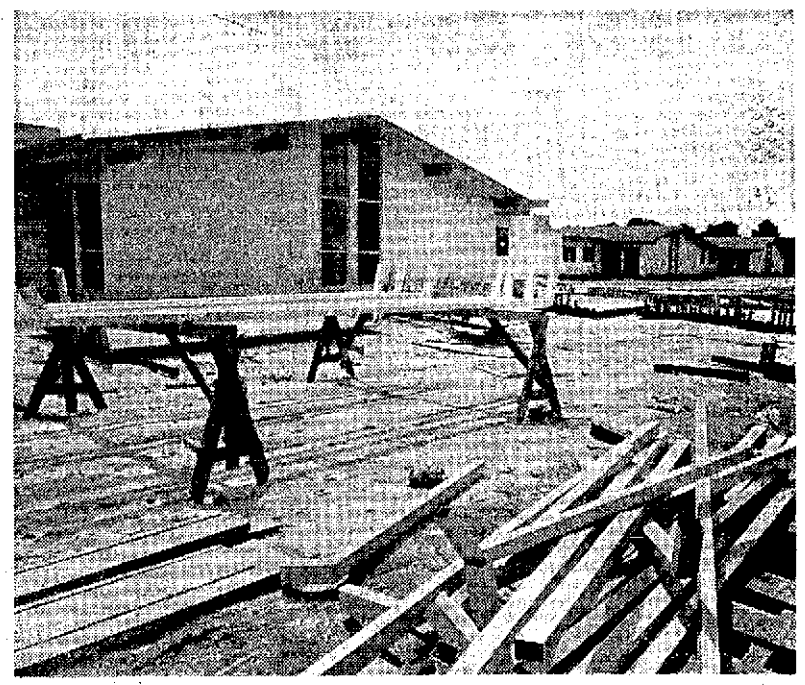

The Navy is expected to open bids in December for another project, 150 enlisted quarters and 16 officers' quarters at the Naval Air Station at Los Alamitos; 32 officers' quarters at the White's Point site and two officers' quarters at the U.S. Naval Hospital in U. S. Naval Hospital in Long Beach which is currently under construction.

* * * *

THE NAVY HOUSING program also calls for construction in 1967 of 400 units, 345 enlisted quarters and 55 officers' quarters at the Naval Air Station, Los Alamitos and at the Long Beach Cabrillo housing area and at White's Point.

In 1968 another 400 units, 345 enlisted men's quarters and 55 officers' quarters will be built at Los Alamitos, San Pedro and White's Point sites.

Resident officer in charge of construction for the Long Beach area projects is Cmdr. Charles Curione of the Navy's Civil Engineer's Corps.

STATE TO SELL HOMES NOW RENTED

Houses at right are some of state-owned properties adjoining San Diego Freeway along Vernon Street, just east of Bellflower Boulevard in the Los Altos area of Long Beach, now being rented and slated to be sold. Los Altos Association is displeased with reported lax upkeep of properties by some of renters. Other houses involved are on Marber Avenue, on opposite side of freeway, and on El Cedro, south of Atherton Street. (Story on Page R-1.)

well, who says:

"We not only want new industries in Long Beach, but we like to recognize the achievements of firms already established here."

Present head of the firm is Jack Zink, son of the late Howard Zink, who founded the firm in 1917. Additional plant facilities are located at Fremont, Ohio.

* * * *

"WE'RE PLEASED with our diversified progress so far," comments Norbert G. Zink, vice president and Western Division general manager, and nephew of the late Howard Zink who founded the business in 1917.

"The public, as well as furniture store dealers, have responded nicely to our 'Created in California's label, Norbert Zink continues.

"We concluded there would be a definite demand for quality, decorator-styled products with a California or Western look. Historically, the great majority of hassocks and ottomans are manufactured in the East. Their styling in most cases reflects Eastern tastes. We concluded that this created an opportunity for a Western manufacturer."

* * * *

ALMOST IMMEDIATELY, the Long Beach plant became the largest West Coast producer of these products.

Home Products Division sales manager is Gilbert Gusland. He notes that the Western style of home products is winning a "good response" in eastern states.

"Our styling, quality and price tie in with growing demand," says Gusland.

"The U.S. home furnishing market exceeds $3 billion a year . . more than $80 million in chairs alone."

The Long Beach home products shipments are widespread, including Hawaii, Japan and the Philippines.

"We're always working on new products, due to extreme competition," Gusland observes. "We aim for volume sales in a popular price range at styles people want."

* * * *

UP TO NOW, the Sure-Fit Division of the company has restricted itself to the automotive field. Now, Zink says, a number of these franchised stores are testing home product sales.

Outlets, including the Long Beach store at 538 Long Beach Blvd., are testing home product sales.

Zink believes that in this day of revolutionary retail changes the merging of home and auto products already has proven acceptable to consumers.

"It's a form of one-stop shopping," he says.

Contractors to Meet Tuesday

Contractors and associate members of the Harbor Area Chapter of the Building Contractors Association will "go to school" Tuesday night at the dinner meeting at Hody's Lakewood to learn the latest development in construction of multi-parking garages and pouring of concrete decks for multi-story buildings.

The dinner meeting program is presented by Concrete-Tie Co. of Compton, members of the local chapter, by M. A. Peters and Ken Burnath. A special film will be shown.

Robert Stromberg, program chairman, is in charge of the evening. Guests will be welcome at 6:30 for the social hour and dinner at 7 p.m.

Business Properties on E. 2nd St. Sold

Sale of several East 2nd Street business properties were announced Saturday.

The Sport Bar at 5215 E. 2nd, Belmont Shore, was sold by the long-time owners and operators, James and Bobby Vance, to Paul Deats and Al Taucher, local residents and merchants for many years.

The property now occupied by the A & P Food Stores, at 5116 E. 2nd, was sold by Mrs. Kathryn Ramsey of Salt Lake City to Sandy and Evelyn Christensen, also local residents and merchants.

Negotiations for both sales were handled by Lou Francis, owner of the A-1 Realty Service, 5223 E. 2nd. Each sale approximated $100,000.

Francis and one of his associates, John Weise, handled an earlier deal involving the northwest corner of St. Joseph Avenue and E. 2nd Street, the buyer being Don Phillips, Chicken Pie Shops owner.

MELVIN SALSMAN

Salsman, born in Napa, Calif., moved to Long Beach in 1962. He started selling real estate in August of 1964 and has been associated with Van Lizzen Realty since then.

Salsman belongs to the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce, Apartment House Association, and American Legion Post 27, and is vice president of Long Beach Chapter No. 342 AHEPA (American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association).

Home Design Stresses Study

The growing emphasis on education may lead to some changes in home design.

A builders' magazine reports that more emphasis is expected on children's bedrooms large enough to include a study area, built-in bookshelves, proper lighting and soundproofing, the use of colors conducive to concentration, and even built-in screens for film and slide projection.

LONG WAITING LIST FOR THESE

Naval Housing Apartments Near Completion in L.B. and San Pedro

By BILL DUNCAN

One of Long Beach's best designed and largest apartment complexes is nearing completion with first occupancy scheduled for August. A sister project, using the same basic design, will open next month in San Pedro.

These apartments seldom, if ever, will be vacant and a waiting list for occupancy already is facing its owners—even though the foundations haven't been laid for the entire project.

What's more the apartments will be rented on what the renter can pay and on a first-come, first-served basis.

* * * *

THE APARTMENTS are for Navy personnel stationed in the Long Beach district.

Two years ago the first contract was let to the Main Cornice Works, Inc., of Los Angeles for 250 units. Five were constructed as officers' quarters at the U. S. Naval Weapons Station at Seal Beach.

The others, 245 units, have been built on a knoll overlooking San Pedro at the U. S. Navy Fuel Depot in San Pedro.

Personnel will begin moving into this development next month. The apartments, extremely functional, were designed by Edward H. Pickett and Associates of Los Angeles.

* * * *

SEVEN DIFFERENT floor plans were used in the design, and, with the exception of two single units, all buildings are rambler type duplexes. Exteriors are of stucco and wood siding with occasional panels of brick.

The interiors are plastered. Floors are covered with vinyl tile and the baths are of ceramic tile.

The units have three and four bedrooms and each apartment has a fenced patio. Refrigerators, range and garbage disposals are furnished.

A master TV antenna system serves the entire project.

The second contract was let last June for an additional 140 units at the San Pedro site and 260 units at the U. S. Naval Station's Cabrillo housing area in Long Beach.

Prior to construction of the initial Long Beach units, the old wooden barracks style Navy housing, built in World War II had to be demolished. The Navy saved the large trees and fitted in the apartment complex around them.

A. Quincy Jones and Frederick E. Emmons of Los Angeles are the designers, and the contractors are Murray J. Shiff Construction Co. of Tucson and the R. P. R. Construction Co. of Phoenix.

* * * *

THE LONG BEACH project uses three basic floor plans, including two, two-story models. Apartment units are arranged in duplex or four-plex layouts. Carports are provided on common parking sites.

The building exteriors are stucco and the interiors are drywall. Ceramic tile is used in the baths.

Meeting the Defense Department's land use criteria, the Long Beach units involve relatively high unit density with private, fenced patios and large open play areas similar to the condominium land use. This project is scheduled for completion in early 1966 with some occupancy this summer.

* * * *

A SECOND CONTRACT for apartments at the Long Beach site was awarded in February to the E. D. Rich Co. of Stamford, Conn. This involves construction of 224 apartments on the Cabrillo housing site, with a layout similar to the first Long Beach units.

The first increment will be completed by November and the entire project is scheduled for completion by June 1966.

The Rich Co. also was awarded, as part of its bid, a contract to construct 78 officers' quarters at White's Point on the Palos Verdes Peninsula.

There are six different floor plans with three and four bedrooms built in one story single units, duplexes and fourplexes.

* * * *

THE WHITE'S POINT project is scheduled for completion in December.

The Navy is expected to open bids in December for another project, 150 enlisted quarters and 16 officers' quarters at the Naval Air Station at Los Alamitos; 32 officers' quarters at the White's Point site and two officers' quarters at the U.S. Naval Hospital in U. S. Naval Hospital in Long Beach which is currently under construction.

* * * *

THE NAVY HOUSING program also calls for construction in 1967 of 400 units, 345 enlisted quarters and 55 officers' quarters at the Naval Air Station, Los Alamitos and at the Long Beach Cabrillo housing area and at White's Point.

In 1968 another 400 units, 345 enlisted men's quarters and 55 officers' quarters will be built at Los Alamitos, San Pedro and White's Point sites.

Resident officer in charge of construction for the Long Beach area projects is Cmdr. Charles Curione of the Navy's Civil Engineer's Corps.

L.B. Industrial Design Students Win Honors

A perspective drawing board, permitting the user to draw accurate perspective renderings with vanishing points far beyond the limits of the drawing board is one of six winners of 1965 Alcoa Student Design Merit Awards, it was announced Saturday.

A joint project of Joseph A. Galusha, 3233 Stanford, Dallas, Texas, and Hiroshi Kira, 4792 Malta St., Long Beach, senior industrial design students at California State College here, the board consists of a drawing board equipped with two plastic templates machined with arched grooves whose centers are the right and left hand vanishing points.

* * * *

THE TEMPLATES are made in interchangeable sets to provide a variety of vanishing point locations.

They slide into extruded aluminum slide rails located along the left and right hand sides of the board and do not interfere with normal T-square operation.

The perspective device operates on the geometric law that the perpendicular bisector of a chord passes through the center of a circle. The chord is thus established by the pins of the T-square and the T-square blade becomes the perpendicular bisector of the chord between the guide pins and passes through the vanishing point.

* * * *

ACCORDING TO the young designers, the idea of constructing a device to aid the designer in perspective drawing developed primarily through their understanding as designers of the need to help improve accuracy in perspective drawing.

The perspective drawing board measures 20 inches wide and 32½ inches long. Its estimated cost in production is approximately $25.

Galusha graduates this spring with a bachelor of arts degree in industrial design, after which he will enter graduate school before pursuing a career as an industrial design consultant.

* * * *

KIRA will graduate next fall with a bachelor of arts degree in industrial design. He will then enter graduate school before pursuing a career as an industrial design consultant.

In addition to the awards, Alcoa's design education program includes visiting lecturers, a technical library on aluminum, metal for approved student projects, and an unrestricted $1,000 grant to the industrial design department of the school.

NEW AREA DIRECTOR

Management Society to Install L.B. Woman

MRS. BARBARA JONES
First Woman for Post

Barbara T. Jones, district manager for Western Girl, Inc., will be installed as Area 15 director of the Administrative Management Society Friday at an Area Council meeting in Hotel Continental, 8401 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood.

Mrs. Jones, a past president of the Long Beach Chapter of AMS (formerly NOMA) will coordinate the activities of the 11 Area 15 chapters in Arizona, California, New Mexico and Texas during her two-year term of office.

She is the first woman to be elected to the position of Area 15 director.

* * * *

L. R. (DICK) CHASE, manager of Customer Services for Johnson & Johnson in Chicago, and national vice president-treasurer of AMS, will keynote the council meeting.

Other Area 15 officers to be installed are F. W. (Bill) Funk of the San Fernando Valley Chapter, Harry K. Mehrtens of the Phoenix Chapter and Art W. Sargent of the Bakersfield Chapter as assistant area directors; James D. McElroy of the Tucson Chapter as program coordinator; and Art Nancarrow of the San Gabriel Valley Chapter as secretary-treasurer.

Saturday will be devoted to management workshops which also will be conducted at the Hotel Continental.

California to Top New York in Personal Incomes This Year

Sometime this year California will achieve another dramatic first in her friendly, but spirited competition with her across-the-continent rival, New York.

According to Conrad C. Jamison, vice president and economist for Security First National Bank, "It appears almost inevitable that California will exceed New York State in total personal income in 1965. This will make California the nation's leading state with respect to personal income as well as population."

California passed New York in the population race within the past two years and is widening its lead every day.

Jamison based his prediction on official figures from the Office of Business Economics, U.S. Department of Commerce. These figures show that the personal income gap between the two states has narrowed since 1960 from a $3.6 billion, or 8% lead by New York, to a $3 billion or 6/10 of 1% margin.

"On the basis of relative trends during recent years," Jamison says, "California will forge out in front before the end of the year."

A national builders' magazine points out that large double-glazed wood window walls and sliding doors of ponderosa pine, which used to be considered custom "extras," are now readily available in all stock sizes.

As a result, the magazine reports, more people are opening the kitchen, bedroom, family room, dining area, and — in secluded spots—even the bathroom, to the outdoors.

Plan Insurance Seminar Tuesday

The fifth educational seminar will be conducted Tuesday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at Disneyland Hotel California Room by the Orange County-Long Beach Chapter, American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, it has been announced by president George Anstey.

As a special feature, Gerald L. Randall, C.L.U., advanced sales division, Massachusetts Mutual Life, will assist in moderating the program and assist with business insurance questions.

The principal subject for the seminar will provide added information on business insurance, to enable all C.L.U.s and C.L.U. students to increase their incomes.

Social Security Benefit Penalty on Oldsters Hit

There should be no penalty on honest sweat.

That appears to be the viewpoint of the nation's independent business proprietors who just have voted by a majority of 65% in favor of removing all restriction on the earnings an elderly person may receive without being penalized on Social Security benefits.

The voting, conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business, was on H.R. 3428, introduced by Rep. John Lindsay (New York). The vote against was 32%, with 3% undecided.

When this same measure was presented to the Congress by former Congresswoman Katherine St. George, 57% of the business proprietors voted in favor. Thus, this latest vote shows a substantial strengthening of opinion.

As the law now stands, persons entitled to old age benefits loses on their payments from the fund if they also earn $1,700 per year or more individually in gainful employment.

On the other hand, those who have supplemental incomes from stocks, bonds, real estate, or other means can receive full Social Security benefits.

There are many aged millionaires now receiving the full Social Security benefits. However, those who must eke out the benefits by toil are penalized.

"It is high time there be a complete exposure of the inequities involved in many aspects of the Social Security system," Federation president C. Wilson Harder comments.

BUT NOT FAST ENOUGH

Interstate Highway Network 47% Done

The Interstate Highway network is nearing the halfway mark. During the year ending March 31, 2,504 more miles were added to the system, bringing total mileage to 19,173, reports Engineering News-Record.

Although the 41,000-mile system is at the 47% mark, the pace will have to increase substantially if the 49 states (Alaska is not in the system) and the District of Columbia are to meet the 1972 deadline set in 1956.

* * * *

WITH THE program nine months past the halfway mark at the end of March, only 13,856 miles have been constructed to full standards. Another 2,327 miles are toll facilities included in the system and 2,982 miles are routes improved to standards adequate only for present traffic.

Work is in progress on 17,511 miles, with 5,591 in the construction stage. This leaves only 4,316 miles, or 10.5%, of the system on which engineering or right-of-way acquisition has not yet started.

OREGON leads the nation in roads constructed with 80% of its 731-mile Interstate system open. Other front-runners are Michigan, with 73% of its 1,082 miles completed; and New York, which has 71% of a 1,234-mile system carrying traffic. But toll roads make up almost half of New York's completed portion.

Hawaii has finished only 2.4 miles of its allotted 48 miles because the state entered the program late.

Breakfast Bait

Rent concessions are being replaced by continental breakfasts as a draw for new tenants.

Apartments and housing units are now using more sophisticated tenant lures such as free breakfasts of coffee and croissants, limousine service, boat moorings, maid service, travel reservations, and theater ticket services.

FHA Panel on Program for Builders

"What is the difference between a planned unit development and a condominium?"

This and other matters of interest to builders will be aired by a Federal Housing Administration panel at the Monday meeting of the Orange County Chapter, Building Contractors Association.

The builders meet at the Revere House in Tustin, with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:15.

* * * *

OTHER program topics include—

"Is it possible to convert a Garden Apartment into a planned development" and "learn why some planned unit developments fail and what makes the successful ones work."

FHA Director Charles Diebel of the Orange County area; Ray Moore, deputy director; John Bentley, department chief underwriter; Foy Bach, chief architect, and Deryl Gift, chief appraiser, will be on the panel.

Insurance Association 75 Years Old Friday

The National Association of Life Underwriters, the professional organization of career life insurance agents, will observe its 75th anniversary Friday.

Founded in 1890 at the Parker House in Boston, NALU now has 89,000 members and is affiliated with 847 local associations of life underwriters in every state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Jamaica, the Bahamas and Okinawa.

* * * *

THE NALU Code of Ethics, to which all members subscribe, sets high professional standards for agents in serving the needs of their clients.

Through its public information, educational, legislative and awards programs, NALU furthers the professional competence of agents and public understanding and acceptance of life and health insurance protection.

For example, NALU's National Quality Awards honor agents who have distinguished themselves in service to clients and whose clients keep their policies in force for years.

* * * *

NALU and the Institute of Life Insurance jointly sponsor an annual series of Community Service Awards to local agent groups for outstanding public services in their communities.

NALU's Million Dollar Round Table helps to maintain qualifications through seminars, forums and other activities for agents who meet high professional standards and whose clients have had enough confidence in them to buy $1 million or more of life insurance in one year.

Navy Lawyer Joins Firm

After 20 years as a Navy lawyer, Capt. Richard E. Ryan, USN, formerly of Long Beach, has retired from the service and returned to private law practice.

Ryan now is associated with the San Jose law firm of Boccardo, Blum, Lull, Niland, Teerlink & Bell. His home is at Los Altos.

CAPT. RICHARD RYAN, Rtd.
Ends Naval Career

Ryan most recently has been serving as a senior member of the Navy's appellate judiciary (i.e. as chairman of a Board of Review) in the West Coast Office of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy, San Bruno, Calif., where he has been hearing appeals from and reviewing Navy and Marine court-martial cases tried throughout the Pacific.

He headed the Navy's legal assistance program for two years immediately after World War II. Other assignments have included three years in London where he was senior Navy lawyer in Europe, three tours of duty in Washington, D.C., and three years as district legal officer of the 14th Naval District in Honolulu.

Before entering the service in December of 1941, he practiced law in Long Beach with Russell H. Pray and with Judge Charles C. Stratton, now on the Superior Bench of Los Angeles County.

High-Pay Study Shows $655,025 to GM Executive

The Gallagher President's Report just released has surveyed total remuneration, estimated annual pensions and shares owned for 78 highest-paid officers in 30 leading corporations.

The total annual remuneration for chairman, studied in the survey, ranges from $655,025 which General Motors, paid Fred Donner, to $127,164 Lockheed Aircraft paid Courtland Gross.

For presidents, compensation ranges from $740,900 which General Motors paid John Gordon, to $101,923 Swift paid Porter Jarvis.

The phenomenal salaries, in the opinion of The President's Report, are difficult to justify to stockholders and unions. The huge sums would be "better spent on salaries of second-echelon executives, to neutralize the demoralizing effect of unreasonable salary gaps and assure qualified management succession.

"Top executive compensation is an artificial status symbol," the Report says. "The executive gains very little in take-home pay."

Only 57.7% of the listed executives receive deferred Compensation. "There should be more," The Gallagher President's Report concludes. "It's an important area for reexamination by top management."

Social Security Benefit Penalty on Oldsters Hit

There should be no penalty on honest sweat.

That appears to be the viewpoint of the nation's independent business proprietors who just have voted by a majority of 65% in favor of removing all restriction on the earnings an elderly person may receive without being penalized on Social Security benefits.

The voting, conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business, was on H.R. 3428, introduced by Rep. John Lindsay (New York). The vote against was 32%, with 3% undecided.

When this same measure was presented to the Congress by former Congresswoman Katherine St. George, 57% of the business proprietors voted in favor. Thus, this latest vote shows a substantial strengthening of opinion.

As the law now stands, persons entitled to old age benefits loses on their payments from the fund if they also earn $1,700 per year or more individually in gainful employment.

On the other hand, those who have supplemental incomes from stocks, bonds, real estate, or other means can receive full Social Security benefits.

There are many aged millionaires now receiving the full Social Security benefits. However, those who must eke out the benefits by toil are penalized.

"It is high time there be a complete exposure of the inequities involved in many aspects of the Social Security system," Federation president C. Wilson Harder comments.

Interstate Highway Network 47% Done

The Interstate Highway network is nearing the halfway mark. During the year ending March 31, 2,504 more miles were added to the system, bringing total mileage to 19,173, reports Engineering News-Record.

Although the 41,000-mile system is at the 47% mark, the pace will have to increase substantially if the 49 states (Alaska is not in the system) and the District of Columbia are to meet the 1972 deadline set in 1956.

LONG TANK—LONG TRIP

Longest stretch of its kind on record (3,081-mile trip) faces this 129-foot gas storage tank (two feet longer than from home plate to second base) and eight more of the same size. They're making a month-long journey over four railroads from the Milton, Pa., plant of ACF Industries to Washington Natural Gas Co. at Seattle, Wash., for use in a new underground storage facility. A three-flatcar string is needed to handle each of the tanks. The tanks weigh 172,000 pounds (86 tons) and will hold 86,600 gallons of liquid propane.

Tally Shows Incomes Up Over 1964 Period

First-quarter 1965 was good to the nation's breadwinners. According to Business Week's latest Measure of Personal Income, individual income from all sources rose almost $9.3 billion, or 7.9% over the first three months of 1964.

Every state in the union and the District of Columbia shared in the rise. And no less than nine states—Alabama, Alaska, Delaware, Hawaii, Idaho, Maine, Michigan, South Carolina and Wisconsin—showed gains of more than 10%.

Michigan carried off all honors in year-to-year gains for the month of March. Thanks to the automobile and capital-spending booms, personal income jumped 15.5% over March, 1964.

Other major industrial states in the Midwest and Northeast also are enjoying vigorous prosperity. Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and New Jersey — all states that feature durable goods manufacturing—scored higher than the national average in annual income gains in March.

There were a few laggards as well. Key states such as New York, California, Massachusetts and Texas, while showing great improvement over earlier trends, still failed to keep up with the national pace in March and in the first quarter, due partly to defense procurement shifts and construction cutbacks. Texas and New York suffered too from the prolonged dock strike.

Looking ahead, it's probable that April's average personal income showing for the nation will not be as good as that of March. The toll in floods and tornado damage throughout the Midwest doubtless included many hours and days of lost pay.

Firm Notes Anniversary

Heralding five years of business growth, Dick Browning Oldsmobile, 1227 Long Beach Blvd., this weekend was celebrating its fifth anniversary.

DICK BROWNING

Browning, now president of the agency, purchased it from C. Stanlee Martin, who had been a car dealer here more than 30 years. Browning was Martin's general manager when the business changed hands.

The past five years have seen sales increase in excess of 70%.

In 1960 there were 52 employes; now there are 78. Some $40,000 has been spent in new equipment. Remodeling of offices is planned shortly.

A 35,000 square foot used car lot has been added at 1090 Long Beach Blvd., and used car sales and reconditioning business is up 50%.

Browning's department heads include:

William Blankenship, general manager; James Blum, sales; Richard Chitwood, office manager; Norman Isaacs, used cars; Monte Montgomery, service; and J. R. Hamaker, head of the new lease and car rental division.

Cuts Maintenance

Acrylic plastics, now widely used in the building industry, were developed first for use in aircraft windows and automobile tail lights.

Applied to mineral fiber house siding, an acrylic plastic coating adds a weather-resistant finish with locked-in color to a rock-hard base material. As a result, the siding will last many years without painting.

Club Will Hear Brokers' Panel

The Thursday breakfast meeting of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club will feature a brokers' panel.

C. O. "Doc" Givens, general sales manager for Rex L. Hodges, will deal with telephone technique that sells real estate; Mickey Bemis of Mickey Bemis Realty will cover the professional way to show property; and Doris Planzo of Doric Realty will give the important points in closing a sale.

The time is 8 a.m. — the place the Crown Bowl, 1301 Artesia Blvd.

May Stores to Show Old Automobiles

May Co. will combine old-time values with old-time transportation in celebrating its annual Founders Day Monday.

Antique automobiles, from a collection which will be exhibited at the Pan Pacific Auditorium next month, will be on display at all May Co. stores in the Greater Los Angeles area during business hours Monday.

Many of the cars, dating from 1901 to the more streamlined 1923 models, never have been seen before by the public.

On display will be such all-time "greats" as the 1902 Oldsmobile Roadster which inspired the hit "In My Merry Oldsmobile."

Large Dolphin Terrace Homes Contain Up to Six Bedrooms

IN VARIETY OF STYLINGS

Over 50% of the homes at Dolphin Terrace have been sold prior to the grand opening of unit 2, according to Robert Plumleigh, developer of the Fountain Valley Community.

Homes in the newest unit offer spacious floor plans providing from three to six bedrooms in one-story, two-story or split-level designs.

Architecturally designed, the Medallion homes, available in a wide variety of exterior stylings, contain many features, designed specifically for the varying needs of different families. Among the residents at Dolphin Terrace are builder T. N. Plumleigh, Jr. and architect J. Robert Skaggs.

All-electric kitchens have built-in range, double oven, range hood, disposer, Formica counter-tops and ash cabinetry.

* * * *

FAMILY ROOMS, formal dining rooms and bonus rooms are among other features offered in the many floor plans available. All homes have two baths, featuring extensive use of ceramic tile and double pullmans, and two to three-car garages.

Other features include wall-to-wall carpeting, fireplaces, master bedroom suites, and forced-air heating systems.

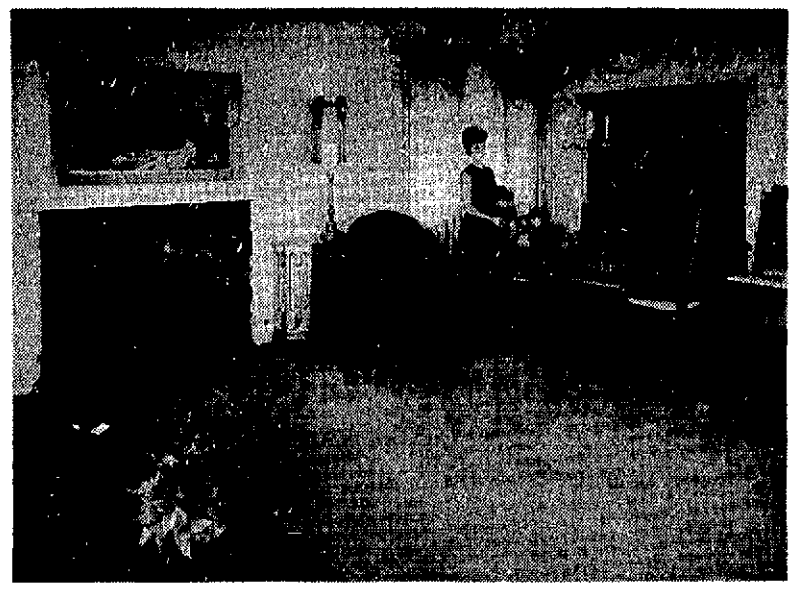

Exterior features include lawns and sprinklers, and rear yard fencing. The lots have ample room for the installation of a swimming pool or extensive landscaping and gardens.

The homes are priced from $26,950 and can be purchased on terms with a down payment of 5%. Plumleigh pointed out that a guaranteed trade-plan is in effect at the development, enabling buyers to move into new homes immediately.

Dolphin Terrace is located on Newhope St. just west of Harbor Blvd. and south of Edinger, in Fountain Valley. Furnished model homes are open daily.

L.B. Plant Gets Parts Contract

Award of a $49,448 Air Force contract to Maney Aircraft Parts, Inc., 101 W. Spring St., Long Beach, has been announced by Air Material Area headquarters at Sacramento.

LARGE LIVING ROOM
This impressive living room is found in one of the Fernhill homes in Huntington Beach. The homes have up to 1,600 square feet of living space.

Fernhill Facilities Prove Impressive

Fernhill in Huntington Beach, offered exclusively to adults and families with children 15 or over, features extensive recreational facilities for residents, according to sales agent Frank McFarland of McFarland and Mattocks Inc.

A full-sized, heated swimming pool is one of the primary assets of the Fernhill development. Adjoining the swimming pool are tennis, shuffleboard and badminton courts. A well-equipped recreation building with facilities for group entertainment is also included in the main recreational area. Three putting greens are sited at suitable points around Fernhill.

* * * *

REALTOR McFarland said that Fernhill's planned development living was based upon the natural wish of active adults to free themselves of the burden of home maintenance. "This wish naturally increases as teenage children develop outside interests, and eventually go off to adult lives of their own" he said, pointing out that Fernhill had been designed with such active adults in mind. All grounds, facilities, and home exteriors at Fernhill are professionally maintained for residents through payment of a small separate monthly maintenance fee.

Fernhill's two and three bedroom, two-bath homes have up to 1600 square feet of living area, which McFarland said is "considerably more spacious" than most planned development or condominium homes offered in the Southland today.

Prices start at $22,400, with 5% down and 6¼% loans.

Fernhill is located next to Meadowlark Country Club, one mile east of Huntington Harbour. Visitors take Bolsa Chica Road south from San Diego Freeway to Warner, and turn left to Fernhill.

TWA Business Hits New Highs

Trans World Airlines in May boarded more passengers on U.S. flights and flew more freight ton miles, domestic and international, than in any month in its history. Traffic in all categories also set new May records, the company reported last week.

TWA flew 12,622,000 domestic freight ton miles, 33% over May 1964 total, and 5% over the previous all-time monthly record in March 1965. International freight ton miles totaled 6,868,000 an increase of 69% over May 1964 and 2% over the previous monthly lecord in April 1965.

A total of 705,019 passengers boarded TWA domestic flights, 16% more than in May 1964, nearly 1% over the previous monthly high last August. International passenger boardings were up 32% over May 1964.

In-Laws Make Good Salesmen

Mothers-in-law may well be the builder's best friends.

According to a Bureau of Census report, only slightly more than 2% of all married couples now live with their in-laws, as compared with 9% 20 years ago.

This means almost 3 million more couples became prospects for new homes rather than live with in-laws. Had newlyweds continued to live with momma at the same rate as 20 years ago, 200,000 families would have been kept out of the housing market each year.

PSA Has Big Month

Narrowly missing the all-time PSA single month passenger mark, Pacific Southwest Airlines recorded a sharp increase in passenger totals during May, it was announced at San Diego last week by President J. Floyd Andrews.

Posting a 13% increase over a like period one year ago, the intra-state airline carried 150,505 passengers during May. The mark easily bettered the former May standard of 132,870 set in May of last year.

* * * *

THE NEW May record, meanwhile, compared favorable with the all-time single month total of 152,316 set in August of 1964. The new May total represents only the second 150,000-plus total in the airline's 16-year-plus history.

The airline is running well ahead of last year's record-breaking pace when 1,532,243 passengers were carried.

The 31-day May period also found PSA breaking every one of its single day passenger and operational records.

For the first time in its history, the airline bettered the 100-flight and 9,000-passenger totals in a single day with the scheduling of 103 flights and the carrying of 9707 passengers on Monday, May 31.

Bluffs Homes in Newport Nearly Ready to Occupy

OVERLOOK NEWPORT BAY

Handsome beamed ceilings, balconies, Spanish-styled fireplaces and wide selection of one-story, split-level and two-story homes are available at the new unit of George M. Holstein and Sons' Bluffs community overlooking Upper Newport Bay on the Irvine Ranch. Prices start at $28,000 at the site just west of MacArthur Boulevard.

A quickened pace of construction will assure occupancy for end of school at the Bluffs above Upper Newport Bay in Newport Beach, developers, George M. Holstein and Sons, stressed this week.

The Spanish-styled homes are available in two, three and four-bedroom plans with views to the bay, to the rolling, 40-acre Bluffs park, or the various pool areas of the unique development, the developer pointed out.

* * * *

PRICED FROM $28,000, monthly payments start as low as $138 per month with a normal down payment with occupancy assured within a few weeks. "This means," the Bluff builders declared, "new home owners in the Bluffs may enjoy a full summer at this choice resort like location."

The Bluff site is within two miles to three different golf courses, minutes to the Newport Bay, boating, fishing and other of the famous Newport-Balboa vacation facilities.

The site is also adjacent to the Corona Del Mar High School, close to a new junior high school, two churches and the Irvine Ranch's big new shopping center that is now under construction.

Meredith Acres in Orange, Fast Approaching Sell-Out

BIG HOMES OFFERED

Meredith Acres, the $6,500,000 development of 150 residences in Orange developed by well-known Eddy Meredith, is now more than 80% sold out. Pictured here are two of six fully furnished models on display daily.

Meredith Acres, the 150 residential development by Eddy Meredith in Orange is now better than 80% sold, it was anounced by the builder.

The $6,500,000 development of split-level and two-story homes is located at the foot of the hills in Orange on Santiago and Taft and is one of the many fine home developments successfully built and sold by The Meredith Co. in Orange County.

In addition to the present Meredith Acres in Orange, the well known Orange County builder is now preparing to open another large development called Meredith Gardens in Huntington Beach area on Brookhurst less than a mile from the beach.

Another Meredith development is well along in Santa Ana on Santa Clara street.

* * * *

THE HOMES in Orange and the other Meredith homes are noted for their wide variety of exterior designs and for living area up to 3,200 square feet. The many different type models all feature formal dining rooms plus informal dining areas in three, four and five bedrooms with three baths and two and three car garages.

The all electric homes all feature General Electric kitchens.

Homebuyers walking through the complete street of furnished and all landscaped models are able to completely visualize how their home will look when they move in, the builder stated.

One of the outstanding models, the Ashland, features a sweeping 21-foot galleria overlooking an impressive foyer and living room with an expensive 10 foot wide stairway designed for the grand entrance.

* * * *

ALL MEREDITH HOMES are designed with large family rooms with some up to 500 square feet of living and playing area. They are paneled with black walnut and feature large decorative fireplaces in brick, stone and marble. All the family rooms have sliding doors leading directly to the rear patio area.

From Long Beach take the San Diego freeway toward Santa Ana and then onto the Santa Ana Freeway to the Riverside Freeway then to the Newport Freeway and the Katella west off-ramp. Turn right on Katella to Tustin Avenue, right on Tustin to Taft Ave., and right on Taft to Santiago Blvd., and the Meredith Acres development.

Browning Auto Agency Names Lease Manager

Addition of J. Robert Humaker to the staff of Dick Browning Oldsmobile, 1227 Long Beach Blvd., has been announced by William Blankenship, general manager.

Hamaker is new manager of the firm's Leasing and Car Rental Division.

A fleet of new Oldsmobiles, as well as other models, is available for leasing, Blankenship said.

Humaker also will have duties in customer relations and as owner relations counselor. He lives at 2842 Walker Lee Drive, Rossmoor, and has been in the Long Beach area since 1939. He served in the Air Corps in World War II.

Facilities for Recreation Plentiful in New Townhouses

THREE-AREA VIEW

With full sliding glass doors, the patio joins the dining area and the kitchen at Foothill Village Townhouses. The comodious breakfast bar also serves as a divider between kitchen and dining area. This three-area design is convenient whether dining indoors or out.

Staying home for week-end fun is a common occurrence at Foothill Village in Fullerton, according to Bud Monahan of Forest E. Olson Co.

Monahan has been spending his own week-ends showing visitors the $2,200,000 townhouse development. "That's when I began to notice that residents here stay home for their week-end fun," he said. "After all, when you can swim in an oversized pool, whip up a real barbecue, putt on the putting greens, dance in the recreation building or just plain laze around, why fight traffic?"

This is one of the basic ideas the developers had in mind. Sort of bringing the mountain to Mohammed. Monahan also pointed out that it isn't exactly a "togetherness" pattern, because there is such a diversity of recreational facilities. While Dad is on the putting greens, Mother might be playing bridge with friends on the second story of the recreation building and the children (according to age) may be in the playground or one of the pools, he explained.

The townhouses are located at the corner of Placentia Ave. and Madison Ave. in Fullerton. The models are open from 10 in the morning until sundown.

Prices start at $18,900 and feature a low monthly payment of just $91 principal and interest.

Three-Car Garages in Landmark Homes

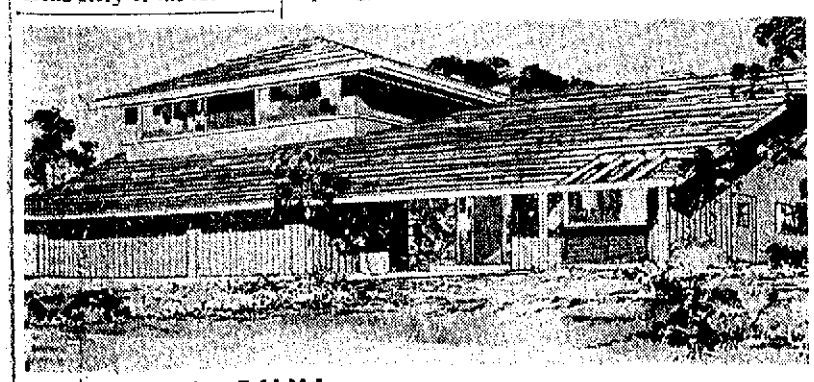

R. C. Morrison, Landmark Homes sales manager, announced that all Landmark Homes in the new La Palma development will have three-car garages.

Preview homeseekers are invited to visit the model area now. Located at the intersection of Moody Street and La Palma Avenue, this community will eventually comprise some 360 homes. In the first unit there will be 144 homes. All will be two-story and offer over approximately 2,222 square feet. Features will include underground utilities, carpeting, fencing, landscaping, sprinklers, optional air conditioning, walk-in closets and the usual long list of Landmark Homes exclusives.

* * * *

A GENERAL plan for developing La Palma as the community of the "Ideal American City" has been approved by city councilmen. The development of residential, commercial and industrial land is expected by 1975.

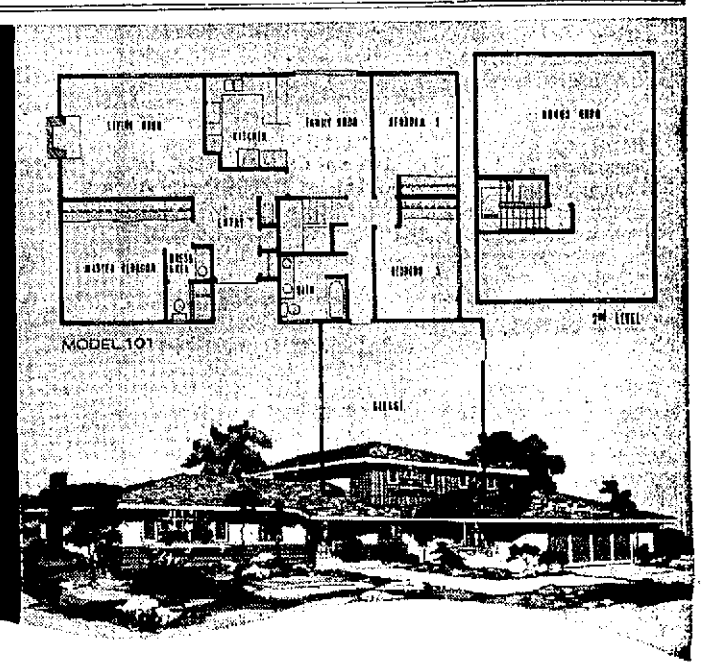

The master plan calls for 490 acres of low-density residential housing, 88 acres in "townhouse" construction and 69 acres in high-density apartments.

Bluffs Homes in Newport Nearly Ready to Occupy

OVERLOOK NEWPORT BAY

Handsome beamed ceilings, balconies, Spanish-styled fireplaces and wide selection of one-story, split-level and two-story homes are available at the new unit of George M. Holstein and Sons' Bluffs community overlooking Upper Newport Bay on the Irvine Ranch. Prices start at $28,000 at the site just west of MacArthur Boulevard.

A quickened pace of construction will assure occupancy for end of school at the Bluffs above Upper Newport Bay in Newport Beach, developers, George M. Holstein and Sons' stressed this week.

The Spanish-styled homes are available in two, three and four-bedroom plans with views to the bay, to the rolling, 40-acre Bluffs park, or unique development, the developer pointed out.

* * * *

PRICED FROM $28,000, monthly payments start as low as $138 per month with a normal down payment with occupancy assured within a few weeks. "This means," the Bluff builders declared, "new home owners in the Bluffs may enjoy a full summer at this choice resort like location."

The Bluff site is within two miles to three different golf courses, minutes to the Newport Bay, boating, fishing and other of the famous Newport-Balboa vacation facilities.

The site is also adjacent to the Corona Del Mar High School, close to a new junior high school, two churches and the Irvine Ranch's big new shopping center that is now under construction.

NOTES OF BUSINESS, ECONOMY

Many Subdivisions, Buildings Planned Throughout L.B. Area

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

Several new subdivisions are being planned in the Long Beach Metropolitan area, giving impetus to the local economy by strengthening the construction industry.

There also are various new building projects under way throughout the area to further brighten the picture.

In the El Toro area, Amberwood Construction Corp. will develop 386 homes along El Toro Road near Trabuco Road.

Brattain Construction Co. plans 83 homes in the city of Fountain Valley.

Laguna Niguel Corp. is preparing plans for an additional 1,087 homes on the easterly side of El Niguel Golf Course in the Laguna Niguel area of Orange County.

* * * *

A TENTATIVE tract map has been prepared by Engineers Williams & Schmid of Santa Ana for an unnamed party to divide 123 acres into 11 sites on the north side of Campus Drive, between MacArthur Boulevard and Jamboree Road in North Newport Beach, probably for industrial use.

Industrial development of a subdivision near Main and Collins in Orange is planned on 10 acres by Frozen Brand Sales of Los Angeles.

Omega Development Co. will be owner-subdivider of nine homes on three acres in Paos Verdes Peninsula north of Silver Spur Road and west of Hawthorne Boulevard.

Plans for a subdivision of 258 homes in San Juan Capistrano for Kolbert Co. are being prepared. Another 51 homes in the area are planned by Casistas-Capistrano Co., and the McCarthy Co. will build 314 homes in the same area.

* * * *

BOTH residential and commercial construction is planned on 157 acres in Orange north of the Garden Grove Freeway between Lewis and Manchester Street. A 328-unit high rise apartment is included in plans which The City Management Corp. of Beverly Hills is preparing.

Tic Toc Markets will build at 1913-15 Pomona Ave. in Costa Mesa.

The architectural firm of Power & Daniel of Long Beach is preparing plans for a library building in the civic center at La Habra.

* * * *

WITH $2,500,000 budgeted for it, eight two-story brick masonry student housing units are to be built for State College, Long Beach. Neptune & Thomas, Pasadena, is preparing the plans.

Architects Hanes & Paul of Downey are preparing plans for a $100,000 office building at 8402 Second St. in Downey for an unnamed client.

P I. Securities is listed as developer of $400,000 in retail store units planned for 9163-9229 Stonewood in Downey.

MHD Research, Inc., is having plans prepared for a $500,000 office and laboratories building on campus Drive in Orange County.

ADD NOTES—Busiess Rlty.

* * * *

At a cost of $1 million, Key Management Corp., 7332 Florence Ave., Downey, plans five big apartment buildings at Central Ave. and Monte Vista in La Habra.

Twenty-six units will be built in five two-story apartment structures in Buena Park at 6382 Crescent Ave. by C. E. Sparks and P.G. Pilger, 8602 Western Ave., Buena Park.

A $200,000 chapel is to be built at the Long Beach Naval Station. Bids on the project have been called for June 18 by the US Bureau of Navy Yards and Docks, San Diego.

* * * *

AND, $2 MILLION in new barracks buildings at the Long Beach Naval Station will be up for bids June 25. There will be two, three-story buildings.

Bids on the new Long Beach-Los Angeles U.S. Custom House are to be opened June 24. Estimated cost of the structure ranges from $3,500,000 to $4,300,000.

* * * *

PARK PANTRY will build a 3800 sq. ft. restaurant on the Southeast corner of Paramount Blvd. and Harrison St., in Paramount.

Ernest W. Hahn Inc., Hawthorne, has been awarded the contract to build a $3 million department store in Fountain Valley for Gemco. It will be 104,000 sq. ft. and will be at Brookhurst and Warner Ave.

Diversified Builders of Paramount won the contract to construct a large sales and service facility at 4919 Candlewood in Lakewood Center for the Chrysler Corp.

Ford Motor Co., awarded the contract to William J. Moran Co., Alhambra, to build an automobile agency at 3600 Cherry Ave., which has a Lakewood address, for Pacific Auto Sales Co.

* * * *

WITH THE SUCCESS of Los Altos Shopping Center in Long Beach as a guidepost, Westgate - California Realty in cooperation with United States National Bank is opening a second project, the Redlands Plaza in the City of Redlands Thursday.

The new $2 million Plaza, which will serve as the blueprint nucleus for Redlands Center City Project, occupies the entire block opposite the City Hall. A three-building complex designed in the early California tradition, the shopping center will house the Redlands Branch of U.S. National Bank in one of the buildings, in addition to 20 shops and stores and a restaurant, plus second floor offices in all three buildings for business tenants.

$3 Million 'Pattern' Set

"When we, in the Port of Los Angeles-Long Beach, top $3 million in weekly fee collections, it is no longer a record; it is a trend that has established an accepted pattern."

So commented acting collector Frank R. Creed, as for the seventh time this year he released weekly collection figures which soared above the three-million mark.

Actual collections for the week ending May 28 totaled $3,087,600.94 and 1964 figures for the comparable period totaled $2,257,054.73.

Creed pointed out that the "three-million-plus" figure is occuring so frequently since the beginning of the year that it is becoming commonplace, and said that for the like period in 1964 (January through May) weekly collections never once reached $3 million.

"As a matter of fact, they plunged below the two-million mark on seven separate occasions; conversely, the 1965 figures dipped below $2 million only once."

Total formal entries for the week ending May 28 totaled 2,028 as compared with 2,124 for the like period in 1964.

Estate Planning Obligations Eyed

A review of the obligations of the estate planning team will be headed by Roy Stenborg at the Thursday noon meeting of the Estate Planning and Trust Council at the Petroleum Club.

Stenborg is vice president of Trust Administration for the Bank of America in Los Angeles. His talk is titled "Facing Future Responsibilities." Don Smith arranged the program.

Trust Council members include those of the life underwriter, bank trust officer, certified public accountant and legal professions.

Rossmoor Townhouses Showing Popularity by Big Sales Rush

An expanding interest by homeseekers in Rossmoor Townhouses was seen in the report by Jaymarc Corp. that in excess of 70% of the homes have now been sold.

Bernard Solomon, chairman, and William Ballon, president of Jaymarc Corp., developers, said that among the major reasons for the rapid sales were: close proximity to urban facilities and freeways; quality features of the homes themselves; and low price and terms.

Although new home sales generally are running at a reduced pace throughout Southern California, the trend at Rossmoor Townhouses continues at a high rate. Families now in their Townhouses are enjoying the private club house, swimming pools, shuffleboard courts and putting greens. Reports indicate that the heated therapeutic pool is getting a considerable play from the residents.

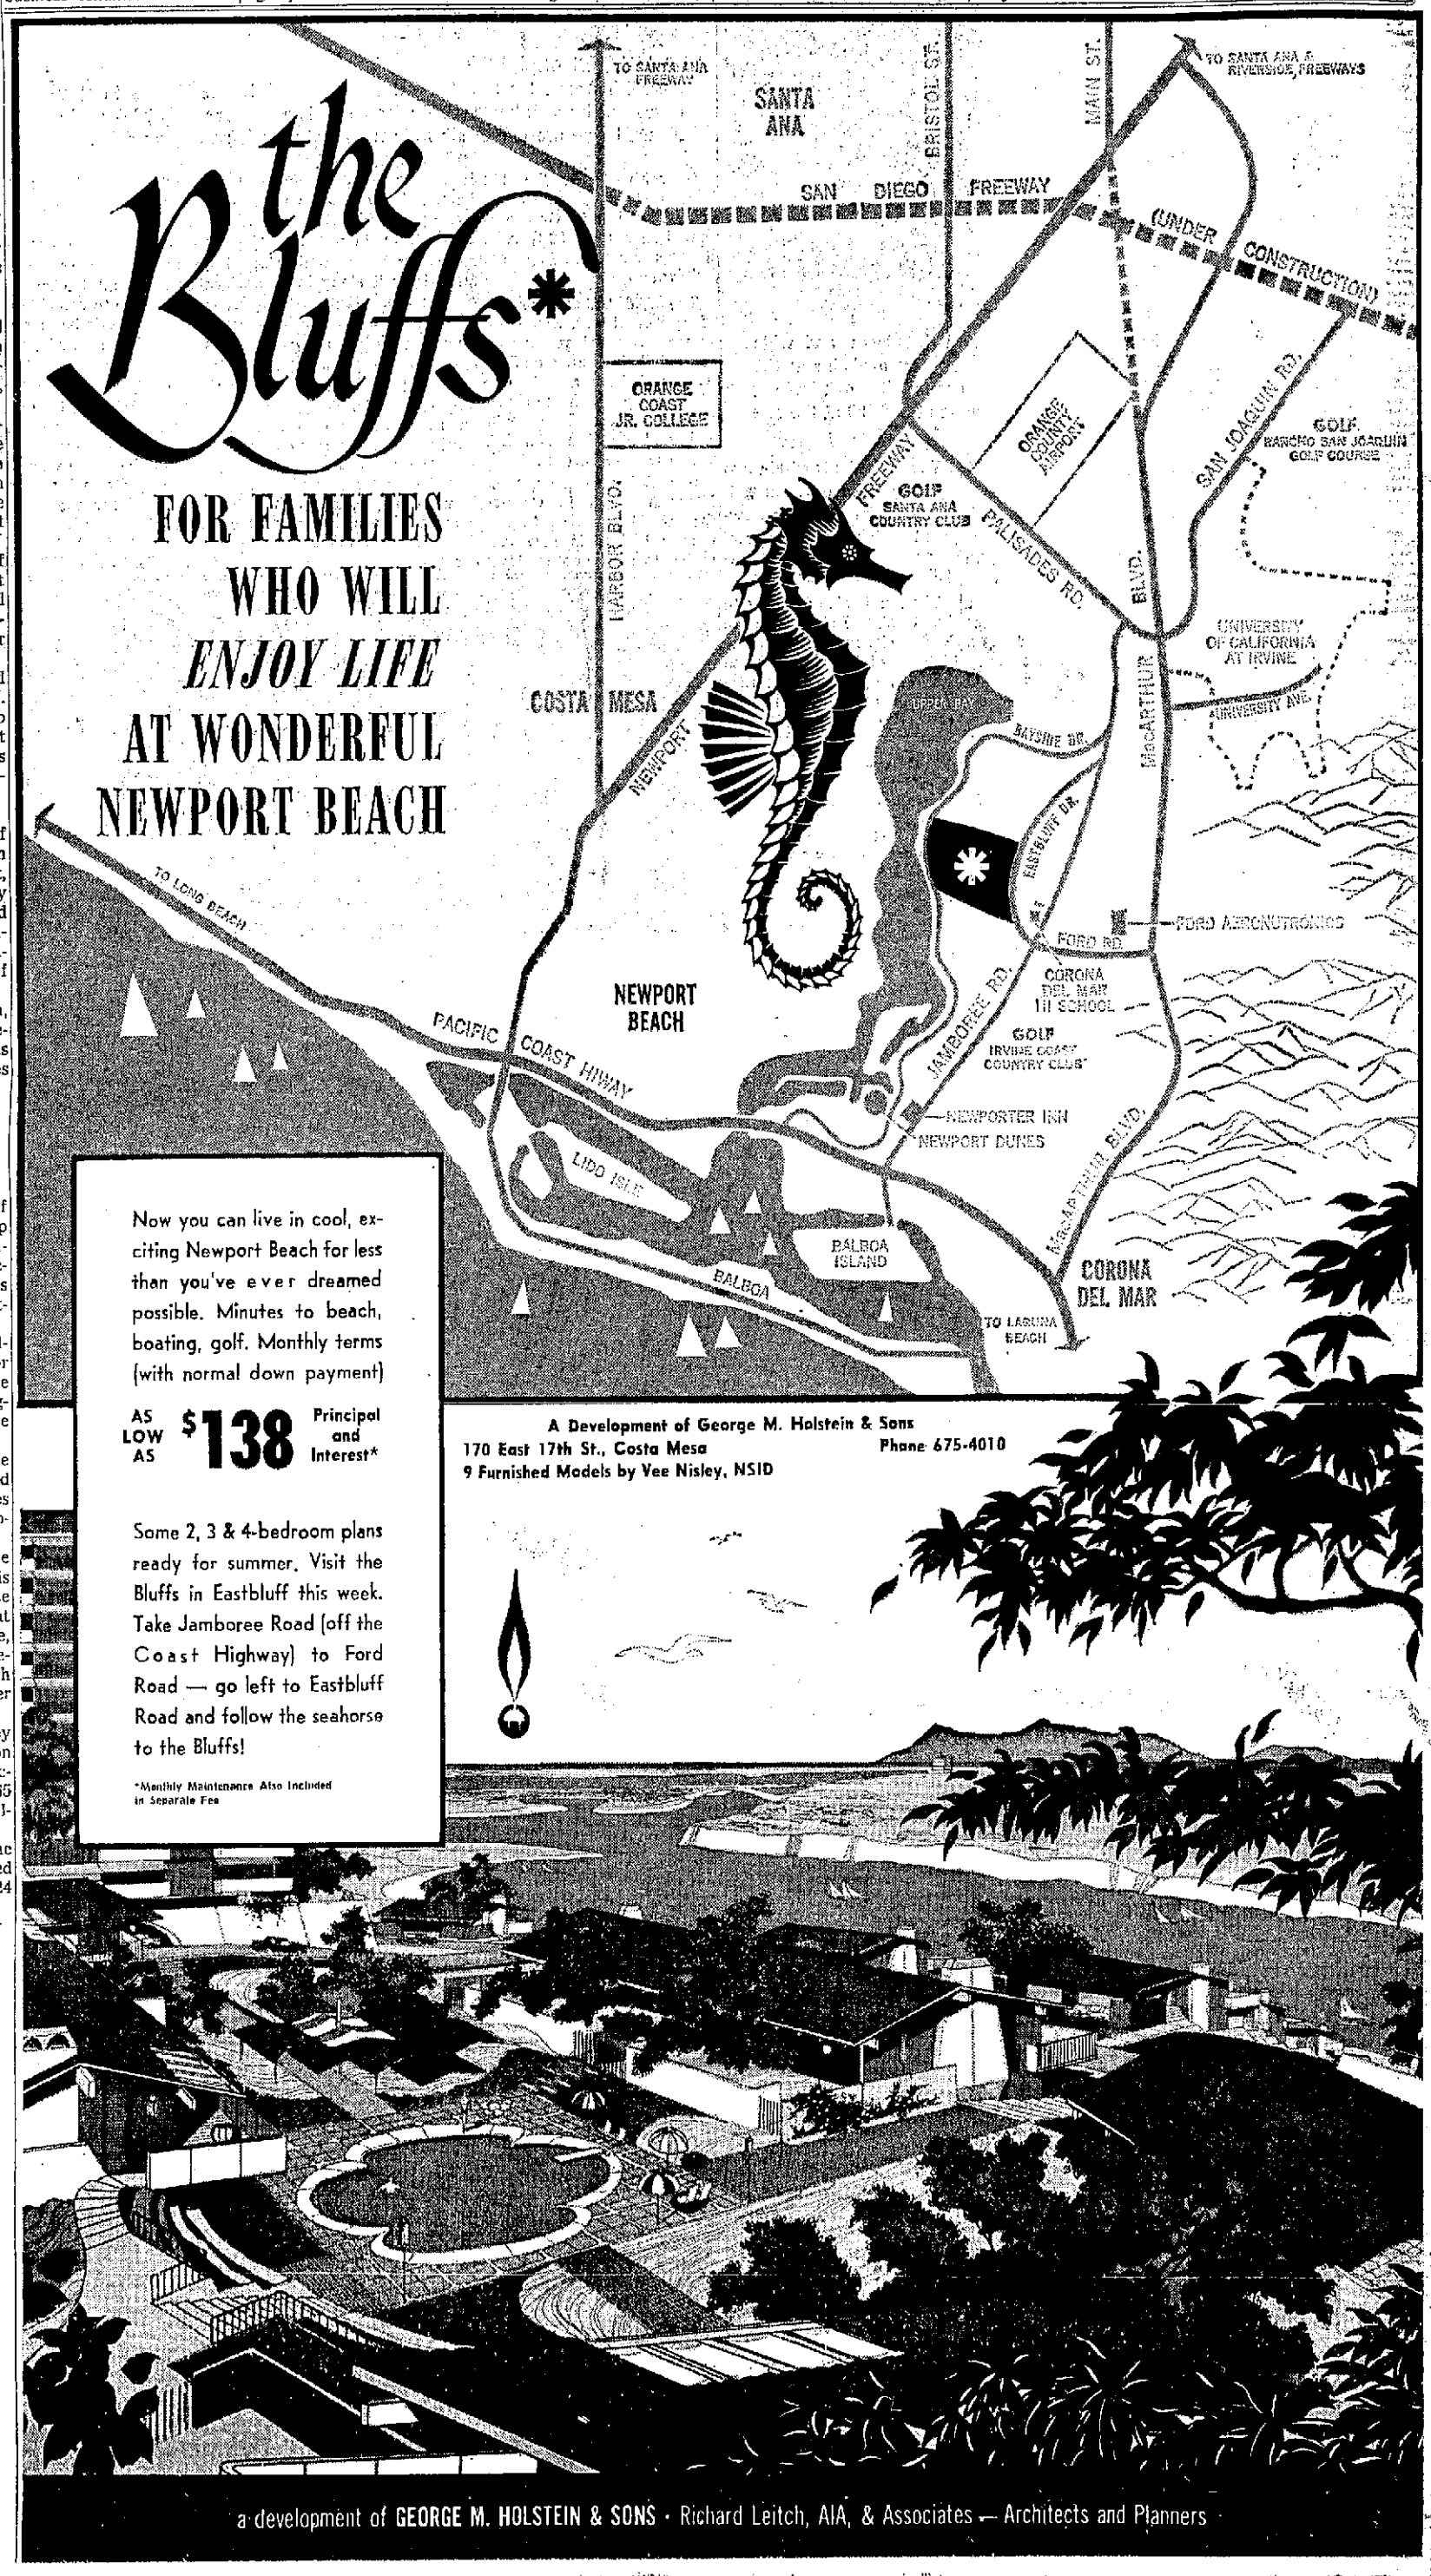

* * * *

ROSSMOOR Townhouses' two, three and four-bedroom homes have been built on a luxury scale with quality construction usually found in homes costing over $30,000. Priced from $19,950, these homes offer all modern living conveniences plus a location within walking distance of the major Rossmoor Shopping and Business Center. Features include all-electric kitchens with built-in Americana oven and range, disposal, dishwasher and combination washer-dryer; concrete, private patio; and carport. Privacy is assured since there are no common walls.

Townhouses may be reached from Long Beach by going east on Seventh St. to the Los Alamitos-Bay Blvds. Exit, then north 2 blocks on Los Alamitos Blvd. to Rossmoor Shopping Center.

Asphalt Was Used to Build Pyramids

Asphalt, the main component of the roofing material on most homes in America, is one of the world's oldest building materials. When the many-tongued builders of the Tower of Babel called for cement, they were actually asking for asphalt. The ancient Egyptians used asphalt in constructing the Pyramids.

What's ahead???

By Mary Ellis Carlton
Director, Women's News

This month . . . like every June for many a moon . . . youth is bustin' out all over.

Like an explosion, the under-21 set is marching in graduation processionals, spilling into the labor market, rushing to the altar.

It's the month when more than three million high school and college graduates across the nation will, in unison, close their school books to face a new, topsy-turvy world of responsibility and challenge, of time clocks, office and factory routine, paychecks (for some inadequate), military service, marriage and parenthood.

In Long Beach, a record-breaking 9,145 students — carbon copied in cap and gown, looking more alike than they've ever looked before or ever will again — are marching off with diplomas this June.

WHAT DO THEY face . . . where are they headed?

The picture is bright for the 2,500 grads at Cal State, Long Beach, according to H. Ed Babbush, director of placement. Says he: "There's a plethora of jobs in most fields . . . salaries are up over last year."

An example: Last year an engineering graduate with a bachelor's degree could demand an average monthly wage of $640. This year the average ranges from $685 to $700. Other examples: mathematics and statistics, from $640 in 1964 to $690 this year; accounting, from $550 to $575; social welfare, up some from last year's $476. Top starting pay for elementary teachers is $600; for secondary teachers, $640.

And there's profit in advanced education, he pointed out. Holders of master's degrees average, in all fields, at least another $100 in starting pay.

ARE ALL COLLEGE graduates

SHE'S ON THE WAY UP---BECAUSE . . .

'I'd rather be a could be'

By Elise Emery
I,P-T Arts Page Editor

"If you believe it, they believe it," believes Bea Bradley.

Putting this creed to work, Bea has charmed audiences with her stage, television, variety show and musical comedy roles.

She'll do it again Friday, June 25, when Ports of Call Players opens its doors—or rather, its tent flaps—for its first production, Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit."

The new theater, housed in a tent, is located at Berth 75, Los Angeles Harbor, San Pedro, and stands between Ports of Call Restaurant and the Yankee Whaler Inn.

For Bea, playing the spiritualist in Noel Coward's spoof of the spook world is a repeat performance. She did the part in Long Beach State College's production when she was a student there. Her professor, who directed the play, heads the new theater group and considers Bea perfect for the role.

"She is truly a professional, marvelously funny, and a fine actress who is on her way to the top," he says.

But Bea had to do some intensive believing to win the role she wants in life—status of professional actress.

When she was 12 years old she was 6 feet 2.

"Children can be cruel," she remembers.

Now, 6 feet 3, the auburn-haired girl with the big brown eyes and expressive face, views things differently.

She invented her own form of New Math long ago and made all the minuses add up to pluses.

"When I was in high school I read a jingle. I memorized it and when I got blue recited it to myself."

It goes like this:

I'd rather be a could be
If I couldn't be an are,
For a could be is a maybe
With a chance of reaching par.
I'd rather be a has been
Than a might have been, by far,
For a might have been
Has never been
But a has was once an are.

When she was self-conscious with her classmates, Bea retreated into a world of make-believe.

"It was a psychological defense mechanism, of course, but it was also my first acting. In my own world I could be anyone I wanted to be."

The tall, slender girl with the proud, graceful carriage.

What's ahead???

By Mary Ellis Carlton
Director, Women's News

This month . . . like every June for many a moon . . . youth is bustin' out all over.

Like an explosion, the under-21 set is marching in graduation processionals, spilling into the labor market, rushing to the altar.

It's the month when more than three million high school and college graduates across the nation will, in unison, close their school books to face a new, topsy-turvy world of responsibility and challenge, of time clocks, office and factory routine, paychecks (for some inadequate), military service, marriage and parenthood.

In Long Beach, a record-breaking 9,145 students — carbon copied in cap and gown, looking more alike than they've ever looked before or ever will again — are marching off with diplomas this June.

WHAT DO THEY face . . . where are they headed?

The picture is bright for the 2,500 grads at Cal State, Long Beach, according to H. Ed Babbush, director of placement. Says he: "There's a plethora of jobs in most fields . . . salaries are up over last year."

An example: Last year an engineering graduate with a bachelor's degree could demand an average monthly wage of $640. This year the average ranges from $685 to $700. Other examples: mathematics and statistics, from $640 in 1964 to $690 this year; accounting, from $550 to $575; social welfare, up some from last year's $476. Top starting pay for elementary teachers is $600; for secondary teachers, $640.

And there's profit in advanced education, he pointed out. Holders of master's degrees average, in all fields, at least another $100 in starting pay.

WILD WAVES SAY

How it is in jaunty month of now

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Society Editor

JUNE IS a month of crossroads and people's lives start going all kitty corner — everything from planning vacations or re-doing the patio to such very important changes as getting married or graduating and facing futures filled with new patterns.

Even for that hold-the-line, status quo and gung-ho gang of Bachelor Club guys, there were changes to be noted at annual luau. Fellow at far right (photo right) is a prime example. He's now a married ex-member, name of Carl Harvey!

Luau, attended by throng of gaily costumed members and guests, was a mai tai fling with lots of delicious Polynesian hors d'oeuvres served to fend off hunger. It took place at Pacific Coast Club in Bachelor Club's official penthouse headquarters. Carl and wife Joyce were allowed to attend, as were other staunch one-time bachelors Tony Caltigrove and wife Tony, Ken and Bonita Champion and the Jim Youngs. Jim was a president of club for two or three terms and Carl, too. Well, time and tide, y'know.

A few others there were Don Crawford and date, Diane Ritzer, Jerry Gianni and Barbara Roberts, Bob Albers and date, Regina Cafontaine.

NATIVES, CALIFORNIA VARIETY, GO NATIVE—POLYNESIAN STYLE—AT LUAU
. . . Don Crawford (left), still a Bachelor; Diane Ritzer, Joyce and Carl Harvey. Carl's membership now kaput.

SOME BIG adventures begin in June, others end. In the case of brothers, Larry and Beau Weill, a whale of one ended. They're home after trip on a 40-foot catamaran which they sailed from San Diego and on through the Panama Canal to the Caribbean — just the two of them. They left the "cat" in Ft. Myers, Fla., returned overland by Volkswagen. It was a working cruise for both. Larry, an electrical engineer, is doing research with the Navy in San Diego and Beau, an industrial engineer, is with Mattel Toy. So, if better anti-sub devices or toy boats are built, it could be because of a sleek pleasure craft.

WHILE NEW grads go forth, a not-so-rare June phenomenon occurs. Old grads want to go back in time; begin planning reunions with former classmates. That's the way it is with Wilson grads of 1953. Operation right now is to locate all ex-Bruins of that year and let them know affair will be Sept. 25 at Edgewater Hotel.

GOAL: TURN TIME BACK—FOR A NIGHT
. . . Sibyl Oslie, Dixie Viets, Joyce Hunt

Committee members (in photo left) are seized with this June fever as they reminisce over an old Campanile, school yearbook. In charge of what's bound to be a bouncy bash are Mrs. Wallace (Sybil Snead) Oslie, 6900 Septimo St. She's the one to call. Whereabouts of 250 alums is known — but the class boasted 657 members, so committee has its work cut out. Others on committee are Sheldon and Barbara (Bakken) Miln and Joyce (Ingles) Hunt, Lawrence Creasy, Mrs. Walt (Jessie Herman) Hillinger, Rodney Rumble and Hank and Dixie (Tinsley) Viets.

At least this is ample forewarning for 53-ites. Start dieting, getting in trim so you won't be too much of a shock (or a laugh) to old buddies.

Polyites rally, circa 1915

NOW here's a REAL reunion. Poly High class of 1915 will have a luncheon Thursay in the Terrace Room of Buffums'. June 17 is actual 50th anniversary date of graduation of Poly's first full-fledged class after it was changed from old Long Beach High.

Among those who entered Poly in 1911 (in its new location that year at 16th and Atlantic) is Mrs. Walter (Margaret Pitts) Chisholm, 1791 St. John Road, Apt. 50-B, Seal Beach. She is the one to contact if you'd like to be at luncheon.

Some of those expected: Mrs. A. W. (Marian Rogers) Warnock, now of San Pedro; Mrs. Helen Burke; Mary (Barnett) Windham; Charles Z. Walker; Milt McGrew; Ray Iredell, now of Claremont; Mrs. Charles (Hazel Middough) Simpson, now of Santa Ana; Mrs. Leonard (Ione Tiernan) Towner, now of Pasadena; and Miss Ivy Harnett. Neither Ivy's well-known brother, Dr. Frank Harnett, or Arthur Wilcox, Oakland, president of class of '15, can be present, but both send greetings and regrets.

EPIC TRIP will add variety, not only to June, but to all of summer, for Clifford and Helen Meyer as they join the international set for eight weeks. They fly to Copenhagen the 22nd then on to Moscow and later Kiev. They'll be in Roumania, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Lebanon, Jerusalem (dividing time between the Jordan and Israel sectors). In West Europe they'll travel in such countries as Austria, Spain, Portugal and across the channel in Jolly Olde.

LIKE I'VE said before, June is all things to all people. For Dorothy and Max Durham it marks a marvelous milestone. They became grandparents with arrival of Paul Gregory, Vickie and Lt. (j.g.) Paul Knostman's first baby. Proving Navy blue is true, Paul's USN assignment in Hawaii for past six months brought him home just one day after Paul's arrival.

Party line-up for 'police'

EVEN FASHION kicked up its heels in a flurry of June change, noted locally when Long Beach Mounted Police had annual summer dinner dance at Virginia Country Club. At last winter's Christmas dance, ratio of floor-length dresses to short ones was about 10 to 1. For this summer event, ratio was just exactly reversed!

About 150 were in the party line-up including Police Chief Bill Mooney (he's honorary president) and wife, Dorothy; Connie and Bea Fisher (he's truly president); Tom Cole, party chairman, and date, Darlene Wilson; Fred Dean and Jeanette McLaughlin; Bob and Marvelle McNulty (she's auxiliary prexy); Veda and Fred Riedman; and George and Sally Mitchell.

And that's about the way things are in the jaunty month of now.

MRS. WESLEY BRYAN

Belles, rings —honeymoons

Hope-Wenkle

Now honeymooning in San Francisco and Monterey are newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Dean Hope, who exchanged vows here Saturday afternoon in St. Lukes Episcopal Church.

The bride, the former Pamela Jose Wenkle, daughter of Mrs. Jose Wenkle, 3305 E. First St., and Dr. William C. Wenkle, Fullerton, wore a gown of candlelight peau de soie.

Wedding attendants included Ilse Liebranz, maid of honor; Carol Siipola and Laura Hope, bridesmaids; Terence McQueeny, best man; Noel Wenkle and John Leininger, ushers.

THE NEW MRS. Hope was graduated from Wilson High and attended the University of Kansas, where she was a member of Delta Gamma and Sophomore Woman's Honorary.

Her husband, son of Mrs. Mary Simpson Hayes, Kansas City, Mo., and Laurence Beardslee Hope of the same city, attended the Kansas City Art Institute as an architectural student.

Bryan-Swan

Vocal and instrumental selections by her fellow musicians enhanced the marriage Friday evening of Pamela Rae Swan to Wesley Bryan in First Baptist Church of Lakewood.

Eight hundred guests were invited to witness the rite uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Swan, 5180 E. 27th St., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wesley Bryan, Hermosa Beach.

The newlyweds will be at home in Los Angeles on return from a honeymoon trip to Hawaii. The new Mrs. Bryan, a graduate of Millikan High School, will continue studies at USC where she is a member of the USC Symphony.

Her husband received early schooling in Redondo and will resume studies at Los Angeles State College.

A FACIAL CARE THAT WORKS!
Have you seen the latest for your beauty? It's Zeigler facial care, and it really works! Not a cream, vibrator, or massage — it gently exercises those special facial muscles and stimulates facial circulation, deep down. Together, this can do wonders! Why don't you get together with Zeigler soon? Call HE 5-9870, or see it at Jimi's Sleuderest Salon, 59 Alamitos Ave., Long Beach.

June—club officers give their vows

Sema Club

Mrs. Phil Schuster will be installed as president of Sema Club when the group meets at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday at Hoefly's Restaurant. She will succeed Mrs. Paul Southgate.

Joining Mrs. Schuster on the board are Mmes. Art Clark, Harold Johnson, Larry Lee, John Gasper, Dennis DeConnick, William Mallin and Southgate.

Jewish Council

Member since 1955 Mrs. Hyman Slobodkin will assume presidency of Long Beach Section of National Council of Jewish Women at 11:45 a.m. luncheon meeting Tuesday in Lagunita Room, Bullock's Lakewood. Mrs. Ned Levin, national board member, will be installing officer.

New officers include Mmes. Robert Weil, Paul Harstein, Ronald Safren, Maurice Harris, Andrew Baratelle, Nathan Adlerstein, Norman Gordon, Joseph Weiss, Max Wisot, Max Coonen, Miss May Berman. Directors are Mmes. Edwin Blair, Jack Brook, Alexander Dworsky, Harry Rubin, Joseph Schan, Arthur Zahler and Louis Ozon.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Paul Harstein, 4210 California Ave., or Mrs. Charles Goodman, 13241 Southport Lane, Seal Beach.

Nursery Educators

Mrs. John Inman continues through 1965 as president of Long Beach-Harbor Area Association for Nursery Education. She is director of Redwood College at Orange Coast College. In 1964 she attended world conference of the association in Stockholm, Sweden, and visited nursery schools throughout Europe.

Other officers: Mmes. Lora Wilson, Gerhard Kohn, Jack Laitz, James Eddleman and Miss Bernice Salbus.

Art Association

Nate Carhart will assume leadership of Long Beach Art Association Tuesday during a dinner meeting at Mr. C's.

Also chosen to serve are Tom Rose, Jerome Schwartz, Elaine Sagerhorn, Loyce Carhart, Jeanne Nagel, Mildred Seymour, Joy Elliott, Grace Dimmick and directors, Patricia Sears, Lois Whitlock, George Nagel and Dorris Stogner.

marketable . . . can all earn their way?

"For the most part, yes," says placement director Babbush. "The problem area is liberal arts. In our highly specialized, technical world of today, technical skills are greatly in demand. The liberal arts major is not ready for any particular job. In many cases, he or she finds it necessary to enter a training program or do graduate work in a specific field.

"Jobs are going begging for girls in such fields as math, data processing, engineering, accounting, chemistry and other sciences. In these areas, women can draw salaries comparable to men's.

AND WHAT of Long Beach's 6,000 high school graduates?

According to James Edmondson, assistant director of research for the Long Beach Unified District, 66% will go on to college. (A tribute to Long Beach schools: the national average is 53%!)

And of those in the upper 25% (based on IQ), 91% of the girls and 89% of the boys will enter college next fall. (This figure is based on recent after-graduation studies conducted by Edmondson).

One such graduating senior is Jeanne Ann DePass, 4357 Greenbrier Road, straight "A" student at Lakewood High. She'll enroll at Wellesley (her first trip to the East Coast) on Sept. 12. Says she: "I've planned to go to college ever since I can remember and started planning for it my first year in junior high." She'll major in languages, hopes to become a language teacher or enter the foreign service.

THE IMMEDIATE future is not so certain for most high school graduates who do not continue their education . . . although, according to George Toll, manager of the California State Employment Service, the future looks brighter this year than last.

The reasons: such new employment programs as the President's Opportunity Program . . . the new Job Corps . . . and the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Mrs. Nell Gabler, youth supervisor for the employment service, estimates 1,500 under-22-year-olds will enter the area labor market this month.

Are jobs available? "There'll be a big adjustment, of course," said Mrs. Gabler. "For the qualified applicant, who is trained in a specific skill, the problem is greatly lessened.

"If she has clerical skill, it's the high school girl graduate who is easiest to place. We have more requests than we can fill.

"It's the raw, untrained newcomer to the labor market who creates problems. But this year the new government youth employment programs will help fill the gap."

MIRROR-GAZING GRADS REFLECT ON THE FUTURE
Alicia Campbell (right) and Jeanne De Pass won't be look-alikes for long. When caps come off, girls will head different directions.

"Too many high school graduates have not trained for a specific job, have no idea what they want, too often they come to us with 'I'll take anything.'"

ALICIA ANN Campbell, (pictured above) 4308 Vangold, another Lakewood High graduating senior, started thinking of job opportunities early. She's all set to take a secretarial job with Western Kraft as soon as she turns in her cap and gown.

"I didn't want just any job," says she. "I wanted one that would be a pleasure, not a task." Her starting salary will be $300 a month.

"I think the schools do a good job counseling students and helping them prepare for a career. It's just that too many kids don't know what they want and don't prepare themselves for anything."

AND THEN, of course, there are all those wedding bells.

Many graduates, both high school and college, will be wearing two hats this week . . . a mortor board and a wedding veil. Some will race from one ceremony to the other.

We know of one, Mrs. Robert Bruce Truman II (nee Karen Behrens, pictured on the cover page), who was saying "I do" at the church Saturday while her CSLB graduation ceremonies were going on at the arena.

Her reason: "We didn't have time for both. Were so poor after four years of college we have to get back to go to work." Her husband also is a 1965 graduate.

Another this-June CSLB graduate, Mrs. Lawrence Murphy (nee Suzanne Harrison) was, at graduation time arriving in Anchorage, Alaska, for her Saturday nuptials there (see story below).

And so the bells toll . . . for brides and students, for the present and the future.

And that's June, 1965.

JUNE, MOON AND KODIAK BEARS

She graduates from CSLB, says 'I do' in Alaska--all in two days!

The formal facts provide a familiar June story—a wedding. But this particular wedding has all the accoutrements of romantic adventure.

Formality first. Suzanne Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Harrison, Long Beach, became the bride of Ens. Lawrence Timothy Murphy, USN, in the U.S. Naval Base Chapel, Kodiak, Alaska, in a 1:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday.

The bridegroom, formerly of Long Beach, is the son of Mrs. H. F. Zirnite, San Diego.

* * * *

AND HERE is where the story breaks with the usual account of weddings.

Suzanne, who graduated from Long Beach State College with this June's class morning of her wedding day. Then—and only then—did she meet the bridal party, take a quick peek at the quarters where they'll live and hurry into wedding finery before being "taken to the church on time."

Larry has been on Navy duty in Kodiak since February and he and his bride will remain there at least two and a half years more. Suzanne will teach island third graders—was eagerly accepted, in fact. School marms are hard to attract to remote Kodiak with its civilian population of only 2,000.

But what of clothes in this strange new world? The bride isn't worried. Weather now up there is not unlike it is in Long Beach. In fact, summer temperatures can climb to 100 degrees. In August, Suzanne will prepare for the long, cold, dark winter by ordering clothing from catalogs.

* * * *

DID THIS whirlwind wedding phase the new Mrs. Murphy? Not at all. Her only concern: she's been told the Kodiak bears can be a problem—and she isn't looking forward to meeting one, anytime or anyplace.

Mrs. Lawrence Murphy

(her husband graduated from State last June) had expected to be married in a quiet, informal ceremony on arrival in Kodiak.

That is, until she heard from Larry—most recently. He told her to bring a gown appropriate for a full military wedding. He had arranged for her attendants and invited 50 guests, all complete strangers to the bride.

DUE TO college commitment, she was unable to leave for Kodiak before Friday, arriving Saturday, the

Violet Society plans luncheon

The Long Beach African Violet Society will hold its annual Presidents' Luncheon Thursday in the Woman's City Club, 1309 E. 3rd St.

Social hour and plant sale will be held from 11 a.m. to noon. Presidents of all Southern California African Violet Societies will be honored guests at the event.

For the blance of the record (formal), the bride graduated from Poly, while at State affiliated with Alpha Phi. Her husband is a graduate of St. Anthony's High. They will honeymoon in Anchorage, easily reached by ferry boat or plane. Provided another Kodiak hazard isn't in process—like the powerful winds known as the williwahs, that buffet the island.

Outdoor Beauty

That lovely fair complexion of yours was never meant to stand up to the harsh summer weather. Be kind to it, see that it is well protected when you're golfing, lazing on the beach, or anywhere in the great outdoors. Wear a wide, shady hat and sun glasses—this will keep you from squinting your eyes. Before you venture out smooth on your oil of Olay before making-up, and don't forget your neck. Your skin will maintain a milky look despite the drying effect of the summer.

TEENS RUSH TO THE ALTAR

State may say they'll have to wait!

By MARY NETH
I, P-T Staff Writer

Romeo and Juliet would have found sunny California pretty chilly—quite cool to their plight.

For some time, moms and pops, and teachers and psychologists, ministers and sociologists hereabouts have been shouting out, with all the vigor of Capulets and Monteagues, against teen weddings.

Now, even the state is getting into the act.

Here it is, the marrying month of June—and what are our unromantic lawmen up to? They're pushing for Assembly Bill 488—a bill to slow down teenage marriages.

The bill (it'd require teens to "cool off" 30 days between time they apply for license and stand before altar) already has passed the Assembly.

Now it's headed for Senate.

"If they vote it through, and I'm sure they will, says William G. Sharp, county clerk, Los Angeles, the new regiem will go into effect in September."

This would mean that when both persons are under 21, license application would have to be made 30 days before the wedding. The bill, however, contains an escape clause for cases involving pregnancies. In such instances, a superior court judge could authorize an immediate marriage.

WHAT'S CAUSED California legislators to take such a stand against young marriages?

Well, it seems, California has become famous for three things: its temperate climate, its long beaches—its high divorce rate.

Next to little Nevada, the people get unhitched here more often than anywhere else in the U.S. And, according to University of California surveys, those married in teen years have the worst score.

"We can't afford the snowballing expense of family failure any longer," says Dr. Judson T. Landis, University of California sociologist.

"A period of 30 days will prevent many youthful marriages from taking place," says Dr. Robert Furling, head of a special committee created to revise California's marriage laws.

"I don't like such a bill, at all," says a local to-be-wed teen. "I think it's sort of silly—and I DON'T think it's going to stop anyone from getting married. Kids getting married on the spur of the moment will just head out of state."

HERE IN Long Beach marriage licenses are being issued to the healthy tune of 400 or more a month. Already figures show there'll be more marriages this year than last—and a big percentage of these licenses are going to high schoolers.

What do the young, the engaged, the very hopeful, feel about the legislative swat at cupid? What do they think of young marriage? What do they see in the future?

A telephone survey of Long Beach engaged teenage girls brought some surprising answers.

Without exception, they stated that teenage weddings aren't usually a good idea. But, none could see how the bill would slow them down.

"If I had a daughter my age, I'd probably try to talk her out of getting married," said Marietta Lanzarotta, 18, bride-elect of Gene Iantorno, 19.

"But, I think Gene's and my case is different, we've gone steady now for four years."

All of the girls interviewed felt the worry over war was making many couples say 'I do' sooner than they may have otherwise.

"Lots of the girls I know are getting married so their boyfriends won't be drafted," says Patricia Jane Lowe, 18. But her fiance, Kent Atherton, 25, doesn't have to worry about that.

"He's in the Air Force now," she says. "He'll be out in 10 months—unless something happens."

MOST OF the girls interviewed, Patricia included, hadn't intended to go to college—or, for that matter, to go into a career. But all say they'll work for awhile until their husbands' find themselves," finish planned night school courses or get better pay.

All are sure they'll like married life. All believe they'll be happy. And all feel, with the world as it is—teetering, perhaps, on the brink of a terrible war, happiness is something pretty important to find right away.

Young marriages, which yesterday seemed to reflect a trend toward growing-up too soon, now appear to have taken on new significance.

"You always get a boom in marriages during a time of international unrest," points out county clerk Sharp. "Remember the war brides of the '40s?"

SHARP believes the divorce picture in California is "pretty bleak—but not as bleak as publicized."

Says he: "There are a few factors people seem to ignore. According to statistics I see used, there were 45,940 divorces in California last year.

"That's not quite true. Domestic relations statistics include suits for separate maintenance, child support, etc. There were only 21,943 final decrees issued. Of these, 57 percent—more than half—dissolved marriages contracted out of state."

How many people would the proposed 30-day-wait bill affect? According to Sharp, one out of every five marriages involves teens both under 21.

That would mean some 1000 or more Long Beach teens would have had to wait a month before saying 'I dos' here last year.

"You always get a boom in marriages during a time of international unrest," points out county clerk Sharp. "Remember the war brides of the '40s?"

SHARP believes the divorce picture in California is "pretty bleak—but not as bleak as publicized."

Says he: "There are a few factors people seem to ignore. According to statistics I see used, there were 45,940 divorces in California last year.

"That's not quite true. Domestic relations statistics include suits for separate maintenance, child support, etc. There were only 21,943 final decrees issued. Of these, 57 percent—more than half!—dissolved marriages contracted out of state."

How many people would the proposed 30-day-wait bill affect? According to Sharp, one out of every five marriages involves teens both under 21.

That would mean some 1000 or more Long Beach teens would have had to wait a month before saying 'i dos' here last year.

A RING FOR HAPPINESS

Four misses become mrs.

Truman-Behrens

In a gown of Chantilly lace with scalloped neckline and hem featuring a train falling from the waist, Karen Behrens exchanged marriage vows with Robert Bruce Truman II Saturday morning.

The wedding took place in Church of St. Peter and St. Paul, Wilmington.

* * * *

CAROLE Shoemaker was maid of honor for the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne C. Kuhse, 1557 Lagoon Ave., Wilmington. Joan M. Kuhse, sister of the bride, Lavonne Behrens and Mrs. Michael Wilkinson completed the entourage.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Truman, 2524 Grayshy, San Pedro, chose John J. Walsh as best man. His two brothers, Michael and Larry, and John M. Petrich seated guests.

The newlyweds, who will reside in Long Beach following a trip to Carmel and Monterey, graduated from St. Anthony's High School. Both received bachelor degrees from Cal State at Long Beach this spring.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bushnell Creed, 320 Quincy Ave., the bride was attended by Cheryl Bentley, maid of honor, Gloria Bentley, Marla Davis, Rita Menell, Julia Campen and Claudia Campen, bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Menell, 4620 Faculty Ave., selected Richard Yockey as best man and Scott Menell, Jim Otterson, Russell Blowers, Bill Mook and John Rees, ushers.

The newlyweds, both graduates of Wilson High who attended Long Beach City College, will be at home in Long Beach following a honeymoon trip to Idyllwild.

Sullivan-Waldron

A home in Newport, R.I., where the bridegroom is attending school, awaits Sarah (Sally) Waldron of Long Beach and Lt. (j.g.) James Sullivan, USN, who were married Saturday afternoon in Church of St. Paul, the Apostle.

A reception followed in the Sherman Oaks home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Waldron Jr.

The new Mrs. Sullivan selected a floor-length gown of white organza with neckline traced in Venetian lace.

Included in the entourage were Susan Lee Beier, maid of honor; Miss Marlys Olson and Mrs. Edward W. Falkard, bridesmaids; Lt. David Ricketts, USN, best man; Lt. (j.g.) Timothy Cleere, USN, and Ensigns Esmond D. Smith, Kenneth Snoke and W. Nels Westman, USNR, ushers.

* * * *

THE BRIDE was graduated from UC at Berkeley, where she affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi. Her maternal grandfather is Julian Hinds, retired general manager and chief engineer of Metropolitan Water District.

Lt. Sullivan, son of Mrs. Joseph Shaeffer, was graduated from St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia, Pa., and Naval Officers Candidate School, Newport, R.I.

Brown-Passero

In an evening ceremony Saturday, conducted in Lime Avenue Baptist Church, Elaine Passero and Robert Brown exchanged vows in the presence of 250 wedding guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Passero, 1077 E. Sixth St., and the late Mr. Passero. Her husband, a resident of Long Beach, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Brown, Santa Maria.

Members of the wedding party were Mrs. Rosemary Lofgren, matron of honor; Jo Vickers, Mmes. Roger Coulter, Berkeley Lauhman, bridesmaids; Thomas Brown, best man; Mark Brown, Roger Coulter and Ronald Hritz, ushers.

The new Mrs. Brown is a graduate of Wilson and attended California Baptist Seminary. She is a past grand officer of Rainbow for Girls. Her husband, a graduate of Jordan High, will graduate from Long Beach State College in February with a degree in science. Following a honeymoon trip to Carmel, the newlyweds will reside in Belmont Shore.

For the vow exchange, the bride wore a formal empire line gown of satin and lace, styled with long train. She carried her white Rainbow Bible which was topped by a lace handkerchief made 25 years ago by her late grandmother especially for her granddaughter's wedding.

Welfare topic for Pilot Club

A panel discussion of Long Beach welfare services will be heard when Pilot Club initiates its 1965-66 year with a 7:15 p.m. dinner meeting Wednesday at Hotel Lafayette.

Moderator will be Dr. Amelie Phelan, consulting sociologist. Panelists include Marilynn Burtt, executive director for three Long Beach day nurseries; Mrs. Charles S. Reed, president of Travelers Air; Miss May Baker, executive director of Long Beach Childrens Clinic. Subject will be "Forces and Faces Within Our Community."

Cal couple to marry

Engagement of Cal State at Long Beach students Sylvia Theresa Liebi and Stephen Charles Propes has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Liebi, Orange.

The bride-elect was graduated from Fullerton Junior College, where she was on the dean's honor list.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Propes, Long Beach, was graduated from Wilson High and attended Long Beach City College.

The engaged pair will graduate from State College in June. He is a sociology major, she an art major.

The wedding will take place Sept. 11.

New policy in effect for announcements

Beginning immediately, a new policy for engagement and wedding stories will go into effect for the Independent, Press-Telegram.

The bride-elect now will have a choice of submitting her picture either with engagement or wedding story. Only with one or the other will a photo be used.

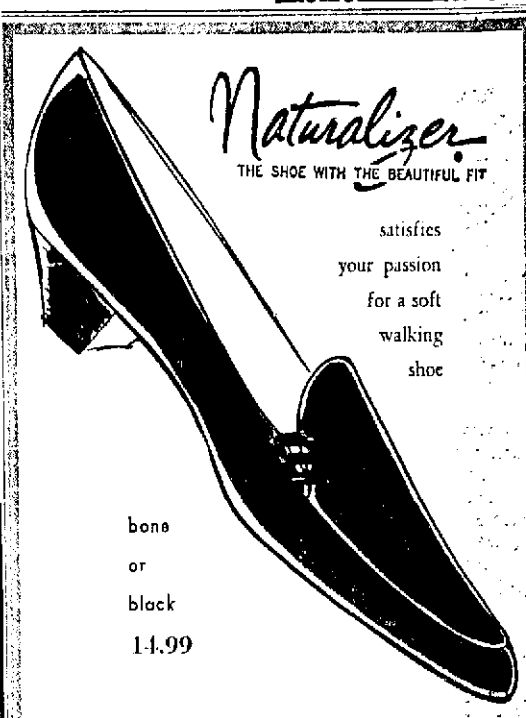

* * * *

HERETOFORE, it has been our policy to print pictures only with wedding stories; engagement announcements have run without photos.

Both wedding picture and complete wedding form (available at this office) MUST be received at least one week before the ceremony. The engagement announcement (and picture, if preferred with engagement story) should be submitted as soon as the betrothal is revealed to family and friends and, in any event, must be received at least one month prior to date of the wedding.

UCLA grads exchange vows

MRS. JAMES WILLCOX

Marriage of Joanne Treadwell to James Robert Willcox was solemnized Saturday evening before 200 guests gathered in Atlantic Avenue Methodist Church. The newlyweds both were graduated this month from UCLA.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Treadwell, 3730 Gundry Ave., the bride wore a gown of reembroidered lace over satin with detachable train. Touches of light blue in her bouquet echoed gowns and flowers selected for her attendants, Mary Smith, matron of honor, Leslie Pierce, Georganne Lilly, Petti Van Rekom, bridesmaids. The bride's niece, Diana Smith, was flower girl.

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mrs. Lydia Willcox, Carmel, asked Peter S. Willcox to attend as best man and Ted Rnter, Larry Borth and Michael Wood to usher.

The newlyweds will spend the summer in Carel prior to going to Chicago, Ill., where the bridegroom will attend University of Chicago Law School. The bride affiliated with Delta Zeta at UCLA.

A week of value

It was a busy week. For some it was a time to cram for college tests, wait out final grades, look into future jobs. For others, it was, perhaps, that—but much, much more. Looking deceptively into long-dreamed-of bridal gowns, adjusted filmy veils one last time and slowly walked down an aisle to say "I do."

Susan Parks weds Texan in Methodist ceremony

California Heights Methodist Church, Long Beach, was setting for the wedding Saturday of Susan Butler Parks and William Lawrence Guynn of Dallas, Texas.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Raymond Neveau, Long Beach, and Charles Fletcher Parks, also of Long Beach, was graduated from Wilson High School and is a senior at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, where she is affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta.

The groom, son of Mrs. William Oliver Guynn, Dallas, and the late Mr. Guynn, is a graduate of Southern Methodist, where his fraternity was Beta Theta Pi.

* * * *

WEARING a traditional gown of organza and Swiss lace, the bride was attended by Mrs. Jack Brent, matron of honor; Emily Rich, Sandra Burnett, Lesley Pearsall and Beverly Brown, bridesmaids.

Thomas Foster was best man; Daniel Spaulding Dunlap, David Carmichael, Carl Peterson, Roger Johnston, John Collins and William Lawrence Guynn were ushers.

Following a honeymoon in San Francisco and Carmel, the newlyweds will reside in Dallas.

MRS. WILLIAM GUYNN

Pamela Chace weds USC grad

MRS. DONALD BOWERS JR.

Pamela Jean Chace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hathaway Chace, Rolling Hills, and neice of Supervisor and Mrs. Burton W. Chace of Long Beach, exchanged wedding vows with Ronald Edward Bowers Jr. Friday evening in Neighborhood Church, Palos Verdes.

Wearing an empire gown of peau de soie and Alencon lace, she was attended by Mrs. Neil Edwards as matron of honor and Holly Bowers, the groom's sister, Patricia Bush, Ann Garretts, Angela Klichli, Bonnie McMahan and Allison Price, bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Edward Bowers, Westport, Conn., was attended by Edwin Hume III, best man. Guests were seated by Stephen Chace, the bride's brother, Gary Eckles, David Gaon, Richard Kempton, Terry Reckas and David Thompson.

AN ALUMNA of the University of Southern California, the bride majored in education and was affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma and Ticktockers. She also is a member of National Charity League. Also a graduate of USC, her husband majored in business administration and affiliated with Delta Tau Delta.

Following a reception at Los Verdes Country Club, Rolling Hills, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in Hawaii. They will make their home in Inglewood.

CSLB grads married Saturday

MRS. W. M. RICHARDSON

Linda Day Beyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Beyer, 1882 Pasadena Ave., became the bride of William MacArthur Richardson Saturday evening in Bethany Baptist Church.

Wearing a candlelight gown of peau de soie, the bride was attended by Mrs. Richard Neel, matron of honor, and Linda Boutwell, maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Janis Foster, Sharron Dech and Mrs. J. W. Zastrow. Gene Markley, William Spivey, Robert Jones and Garry Poe seated the guests.

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Richardson, 3734 California Ave., chose his brother, James, as best man.

Both bride and groom were graduated from Poly High School and California State College at Long Beach, where she was president of Alpha Phi and Collegiate Panhellenic and was a member of Califias.

Following a honeymoon in Carmel and Monterey, the newlyweds will make their home in Long Beach.

Football player takes bride

MRS. JACK SNOW

Merry Carole Shane became the bride of Los Angeles Rams football player Jack Thomas Snow at a ceremony Saturday in St. Anthony Catholic Church.

The new Mrs. Snow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shane, 3001 Chestnut Ave., is a graduate of St. Anthony High and LBCC, where she was a member of TNT and A.W.S.

Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Snow, 6251 Cerritos Ave., also a St. Anthony alumnus, was graduated from Notre Dame University, where he was named to the All-American football team.

FOR THE WEDDING the bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace. Attending her were Mrs. Neil Hoffman, her sister, matron of honor; Linda Dugas, Juliann McKenna, Jan Bourassa and Nancy Martin, bridesmaids.

Paul F. Snow, the groom's brother, was best man. John Huarte, Thomas Walsh, Bob Arboit and Charles Shane, the bride's brother, seated guests.

The newlyweds will honeymoon in Buffalo, N. Y., where Snow will play in the All-American football game, June 26. They will make their home in Long Beach.

DEAR ABBY

Don't believe it!

DEAR ABBY: A currently successful woman author seems to be harping on the theory that in order for a woman to be "fulfilled," even though she is a wife and mother, she needs a profession or a job outside her home. You are a "pro" Abby. How do you feel about that? — STAY-AT-HOME-MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: I am one "pro" who is "con" on that theory. Motherhood (at least until the children are in school all day) is a fulltime job. And if if it done properly it more than "fulfills" a woman. There is no greater responsibility than guiding a life. And no greater reward than the knowledge that you have done it well. ABBY

MRS. JAMES WILLCOX

Marriage of Joanne Treadwell to James Robert Willcox was solemnized Saturday evening before 200 guests gathered in Atlantic Avenue Methodist Church. The newlyweds both were graduated this month from UCLA.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Treadwell, 3730 Gundry Ave., the bride wore a gown of reembroidered lace over satin with detachable train. Touches of light blue in her bouquet echoed gowns and flowers selected for her attendants, Mary Smith, matron of honor, Leslie Pierce, Georganne Lilly, Petti Van Rekom, bridesmaids. The bride's niece, Diana Smith, was flower girl.

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mrs. Lydia Willcox, Carmel, asked Peter S. Willcox to attend as best man and Ted Roter, Larry Borth and Michael Wood to usher.

The newlyweds will spend the summer in Carel prior to going to Chicago, Ill., where the bridegroom will attend University of Chicago Law School. The bride affiliated with Delta Zeta at UCLA.

A week of value

It was a busy week. For some it was a time to cram for college tests, wait out final grades, look into future jobs. For others, it was, perhaps, that—but much, much more. Looking deceptively into long-dreamed-of bridal gowns, adjusted filmy veils one last time and slowly walked down an aisle to say "I do."

Susan Parks weds Texan in Methodist ceremony

MRS. WILLIAM GUYNN

California Heights Methodist Church, Long Beach, was setting for the wedding Saturday of Susan Butler Parks and William Lawrence Guynn of Dallas, Texas.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Raymond Neveau, Long Beach, and Charles Fletcher Parks, also of Long Beach, was graduated from Wilson High School and is a senior at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, where she is affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta.

The groom, son of Mrs. William Oliver Guynn, Dallas, and the late Mr. Guynn, is a graduate of Southern Methodist, where his fraternity was Beta Theta Pi.

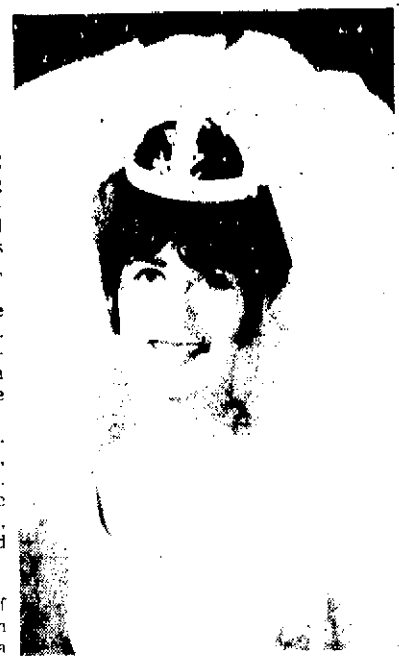

* * * *

WEARING a traditional gown of organza and Swiss lace, the bride was attended by Mrs. Jack Brent, matron of honor; Emily Rich, Sandra Burnett, Lesley Pearsall and Beverly Brown, bridesmaids.

Thomas Foster was best man; Daniel Spaulding Dunlap, David Carmichael, Carl Peterson, Roger Johnston, John Collins and William Lawrence Guynn were ushers.

Following a honeymoon in San Francisco and Carmel, the newlyweds will reside in Dallas.

Pamela Chace weds USC grad

MRS. DONALD BOWERS JR.

Pamela Jean Chace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hathaway Chace, Rolling Hills, and neice of Supervisor and Mrs. Burton W. Chace of Long Beach, exchanged wedding vows with Ronald Edward Bowers Jr. Friday evening in Neighborhood Church, Palos Verdes.

Wearing an empire gown of peau de soie and Alencon lace, she was attended by Mrs. Neil Edwards as matron of honor and Holly Bowers, the groom's sister, Patricia Bush, Ann Garretts, Angela Kiichli, Bunnie McMahan and Allison Price, bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Edward Bowers, Westport, Conn., was attended by Edwin Hume III, best man. Guests were seated by Stephen Chace, the bride's brother, Gary Eckles, David Gaon, Richard Kempton, Terry Reckas and David Thompson.

AN ALUMNA of the University of Southern California, the bride majored in education and was affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma and Ticktockers. She also is a member of National Charity League. Also a graduate of USC, her husband majored in business administration and affiliated with Delta Tau Delta.

Following a reception at Los Verdes Country Club, Rolling Hills, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in Hawaii. They will make their home in Inglewood.

CSLB grads married Saturday

MRS. W. M. RICHARDSON

Linda Day Beyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Beyer, 1882 Pasadena Ave., became the bride of William MacArthur Richardson Saturday evening in Bethany Baptist Church.

Wearing a candlelight gown of peau de soie, the bride was attended by Mrs. Richard Neel, matron of honor, and Linda Boutwell, maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Janis Foster, Sharron Dech and Mrs. J. W. Zastrow. Gene Markley, William Spivey, Robert Jones and Garry Poe seated the guests.

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Richardson, 3734 California Ave., chose his brother, James, as best man.

Both bride and groom were graduated from Poly High School and California State College at Long Beach, where she was president of Alpha Phi and Collegiate Panhellenic and was a member of Califias.

Following a honeymoon in Carmel and Monterey, the newlyweds will make their home in Long Beach.

Football player takes bride

MRS. JACK SNOW

Merry Carole Shane became the bride of Los Angeles Rams football player Jack Thomas Snow at a ceremony Saturday in St. Anthony Catholic Church.

The new Mrs. Snow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shane, 3001 Chestnut Ave., is a graduate of St. Anthony High and LBCC, where she was a member of TNT and A.W.S.

Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Snow, 6251 Cerritos Ave., also a St. Anthony alumnus, was graduated from Notre Dame University, where he was named to the All-American football team.

FOR THE WEDDING the bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace. Attending her were Mrs. Neil Hoffman, her sister, matron of honor; Linda Dugas, Juliann McKenna, Jan Bourassa and Nancy Martin, bridesmaids.

Paul F. Snow, the groom's brother, was best man. John Huarte, Thomas Walsh, Bob Arbolt and Charles Shane, the bride's brother, seated guests.

The newlyweds will honeymoon in Buffalo, N. Y., where Snow will play in the All-American football game, June 26. They will make their home in Long Beach.

DEAR ABBY

Don't believe it!

DEAR ABBY: A currently successful woman author seems to be harping on the theory that in order for a woman to be "fulfilled," even though she is a wife and mother, she needs a profession or a job outside her home. You are a "pro" Abby. How do you feel about that? — STAY-AT-HOME MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: I am one "pro" who is "con" on that theory. Motherhood (at least until the children are in school all day) is a fulltime job. And if if it done properly it more than; "fulfills" a woman. There is no greater responsibility than guiding a life. And no greater reward than the knowledge that you have done it well.

stands for Analyze the lead, "R" to Review the bidding, and "C" for Count your winners and losers.

We have adopted his code word with the addition of the letter "H" for How can I make this hand?

An advanced student or expert player would have nothing to review about the bidding and would simply analyze that probably the lead meant a long heart suit in the West hand.

* * * *

HE WOULD see that he had to attack clubs and would count two spade winners plus three in each other suit for a total of 11 sure tricks.

Then coming to the letter "H" he would see that he could make the hand by locating the queen of spades and finessing for it successfully.

He would start after clubs at trick two. East would win the first or second club trick and probably shift to a diamond.

* * * *

EVENTUALLY South would cash all his tricks outside of the spade suit and at that point the simple process of counting cards would give him an absolutely sure thing spade play.

You see East would show out on the second heart lead so he would count West for six hearts. Then West would have to follow to three leads each in diamonds and clubs so declarer would have accounted for 12 of his cards.

That would leave West with a maximum of one spade. South would cash dummy's ace of spades and

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Who knows--he may behave

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I've been married six months and although my husband never drank before, he does now — all the time. He goes out with the boys and doesn't come home until the wee hours of the morning.

Because of this, I filed for divorce. Now he says he wants to try again but I'm afraid he won't change. Mother and Daddy say he won't but I love him and I'd like to start all over.

I'm so confused I don't know what to do. What would you advise?—WHAT TO DO

* * * *

DEAR WHAT TO DO: I'd say "try it again." Evidently, your marriage got off to a bad start but now that hubby knows you won't put up with his nonsense, he may behave.

If you can find out why he started drinking you may have something to work on. Perhaps he is confused or frightened at the responsibility of being a husband.

that would account for West's last card so that it would be a certainty that East would hold the queen of spades.

Anyway, don't give up at the first challenge. I'm sure the two of you can work this thing out and make a go of your marriage.

At least, it's worth a second try.—M.M.

Others to be installed by Sylvia Greer, 19th district president, are Mmes. Dessie Souffert, Florence Pump, Eleanor Godat, Ruth Staley, Yetha Bent Matilda Birdsey, Myrtle Miele and Charlotte Williams.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Who knows--he may behave

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

I've been married six months and although my husband never drank before, he does now — all the time. He goes out with the boys and doesn't come home until the wee hours of the morning.

Because of this, I filed for divorce. Now he says he wants to try again but I'm afraid he won't change. Mother and Daddy say he won't but I love him and I'd like to start all over.

I'm so confused I don't know what to do. What would you advise? —WHAT TO DO

* * * *

DEAR WHAT TO DO: I'd say "try it again." Evidently, your marriage got off to a bad start but now that hubby knows you won't put up with his nonsense, he may behave.

If you can find out why he started drinking you may have something to work on. Perhaps he is confused or frightened at the responsibility of being a husband.

that would account for West's last card so that it would be a certainty that East would hold the queen of spades.

Anyway, don't give up at the first challenge. I'm sure the two of you can work this thing out and make a go of your marriage.

At least, it's worth a second try.—M.M.

TARRY J. ROBERT

His dish: Marinas 'n Mexican eggs with a flair

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L-P-T Food Editor

The foot of Magnolia in downtown Long Beach is destined to come-to-life for residents of Long Beach and our neighbors, far and near.

The man responsible is none other than today's Chef of the Week, Tarry J. Robert, boating enthusiast, general engineering contractor, landscape engineer and developer.

"Montego Marina," which takes its name from the famous Caribbean bay, covers 25 acres in the coastal area from Magnolia Ave. to Los Angeles River. Both a yachting and shopping center, this largest high-rise marina ever planned for construction, will "house" 600 small pleasure boats while 200 more yachts can be accommodated at slips in the yacht harbor.

There will be parks, boutique shops and restaurants to satisfy the gourmet or the buy-in-a-hurry snacker.

* * * *

ROBERT WAS BORN in San Diego but has spent most of his life in Long Beach. He doesn't remember exactly when he came, but, after all, he had nothing to do with the decision.

Following graduation from Poly High he took the grand tour which lasted approximately three years. It included Australia, Tahiti, Samoa, Suva in the South Pacific, New Zealand and Honolulu. He returned just before World War II on the last Matson liner to leave Australia. The ship's course included the dodging of mines and black-out alerts.

Robert started his vocation as a general engineering contractor but currently leans more to development. Also active in landscape engineering, he won the state award for landscaping the Long Beach Water Department, it being his fourth consecutive first-place award. Robert also won the sweepstakes award in the state in all categories for landscaping of the Long Beach Arena.

* * * *

A 10-YEAR member of the Lakewood Elks Lodge, 1865, Robert also belongs to the Long Beach Yacht Club. Active in the civic development committee of the Chamber of Commerce, he serves also on the city beautification committee. Foodwise, he's one of 12 members of the Long Beach Gourmet Club, recently organized.

He has great interest in music, also, and is a past master at the French horn. He formerly played with the Long Beach Philharmonic Orchestra.

He and his wife, Marlene, have a son, Mark, 16, and a little daughter, Christi, 3. Deep sea diving and yachting on their 38-foot Chris Craft, Peaches II, is the family recreation. But when it comes to fishing, Marlene takes the sweepstakes for a marlin she caught in Mexican waters. Our chef's recipe also is of Mexican origin but, as the photo indicates, it's for eggs—not marlin. It is served as a featured specialty at Montego Marina's newly opened coffee shop.

MEXICAN OMELET
(Tortilla De Huevo A La Mexicana)
Omelet Filling

½ pound ground round
1 small can or ¾ cup refried beans
½ to 1 small can green chopped chili peppers
½ cup tomato puree
oregano, salt, pepper and garlic salt to taste

Brown meat in small amount of oil and drain. Add remaining items and cook for 10 minutes.

Omelets

8 eggs (2 for each omelet)
8 tbs. milk (2 for each omelet)
Salt and pepper

Cook omelets in the usual way and fill with the meat mixture. Place on oven proof platter and sprinkle liberally with grated cheese. Place in oven just long enough to melt the cheese.

Pauline Kincaid, vice president of Long Beach Safety Council who recently attended a safety program in Washington, D.C., will speak before the Zonta Club of Long Beach at 6:45 p.m. dinner meeting Thursday at Pacific Coast Club.

Private Schools Set Summer Class Sessions

Formation of summer classes in speed reading at Marymount College, 6717 W. Palos Verdes Dr., Palos Verdes Estates, has been announced by school officials.

The courses will be conducted by reading specialist, Dan Rosenwasser, director of the Dan/Ro System.

Rosenwasser said that in addition to the Speed Reading courses, special instruction in remedial reading and spelling would be made available.

"Reading Improvement is something which can help just about every person, from student to business executive," Rosenwasser said.

"The youngster by reading more rapidly and effectively, can accomplish his homework in far less time . . . and do it better . . . and then has increased amount of time for recreational pursuits.

* * * *

"ADULTS CAN FURTHER their pleasure reading, or, in the case of business executives, accomplish their necessary reading correspondence, technical papers and trade literature in far less time . . . which to them represents a savings in money."

The course features a special Study-Habits Kit which teaches students how to write term papers, take exams, do school or business study reading effectively, take notes, and a host of valuable items to increase study efficiency and comprehension, for students and businessmen alike.

Full information on speed reading and the classes being formed at Marymount College may be obtained by phoning OL. 5-4770 or FR. 7-5501.

THE HUNTINGTON School, the oldest established private school in the Long Beach area, has planned an outstanding program of activities for the Summer Playcamp this year. Camp dates are June 28-through Aug. 27.

Mrs. Florence Lewis, director, says this program will add to the pleasure and entertainment to any child from 4½ to 9 years of age. Trained, experienced counselors will supervise craft, drama, beach picnics and sports. A large, well-equipped, fenced play yard is at the school and is supervised at all times. A program of swimming lessons is being offered by trained teachers.

Lunch is furnished and transportation is available.

* * * *

MRS. ROBISON'S NURSERY SCHOOL, 3621 E. Broadway, will have its summer play fun classes start July 12 and run through Aug. 27. Classes will be held in the mornings only, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Ages of the children are from 3 years through 6 years.

The program will include arts and crafts, music, records, story-time, and Adventure Day. Swimming lessons and transportation will be available.

Enrollments for the fall are being taken. For further information regarding these classes call Mrs. Robison at GE 8-4904 .

* * * *

CAROUSEL pre-school and kindergarten classes are for children in the two through six age group, announced Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Robison, the owners and directors. The school is at 366 Cherry Ave.

The Summer Session begins Monday, June 21 and will feature varied activities to keep our children happy.

Teachers have had special college training on nursery school techniques and most of them have been with the school several years. During the summer sessions the school also offers swimming lessons under Dr. Herbert De Vries and an "adventure day" will be held each week.

For further information call Mr. Robison at GE 4-1938.

* * * *

MORRIS MANOR School's summer session will present a diversified program. In the mornings classes in basic school subjects will be taught to provide a continuous learning program for students.

Afternoons will be devoted to a recreational program which will include trips to parks, beaches and band concerts; roller skating and bowling; Cook-outs, wiener roasts and water melon feeds; movies and television; handicrafts and special trips to museums, Knott's and Marineland. Ethel M. Anderson is director and owner of the school at 1130 Locust Ave.

* * * *

TWO SUMMER sessions will be offered by the Reading Development Center beginning June 21. Poor reading can be remedied, says the school with the proper specialized professional training in the fields of remedial and speed reading. Comprehension, success in examinations, study habits, concentration, retention — all can be increased through proper instruction.

The Center is approved by the American Reading Society and is conducted by qualified, professional career reading educators and psychologists.

* * * *

PROGRESS SCHOOL, in its 32nd year, will open the summer session June 21 and will be in session until July 30. With small classes, instruction will be programmed to meet the need of the individual student. Concentrated instruction for remedial, introductory or accelerated courses will be given to establish proper study habits and lay a foundation in basic fundamentals. Foreign languages, sciences, English, mathematics, social studies, typing and bookkeeping are offered as well as Reading Improvement Classes.

The elementary school is at 647 Locust Ave. and the secondary school at 927 Pine Ave.

CAMPERS WILL arrive June 20 and 21 at the annual summer camp conducted by the Southern California Military Academy, 2065 Cherry Ave., according to Maj. George V. Hurte, superintendent.

The camp will continue 11 weeks and is open to boys from four through 14. Highlight of the program is the swimming and diving instruction in the heated pool. Other features are horseback riding instructions, riding on the trail, rifle marksmanship, archery, arts and crafts, trips to places of interest, beach trips and mountain camping.

* * * *

COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL devotest the weeks ordinarily given over to summer vacation at home to conducting a program designed to teach children how to have a good time. Learning what to do and when to do it is the key to this program. There is a time and place for everything including TV. Swimming, handicrafts including ceramics, fishing trips and other excursions are scheduled. The program, from June 28 through Aug. 27, is available to all normal boys and girls from four through 14 years of age, and transportation is furnished.

Library slates benefit

Little children treated at Tichenor Clinic will have all the corrective shoes needed to effect their cure if members of Alamitos Library Association have their way.

The association is sponsoring a benefit tea and card party to provide such shoes. Affair will take place Friday, 1 p.m., in the auditorium of Alamitos Library, 1836 E. Third St.; the public is welcome.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Arthur Phillips, 3938 Rose Ave., chairman of Tichenor Clinic project. Mrs. R. C. Sherman is president of the association, organized 70 years ago.

* * * *

GUESTS attending Friday's party may play bridge and canasta or can make up their own table for other card games of their choice.

In addition to tea, many door awards will be given. Supporting Tichenor Clinic has been a continuing project of Alamitos Library Association for the past 25 years.

Potluck slated

United Spanish War Veterans Camp and Auxiliary will meet jointly for pot luck luncheon Wednesday in Veterans Memorial Building. Business sessions are slated at 1 p.m.

Circuit theater to premiere here

When The Four Freshmen appear Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium they will initiate a new concept in theater.

Their program will be the first in a series, "The Best or Our Age," featuring various types of non-classical musical entertainment that has been popular in this country during the past 20 years.

The series is the brain child of two young men, Stuart Sarbone, 25, and Arthur Almskog, 26, who returned to civilian life from the Army in March. They have developed a circuit which, in addition to Long Beach, includes Pomona, Riverside, San Bernardino and Santa Ana. With the exception of the Concert Hall, each theater is a movie house, thus limiting the size of the audience to 1,300 to 1,700 in each community.

* * * *

SAYS SARBONE, "We're not aiming for a Hollywood Bowl or Shrine Auditorium type of extravaganza; we want our audiences to get an intimate glimpse of the artists. This could be done only in a smaller theater.

"An integral part of every program will be time for a question and answer period.

"Once at a college dance, Nat Cole who had been on earlier in the evening, came into the ballroom as the crowd was thinning out. He sat down at the piano with about 50 kids at his feet. He played, chatted, answered our questions. I'll never forget him or that half-hour. As much as possible, we want to provide that same atmosphere, that same feeling of personal involvement."

* * * *

AN ACCOMPANYING act in each program will look toward the future. Performers will be "comers," promising youngsters who are professionals but not yet stars. Sharing The Four Freshmen bill will be vocalist Carole Gerling.

Of the printed programs, Sarbone says, "In addition to biographical sketches of the performers, there will be an essay by a noted musicologist tracing the rise of the particultr form of entertainment being presented and its effect on American musical culture.

Acts which will follow The Four Freshmen in July and August are The Serendipity Singers and Erroll Garner. Negotiations are underway with Theodore Bickel, The Modern Jazz Quartet, Dukes of Dixieland and Carlos Montoya.

THE FOUR FRESHMEN

Joysmith's paintings original, compelling

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The Palos Verdes Art Gallery (in the library, 2400 Via Campesina, plaza) is exhibiting a twin bill this month, one which is of great interest. Viewing hours are 1 to 4 p.m. weekdays, 2 to 5 p.m. Sundays. The exhibiting artists are sculptor Kenneth Glenn of Long Beach State College (who will direct the International Sculpture Symposium here beginning June 21) and Toby Joysmith, a most unusual painter.

Joysmith, originally English, has been living in Mexico for over a decade; his work captures the texture, color, and "feel" of his adopted country. There is no Pedro on a sleepy burro, nor a cactus, nor a colorful adobe village. Joysmith's work is abstract, yet very recognizable if one has traveled even a little through Mexico.

* * * *

TO GET his textures, which are substantially a low relief, Joysmith uses ground pumice, cloth, potsherd, yarn, or twigs, impregnated with plastic. The paintings seem to be aerial views . . . of ancient altars, monolithic pyramids, broad expanses of water or jungle. They have "presence," the sense of layers of ancient civilizations bchind daily contemporary life.

* * * *

THERE ARE, for example, two versions of "Altar," horizontals of deep mustard, brown, reds, with a cluster of twig forms. The edges are careful, but not sharp, due to the depth of the acrylic paint. While the compositions are exactly composed, they are no kin to the hard edge school (currently at the Long Beach Museum) for Joysmith's work has a very organic and emotional feeling rather than the intellectually classic sense of hard edge.

* * * *

THE COLORS here are also strongly controlled; they are rich and dynamic, but not high. The blues of water, the turquoise and greens are not sharp.

As you can see, the works are difficult to describe. Joysmith's style is certainly original and compelling. Any person who is fond of Mexico will find this show particularly rewarding.

Tall girl on way to top in theater enrolled in Long Beach State College to earn a teaching credential. Her first elective in her first semester was a beginning course in dramatic arts. The instructor, Dr. Sievers, saw in her an unusual spark of talent and she realized that acting could be a learned art.

"I DISCOVERED that if I really believed the role, the audience did, too."

She changed her major to theater arts, intending to teach, meanwhile playing a gamut of parts.

Working her way through college, she held down two jobs simultaneously, carrying 16 units and rehearsing at night.

"It was good preparation for acting. I learned to discipline myself and my time, to distinguish between what's important and the frills, and to value perserverance. A lot of talent goes by the wayside for lack of perserverance."

By the time she graduated in 1962, Bea had decided to make acting her career. She's sold door to door, has been a sales girl, worked in offices and waited tables between roles.

"I believe if you aren't lazy and have two hands you can eke out from week to week."

AS STAR of "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off" at the Ivar Theater and Lindy Opera House in Los Angeles she won excellent reviews.

In August she'll perform in "A Funny Thing Happened on My Way to the Forum" for Sacramento Circus Theater.

Bea is convinced that opportunities in the theater are greater now than ever before. "Theaters are sprouting up everywhere, television is looking for new faces and personalities, the time is ripe now for new talent."

The time is ripe, to, for professional theater in this area, she says. "All members of the 'Blithe Spirit' cast are of professional caliber, though they aren't all equity. They're as good or better than anything I've seen in Hollywood."

They are Jacqueline Smalley, Ed Gangel, Claudene Atkinson, Matt and Harriet Bond and Valerie Shidler. The play will run Thursdays through Sundays and will be followed July 15 by "The Servant of Two Masters."

BEA KNOWS what to expect when she goes on stage opening night.

"There's always that first gasp. I can hear people saying—'Is she really that tall?'

"But if I believe the role they forget my size and are soon involved in the plot. There are advantages to being tall. Leading men like it and my physical size adds to the dynamics on stage. Because of my height, there's extra challenge and excitement in making good.

"But the real reward in acting is the relationship between audience and performer—the joy of bringing pleasure to other people."

Dead Sea Scrolls on view

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

One of the great cultural finds of modern times—the Dead Sea Scrolls—went on exhibit at the Claremont Colleges Saturday and may be seen through July 5.

According to the Smithsonian Institution, which has arranged the exhibition with the cooperation of the Government of Jordan, the scrolls will be shown in only six cities: Claremont, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, Berkley, Omaha and Baltimore.

They will be on view during daytime and evening hours through July 5 in the foyer of Garrison Theater, located on 10th Street between Dartmouth and Columbia Avenues, Claremont.

Claremont has a personal interest in the Dead Sea Scrolls, because one of its scholars, Dr. William H. Brownlee, professor of religion at Claremont Graduate School, was among the first to examine, interpret and photograph the scrolls after their discovery.

The exhibition will explain and show all aspects of the Dead Sea Scrolls: their discovery, the people and culture that produced them, and their importance for historical and religious study. Fourteen scrolls are shown, ranging from 250 B.C. to 68 A.D. and including the 12-foot long Psalm Scroll, second most complete scroll yet found.

PREPARATIONS are underway at Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 5905 Wilshire Blvd., for the "New York School" exhibition which will open in the Lytton Gallery Friday and will hang through Aug. 1.

"New York School: the First Generation," presents for the first time a historical survey of abstract expressionism, most influential American art movement. It surveys a 20-year period of 15 pioneering artists who are regarded as creators of the movement: William Baziotes, Willem De Kooning, Arshile Gorky, Adolph Gottlieb, Philip Guston, Hans Hofman, Franz Kline, Robert Motherwell, Barnett Newman, Jackson Pollock, Richard Pousette-Dart, Ad Reinhardt, Mark Rothko, Clyfford Still and Bradley Walker Tomlin.

There is an admission fee for this exhibit — $1 for adults and 25 cents for children.

JASON WONG, curator at Long Beach Museum of Art, reviewed the June show at Long Beach Art Association Gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd. He chose a casein by Robert Adams, "Still Life With Shells," as best of show and an oil by Julie Polousky as second. Honorable mentions went to Loyce Carhart, Meleita Artin and Margaret Bradbury.

WINNERS of the Los Angeles Home Show's first "All-California Art Competition" have been chosen by artists Robert Frame, Douglas Parshall and Jack Zajac.

Winners of first purchase awards are Roger Kuntz, $1,000 for an oil; E. J. Velardi Jr., $500 for a water color; and David Brockmann, $1,000 for a piece of sculpture.

All winning entries are now on display with 95 other works in the 3,400 square fuot Galleria of Fine Arts in the Los Angeles Sports Arena. The Home Show will be open daily through next Sunday from 12:30 to 11 p.m.

King Family on bill at Melodyland

The King Family—all 36 of them will open a one-week engagement Tuesday night at Melodyland Theater, Anaheim.

Now an hour-long Saturday night regular on one of the national television networks, the show stars the famous singing King Sisters. Featured with them are their children, husbands, cousins and other close relations including a stray nephew.

Two more shows in the current Celebrity Series will follow. Victor Borge will come back for a second Melodyland appearance June 22 to 27. Ella Fitzgerald and Nelson Riddle and his orchestra are billed June 29 to July 4.

As you can see, the works are difficult to describe. Joysmith's style is certainly original and compelling. Any person who is fond of Mexico will find this show particularly rewarding.

Stella McIntosh, Sophie Waldman and Marie Davidson discuss disgraceful deeds of the villain, Egbert Van Horn, in melodrama, "Curse You, Jack Dalton!" which will open Friday for a five-week run Fridays and Saturdays at Peppermint Playhouse, 124 Main St., Seal Beach. The three women take part in the vaudeville olio which will follow each performance.

LBSC adds music theater

Long Beach State College will add a new dimension to the musical culture of the community this fall.

Dr. Hans Lampl has been named director of a musical theater program which is sponsored by the college's departments of music and drama. Dr. Stanley Kahan, assistant professor of drama, will be staging director.

The program will provide students with training in opera, voice, musical comedy and many other phases of musical theater. Regular workshop productions will supplement one major musical each year.

* * * *

FIRST PUBLIC performances are scheduled for Jan. 6, 7 and 8. They will feature fully staged one-act chamber operas and opera excerpts. Henri Temianka of the music faculty will direct the college orchestra.

DR. HANS LAMPL

The musical theater plan was developed by Dr. Lawrence L. Peterson, chairman of the fine arts division, with the assistance of Dr. John H. Green, chairman of the drama department, and Herbert L. Camburn, acting chairman of the department during the past year.

"We have wanted this program for years," said Dr. Peterson, "About 30 members of the music and drama faculties are involved, we have a theater and facilities for production, instruments and an orchestra, and many resources not available to other organizations."

* * * *

ALSO TAKING part in the program will be Dr. Gerald Strang who has been appointed chairman of the music department. At Long Beach City College for 21 years, he went to San Fernando State College in 1958 and took sabbatical leave during the past year.

"Dr. Lampl is one of the best people in the opera field," Dr. Peterson said. "He was the first candidate at the University of Southern California to receive a doctor of musical arts degree with a major in conducting."

* * * *

HIS EARLY training in piano and violin was in Vienna where he received a teacher's certificate from the Vienna State Academy before coming to the United States in 1938.

He settled in the Los Angeles area and continued his studies until World War II, when he served with the U.S. Army band in the Southwest Pacific. After the war he earned his B.M. and M.M. degrees at USC.

After teaching at Morningside College in Iowa for a year, Lampl returned to USC to study for his doctorate and to serve as lecturer in music and later as chorus master and coach of the opera workshop.

In 1958 he went to Michigan State University to organize an opera workshop and to participate in all aspects of musical training.

* * * *

SINCE 1963 he has been on the faculty and served as director of the Saturday Conservatory at California State College at Fullerton. He is choir director for the Morningside Presbyterian Church in Fullerton, conductor of the Compton Civic Symphony Orchestra, chorus master of the Laguna Beach Opera Festival and conductor for the Orange County Chamber Concerts.

Lampl, 46, resides with his wife and four children at 2643 Amherst Ave., Fullerton.

Quarry to Direct, star at Magnolia

"Once More, With Feeling", Harry Kurnitz's long-run Broadway comedy about a wildly eccentric symphony conductor, will open Thursday at 8 p.m. at Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave.

Robert Quarry will direct and star as the fabulous, larger-than-life egomaniac and genius, Fabian, who loves himself and music in that order.

A former student at New York's Actors studio, Quarry appeared on Broadway with Katherine Hepburn in "As You Like It," with Maurice Evans in "Richard II," was in Margaret Webster's production of "Taming of the Shrew" and played opposite Veronica Lake in "Grammercy Ghost."

* * * *

HE HAS numerous film and television credits and studied theater arts for three years on a Ford Foundation grant. Last year he starred as Petruchio in Magnolia's "Taming of the Shrew." He is co-starred with Barbara Bouchet and Mark Richman in "The H.A.R.M. Machine," a movie soon to be released.

* * * *

CAROLYN CONWELL is featured in "Once More" as the bright, attractive wife who is running out of patience with Fabian.

ROBERT QUARRY

Warren Lavender, Ed Rice, Katheryn Offill, Walt Romanski, Tom Golden and Richard Moore complete the cast.

Reservations for the lighthearted play are being taken by phone at Magnolia's box office. The comedy will run through mid-July. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Thursdays and Sundays, 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

'Mouse' first on new series

A trio of zany English comic actors star in "Mouse on the Moon," to be shown Saturday and next Sunday in the Little Theater at Long Beach State College.

The farce, logical successor to "The Mouse That Roared," will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday and at 5 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. The Saturday-Sunday dates are a new feature for the 1965 summer series of Long Beach Film Society. Previously, films were shown on one night only.

* * * *

MARGARET Rutherford, Terry Thomas and Bernard Cribbens are featured in this first film of the all-comedy series of international films. The plot concerns the mythical Grand Duchy of Fenwick which wanted only indoor plumbing but found the major powers vying for its favors with a superabundance of space age missiles.

Other programs, to be shown at approximately three-week intervals, will be "The Red Inn" (France), "Fiasco in Milan" (Italy), "Pearl of Tlayucan" (Mexico) and "Dr. Strangelove" (U.S.).

* * * *

ALL FEATURES will be preceded by unusual short subjects.

Series subscriptions which entitle the bearer to see all five programs for $4 may be purchased at the box office at a saving of more than 33% over the single admission price of $1.25.

For further information write to the Film Society, P.O. Box 8091, Long Beach 90808.

L.A. artists will open Bowl season

Hollywood Bowl's 44th season of Symphonies Under the Stars will be launched July 6 by two internationally famous Los Angeles performers. Leonard Pennario will be the piano soloist, and Andre Previn will conduct.

The opening week of the Bowl season is now complete. The Royal Ballet from London will appear Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights (July 8, 9, 10 and 11), and a Children's Concert is scheduled for Saturday morning, July 10.

During the nine-week season, the long established pattern of symphony concerts Tuesday and Thursday nights and Saturday "Pops" will be followed. Extra events are programmed for Friday nights.

Previn has appeared in the Bowl previously as soloist, and once as conductor of a Pops program. On July 6 he will make his first appearance in the Bowl as a symphonic conductor. Pennario has appeared in the Bowl many times.

Arts conference

Current legislation on the arts now pending in Congress, and the role of the federal government in the arts will be subjects of prime concern for 700 delegates to the joint national conference of the American Symphony Orchestra League and Arts Councils of America. Sessions will be held in Washington, D. C., Wednesday through Saturday.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

Around the world with Delaplane

"We would like any advice on shopping overseas. What are 'free ports?'"

LOWEST PRICES are in free ports. And most countries have some sort of free port in the international airport. A free port is a sales area set aside. It pays no taxes on local goods and no import duties on foreign goods. Only travelers leaving the country can use them.

Some famous free ports are: Shannon Airport in Ireland. The airport at Amsterdam. Orly airport in Paris has a little—mostly French perfume and brandy. All international waiting rooms at New York airport have them. Honolulu and Miami have free ports if you are leaving the country.

Hong Kong and Singapore are all free port. So are most Caribbean islands with the exception of Puerto Rico. Panama is a free port. Between countries, most European airlines sell a few things at free port prices—perfume, liquor, cigarettes.

What's wrong with them? Well, you may be homeward bound. Waiting for a good price in a free port. And they don't have the selection. You can be sure of a selection of anything in Hong Kong and Singapore. Almost everything in the Virgin Islands and Jamaica. Very good in Shannon and Amsterdam. But the others are only good for little last-minute grab-bag things.

* * * *

"We have heard of resort areas that have good summer rates. . . ."

BEST ARE the Caribbean islands—and it isn't too warm in the summer. Best way to get general information is write "Government of (name of island)." And write on the envelope—"Tourist Information Requested." It will get to the right people.

The American Southwest has good summer rates. Phoenix and Tucson Chambers of Commerce can fill you in. Both Greyhound and Santa Fe run very good and inexpensive tours to the Grand Canyon now.

They tell me in Rome that the sleeper for good country and inexpensive travel now is behind the Iron Curtain. And that these countries are making a lot of effort for tourist money. Particularly Bulgaria. But I haven't seen any contacts for this in America yet.

* * * *

"Can you advise me on tipping in New York and Washington, D. C.?"

I FIGURE tips in these cities run $15 a day. And that you run into 10 to 15 tipping situations a day. Most of these will be quarter tips—taxi, doorman, hatcheck girl, etc. Dinner and lunch tips at 15% are the big ones.

Redcaps at train or airport charge 35 cents per bag. Bellboy for luggage—$1 for one to three bags.

* * * *

"Are ballpoint pens a good present in Europe?"

NO MORE. They have all they want. Late American records are better. And our nylons seem to be better than theirs.

Tour of Yukon off beaten path

A 12-day all-inclusive tour of Canada's Yukon Territory is now being offered by the Yukon's newest travel enterprise. Operated by three Whitehorse businessmen, "Yukolaska Tours" entered the tourist industry this season with an attractive package which will be sold through selected travel agents in the United States.

The tours include travel by air, train, bus and boat to historical and beautiful spots in the Yukon and Alaska. The itinerary will provide charter bus trips from Whitehorse to the previously neglected communities of Carcross on beautiful Lake Bennett and Atlin in northern British Columbia. Tour clients will have an opportunity to leave the beaten path on this route through "Little Switzerland."

"We have heard of resort areas that have good summer rates. . . ."

BEST ARE the Caribbean islands—and it isn't too warm in the summer. Best way to get general information is write "Government of (name of island)." And write on the envelope—"Tourist Information Requested." It will get to the right people.

The American Southwest has good summer rates. Phoenix and Tucson Chambers of Commerce can fill you in. Both Greyhound and Santa Fe run very good and inexpensive tours to the Grand Canyon now.

They tell me in Rome that the sleeper for good country and inexpensive travel now is behind the Iron Curtain. And that these countries are making a lot of effort for tourist money. Particularly Bulgaria. But I haven't seen any contacts for this in America yet.

* * * *

"Can you advise me on tipping in New York and Washington, D. C.?"

1 FIGURE tips in these cities run $15 a day. And that you run into 10 to 15 tipping situations a day. Most of these will be quarter tips—taxi, doorman, hatcheck girl, etc. Dinner and lunch tips at 15% are the big ones.

Redcaps at train or airport charge 35 cents per bag. Bellboy for luggage—$1 for one to three bags.

* * * *

"Are ballpoint pens a good present in Europe?"

NO MORE. They have all they want. Late American records are better. And our nylons seem to be better than theirs.

Tour of Yukon off beaten path

A 12-day all-inclusive tour of Canada's Yukon Territory is now being offered by the Yukon's newest travel enterprise. Operated by three Whitehorse businessmen, "Yukolaska Tours" entered the tourist industry this season with an attractive package which will be sold through selected travel agents in the United States.

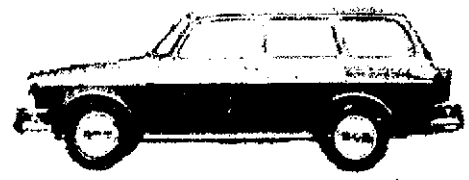

The tours include travel by air, train, bus and boat to historical and beautiful spots in the Yukon and Alaska. The itinerary will provide charter bus trips from Whitehorse to the previously neglected communities of Carcross on beautiful Lake Bennett and Atlin in northern British Columbia. Tour clients will have an opportunity to leave the beaten path on this route through "Little Switzerland."

Lompoc flower fields bursting into blossom

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

TRAVEL and RESORTS

THE WEST'S most spectacular display of commercially-grown flowers is beginning to unfurl in the valleys surrounding Lompoc, 55 miles northwest of Santa Barbara.

Twenty-five hundred acres of flowers on the Rainbow Farms should be near full bloom by next weekend. Give them two weeks and they promise to be at their best, providing almost every color in the spectrum.

To celebrate the occasion, Lompoc will hold its 13th annual Flower Festival June 26-27 with activities that will attract thousands of visitors to the area.

THE LOMPOC Valley Chamber of Commerce will offer free bus tours to the great blocks of flowers. Or, if they prefer, visitors may drive over the area in their own cars. They may stop along the highways to take pictures, but are warned not to trespass into the fields or pick the flowers.

Five hundred varities of flowers will be found among the blooms — daisies, marigolds, larkspur, petunias, popples, stocks and others which, after the blooming season, will be allowed to wither and dry, and then harvested like wheat for seed.

The harvest will provide approximately 85% of the world's supply of flower seeds.

Some of the best displays probably will be along Santa Rosa Road, south and east of Lompoc, and along Hwy. 150 between Lompoc and the coast.

LITERALLY tens of thousands of flowers, furnished by the Federal Correctional Institution on several acres planted for the Chamber of Commerce especially for the occasion, will be used on the floats in the Saturday morning parade and in displays for other events held in connection with the festival.

The Festival theme will be "Tune in With Flowers" and floats and displays alike will depict favorite TV programs.

Other events will include a queen contest and coronation ball, hobby and craft shows, swimming meet, industrial displays and a street dance.

Lompoc-bound motorists may turn off Hwy. 101 onto Hwy. 1 at Las Cruces, or left on Hwy. 154 just before reaching Buellton.

A drive to Lompoc also affords the opportunity to visit the Danish community of Solvang, and a jaunt north of Solvang into Santa Ynez Valley which is beautiful in June.

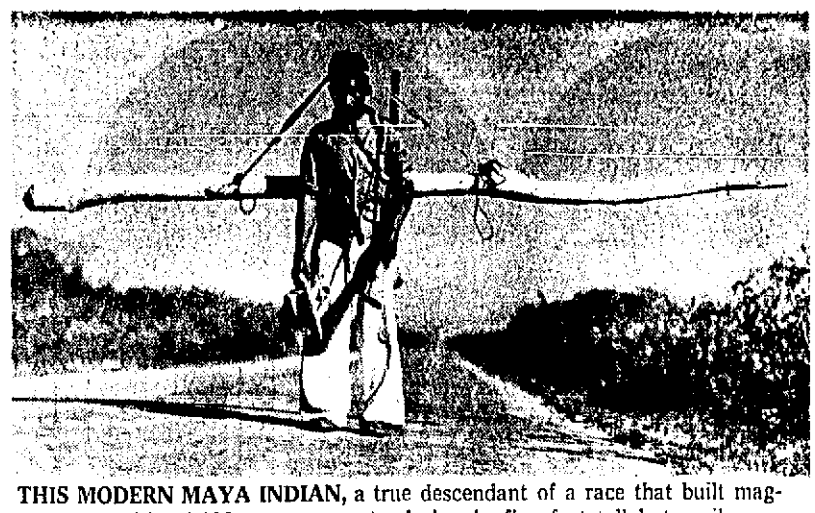

IF YOU'D LIKE to picnic on your way to or from Lompoc, try Cachuma Lake, 24 miles northwest of Santa Barbara on Hwy. 154.

This sizable lake, principally a reservoir for domestic water, is a year-around facility for fishing, camping and picnicking. There are tables and barbecue grills for picnickers, and acres of live oaks under which you may relax and watch boats skimming over the lake.

Entrance fee is $1 per day, per car.

TIOGA ROAD, which leads over the crest of the Sierra from Yosemite National Park, has been opened but motorists are advised to use extreme caution because of the depth of snow along the road and the possibility of icy spots and mud and rock slides.

None of the camp grounds along Tioga Road, including those at Tuolumne Meadows and White Wolf, will be open for some time because of the heavy snow pack.

THIS MODERN MAYA INDIAN, a true descendant of a race that built magnificent cities 1,000 years ago, stands barely five feet tall but easily carries a log that weighs more than he does.—(Pan Am photo.)

The Genius of the Mayas

If you're looking for Indians, there are about 2,000,000 pure-blooded ones on Yucatan, the small peninsula of southern Mexico.

But if you're thinking in terms of Hollywood Indians, brace yourself for a shock.

The mysterious Mayas, who have been living here for around 4,000 years, are the most un-Indian-like Indians anywhere on the face of the earth.

The Mayas are golden, tiny, delicate, gentle smiling people who are completely charming. The braves average around five feet, one inch tall, and the women scarcely ever make it to five feet.

* * * *

BUT DON'T sell them short. The Mayas are the all-time Eggheads of the Indian world. Visitors arriving in Merida on Pan Am jets find startling evidence of the centuries-old culture and genius of the Mayas all about them.

Today, the ruins of their great cities, often hidden deep in scrub and jungles, astound scholars and tourists. The Mayas were constructing 12-story stone pyramids and 100-room palaces while the East Saxons in London village were hoisting 20-foot shot towers to pour hot lead down on the heads of their enemies.

Their brilliant mathematicians and astronomers nearly 2,000 years ago were predicting phases of the moon and solar eclipses as accurately as today's scholars with all their scientific apparatus. They devised a calendar as precise as the one we use today.

* * * *

THEY developed a numerical system with the first concept of zero. Because of this, the ancient Mayas could do things like dividing 1,872,791 by 1,892. This is hard to do, on the other hand, with a Roman system like MMDCXXVIII divided by CCLXIV and carry LXVI.

They built their soaring pyramids and massive palaces without the use of beasts of burden, the wheel or metal tools.

"The old Mayas undoubtedly were smart enough to figure out the wheel," observes one outstanding archeologist who has studied them for years. "But why should they? They didn't have any beasts of burden anyway."

The glory of the Mayas now has vanished into the mists of 1,000 years ago. But many of the old families, the old customs, the old skills and much of the ancient language has come down unchanged through the centuries.

* * * *

A GOVERNOR of the Mexican state of Yucatan, welcoming one of the early archeological expeditions to the long-lost land of the Mayas, told them:

"The ghosts of the Maya have been waiting for you."

He recalled the ancient Maya prophecy: "The time will come when in a single day will be shattered the silence of seven hundred years."

Perhaps, one day, the brilliant Maya nation will rise again. Maybe there will be a re-birth of the ancient creative genius and dynamic talents that have astounded 20th Century scholars and scientists.

Weekends offer places to wander

A variety of events in Southland communities give weekend wanderers places to go during the next forthnight.

San Bernardino's Sports and Vacation Show opens Thursday at the National Orange Show Grounds and continues through Sunday. Auto racing is on the program Saturday and Sunday.

For the 149th year, Indians in the village of Pala in San Diego's back country will hold the Corpus Christi religious fiesta next Sunday. Red-suited altar boys follow the priest of the old Pala mission carrying the Blessed Sacrament while white-dressed Indian girls scatter flower petals on the road ahead. Indian games and dances and a barbecue follow.

More than 100 exhibitors will show their most beautiful wares at the California China Painting Teachers Association exhibit next Saturday and Sunday at Bateman Hall, 11311 Ernestine, in Lynwood.

"Miss Southern California" will be chosen from among 40 bathing girls in the bandshell on the beach at Oceanside next Sunday. Because this is a commercial flower growing area, the beach stadium is traditionally decorated with 1,000 dozen gladioli.

Hats off to Ecuador

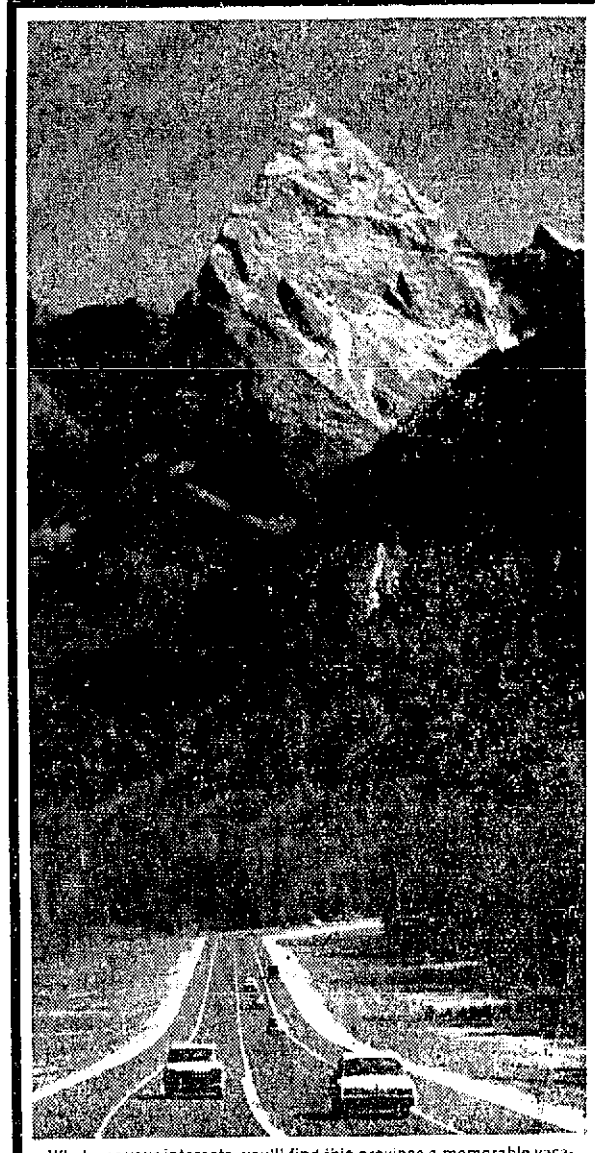

Panama hats, properly called Montecristi, are woven in Ecuador, and not, as many people imagine, in Panama. It is believed that the traders in the old days invented the name, since Panama was better known to North Americans at the time.

Show Dad You Rate Him Tops

By KEITH COOPER

Why a Father's Day?

Good old dad will tell you that such an observance is a lot of wasted energy and nonsense.

Yet, deep in his heart he will appreciate every moment of the day when his family places him on a mythical throne and he'll cherish every gift, big or little.

That's pop. He doesn't expect too much. He may call such a celebration humbug. But he will love it.

Father's Day gives us a chance to express, openly, the sentiment we all secretly hold the rest of the year!

While Mother's Day is sentimental, so are most other days for there is a different heartfelt devotion we may show her daily. But for dad, well, things seem a little different in most homes and for that reason we all can really make him king for a day next Sunday.

Father's Day will be more widely observed than ever all across the United States this year. For that reason this supplement of the Independent, Press-Telegram is offering many suggestions for gifts he will enjoy.

* * * *

AS ALL GOOD leaders should, dad directs by example. Ever on call to meet the minor as well as the major emergencies that arise in family life, father is the household trouble-shooter, a sturdy anchor in the squalls that beset the lives of his youngsters and a rock in the tempests of their adult years.

Certainly, father is no longer the dignified patriarch of former years.

Modern dads get closer to their kids by doing such undignified things as teaching them how to slide bases, cast a fly or cook over an open fire.

How can we express our appreciation to dad? Of course, it should be shown 365 days a year, but human nature being what it is we frequently tend to forget. As a result when Father's Day rolls around it offers us an opportunity to focus our attention and affection on him.

It also gives us a chance to express our sentiments in a more tangible fashion. Nothing will make your dad more proud than to have some evidence that you are proud of him.

For His Use

For his personal use, desk clocks, picture frames, military brushes or silver-handled clothes brushes are always welcome as lasting tokens of regard.

Navy Man Named Father of Year

Dad of 10 Chosen for Area Honors

By RALPH HINMAN

Now hear this! Now hear this! Long Beach's Father of the Year is Eugene M. Portner, lieutenant commander, United States Navy.

Cmdr. Portner, 39, of 811 Coronado Ave., was nominated for The Independent, Press - Telegram's annual honor by his wife and 10 children.

There nominating letter said in part:

"Our Dad is the best! He can do anything and knows or learns the answer to any question. He never refuses to help us—or anyone else."

Portners signing the letter were:

Long Beach natives Mike, 15, the eldest, and John, 20-months (someone signed for him), Chris, 14; Paul, 13; Mark, 11; Mary, 9; Jean, 8; Katy, 7; David, 6; and Jim, 3.

Plus Mrs. Portner, 38.

* * * *

CAREER OFFICER PORTNER, Annapolis '48, and assistant public works officer in the Long Beach Naval Shipyard, gave credit elsewhere for the unexpected honor. Said he:

"The only way to do it is to have a good wife — as I do. This thing (a 10-child family) just couldn't work out without a wife who knows how to handle things.

"And I don't mean just the wifely things. It's like this . . .

"As the father I have to make the living — and the big decisions. But Mother has to make it work . . . to decide who needs shoes now . . . or whose white gloves need washing before a party.

* * * *

"THE LITTLE THINGS that make all the difference. . . ."

Portner, though, obviously is less than a passive partner in the five-bedroom, Spanish-California stucco home on Long Beach's east side.

Ten bicycles, two tricycles and a sidewalk bike fill the backyard. "That's where I spend my weekends," Portner laughed, "fixing the bikes."

Parked in front is a school bus-turned-house car by Portner and his family mechanical crew. "Camping and beach trips are the favorite occupations," he said.

Inside is a handsome colonial-style dining room suite — exquisitely handcrafted by the man, who, in his childrens' words, can make anything.

And there are other physical signs about. More important are the invisible signs that this is a family, united in, to use and overworked word, "togetherness."

Because of these manifestations Lt. Cmdr. Eugene M. Portner, Father of the year, will receive from Long Beach merchants these awards:

Besides a large trophy awarded the Father of the Year by the Independent, Press-Telegram, Portner will receve the following gifts:

$85.00 Mohara 2-pant Tropical Suit from Buffums' Broadway at Pine, Long Beach.
$12.00 box of 4 Wings white Dress Shirts from Walker's, 4th and Pine, Long Beach.
5 Gift Cards, each good for one pie from Marie Callender's Pie Shop, 1400 Obispo, Long Beach.
$5.00 Dress Shirt from Chasin's Men's Wear, 6412 E. Spring Street in the Plaza Shopping Center.
$4.00 bottle of Hask Hair Conditioning and Dandruff Tonic from Jacobson's Barber Shop, 1447 Cherry Ave.
Annual Theater Pass for the family from West Coast Theater, 333 E. Ocean Blvd., Long Beach.
$10.00 Kutani Sake Set from Azuma Gift Shop, 2070 Santa Fe Ave., Long Beach.
$10.00 Gift Certificate from City Photo, 1719 E. Anaheim, Long Beach.
$10.00 Gift Certificate from Ted's Men's Wear, 3120 E. Anaheim, Long Beach.
Frigidaire Flip-quick Ice Ejector from Lakewood Home Appliance, 17127 Lakewood Blvd., Bellflower.
$20.00 Gift Certificate from McMahan's Furniture, 1895 E. Anaheim and 317 Long Beach Blvd. in Long Beach.
$20.00 Genuine Onyx Cuff Link Set by Shields from Columbia, Pacific at 1st, Long Beach.
$10.00 Arrow Shirt and Tie from Levin's Men's Wear, 316 Pine Ave., Long Beach.
$14.95 Ronson Butane Lighter from Lawson's Jewelers, 250 Pine Ave., Long Beach.
$10.00 Man's Gold Cuff Links and Tie Bar from Ted W. Brown Jewelers, 418 Long Beach Blvd., Long Beach.
Dinner for two in the Ivanhoe Room of the Lafayette Hotel, Broadway at Linden, Long Beach.
$10.00 Gift Certificate from Norm Meager's Store for Men in Lakewood Center.
$18.95 Electric Carving Knife from Gold's Furniture, Lakewood Center.
$13.95 Kodak Instamatic 100 Camera from LeRoy's Jewelers, 343 Pine Ave., Long Beach.
$19.95 "Slack-Mate" (Matching Sport Shirt and Slacks) from Mullen & Bluett, Lakewood Center.
$15.00 1-year's supply of Men's Sox from Dewey's Men's Shop, 5928 E. South St., Lakewood.
$12.00 per Men's Slacks — Year-'Round Weight, from Foreman & Clark, 144 Pine Ave., Los Altos Shopping Center and Lakewood Center.

Knit Fashions in High Style

The importance of knit fashions for Father's Day is stressed by the men's fashion department in all stores. They are offering an outstanding selection of cardigan and pullover styles.

The range of colors runs the gamut from classic tones, including the very popular black, to high shades of orange, pink and lilac. These styles are available in 10% alpaca, wools or worsteds and orlon.

AT DAY'S END

With the kids in bed or studying, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Portner seek quiet moment at end of a busy day. It's a brief moment for relaxation.

TAILOR THEIR WANTS

Family of 12 Lives on Dad's Navy Pay

Everyone meeting Father of the Year Eugene M. Portner's 10-child family immediately asks:

"Did you plan it this way?"

"I don't mind the question at all, the navy officer said. "My answer has to be that it was unplanned. But," he said strongly, "our attitude toward the children has been that each is welcome."

He laughed again. "If you had asked me that question 12 or 15 years ago I couldn't have predicted that today I'd be the father of 10.

* * * *

"RIGHT NOW I can't visualize being without any one of them."

And as to the future, "Who knows?" he replied.

"Money really hasn't been a problem," he said judiciously, adding epigrammatically, "Our wants are limited and reasonable, and therefore we haven't wanted for anything."

As a lieutenant commander with 18 year's service, his gross base pay is about $760 per month, plus $145 for housing and $45 subsistence. Which totals at $10,000-plus annually.

* * * *

FROM THIS as for civilian workers, comes out income tax and Social Security withholdings. His is a hefty house payment, too.

"We live completely on my salary—I have no outside income."

Over the years, however, "Our wants became tailored to our ability to get them. The children sense this and are not demanding."

Lt. Cmdr. Eugene M. Portner, Father of the Year, is pictured with his family in their living room. David foreground with Jimmy standing behind them. Mrs. Portner holds John on her lap. In the rear are Mark, Paul, Chris, Mike, Mary and Jean.

Wife Mary Catherine, more warmly, Kay, does her part in this.

"She shops the supermarkets in the area every week —and the base commissary," he said. "We eat well . . ."

Problems Aired by 'Council'

A family council helps steer the E. M. Portner family on a straight course.

"On Sunday night, right after supper, we sit down as a family and talk things over," said the new Father of the Year, repeating again his belief in the importance of all-family dinners.

"Things are fairly well organized," he continued. "I ask what's bothering them this week. We hear complaints and viewpoints before voting.

"Mother and I have the veto power, though."

* * * *

TELEVISION, which is "not one of our favorite recreations," was a subject discussed recently.

"Together we drafted rules for TV watching," Portner said, "and decided that a monitor be appointed to enforce the rules."

Under the majority-imposed schedule school-age Portners may watch the set 90 minutes on week nights "if studies are finished. If the work isn't done, no TV."

The monitors enforce family law, though "in case of dissent, Mom or Dad gets into it."

Knit Shirts in Variety of Stylings

Knit shirts for the summer are a far cry from what they used to be.

Some are in regatta-inspired Henley styles, others blatantly swiped from tennis sweaters, and still others filched from the football field—numerals and all.

For the young executive and more mature fellows there are crewnecks with chest stripes, mesh knits with vertical stripes, shorties with mitred stripes and polyester-cotton blend mesh knits with sweater detailing.

Thick 'n' thin cotton yarns are conjured into linen-look knits, too. Then, of course, there are a thousand (or is it ten thousand?) solid shades in the classic collared polo or golf models in cottons, nylon and other fibers.

Use Sponge

A cellulose sponge makes a good clothesbrush. It does a fine job and, most important, can be washed clean.

Knit Fashions in High Style

The importance of knit fashions for Father's Day is stressed by the men's fashion department in all stores. They are offering an outstanding selection of cardigan and pullover styles.

The range of colors runs the gamut from classic tones, including the very popular black, to high shades of orange, pink and lilac. These styles are available in 100% alpaca, wools or worsteds and orlon.

AT DAY'S END

With the kids in bed or studying, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Portner seek quiet moment at end of a busy day. It's a brief moment for relaxation.

Problems Aired by 'Council'

A family council helps steer the E. M. Portner family on a straight course.

"On Sunday night, right after supper, we sit down as a family and talk things over," said the new Father of the Year, repeating again his belief in the importance of all-family dinners.

"Things are fairly well organized," he continued, "I ask what's bothering them this week. We hear complaints and viewpoints before voting.

"Mother and I have the veto power, though."

* * * *

TELEVISION, which is "not one of our favorite recreations," was a subject discussed recently.

"Together we drafted rules for TV watching," Portner said, "and decided that a monitor be appointed to enforce the rules."

Under the majority-imposed schedule school-age Portners may watch the set 90 minutes on week nights "if studies are finished. If the work isn't done, no TV."

The monitors enforce family law, though "in case of dissent, Mom or Dad gets into it."

TAILOR THEIR WANTS

Family of 12 Lives on Dad's Navy Pay

Everyone meeting Father of the Year Eugene M Portner's 10 child family immediately asks:

"Did you plan it this way?"

"I don't mind the question at all, the navy officer said. "My answer has to be that it was unplanned. But," he said strongly, "our attitude toward the children has been that each is welcome."

He laughed again. "If you had asked me that question 12 or 15 years ago I couldn't have predicted that today I'd be the father of 10.

* * * *

"RIGHT NOW I can't visualize being without any one of them."

And as to the future, "Who knows?" he replied.

"Money really hasn't been a problem," he said judiciously, adding epigrammatically, "Our wants are limited and reasonable, and therefore we haven't wanted for anything."

As a lieutenant commander with 18 year's service, his gross base pay is about $760 per month, plus $145 for housing and $45 subsistence. Which totals at $10,000-plus annually.

* * * *

FROM THIS as for civilian workers, comes out income tax and Social Security withholdings. His is a hefty house payment, too.

"We live completely on my salary—I have no outside income."

Over the years, however, "Our wants became tailored to our ability to get them. The children sense this and are not demanding."

Lt. Cmdr. Eugene M. Portner, Father of the Year, is pictured with his family in their living room. David foreground with Jimmy standing behind them. Mrs. Portner holds John on her lap. In the rear are Mark, Paul, Chris, Mike, Mary and Jean.

Wife Mary Catherine, more warmly, Kay, does her part in this.

"She shops the supermarkets in the area every week --and the base commissary," he said. "We eat well . . ."

Knit Shirts in Variety of Stylings

Knit shirts for the summer are a far cry from what they used to be.

Some are in regatta-inspired Henley styles, others blatantly swiped from tennis sweaters, and still others filched from the football field—numerals and all.

For the young executive and more mature fellows there are crewnecks with chest stripes, mesh knits with vertical stripes, shorties with mitred stripes and polyester cotton blend mesh knits with sweater detailing.

Thick 'n' thin cotton yarns are conjured into linen-look knits, too. Then, of course, there are a thousand (or is it ten thousand?) solid shades in the classic collared polo or golf models in cottons, nylon and other fibers.

Use Sponge

A cellulose sponge makes a good clothesbrush. It does a fine job and, most important, can be washed clean.

Eye Trouble Placed Portner Into Naval Engineering Role

What of Eugene M. Portner the man and Naval officer?

A native of Denver, Colo., but raised in nearby Colorado Springs where "my father was a plumber," he entered the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1944.

Left behind at the resort town in addition to parents were two sisters and a brother, now scattered across the nation.

Shortly before graduating with the hurry-up class of 1948 — actually commissioned in 1947—his fledgling career almost was set back at its outset.

"I had eye trouble just before commencement and they wouldn't commission be as a line officer. In those days I thought the Navy did nothing but sail ships and it seemed as if my career was finished."

* * * *

THE FATES were more than kind, though, and Portner found himself an ensign in the Civil Engineer Corps —with a long-range, post-retirement career possible.

Shortly after joining the officer corps the Dutch descended Portner married Miss Mary Catherine Lachowsky of German-Swiss-Polish ancestry and a fellow resident of Colorado Springs.

Following a duty tour on Guam with the famed Seabees, he returned stateside and was assigned to attend Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N.Y., and complete work on a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering.

Completing work there he "became a licensed civil engineer in Rhode Island—but there's no reciprocity with California." Portner, therefore, is about to take an examination which will provide him with registry in the Golden State.

* * * *

THE DECADE-and-a-half following technical school is illustrated by the places 10 little Portners were born:

Michael, U.S. Naval Hospital, Long Beach, now the Veterans Administration facility; Christopher, Oceanside, Calif.; Paul, Seattle, Wash.; Mark, Wickford, R. I.; Mary and Jean, both in Madrid, Spain; Katy and David, Fredericksburg, Va.; Jim and John, both in St. Mary's Hospital, Long Beach.

Describing his work as assistant public works officer, Portner said "It basically is to take care of such things as maintenance of grounds, building and drydocks, any new construction at Long Beach Naval Shipyard. We operate all transportation—including the (German-built) big crane.

"You might compare us with the city engineer of Long Beach because we get involved in everything. Like if the admiral's car hits a pothole, he calls us . . ."

* * * *

THE NAVY'S Civil Engineer Corps, he explained, is small and deals with comparable construction matters the world over. Among its operating arms are the famed Seabees (Construction Battalions) of World War II, Korea and Viet Nam fame.

"All CB officers are civil engineers, but not all engineers are attached to the CBs," he clarified.

Portner's career now approaches that crisis stage known to every regular Naval officer. He must be promoted to full commander this year if he is to progress within the service.

"I'll stay as long as I can," he noted. "I like the Navy —it and my family is my whole life.

"And if I had it all to do over again, my course would be pretty much the same."

Belts of Fabric Highly Popular

Fabric belts, casual and colorful, are growing in popularity. They're seen in colorful houndstooth cottons, paisley challis, striped India cotton (like bed ticking) and many other unusual fabrics and colors.

Portner Philosophy

"My philosophy? That's a tough one to answer," replied Father of the Year, Eugene M. Portner. "I never was asked before."

He paused. "A man must be FOR something, not just against things. A man should develop his body, soul and mind.

"Our civilization neglects the spiritual side . . . almost as if it didn't exist."

No, he answered another question, "I'm not a deeply religious man. Not like my wife, who goes to mass every morning. But I do hope my philosophy matches that of my my Church."

Mealtime is happy time of day for Gene Portner family as reflected in faces of Jean (from left), Katy and Mary as they help their mother, Kay (far right), with chore of setting the table for family of 12.

Mrs. Portner Shops Carefully So Family Eats on $160 Month

By JUDY HAZLETT

Five pounds of potatoes . . . four pounds of meat . . . a gallon of milk . . .

No, this isn't a week's grocery list, but an average meal for Gene Portner, 1965 "Father of the Year," his wife Kay, and 10 children.

Mrs. Portner, who does all of her own cooking and housework for the king-sized family, revealed some secrets she has found helpful in meal planning and budgeting.

"I always take advantage of the specials in buying my groceries," she said. "For instance, we use 10 to 12 loaves of bread a week, 12 dozen eggs and 14 gallons of milk. I pick and choose where I shop and find we can stay within $160 a month for food."

* * * *

THERE ARE various ways a large family can cut corners to make Dad's pay check stretch . . . such as haircuts.

Seven of the Portner children are boys, and the hair cutting chores are left to mother.

"I have been giving haircuts for about 14 years, now, Mrs. Portner explained. "My biggest problem is cutting the hair as short as I'd like . . . the older boys want only a trim, but it usually works out."

The day begins early for the pretty wife and mother. She arises at 5:30 a.m. and prepares seven school lunches as the four older boys start for paper route jobs. Breakfast for she and her husband is next on the agenda at 6 a.m. After the other school children are awakened, she and Mr. Portner leave for early morning Mass. When she returns from church, the pre-school children get up and the others leave for school.

Confusing? Not really . . . at least not for the Portners. They do it every morning.

* * * *

WHEN THE youngsters have left for school and dad has gone to the Long Beach Naval Shipyard where he is assistant public works officer, Mrs. Portner settles down to her daily routine of washing dishes, doing laundry, ironing, and tending her two energetic pre-schoolers.

By the time the clock strikes 4 p.m. she begins preparing the family dinner.

She explained that her biggest problem in keeping their nine-room house at 811 Coronado in East Long Beach, is the ironing. In fact, she's taught two of the older children the art and they are proving quite proficient.

"I do three loads of laundry each day including 40 white shirts a week (which, of course, have to be ironed).

If three loads a day sounds monstrous . . . what about the 15 loads she washes when they return from one of their frequent camping trips?

* * * *

THE HOUSEWORK for Mrs. Portner could be a much larger task . . . but the children have chores such as keeping their own rooms clean and beds made, doing the evening dishes and mowing the lawn. Everyone helps so there is still plenty of time for family activities and recreation.

Mrs. Portner explained that the family loves camping trips, excursions to the beach and picnics.

"Each year we make a 'big deal' out of a 10-day camping trip to Yosemite . . . and several times we've gone to Big Bear.

"We have other family outings such as going out to dinner. Every week or so, we take the children, although only a few at a time. The others stay home with the babies."

Birthdays (which number 12 throughout the year) are family celebrations with balloons, birthday cake and all of the trimmings.

* * * *

"IT SEEMS THERE is always a birthday," she said, "and each one of us always buys the other a little present. Even though the children do not receive an allowance, they always find a way to earn money if they really want something.

"Money has never been a real problem for us and we never argue about it. We pay our bills, spend what is left and when its gone, we quit spending."

Mrs. Portner, who bubbled with energy and enthusiasm for her young family, explained the advantages of a large family:

"First," she said, "is the comradeship . . . the children get along well together, except for mild squabbles, and there's never a dull moment. We learn so much from our children . . . and the large family keeps us young.

* * * *

"ANOTHER THING I've found in my children is independence . . . they learn to do things on their own earlier and seem to know what is really going on around them earlier in life than children we've known in smaller families."

When the day's work is done, and the children are tucked in bed, Mr. and Mrs. Portner find time for themselves. She teaches a religion class at St. Matthew's School each week and her husband is working toward his MS degree at Long Beach State College.

They also find plenty of time for reading, club meetings, and their outstanding charity work.

* * * *

THE PORTNER family is a close knit group, who display helpfulness for each other and the understanding necessary to be happy.

More children for the Portners? . . . well, you never can tell.

As Mrs. Portner says, "I'm young yet and there's always a possibility. I take them as they come . . . there's always room for one more."

Every Dad Nominated Can Be Mighty Proud

By KAY SEE

A contest in which every entry is a winner!

In reality, that is what the annual Fathers Day Contest conducted by the Independent, Press-Telegram, proves to be.

While the major prizes go to only one of the hundreds of nominees, every man who is placed in nomination should feel great elation in knowing that his family, or friends, rate him so highly.

For example, Marvin Rogers, 3913 Karen Ave., Long Beach, can be a mighty proud dad today. His son Marvin A. rates him so highly that the boy's letter must mean far more than any worldly prize.

* * * *

"I WISH EVERY child had a father as wonderful as mine," wrote the lad in nominating his dad.

That one sentence meant so much that the judges decided Rogers at least deserved honorable mention. "My father has given us the fondest father's fondest care," wrote another appealing sentence the lad wrote.

"It is the little things that count, and for this reason I would like to nominate my husband, Earl F. Johnson," wrote Mrs. Johnson, 5561 Vernon St.

Although he works long hours, Johnson "is still thoughtful and considerate to his wife of 13 years and four children." She then told of varied considerations for the family and she added:

"For these reasons I am proud of my husband, and he is kind and loving DAILY, not just on special occasions."

* * * *

F. JAMES CLINES, 2544 San Francisco Ave., is another who can be a mighty proud man this Father's Day.

Daughter Susan, 12, had listed many things her dad has done such as cheering VA Hospital patients, bringing cheer to prisoners, helping Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and stressing the value of education to young folks.

"I've never heard an unkind or angry word from his lips," wrote Susan, adding, "I would surely like to see him Father of the Year.

These are but a few of the many fine letters received. So close was the judging that time after time many of the letters were reviewed before a final decision could be reached.

So, dad, maybe you didn't win the big prize. But you are a mighty lucky man when mom and kids or friends and neighbors sent in your nomination, wanting to tell the world what a great guy you are.

The world joins young Marvin Rogers in wishing "every child had a father as wonderful as mine."

Outstanding New Watches

Isn't it about time to replace that old-fashioned worn watch of Dad's with a sleek modern one he will be proud to wear? Today's new watches for men, developed with one eye on style and one on science, are slimmer, more streamlined and practical delights.

Dear Sir,
I want my Daddy to be Daddy of the year because.

Every Dad Nominated Can Be Mighty Proud

By KAY SEE

A contest in which every entry is a winner!

In reality, that is what the annual Fathers Day Contest conducted by the Independent, Press-Telegram, proves to be.

While the major prizes go to only one of the hundreds or nominees, every man who is placed in nomination should feel great elation in knowing that his family, or friends, rate him so highly.

For example, Marvin Rogers, 3913 Karen Ave., Long Beach, can be a mighty proud dad today. His son Marvin A. rates him so highly that the boy's letter must mean far more than any worldly prize.

* * * *

"I WISH EVERY child had a father as wonderful as mine," wrote the lad in nominating his dad.

That one sentence meant so much that the judges decided Rogers at least deserved honorable mention. "My father has given us the fondest father's fondest care," wrote another appealing sentence the lad wrote.

"It is the little things that count, and for this reason I would like to nominate my husband, Earl F. Johnson," wrote Mrs. Johnson, 5561 Vernon St.

Although he works long hours, Johnson "is still thoughtful and considerate to his wife of 13 years and four children." She then told of varied considerations for the family and she added:

"For these reasons I am proud of my husband, and he is kind and loving DAILY, not just on special occasions."

* * * *

F. JAMES CLINES, 2544 San Francisco Ave., is another who can be a mighty proud man this Father's Day.

Daughter Susan, 12, had listed many things her dad has done such as cheering VA Hospital patients, bringing cheer to prisoners, helping Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and stressing the value of education to young folks.

"I've never heard an unkind or angry word from his lips," wrote Susan, adding, "I would surely like to see him Father of the Year.

These are but a few of the many fine letters received. So close was the judging that time after time many of the letters were reviewed before a final decision could be reached.

So, dad, maybe you didn't win the big prize. But you are a mighty lucky man when mom and kids or friends and neighbors sent in your nomination, waiting to tell the world what a great guy you are.

The world joins young Marvin Rogers in wishing "every child had a father as wonderful as mine."

Outstanding New Watches

Isn't it about time to replace that old-fashioned worn watch of Dad's with a sleek modern one he will be proud to wear? Today's new watches for men, developed with one eye on style and one on science, are slimmer, more streamlined and practical delights.

Conservative Garb Now Worn for Golf

Something happened to that well-dressed group of athletes, the professional golfers, during the winter golf circuit. They lost a lot of their old flamboyancy and attained something Walter Logan of UPI called "quiet good taste."

The red pants of yesteryear almost disappeared along with pink pants and purple. In their place were worn conservative tans, browns, greys and some navy. Gary Player, of course, wore his usual outfit of black shirt, black slacks and black and white shoes.

Many of the pros and especially the winners endorse men's apparel products and this may have been the major influence. If a manufacturer tones down what might be called the garish garb of a winner the other players sooner or later follow suit.

THE MOST astonishing change began with the official start of the winter circuit, the Los Angeles Open in January. Brightly colored knit shirts began disappearing from the links. As the winter wore on there were more and more whites. By the time the Masters rolled around white was the predominant color.

There have been rumors that various manufacturers were going to try to reintroduce knickers, or plus fours, but not a single pair was seen. Some of the younger spectators wore walking shorts but the players almost to a man wore beltless, or self-belted slacks, and mostly without pleats. Linen was popular.

On cool days along the way Alpaca sweaters again took the honors with the cardigan the most popular by far. Many of these were color coordinated with the more somber-hued slacks. Jimmy Demaret, whose wardrobe usually dazzles, was seen at one point wearing a pink cardigan with a pair of cream colored flannel slacks and a navy crew shirt trimmed in white.

KNITTED SHIRTS were by far the most popular with players and spectators alike. Most had some embroidered breast pocket emblem. The washable synthetics, such as Arrow's Decton, (Dacron and cotton) were out in front. Spectators leaned more to the cut-and-sewn shirt than the golfers. Solid colors far out-numbered plaids and stripes. Some

Golf Hats Popular

More hats than caps are now being worn by golfers and most of the hats are straw. Cloth hats were more popular than in past years in play last winter and some spectators were wearing the white cloth Campobello hat made famous by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Rainy days brought out a wild assortment of foul weather gear plus the usual oversize umbrellas.

GIVE HIM A WATCH

Whether Dad prefers the thin dress watch, a rugged self-winding waterproof model or the accutron microsonic timer, you will find them all in the C. C. Lewis store, the oldest Long Beach jewelry firm, 333 Pine Ave.

Come On Dad, Let Family Know Your Wants!

Dad, you can do a lot in helping the family make Father's Day a great day for you! You usually are a pretty sly old fox when it comes to getting across some of your ideas without openly making demands on the family. Try it this week and maybe you will get some gifts that you really want.

The time for taking Father's Day gifts in a catch-as-catch-can way is past. If you want to stem the flow of jeweled can openers, mink-lined mustache cups, and other useless or duplicated items that builds into a minor tidal wave on the Day for Dads, now is the time to act. Other members of the clan aren't timid about hinting about what they'd like in the way of gifts on their special days. This is the way they get what they need and want, and it can be your answer, too.

A FEW well-timed and well-placed hints may result in your receiving many of the things you'd like or need. For example, would you like some comfortable, easy-on-the-eye summer clothes? Use the breakfast table for a casual comment about how easy to care for and inexpensive such clothes are. Note over the morning coffee that these cool garments are easy on the wallet, too. The chances are that your comments will not fall on deaf ears.

Do your old swim trunks look as though they've been used by a barracuda for a teething ring? Stated with a properly wistful look, a comment to this effect may well produce a few new pairs. You will need these anyhow for those sun-filled, fun-filled days at the beach and, if you do your propagandizing right, your wife or offspring may even come up with one of those good looking cabana sets for you. The matching shirts, frequently lined with terry, are just great to dry off in.

Are you short on summer shirts? Put in a pitch as soon as possible for some of these comfortable, wilt-preventing numbers. Mention the handsome variety of new collars, the lightweight porous weaves of the fabrics, the cool colors and, if Mom does the ironing, don't forget the wash-and-wear fabrics that practically press themselves.

* * * *

IS YOUR SLACKS wardrobe on its last legs? Make a few timely cracks about how it's not right for the head of the family to be sporting shine on the seat of his pants instead of a brand-new pair of new featherweight trousers that shed stains, wrinkles and heat with ease. Timing your remarks as the family gets ready for a shopping expedition may even lead to the family satisfying your secret yen for a pair of slacks in shades ranging from pale pastels to rich reds and golds.

Do you hit the ceiling once a week looking for a missing cuff link? Have pity on your head and the ceiling, too, by suggesting tactfully that someone remember you with a few new sets of links and other accessories.

Does your selection of summer ties make you think about strangling yourself every morning? Try schemes like tucking your napkin under your chin at the dinner table with a remark to the effect that you've got to do something to protect your last summer tie. This isn't foolproof but it's bound to get the fact across to the family that you need a new assortment of foulards, cottons and summery reps.

* * * *

OR IS IT POSSIBLE that you'd rather trust your own judgment in picking out your Father's Day presents on the spot? Take advantage of the gift certificate system by commenting from time to time on what an excellent idea it is. It might work you into a spot where you can pick out a new summer suit in the most terrific crop ever available, or any number of garments, furnishings and accessories that you may feel are better left to a man's individual taste.

These are just a few ideas you might find useful in getting what you want for Father's Day. You know your family best and the special approach that is likely to work best in each case. They may work and they may not, but it's worth a try, Dad. After all, who wants a shaving mug when he can have some good looking sports shirts, tennis togs, walk shorts, golf cap or whatever your particular sartorial needs may be?

Newer Dads Schooling Increasing

More than half the men between the ages of 20 and 64 are high school graduates, and one out of every four has been to college for at least a year. These proportions are well over twice those of their fathers, according to the U. S. Bureau of the Census, and indicate the extent of the upgrading of the population's educational attainment that has been taking place in the past generation.

New Pipe Good Gift

An ideal gift, tops on the list of a lot of people who boast a pipe-loving Pop—is, of course, a brand new pipe.

Oddly enough, a pipe should be carefully selected to fit Dad's facial contour and his relaxin' habits.

For example — a father with a round face should be given a slim, long pipe. On the other hand, the thin man would look more natural with an apple-shaped bowl as this type of pipe distracts from his slender lines.

It is wise to remember dad's activities when selecting his gift pipe.

For instance, if dad's biggest hobby is relaxing in front of the TV set, choose a longer stem so that the smoke will not interfere with his vision.

If pop is the house "putterer," give him a modified calabash which would enable the pipe to rest on his chin. For the great American outdoorsman, a saddle-bit type is recommended. This permits dad to grip the pipe easier.

Easy to Buy Gift for Men

The woman who says she doesn't know what to get a man for a gift hasn't had a good look around.

He's a do-it-yourself man? Give him a package of sandpaper. He likes clothes? Give him a drip-dry shirt and let him wash it out himself. The possibilities are endless once you get started. And they can mean less work for you if you play it right.

Take, for instance, shoes. He probably needs a new pair and you don't know what size he takes after being married to him for 15 or 20 years. The solution? It's simple. Stores now carry gift certificates for men's shoes. Hand him one and let him pick out a pair.

* * * *

YOU CAN always get him solid gold cuff links and articles like that, but it's unimaginative.

Seriously, the man on your gift list should present nary a problem this year. Every hobby under the sun is catered to; gifts of fashion are no longer monotonous and toiletries are really handsome.

He might like a gold-filled pocket knife that's both slim and elegant.

Walt Reed, co-owner of Fishermen's Hardware (termed the most complete fishing tackle store in Southern California) at 2801 E. Anaheim St., displays a new fishing rod.

He Won't Buy Own Jewelry

Few fathers will consider buying themselves anything in the line of jewelry but if you should provide them with such a gift for Father's Day it will make their eyes sparkle with pleasure.

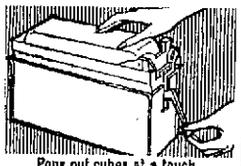

The Jewelry Industry Council reports there is a wider variety than ever of handsome masculine jewelry gifts to choose from to suit every taste and pocketbook. And, best of all, a gift of jewelry is "something special" that every Dad is bound to remember with pride for years to come.

Former School Bus Converted to Family's Home on Wheels

Camping, swimming and bicycling are the Portners' favorite avocations.

To ease camping's pain and strain, engineer Portner, the 1965 Father of the Year, converted a 1949 school bus into a fully-equipped house car.

"The first thing you do is get plans," said Lt. Cmdr. E. M. Portner. "Then you follow them."

Portner's plans called for:

Double bunks in the rear for the kids and a bed up front for he and Mom. Plus a three-way lighting system—butane, 6 volt and 110 volt electrical—hot water heater, sink with running water, self-contained toilet and shower, 40-gallon water tank, butane supplies.

Usually parked in a rear alleys, the house car is pressed into use weekends and leave periods.

* * * *

"WE SWIM a lot—almost 50-50 between the officers' pool on Terminal Island and the ocean"—and the car is invaluable getting to and fro even though it gets only 7 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

"Every summer we go to Yosemite or other mountains" in the car that cost $1,000 plus $500 for "spare parts."

The kids are good swimmers, their father said, "because they spent time in base pools" and received professional instruction.

Portner tries to arrange his annual 30-day leave in order to travel in late spring, early fall and at Christmas. A mountain trip is planned this month.

* * * *

WEEKENDS at home often are on the backyard brick patio repairing bicycles—8 full-size models, 2 tricycles and a sidewalk model. A rusty barbeque charcoal broiler obviously was rarely used because, as Portner said, "It's not practical for us."

"This is my characteristic pose," he said, wrench in one hand, bike chain drive in the other.

In the cool of early evening Portner likes to bike ride with his daughters. Often accompanying them in a large, deep bike basket are the youngest boys, John and Jim.

"The girls—and the two boys—love to ride—and I love to go with them," he smiled.

A professional avocation are the classes Portner has been taking in civil engineering at Long Beach State College.

"I started with two courses a semester in the fall of 1963," he said, "but that's one too many, so I cut the load." Now about one-third through a program leading to a master of science degree, he hopes to finish in two more years.

BUSLOAD OF PORTNERS

Perfect for Him

The pure wool cardigan is done up in an Ivy stripe and a design that's actually somewhere between cardigan and vest and could serve as either. Perfect for country living, this is the kind of sweater that's handy for the city, too. Any dad will appreciate one as a gift.

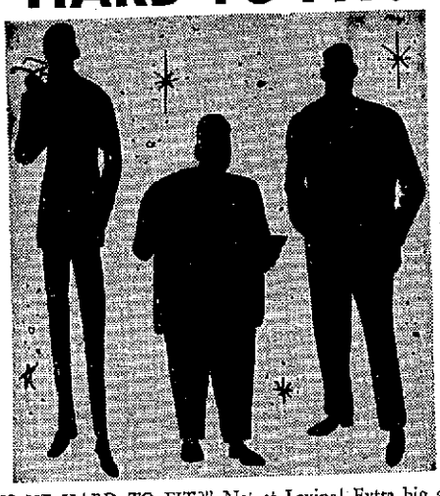

Sentiment Lasts in These Gifts

Personal jewelry, such as cuff links, tie bars or tie racks, is welcome in every man's wardrobe. Whether in karat gold, sterling silver or gold filled, it combines good taste with lasting sentiment.

Pen and pencil sets, lighters, belt buckles, wallets, key chains and money clips are other enduring Father's Day gifts.

Former School Bus Converted to Family's Home on Wheels

Camping, swimming and bicycling are the Portners' favorite avocations.

To ease camping's pain and strain, engineer Portner, the 1965 Father of the Year, converted a 1949 school bus into a fully-equipped house car.

"The first thing you do is get plans," said Lt. Cmdr. E. M. Portner. "Then you follow them."

Portner's plans called for:

Double bunks in the rear for the kids and a bed up front for he and Mom. Plus a three-way lighting system—butane, 6 volt and 110 volt electrical—hot water heater, sink with running water, self-contained toilet and shower, 40-gallon water tank, butane supplies.

Usually parked in a rear alleys, the house car is pressed into use weekends and leave periods.

* * * *

"WE SWIM a lot—almost 50-50 between the officers' pool on Terminal Island and the ocean"—and the car is invaluable getting to and fro even though it gets only 7 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

"Every summer we go to Yosemite or other mountains" in the car that cost $1,000 plus $500 for "spare parts."

The kids are good swimmers, their father said, "because they spent time in base pools" and received professional instruction.

Portner tries to arrange his annual 30-day leave in order to travel in late spring, early fall and at Christmas. A mountain trip is planned this month.

* * * *

WEEKENDS at home often are on the backyard brick patio repairing bicycles—8 full-size models, 2 tricycles and a sidewalk model. A rusty barbeque charcoal broiler obviously was rarely used because, as Portner said, "It's not practical for us."

"This is my characteristic pose," he said, wrench in one hand, bike chain drive in the other.

In the cool of early evening Portner likes to bike ride with his daughters. Often accompanying them in a large, deep bike basket are the youngest boys, John and Jim.

"The girls—and the two boys—love to ride—and I love to go with them," he smiled.

A professional avocation are the classes Portner has been taking in civil engineering at Long Beach State College.

"I started with two courses a semester in the fall of 1963," he said, "but that's one too many, so I cut the load." Now about one-third through a program leading to a master of science degree, he hopes to finish in two more years.

BUSLOAD OF PORTNERS

Perfect for Him

The pure wool cardigan is done up in an Ivy stripe and a design that's actually somewhere between cardigan and vest and could serve as either. Perfect for country living, this is the kind of sweater that's handy for the city, too. Any dad will appreciate one as a gift.

Sentiment Lasts in These Gifts

Personal jewelry, such as cuff links, tie bars or tie racks, is welcome in every man's wardrobe. Whether in karat gold, sterling silver or gold filled, it combines good taste with lasting sentiment.

Pen and pencil sets, lighters, belt buckles, wallets, key chains and money clips are other enduring Father's Day gifts.

CARDIGAN GREAT GIFT

Whether dad is active in sports or enjoys spending an evening in the patio, a Cardigan will be a sure hit as a gift. These two are offered at all Thrifty Drug Stores at a moderate price. At the left is a 60% Alpaca and 40% worsted. At the right is a six-button Orlon acrylic with a double knit flat look.

FOR HIS COOKIN' FUN

Tom Lansford, assistant manager of Imperial Hardware, 437 Long Beach Blvd., shows Georgia Plancich how a busy dad would cook up a treat. His broiler is a Weber covered barbecue kettle. This sturdy meal-maker comes in radiant colors —red, turquoise, gray, coppertone and black. It is an ideal gift for Dad.

Built-in Comfort

While considering the new slacks as a gift for Dad, it is very important to know that s-t-r-e-t-c-h does not mean tight!

Of course, the new stretch fabrics are styled in as many models as the other fabrics. These include styles to please status-minded young executive and comfort-seeking men of ample proportions.

The "give" in stretch slacks (and walking shorts) simply means a comfort plus —not a leotard look.

Traditionalists will get a liberal serving of sportswear colors and oxford-type shirting stripes in dressy fabrics for their slacks.

Maybe Dad Likes Walking Shorts

Now that men's knees have come out of hiding—you may be able to get Dad into some smart, to-the-knee walking shorts.

To please Father every day... A BIG RECLINING CHAIR

Joy and comfort will be Dad's for years to come when he relaxes in a nationally famous recliner from our huge selection. Many different styles, colors & fabrics.

Most Men Like to Fish

Young or old, most men are fishing enthusiasts.

So sporting goods or department stores will provide an ideal place to shop for a Father's Day gift.

The finest of rods, reels and other tackle are being shown now at moderately low prices compared to past years. Perhaps a new tackle box would be appreciated. Or, boots, hat and other wearing apparel are needed.

Long Beach sportfishing landings also provide tickets for future trips which would make a great gift for any Dad who goes deep sea fishing.

Most Men Like Ring

Because rings have always signified authority, they are high-ranking with fathers of all ages as gifts. There are rings marking schools, colleges and fraternal groups, as well as signet rings.

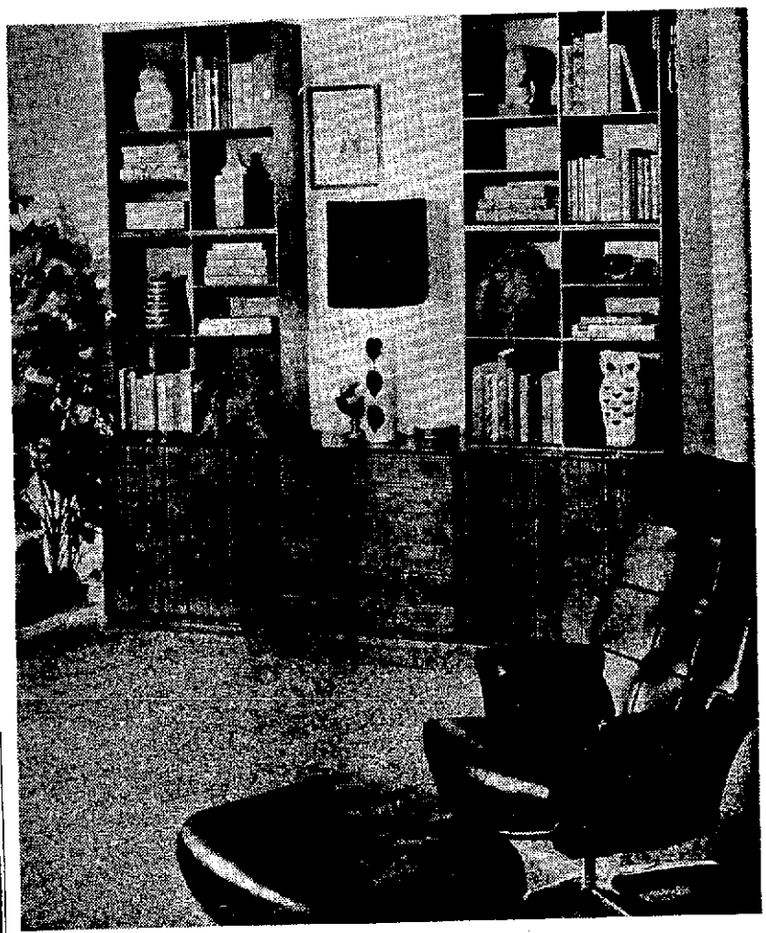

A handsome ring containing a masculine stone such as a glowing star sapphire or an onyx is a gift of lasting beauty which dad will wear with pride and pleasure.

* * * *

AND FATHER can even wear a sparkling diamond in a ring as an extra special reminder of his family's love and appreciation.

If dad likes to be a happy host during his leisure hours, the jeweler has a broad collection of gifts to make his relaxing time more enjoyable. Gleaming silver bar tools, ice buckets, tongs, pitchers and dishes will all go far to make his entertaining more delightful to him as well as his guests. And for his office, the smoker will cherish a silver cigarette box, an elegant ash tray, or a table lighter.

Dad Needs Do-Nothing Chair to Banish Care

FOR HIS DEN

A form-fitting chair with Ottoman where Dad may read or watch television and some handy stack units for bookcases and storage will make the den a great place any father would appreciate. A rug for his den would be another great gift.

The day when Father reigns as "King" is coming up!

Whether he's called Dad, Pop, the Old Man—or some individual term that applies to him alone—he's the fellow who sweats all week over a "hot desk" to bring home the bacon—and sometimes filet mignon.

And he's the fellow who endures the pressures from such tyrants as the calendar, the clock and the telephone to enable him to buy a new car for the rest of the family to use, to give advances on allowances and to arrange for vacations for the family, etc.

He's also the fellow that psychologists worry about because — though often breathless and anxious, without saying much about it—he's apt to feel guilty when he takes a bit of needed leisure. What he really needs is a special spot to just "do nothing" in—just relax.

A DO-NOTHING chair of the big, lazy, "cushy" kind that permits Dad to stretch out and just plain rest, says the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, is a wonderful suggestion for a gift he will enjoy for a long time to come.

Recliners, naturally, since they present such a number of relaxing positions, are high on the list of do-nothing chairs. And Mom can now withdraw her objections to having a recliner in her lovely living room because modern engineering and decorator tailoring have done so much to beautify many recliners and make them most harmonious with elegant decor. There are others that still look big and over-grown because some men like them that way. Many have no visible mechanism — simply move into position from pressure of the body; others use a slide lever that responds to a touch from the finger to let the back down and lift the footrest.

And there are big "squooshy" lounge chairs with matching ottomans in big, healthy checks, tailored stripes, or appealing solids in bright and somber tones. They are available in contemporary, traditional and country styles, in a wide choice of fabrics in rough textures or silken softness to help them adapt to different decor.

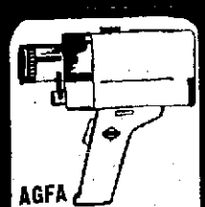

If anyone is worried about the "stoop" that Dad is acquiring, this is a fine opportunity to help him acquire a very special swivel office chair that helps the executive to maintain good posture in comfort.

Probably the most famous recliner is the one made as a special gift for President Lyndon B. Johnson and now available to everyone. It rocks for gentle, stimulating contraction of muscles and to improve circulation. It also offers numerous sitting and reclining positions.

THEY CALL IT LOTION

Males Do Like Perfume, but Under Different Name

By United Press International

Call it after shaving lotion, toilet water or cologne, it would smell as sweet by any other name. American men bought $350 million worth of toiletries last year, sometimes furtively, and sales are expected to zoom by 70% this year.

At the end of World War II, the men's toiletry business amounted to a few hundred thousand dollars a year, mostly bay rum, witch hazel and such old standbys as 4711 Cologne and Yardley's English Lavender or some citrusy type. Now they are flagrantly fragrant.

There are hair sprays, home hair tinting outfits, deodorants, body powders, night creams, facial packs—and one company has just marketed an out and out perfume, all for men.

Everyone is jumping on the cologne wagon. Nearly every perfume house is producing something For Men Only — there's even a cologne by that name. The Manhattan Shirt Co. finds itself selling Roger & Gallet perfumes. Sears, Roebuck and Co. put its scientists to work and came up with Stampede. The Swank jewelry company hit the stores with Jade East.

* * * *

THERE ARE HUNDREDS of others. J. Warren Kane, president of the firm of the same name which imports Carven products, said 218 firms have gone into men's toiletries, mainly colognes, in the past year and a half.

Kane is the one who introduced the men's perfume. It is disguised under the name extrait, which is French for extract, and is called "Vetiver de Carven Extrait Pour Monsieur." You dab it behind your ears when no one is looking or pat it on the back of your head where you don't sweat and this keeps you fragrant all day. A drop on a handkerchief lasts for many hours.

Kane insists there is nothing sissy about it. For example, he told of a robust friend who went on a hunting trip to Canada. The friend couldn't bathe because it was too cold so he sprayed his clothes with cologne. Now he sprays his suits the night before he wears them and Kane says, "there's nothing feminine about that man."

The industry is careful to avoid the use of such words as "cosmetics" or "perfume" and some leaders have suggested the products be called "fashion toiletries."

CARMEL MYERS, the one-time movie great who co-starred with such men as Rudolph Valentino, John Barrymore and Ramon Novarro, is one of the pioneers in the men's fragrance field. Valentino, she recalls, always wore a cool, citrusy she tracked down the ingredients to his native Italy and produced "That Certain Fragrance." Since then she has brought out a number of scents, including George V, which is described as smelling like "fresh cut grass."

At the moment women buy an estimated 60% of men's fashion toiletries but more and more men's clothing stores and other masculine lairs are adding lines of their own. The market itself is described as in orbit and Michael H. Thomas, vice president of Nieman-Marcus, is quoted in Beauty Fashion, the industry's trade magazine, as saying "we are presumably on the verge of a fragrance and cosmetic revolution."

* * * *

ONE REASON, according to Vic H. Scher, Sears national merchandise manager, is that 58% of the population is 35 or younger and that 27% of this group is in the 15-to-35 age group which dictated the narrower lapel, the slim trouser and the short coat. They now are demanding fashionable toiletries.

Many experts believe the sale of men's cosmetics will soar even higher when men gain enough courage to go in and buy for themselves without pretending they're buying for someone else.

Father's Day Idea Came From Woman

Leave it to a woman to think up "Father's Day."

That one wonderful thought can be credited to Mrs. John Bruce Dodd who originated the "Honor Thy Father's Day back in 1909, in Spokane, Wash.

Inspired by her own father's unselfish sacrifices and devotion to his six motherless children, Mrs. Dodd chose her father's birthday in June as the day when all children should pay special tribute to Father.

When the idea came to Mrs. Dodd, she went immediately to her minister, and upon his wholehearted approval — to the Spokane Ministerial Association.

In the form of a letter to this association, Mrs. Dodd told of her love for her father, William Smart, a Civil War veteran, who had reared his motherless children on an eastern Washington farm.

* * * *

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN was one of the first to recognize the great depth in Mrs. Dodd's idea and gave full endorsement to the proposal saying, "Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the relation between parent and child."

The Young Men's Christian Association of Spokane put the Father's Day idea into active motion and Spokane, back in 1910 was the first city to set aside a day to pay tribute to Father.

This sacred and inspirational day grew into national prominence with President Woodrow Wilson having a Father's Day button pressed in the White House in 1916.

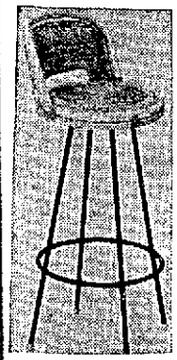

President Calvin Coolidge took up the banner of Father's Day observance by recommending this day be recognized nationally in 1924.

* * * *

MRS. DODD had originally planned that Father's Day be celebrated on the 5th of June to coincide with her Father's birthday; there wasn't enough time for the ministers to prepare sermons for the first Father's Day and so the third Sunday in June was chosen.

"Henry seems to like it here, but I wanted to go someplace where there's a view!"

Even Dinner Jackets Take on Casual Look by New Materials

Although he probably would never consider buying himself a formal outfit, chances are that Dad would really be pleased with a dinner outfit.

And, there's a bit of informality in formal wear this year!

It is a paradox of the summer men's wear scene that some of the same fabrics that score in the sun as sport jackets repeat under the stars in dinner jackets. Seersuckers, India Madrases and denim-type fabrics are among the newest and best received summer formal fabrics.

At the close of day those casual cloths switch from notched lapels, three-button fronts and patch pockets to the more formal shawl collars, one-button closures and plain flap pockets to augment an already colorful collection of festive evening wear.

* * * *

SOME OF THOSE fabrics, when used in dinner jackets, are tailored with black satin-face shawl collars. However, even those made without the shiny silk shawls are obviously formal because of their self-faced shawl collars. So, try as one may, the sport jacket just can't do double duty as a dinner jacket.

Inasmuch as colors ranging from soft pastels to deep rich hues have long been accepted in the summer formal jackets, is it surprising that the seersuckers, Madrases and denims repeat their daytime colors for evening wear?

* * * *

THESE INCLUDE soft shades of blue, gray and yellow, deep burgundies and charcoal grays (alternating with white in the seersuckers), and vibrantly colored, contrasting plaids on light grounds in the Madrases.

Whites, of course, continue to be high on the preferred list of summer dinner jackets. In silks, silk-like and perfectly performing wash-wear fabrics, the current whites range from pure luxury to sensible practicality.

The silks and silk-types are equally handsome and a lot more colorful in deep rich tones of garnet, green, blue, gray and gold.

Jet black tropical-weight evening trousers are keyed to the formal scene by satin side-stripes. Men will have another wide choice of cummerbunds and bows, some picking up the color and fabrics of the jackets, others in the traditionally smart blacks.

Even Dinner Jackets Take on Casual Look by New Materials

Although he probably would never consider buying himself a formal outfit, chances are that Dad would really be pleased with a dinner outfit.

And, there's a bit of informality in formal wear this year!

It is a paradox of the summer men's wear scene that some of the same fabrics that score in the sun as sport jackets repeat under the stars in dinner jackets. Seersuckers, India Madrases and denim-type fabrics are among the newest and best received summer formal fabrics.

At the close of day those casual cloths switch from notched lapels, three-button fronts and patch pockets to the more formal shawl collars, one-button closures and plain flap pockets to augment an already colorful collection of festive evening wear.

* * * *

SOME OF THOSE fabrics, when used in dinner jackets, are tailored with black satin-face shawl collars. However, even those made without the shiny silk shawls are obviously formal because of their self-faced shawl collars. So, try as one may, the sport jacket just can't do double duty as a dinner jacket.

Inasmuch as colors ranging from soft pastels to deep rich hues have long been accepted in the summer formal jackets, is it surprising that the seersuckers, Madrases and denims repeat their daytime colors for evening wear?

* * * *

THESE INCLUDE soft shades of blue, gray and yellow, deep burgundies and charcoal grays (alternating with white in the seersuckers), and vibrantly colored, contrasting plaids on light grounds in the Madrases.

Whites, of course, continue to be high on the preferred list of summer dinner jackets. In silks, silk-like and perfectly performing wash-wear fabrics, the current whites range from pure luxury to sensible practicality.

The silks and silk-types are equally handsome and a lot more colorful in deep rich tones of garnet, green, blue, gray and gold.

Jet black tropical-weight evening trousers are keyed to the formal scene by satin side-stripes. Men will have another wide choice of cummerbunds and bows, some picking up the color and fabrics of the jackets, others in the traditionally smart blacks.

GIVE DAD A SHIRT

This meticulously tailored striped oxford shirt by the "king of shirt makers." Gant makes a perfect gift for Dad on his day. The shirts are available in a variety of styles and colors at Kenady's Men's Wear, 5368 E. Second St.

New Look in Casual Clothing

Leisure hours for Dad this summer will be more pleasant since sports clothes have a fresh new look.

Shorty, sporty, casual shirts, s-t-r-e-t-c-h slacks, and walk shorts that really sprint up the road to comfort and fashion are all ready and waiting to make the leisure hours of summer 1964 more pleasant for the men of America. The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear reports that new colors, new patterns and new constructions in those casual garments give them a fresh look and lift them to a new high plane of comfort.

* * * *

SHORT SHIRTS, designed to be worn "outboard" over the trouser waistband, are cool in actuality as well as in the slang of the teenmen. However, those abbreviated shirts are styled for men in all age groups, including the mature man of affluence.

They are tailored with dashing Continental collars as well as with the tremendously popular button-down collars. They are trimmed down and tapered for teenmen and youngmen, and they are also patterned on fuller lines for the fellow with a slipped chest.

They appear in a great variety of fabrics with plenty of emphasis on new polyester cotton blends in fancies as well as solid colors, textured raw silks, stretch fabrics, seersuckers, linen weaves and knits.

CHECKING SUPPLIES

Portner checks supplies in house car he built as sons (from left), Chris, Mark and Paul, look on. The naval officer converted school bus into family vehicle, adding water, gas and electric systems—and bunks for 10 youngsters, two adults.

BIKE-FIXING BIG JOB

Father of the Year Portner's regular weekend "hobby" is the care and maintenance of 10 full-size bicycles, two tricycles and a sidewalk model. Here, assisted (from left) by sons David, Jim and John, Pop tightens a faulty wheel on the family patio "bike shop."

FATHERS have built our business and that's why we treat them special EVERY day of the year!

Some wives tell us-their husbands can't even drive a nail, but we know from 34 years of experience that most of you Dads are average do-it-yourself carpenters, although you may use your talents only once or twice a year.

Furthermore we know from experience that you recognize quality lumber, paint and hardware, and have built our reputation by supplying you with the finest.

We also know that you Dads expect service from us, and we train our entire staff in the little things which help you, such as knowing which of many different types of plywood paneling will best blend into the color scheme of your den, office, kitchen or bedroom . . . or, how many linear feet of dry cedar it will take to fence your property, etc.

So, you see, when everyone else has finished treating you special next Sunday, you can rest assured that we will give you special treatment throughout the year, because it's Dads like you who keep Dads like us in business, and even our families think you're special!

No-Wilt Clothing Best on Vacation

Excitement and vacationing just seem to go together. The excitement of getting away from it all, of jetting to faraway places, of taking a break in the winter routine.

It's the time of year when clothes take on a special meaning, too — a time when color and comfort really mean most and fashion excitement is the order of the day.

At times like these, Celanese Arnel triacetate can take the trauma out of travel and give your wardrobe a lift with equal aplomb.

WITH NARY a wilt-worry to spoil your sun-days and never a wrinkle to cramp your style, you'll look and feel springtime fresh through a season of sun-full situations.

Whatever your mental picture of what "fun" means in summer — this collection presents a bevy of styles to suit your every mood and manner . . . from those really great moments to simply great fun moments.

Oy Tycora textured nylon, this new knit shirt by Van Heusen has the shape that's in to stay. It is great for all active and spectator sports and is machine washable and dryable. It is available at Mullen and Bluett, Lakewood Center, in many colors and sizes.

FOR HOBBY-MINDED DAD

Ken Hunter of Toy World, Lakewood Center, explains to hobby-minded fathers and teen-agers alike the growing desires of slot-car racing. Featured is a Revells 1/32 scale race set with a track layout of 4x8 feet.

Long Beach Offers Much, Says Winner

Long Beach may well be the E. M. Portner family's permanent home.

He, like any other Naval officer, can't predict what the future will bring — but "We like Long Beach."

"We first saw the city in 1950 when I was stationed at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station."

The oldest and youngest Portner children were born here, and "we bought our home (at 811 Coronado Ave.) in 1963," adds the 1965 Father of the Year.

Its location is almost perfect for the family even though "we could use more room and a much bigger yard."

St. Matthew's Church, which the family faithfully attends, is but blocks away, as are supermarkets and other shops.

* * * *

ONE FRINGE benefit "of living in a heavily built-up area": "The four oldest boys earn pocket money delivering The Independent, Press-Telegram," their father said.

The most important reason for selecting an urban home, he averred, is that "in the suburbs Mom does nothing but chauffeuring the kids around.

"Everyone would like to live on a farm and be self-sufficient—but who can, today? It's just not practical. Now in a city like Long Beach, the boys have a chance to go to a good college. I couldn't afford to send them away. . . ."

* * * *

THE "FIRST HOUSE we ever bought" is less than perfect, Portner noted. Originally built with three bedrooms, "a prior owner added two in the basement. It definitely isn't the last home we'll live in."

One of the Portner family's cherished possessions is a handsome, colonial-style dining room suite handcrafted by the husband and father. Expandible from 4-seat capacity to 8, it holds the place of honor in the center of the house.

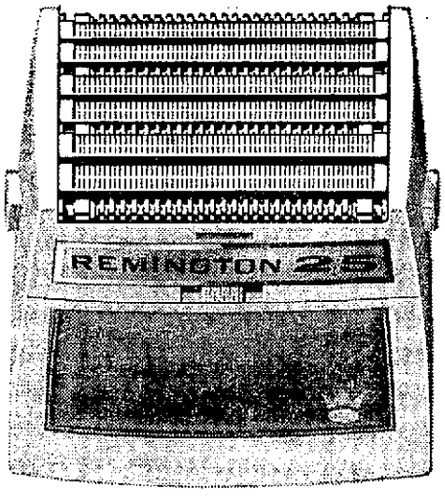

"Back when I was stationed in Virginia," he said, "the local lumberyard had some surplus maple logs. That's not service surplus, understand. "I bought half a dozen 'logs' and started chopping them up."

Much of the beautifully turned lathe work was done in base service shops after duty hours.

"The only problem," the commander said, "was sticking to the project."

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Vacation time is accident time because it's action time. Traveling or staying at home, you'll be doing many things you wouldn't normally do. It's action time and action time means accident time.

This low-cost, broad-coverage insurance covers almost all accidents and pays liberal benefits as listed. In addition to Freeway and other travel and pedestrian accidents, it pays exceptionally high benefits for falls, burns, and bruises . . . even pays for excessive sunburn.

You're protected 24-hours-a-day under this program and benefits are paid in addition to other insurance. That's why you won't want to take a chance on it expiring and also another reason you'll want to insure additional family members.

This Policy Now Provides These Benefits

Shoes for All Needs

Today's shoes for men are a far cry from the old days when a fellow owned a black pair, a brown pair—and, maybe, a brown-and-white or black-and-white shoe to wear with his white flannel pants or his summer "ice cream" suit.

Now, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, there are varieties of footwear for a variety of occasions, from the lightest slipons of featherweight fabric to beefy, long-wearing leathers in handsome golf shoes.

The black-and-white and brown-and-white shoes are back, but, this time, in many less-conventional and highly flattering styles. Truly, smart men's fashions now extend from head to foot!

HOOK DAD'S HEART

ALL-SILK SPORTS COAT

The Father's Day image is created with a handsome all-silk sports coat imported from Italy exclusively for Buffums' Store for Men. The jacket shown is predominantly burgundy. Other colors are blue, grey and brown. With the jacket, the model wears Sansabelt slacks, designed to make a man feel and look slimmer by eliminating the need for a belt.

GIVE HIM A NEW ROOM

Darrell Fisher, of the sales and lumber department of the W. M. Dary Co., 3605 E. Anaheim St., points out how a new three-section filigree room divider can beautify your home and add a room instantly. Dividers are also made for exterior use.

NEWEST IN TOILETRIES

New at Sears in Downtown Long Beach—and in good time for Father's Day gifts—is a unique line of men's toiletries called "stampede." It has a woody, outdoor, robust scent and the line includes an after-shave lotion, a cologne, a spray deodorant and an aerosol shaving cream.

Those Little Gifts May Be Big Hit

Useful stationery gifts are always warmly welcomed and serve as a year long reminder of your thoughtfulness, in such gifts as memo pads, handsome desk sets, wastebaskets and engagement books.

Personalized postcards and stationery can be used by everyone.

Door and desk signs with a name in gold are useful, ornamental and informative.

OUR COVER

When the National Intercollegiate Tennis Championships open Monday at UCLA's Bruin Stadium, one of the major contenders will be Jerry Cromwell of Long Beach, No. 2 player on the USC team. As a sophomore, Cromwell upset Clark Graebner of Northwestern to reach the quarter-finals of the 1964 tourney. A native of Long Beach, Cromwell is the most successful junior boy netter ever developed here, having achieved the rank of No. 3 in the 18s. The championships run through Saturday and those who would like to follow the Long Beach youth through the tournament may become better posted on his past performances by turning to Bob Martin's "Tennis All-American" on Page 9.

NEXT WEEK

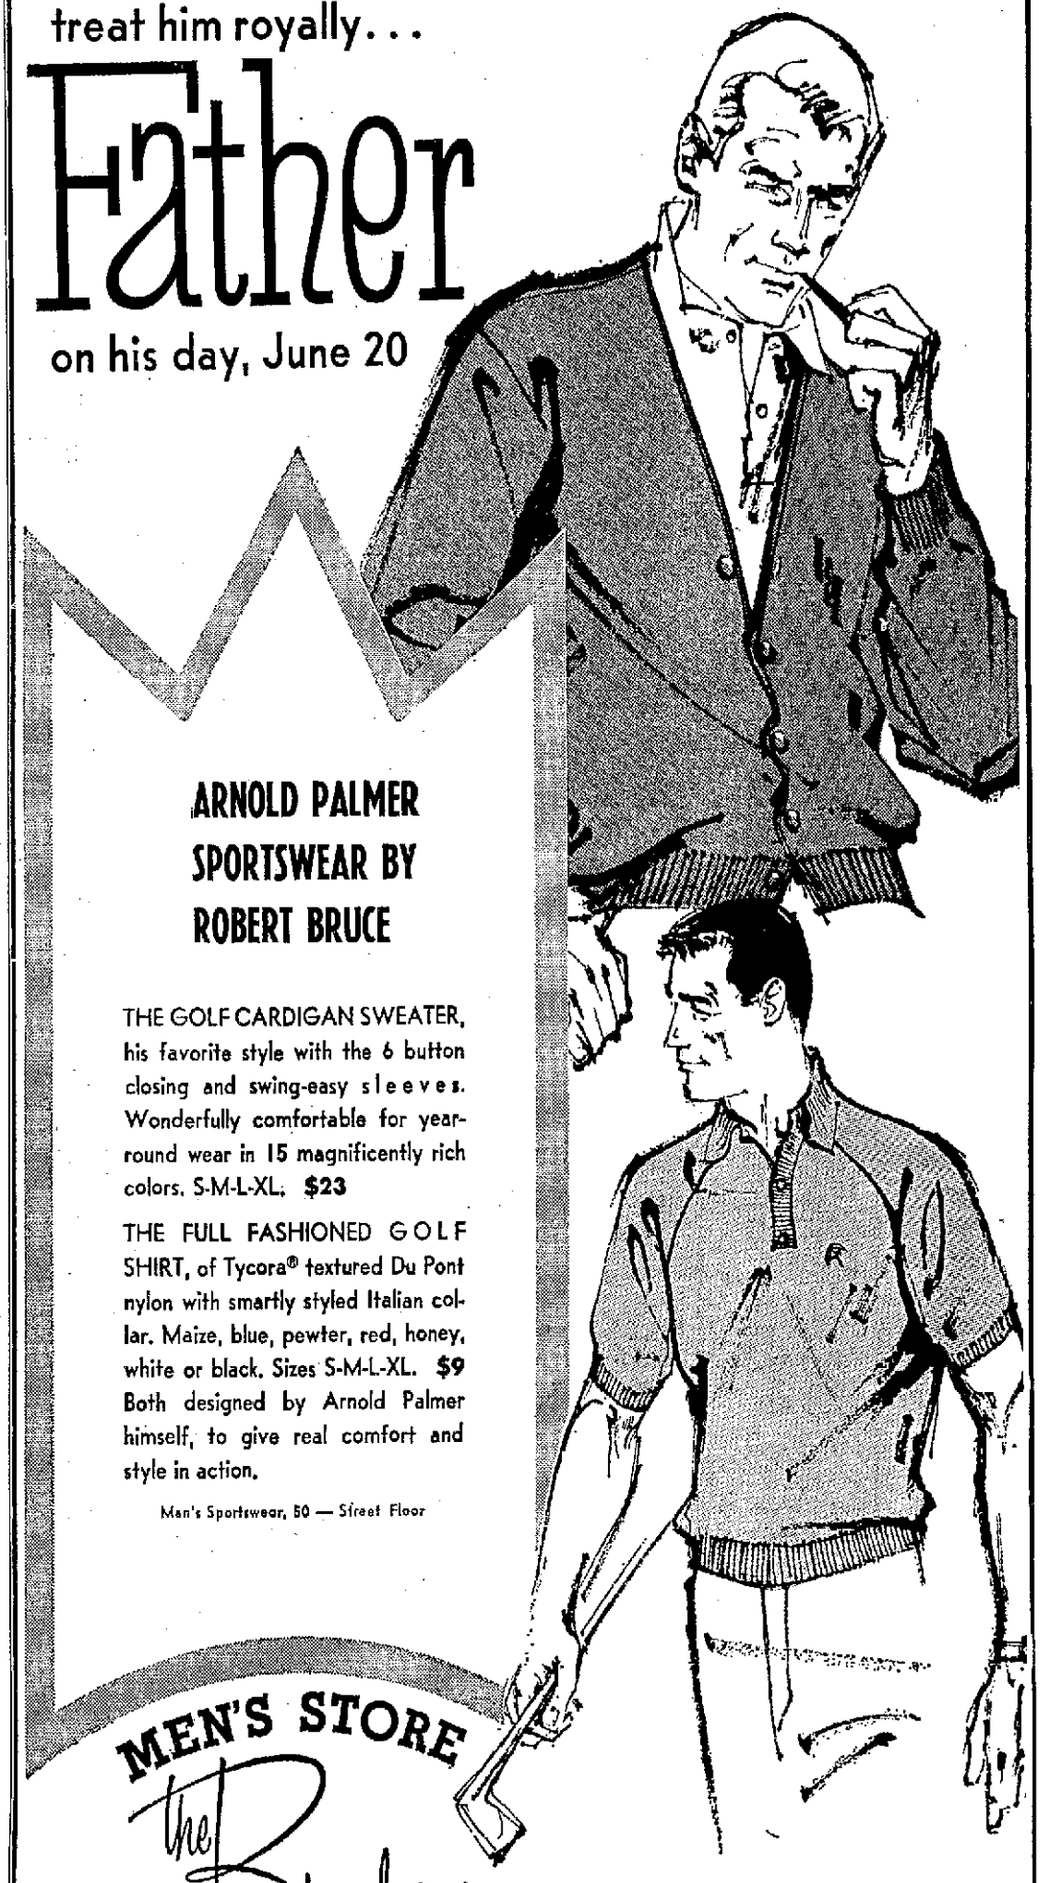

Speaking of animals—and who doesn't now and then?—have you been lucky enough to visit the Hippo Pool at San Diego Zoo? It contains four tremendous scene stealers—Rube, Ruby, Lotus and Lotus' year-old baby, Sapphire, who doesn't look like a baby at all until Lotus appears. Next week, Southland takes you for a visit to the zoo's hippo quarters. You'll enjoy it.

All for Exposure

By Hy Hollinger

LAURA DEVON is a devastating blonde with a pair of dimples deep enough to hide a quarter. She is curvy, cool and cute—and she is also a rebel.

"I want to be typecast," she says, contradicting the complaints of a hundred stars from Olivia de Havilland to Frank Sinatra. "I want to be myself."

Laura is being herself, every lovely inch of her, in Howard Hawks' production of "Red Line 7000" for Paramount Pictures. As a blue-eyed innocent, seduced and abandoned by a race car driver she is shown in all her natural beauty, something she has been denied in previous roles.

"I HAD A LONG run of parts calling for wigs, putty noses and padding," Laura explained.

"I finally decided it was time to come out from behind all that makeup and let people see me as I am."

Laura was sidetracked when she became a regular on Richard Boone's TV repertory company. She appeared on every show, and in such a variety of parts that fans seldom realized they were seeing Laura Devon week after week.

"It was great for improving my acting and losing my identity," Laura said.

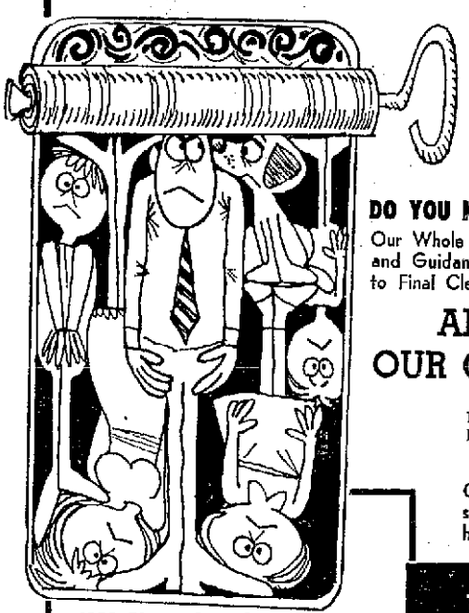

LAURA CREDITS her success as a human chameleon to her lifelong habit of people-watching.

Cool, curvy and cute, Laura Devon is also a rebel who says she wants to be "typecast."

"I look at people all the time," she said. "When I notice a certain gesture, an odd expression, a peculiar walk, I put it to work in creating a role."

"Red Line 7000" is Laura's second movie. She first appeared in "Goodbye, Charlie" and even for that her blonde hair was dyed red. Until she came to Hollywood about four years ago she was a featured singer at a popular night club in Detroit.

All for Exposure

By Hy Hollinger

LAURA DEVON is a devastating blonde with a pair of dimples deep enough to hide a quarter. She is curvy, cool and cute—and she is also a rebel.

"I want to be typecast," she says, contradicting the complaints of a hundred stars from Olivia de Havilland to Frank Sinatra. "I want to be myself."

Laura is being herself, every lovely inch of her, in Howard Hawks' production of "Red Line 7000" for Paramount Pictures. As a blue eyed innocent, seduced and abandoned by a race car driver she is shown in all her natural beauty, something she has been denied in previous roles.

"I HAD A LONG run of parts calling for wigs, putty noses and padding," Laura explained.

"I finally decided it was time to come out from behind all that makeup and let people see me as I am."

Laura was sidetracked when she became a regular on Richard Boone's TV repertory company. She appeared on every show, and in such a variety of parts that fans seldom realized they were seeing Laura Devon week after week.

"It was great for improving my acting and losing my identity," Laura said.

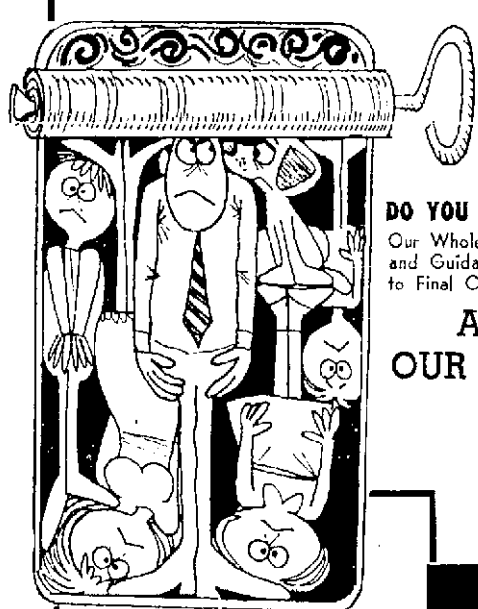

LAURA CREDITS her success as a human chameleon to her lifelong habit of people-watching.

Cool, curvy and cute, Laura Devon is also a rebel who says she wants to be "typecast."

"I look at people all the time," she said. "When I notice a certain gesture, an odd expression, a peculiar walk, I put it to work in creating a role."

"Red Line 7000" is Laura's second movie. She first appeared in "Goodbye, Charlie" and even for that her blonde hair was dyed red. Until she came to Hollywood about four years ago she was a featured singer at a popular night club in Detroit.

Collection 'Worth Its Salt'

In an era when salt and spices were of great interest, this caster ensemble was important.

By Helen L. Gillum

SALT, the chief economic product of the ancient world, was one of the most important and most expensive of household items. In fact, the earliest highways and the trade routes between Syrian ports and the Persian Gulf were built by the salt trade, and in medieval homes, the master salt cellar sat on the dinner table near the head of the house, who doled out the precious condiment as he saw fit. Vinegar, oils, spices, sugar, mustard and pepper were other snappy condiments considered necessary to serve with meats and vegetables that might have grown distasteful through lack of refrigeration.

Aside from the master salts, which were often elaborate affairs, the containers for these condiments were at first simple bottles, dredgers and casters. But during the reign of Queen Anne of England, small frameworks to hold the containers were introduced, which eventually grew more elaborate, until the magnificent caster sets became status symbols on the tables of the wealthy, while those of simpler design became common equipment in homes of lesser distinction.

Mrs. Arthur F. Bonzer Sr., of 207 Roycroft Ave., who owns about 75 caster sets, started her collection years ago with several that were handed down in her family. Through gifts and purchases, she has added beautiful and varied items from such far-away spots as Europe, New England, and the Mother Lode country. Because she has studied the history of these frame-and-bottle affairs that were once so important in table setting, she tells interesting and informative stories about them.

MOST IMPRESSIVE is a gleaming English Gothic style ensemble in the Cathedral design, believed to be one of only five such sets in the United States. (One is in the Smithsonian Institution.) It is 17 inches high, hexagonally shaped and equipped with six paneled sections for holding 6 beautifully cut glass containers. A clever geared and wheeled device allows the panels to open and shut and the entire stand to rotate at the touch of a finger.

A rare early Victorian holder is unusual in that it and the pierced caps of the four glass bottles are all made of rosewood. Mrs. Bonzer purchased this set in Chester, England, the little town founded in 55 B. C. by the Romans under Julius Caesar.

A five-place holder of gray agateware from the Mother Lode country, an early American five-place pewter holder in a Gothic pattern, a Reed and Barton, and a Sheffield silver plated stand (all with containers) are examples of the great variety of materials used in the stands alone.

THERE IS A set with both stand and 3 containers of glass, in the unusual "broken stump" design. What appears to be a child's set is actually an old-time peddlers' sample. Its pewter frame is only 4 inches in diameter and the four tiny glass containers are only 5 inches high.

Colorful "Quimper ware" — a Faience-type pottery from Finistere, France, is also represented, with three small gaily-clad figures for containers. One of the smallest sets is a tiny frame with two glass salt dips, which contrasts with one of the largest, a seven-place stand and containers from 1860 England.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

We wish to thank the thousands of Long Beach home owners who visited our exhibition booth at the L.B. Home-O-Rama at the Sports Arena and let us demonstrate an exterior wall coating so tough that it is guaranteed to eliminate house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is fiberglass FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglass FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling. Fiberglass brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years' exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss, or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

Bandit on the Payroll

By Enola Chamberlin

AS Charles Boles he was a small, quiet, unassuming mining engineer. He lived in a reputable boarding house directly across the street from the San Francisco Police Station. He attracted little or no attention as he went about his work. Few people even knew of his existence.

As Black Bart he held up and robbed stagecoaches just about where and when he wanted to. He struck from Calaveras to Sierra County; from Yuba to Butte. And then he would move over to the west in Sonoma and Mendocino. He was wanted dead or alive. A price was on his head.

He got the name of Black Bart because of the black derby he always wore. And he could not be mistaken for other holdup artists because of his dimunitive size; because he always cowed his victims with a double-barreled shotgun and because he was always on foot.

THERE WAS NEVER any horse to whinny and give Black Bart away. No horse for him to have to hide. He simply lost himself in the hills and trails and short cuts which he knew so well.

For eight years, from 1875 to 1883, Bart or Boles plied his double life. And 27 times with his, as it was revealed later, unloaded shotgun, he successfully held up stages.

His procedure was simple. At a place where he would least likely be expected, he would step out from behind a tree or boulder and confront a stage driver. A flour sack covered him from the top of his head to his waist. His black derby was perched in a jaunty fashion so that it almost hid the eyes looking out from the slits in the cloth.

Always both barrels of the shotgun were cocked and the little man held it in a threatening manner. And as always there was a treasure box on the Wells Fargo stages Bart accosted. So, at an order from him, this was thrown down. But Bart believed in milking his stages for all they were worth.

WITH THE BOX safely set aside he lined up the passengers and relieved them of their valuables. In this way in August of 1880, on a stage running out of Willets, he came into possession of a fine gold watch. This was taken off the person of James B. Hume, a Wells Fargo man.

Drawing by Clyde Windslow

Black derby, flour sack and a shotgun were the marks of Black Bart's trade.

Bart was doing fine. It seemed a long prosperous life lay ahead of him. But he had not counted on the law of averages. He played his luck too long. Even then it was coincidence and the fact that he was affluent enough to have his laundry

Use the simple "Hello" when possible.

There's much more to answering a call than just picking up the receiver.

Pardon, But Your Phone Is Ringing

Answering without delay seldom brings regrets, more often satisfaction.

By JACK B. KEMMERER

IT WAS IN the spring of 1943 and the Allied situation was desperate with Nazi submarines sinking enemy ships daily. It was almost as if the submarines knew exactly when each ship would sail and its course and speed.

A captain in the American Intelligence Service picked up his civilian telephone one morning in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, to make a personal call. "Number, bitte," the operator requested. The captain's flesh crawled as he quickly completed his call, hung up the receiver and immediately called British Intelligence on his military telephone.

The woman operator was arrested and under intensive questioning admitted she was once a telephone operator in Berlin. Her job in Trinidad was to listen in on all calls concerning ship movements which were then broadcast to Nazi submarines. She was caught because, in a moment of forgetfulness and from habit, she used a phrase that was uniquely German.

There's much more to answering your telephone than just picking up the receiver and the Trinidad case is a good example of how ingrained are the habits of telephone answering. The reaction to a ringing telephone, for most people, is about as automatic as breathing. Often, however, the very way in which they answer the telephone can reveal much about the traditions and character of both the country and the caller and the called.

THE DIRECT, abrupt Englishman, for example, may simply say, "Baldwin, here," and his caller may reply, "Alexander, here." With the identifications out of the way in a simple and efficient manner, the conversation immediately proceeds to the business at hand.

This simple and direct method, however, can also cause considerable confusion if taken out of England. For example, the Hon. Stanley V. Hardy, British vice consul in Los Angeles, had all kinds of trouble on the telephone.

He simply was following the British custom of reciting his surname when answering the telephone. And, with his British accent, his name sounds something like "Hoddy." So, he picks up the phone and says, "Hoddy," and these crazy Americans on the other end of the line keep replying, "Well, howdy to you, too!"

The English have another telephone habit that is disconcerting to the uninitiated. American servicemen were entrapped many times when making a call through the operator in England. When she had the parties connected she would say, "You're through." The serviceman would immediately protest, "No ma'm, I'm not through. I haven't even started talking." The operator would come right back, "I know, but you're through now." The operator merely meant, of course, that you were through to your party or, as we would say, "you're connected."

ENGLAND ALSO has all-male information operators —why, nobody knows, just seems to have always been that way. Their information is called "Directory Inquiry" and you can dial it without a coin—merely dial DIR. You can also dial the operator without a coin—which can be quite handy if you're broke and trying to put through a collect call for money.

And as would be suspected, any people as independent as the French would have their own telephone mannerisms, too. To begin a conversation they pick up the receiver and speak with a Gallic "allo" or, they might say, "j'ecoute" for "I'm listening." And the inquisitive Frenchman will ask immediately, "Qui est a l' appareil?" or, "Who is speaking?" If he has to leave the phone for a minute he will give you a quick "Ne quittez pas." A literal translation would be "Don't leave," but he means merely, "Hold the phone."

In Austria they also answer their telephone by name, such as, "Herr Reshovsky." The Austrians also use their telephones for many public services. For example, you can dial certain number and get a daily sermon in four different religions; another number brings you a complete "Daily Menu." Still other numbers bring forth the song of the day, gym exercises and even a complete "What's Doing Today."

SINCE GESTURES cannot be transmitted over the telephone, the excitable Italians make up for it with words. "Teelfonista, mi metta in communicazione con il signor Blanco," as Italians may say. All they mean is, "Operator, get Mr. White." However, they can be brief when desired. For a fast hello, the Italians say, "Pronto," which means "ready" in both Italian and Spanish. We Americans use the word colloquially to mean "quickly."

As you would expect, the Japanese have their own distinctive way of beginning a telephone conversation. They merely say, "Moshi Moshi," which really doesn't mean anything in particular. It's just the Oriental way of attracting someone's attention.

The world's Spanish-speaking people probably use more different telephone expressions than any other. If you are answering a phone in Madrid you may reply, "Quien habla?" for "Who is speaking?" or if preferred, use a simple "Hola."

Cubans invariably open a conversation with "Oigo," meaning, "I listen," while their Spanish-speaking friends, the Mexicans, use an abbreviated form of "Good day," saying merely, "Bueno." In many South American countries—most of which speak Spanish—the first word you hear may be "A ver," or "Let's see now . . ." or "Con quien?" meaning, "With whom?"

ANY WAY you hear it, the most common telephone expression in the world is "Hello." An internationally known linguist, Charles Berlitiz, has made exhaustive studies of the world's telephone expressions and customs during his annual around-the-world trips to his many language schools. He says that today more than a score of countries use some variation of "Hello." Many Arab countries, for example, no longer use the formal Arabic word of "Marhabo," but have taken the simple "hello" and given it an Arabic inflection and an Arabic spelling, "Alo."

Though surrounded by Arab countries, Israel has its own way of answering the telephone. They use the well-known word of "Shalom." This not only means "hello" but also "good-bye" and quite a few other things as well.

In Saudi Arabia, the first word you will hear is "Na'am" which simply means "Yes." Pakistan, Burma and Thailand use the English "hello" and let it go at that. The Turks spell it "Allo," but, as they are a polite people, like to add "Efendim," which means "Sir," or "at your service."

INDIA, HOWEVER, which is trying to promote the use of its own national language—and having considerable unrest and riots in doing so—frowns on "hello," and more or less officially adopted the use of "Hanji," which translates as "Greetings." In Iran and Afghanistan, the citizens seem to like "Baleh," for "Yes." And a hearty "Yambo," serves the purpose in Swahili.

Have you ever wondered why the basic "hello" has become so widespread? Well, there's a simple reason. It seems as if the Americans and English have installed most of the world's telephone systems and they brought the word with the telephone. Of course, "hello" is really not an English word at all as it comes from an old High German word, "Holla," a cry for calling a horse or dog. A German on the telephone (Fernsprecher) today says "Hallo," or he might say, "Wer dort?" for "Who's there?"

IN ANY LANGUAGE answering the telephone is an ingrained habit which persons seldom change even though they leave that country or area. This is particularly true where certain "rings" are used for different people sharing a party line.

Recently, a young New York girl, originally from a tiny town in the Middle West, invited her father for a visit and got him a room in her hotel.

The first day was spent sightseeing, and late in the afternoon the girl left her father at his door with instructions to be ready for dinner around 7 o'clock.

Promptly at 7 she phoned him from her room. No answer. Puzzled, she asked the operator to try again. Still no answer. Suddenly her face lighted up.

"Operator," she said, "try one long ring and three short ones, will you?"

Sure enough, her father answered immediately. One long and three short rings was his party-line signal back home.

Even animals get in on the game, too. Whenever Mrs. Dorothy M. Stacy's telephone rings at her home in Whistler, Ala., her small dog gets to it before she can, pulls the receiver from the telephone and barks into it until she arrives.

"THE CURIOUS thing," says Mrs. Stacy, "is that he

Use the simple "Hello" when possible.

There's much more to answering a call than just picking up the receiver.

Pardon, But Your Phone Is Ringing

Answering without delay seldom brings regrets, more often satisfaction.

By JACK B. KEMMERER

IT WAS IN the spring of 1943 and the Allied situation was desperate with Nazi submarines sinking enemy ships daily. It was almost as if the submarines knew exactly when each ship would sail and its course and speed.

A captain in the American Intelligence Service picked up his civilian telephone one morning in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, to make a personal call. "Number, bitte," the operator requested. The captain's flesh crawled as he quickly completed his call, hung up the receiver and immediately called British intelligence on his military telephone.

The woman operator was arrested and under intensive questioning admitted she was once a telephone operator in Berlin. Her job in Trinidad was to listen in on all calls concerning ship movements which were then broadcast to Nazi submarines. She was caught because, in a moment of forgetfulness and from habit, she used a phrase that was uniquely German.

There's much more to answering your telephone than just picking up the receiver and the Trinidad case is a good example of how ingrained are the habits of telephone answering. The reaction to a ringing telephone, for most people, is about as automatic as breathing. Often, however, the very way in which they answer the telephone can reveal much about the traditions and character of both the country and the caller and the called.

THE DIRECT, abrupt Englishman, for example, may simply say, "Baldwin, here," and his caller may reply, "Alexander, here." With the identifications out of the way in a simple and efficient manner, the conversation immediately proceeds to the business at hand.

This simple and direct method, however, can also cause considerable confusion if taken out of England. For example, the Hon. Stanley V. Hardy, British vice consul in Los Angeles, had all kinds of trouble on the telephone.

He simply was following the British custom of reciting his surname when answering the telephone. And, with his British accent, his name sounds something like "Hoddy." So, he picks up the phone and says, "Hoddy," and these crazy Americans on the other end of the line keep replying, "Well, howdy to you, too!"

The English have another telephone habit that is disconcerting to the uninitiated. American servicemen were entrapped many times when making a call through the operator in England. When she had the parties connected she would say, "You're through." The serviceman would immediately protest, "No ma'm, I'm not through. I haven't even started talking." The operator would come right back, "I know, but you're through now." The operator merely meant, of course, that you were through to your party or, as we would say, "you're connected."

ENGLAND ALSO has all-male information operators —why, nobody knows, just seems to have always been that way. Their information is called "Directory Inquiry" and you can dial it without a coin—merely dial DIR. You can also dial the operator without a coin—which can be quite handy if you're broke and trying to put through a collect call for money.

And as would be suspected, and people as independent as the French would have their own telephone manerisms, too. To begin a conversation they pick up the receiver and speak with a Gallic "allo" or, they might say, "j'ecoute" for "I'm listening." And the inquisitive Frenchman will ask immediately, "Qui est a l' appareil?" or, "Who is speaking?" If he has to leave the phone for a minute he will give you a quick "Ne quittez pas." A literal translation would be "Don't leave," but he means merely, "Hold the phone."

Jerry Cromwell's bridge to college and travel

Long Beach's Tennis All-American

By BOB MARTIN

A YEAR AGO the National Intercollegiate Tennis Championships were being played at Michigan State University, and the Trojans of USC and the Bruins of UCLA were battling for top honors. USC's Dennis Ralston was expected to repeat as singles champion, but the Bruins had four outstanding players and were rated a good chance of taking the team championship.

One of the four USC contestants was a sophomore from Long Beach—Jerry Cromwell. He had won his first three matches, as expected, and now he was to face one of the favorites, Clark Graebner of Northwestern. Cromwell took the court with great determination and turned in one of his best performances to upset Graebner, 6-3, 6-4.

"I really concentrated in that match and played exceptionally well," Jerry recalls. "I made only three or four errors in the whole match."

The victory put Cromwell in the quarter-finals and no doubt would have earned him All-American honors if tennis stars received the same recognition as football players. And this in Jerry's sophomore year.

CROMWELL LOST in the quarter-finals to UCLA's top player, Arthur Ashe, but his triumph over Graebner proved of great significance as USC retained the national team championship by the narrowest of margins, with 26 points to UCLA's 25. The Long Beach youth accounted for four points with his four singles victories, and he and Charles Rombeau added three more by advancing to the doubles quarter-finals. All these points were vital, as it turned out, even though the Trojans' Ralston won the singles and Ralston-Bill Bond took the doubles.

Starting Monday, the 1965 National Intercollegiates will get under way for six days at UCLA's Bruin Tennis Stadium. It is the first time the meet has been held in Southern California since 1948.

Cromwell, a 165-pound, six-footer with one of the biggest serves and best backhands in the amateur ranks, will be among the major contenders, but the top favorite will be UCLA's Ashe, the No. 3 men's player in America and a member of the U. S. Davis Cup team.

Jerry's best chance for a championship was shattered early this month when USC teammate Tom Edlefsen was declared ineligible for the tournament because he dropped a course late in the semester, thus decreasing his academic load below NCAA requirements. Edlefsen, No. 13 men's player in America, played No. 1 for USC this spring, one notch above Cromwell, and they paired to win the AAWU doubles championship, defeating Ashe and Ian Crookenden of UCLA in the finals. They probably would have been seeded either first or second in the National Intercollegiates. Cromwell, himself, had gone out on a limb and predicted that "Tom and I will have an excellent chance of winning the doubles."

Cromwell, who marked his 21st birthday Friday, was born in Long Beach and became the most successful junior boy player ever developed here. Jerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thanes of 3579 Pacific Ave. (both tennis players), started at age 9 in the Recreation Department classes of the late Clyde Walker and in a few years became the best in Southern California in his age group. Not only did the tall, slender youngster earn No. 1 Southland rankings in the 13-and-under, 15-and-under and 18-and-under divisions, but in his final year in each of these divisions he didn't lose a single match in Southern California. Considering the number of tournaments played throughout the year and the number of good Southland players, this was indeed a remarkable feat.

When Jerry Cromwell (left) played in the 18s he won a No. 3 ranking on the nation's tennis courts. He plays a bigger game now as (above) he and teammate Tom Edlefsen huddle with USC Coach George Toley before finals of AAWU doubles in which they won conference title.

IT IS POSSIBLE that Jerry got too good too soon. "The more I won, the more important it became for me not to lose," Jerry recalls. "It got so that I didn't go enough for the big shots, I didn't try enough things, I played too cautiously. Coach Toley (George Toley of USC) and I have discussed this and we've come to the conclusion that I probably would have improved more if I had not won so consistently."

In 1962, his last year as a junior, Jerry won two of the four national junior tournaments — the National Hard Courts and the International Jaycees. He didn't play in the National Indoors and he was upset by Jim Beste of Baton Rouge, La., in the most prestigious of them all, the U. S. Junior Championships, played on clay at Kalamazoo, Mich. Later he beat the winner of that meet, Mike Belkin of Miami Beach, Fla., in the finals of the International Jaycees tournament in Corpus Christi, Tex. He also won the doubles with Gary Rose. Jerry earned a spot on the U. S. Junior Davis Cup team and played in the national men's doubles at Chestnut Hill, Mass., and the national men's singles at Forest Hills, N.Y.

IN THE SUMMER of 1963 Jerry played the Pacific Northwest circuit. He won the men's singles title in two of the six meets he entered, the Inland Empire at Spokane, Wash., and the British Columbia at Victoria. Last summer was spent on the Eastern circuit and Jerry scored victories over such fine players as Premjit Lall, Davis Cup player for India; Harry Fauquier, Canadian Davis Cupper; Ray Moore of South Africa; Clif Mayne, Jim Beste (twice) and Bill Bond. He beat Bond at Forest Hills and then was eliminated by Bill Bowrey of Australia.

Jerry gained a national men's ranking of No. 28 on his play in 1964. But he has shown that he is capable of competing on close terms with players much nearer the top in amateur tennis. Last year, for example, he took Ashe, No. 3

OPERA STAR AT 21

For Herta Richter, concert and opera success was forecast in her girlhood by music masters.

By Irma McCall

"THIS GIRL, with her God-given voice, will go far on the concert stage —and perhaps even in grand opera!" enthusiastically predicted music masters who listened to 14-year-old Herta Richter in Germany.

The music masters were right.

Seven years after their prediction, the young dramatic soprano made her debut as Micaela in "Carmen" in the Frankfurt Opera House. As she waited in the wings, her knees trembled. But when she stepped before the footlights in her gay peasant costume, her knees stopped quivering. She stood poised and confident, and the tones of her exquisite arias soared sweet and clear. She was on her way to becoming a world-famed diva.

STATUESQUE Herta made a perfect Wagnerian heroine, but she was equally at home in Franz Lehar's sparkling "Merry Widow."

"'Aida' was my favorite role," she relates. "One day in Koenigsberg, the contralto singing the role of Amneris became ill. My brother, Marko, the conductor, insisted that I substitute for her. Fortunately, I had memorized all the roles, so I managed to get through the performance."

Herta and Marko were a fun-loving pair. Once when the conductor did not have time for a haircut before curtain time, his sister grabbed the shears.

"I felt qualified from my work in 'The Barber of Seville,'" she explains. "But it wasn't as easy as it looked. One side was always shorter than the other, and I kept trying to even them up. Marko went on with a scarf tied high around his neck to hide my scalping of his beautiful curls."

IN 1928 Herta came to the United States and became a popular concert singer and a guest star of the Manhattan Opera. Establishing a permanent home in Los Angeles, she taught promising voice pupils.

She said "Yes" to her devoted suitor Berman Pench, and the couple enjoyed many years in their spacious residence filled with luxurious reminders of her girlhood home and tours.

When the Penches decided to leave the big home, they chose Leisure World, near Long Beach.

Herta had difficulty in selecting the best beloved possessions to bring to the smaller quarters. She absolutely must include Grandmother's handsome, unique lamp made from an elegant cut-glass carafe based on an inverted cut-glass fruit bowl. And, of course, she must have the rare 200-year-old Meissen figurines.

YEARNING for travel again, the couple planned a trip to the Vale of Kashmir. Alas, her doctor decreed her health did not permit extensive travel.

"Well," said Pench cheerfully, "we'll have fun right here in Southern California."

He bought a new car and they take many trips to see the attractions of Southern California. Since he does not want her to bother with cooking — even her mouth-watering sauerbraten — he invites her out to dine every night in some attractive restaurant.

A handsome woman, Herta retains a lingering accent that softens her rich

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain the surname WELLBELOVED. — A. B., Garden Grove.

A. B.: WELLBELOVED refers to an English progenitor who was "well liked" by his fellow townsmen. Ancestors include Thomas Welebeloved, listed on the records of King Edward IV in 1463. No coat-of-arms is available for this romantic family surname.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on EIGHMY. — H.E., Norwalk.

H.E.: EIGHMY began in Germany as the surname Eighme. In archaic records this name is explained as having its inception with "Ecke-Mar" meaning "famous with a sword." No shield is available for Eighme.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we learn about GRASSOW. —J.T., Juneau, Alaska.

J.T.: GRASSOW, a Slavic-German surname had its beginning in the Middle Ages as "Gras-ow." This phrase translates picturesquely as "pasture-village." An alternate origin, the old German "Gras-au," denoted "grassy, wet pasture." No armorial shield is available for Grassow.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of CATON.— W.C., Long Beach.

W.C.: CATON is a French matronymic name handed down from a female ancestor. Caton was at first a pet nickname contracted from Catherine meaning "pure one." The Caton shield has a black border decorated with eight small gold coins. The center of the shield is gold, divided in half vertically, each half crossed by two diagonal red stripes.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you analyze OWEN, OWENS, OWNBY. — S.O., E.K., Long Beach; I.S., Huntington Beach.

OWEN is from Wales, the western area of England. The source "Owein" designated "Wellborn one." OWENS denoted "son of Owein." These families' progenitor was Rhodri Mor, a Welsh king who ruled from A.D. 844 to 878. The Owen-Owens shield is silver, emblazoned with a black rampant lion. OWNBY combines "Owein" and "by" indicating "Farmstead." Robert Owen migrated from Wales to America in 1684 with his wife Jane.

Extensive use of Palo Verde stone is an important feature of the decorating scheme in this living room.

Appearing small, the E. W. Brock home actually has two stories and has a total of 13 rooms.

The Inside Story of Thirteen Rooms

By Stella George

Another view of the living room looking toward the front of the house.

THERE'S an inside story to the 13-room home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brock, 4717 Sunfield Ave., Lakewood Village, that started its existence as a two-bedroom-and-bath dwelling. The subsequent alterations and additions that brought the residence up to its present outstanding quality were planned and executed by the owners.

To begin with, Brock is in the construction business and has an eye for line and design. He didn't want the house to appear to be two-storied from the front, and it doesn't, although how he achieved this effect is something of a mystery to casual observers.

The house now has a living room, a dining room, four bedrooms, a television room, a den, a playroom or rumpus room, three bathrooms, an enormous kitchen, and three separate fireplaces. Mrs. Brock did her own decorating, making many of the accessories herself.

THE FRONT DOOR has blue glass at the top which lends a soft hue to the living room when the door is opened. Across the way is a Palo Verde rock fireplace, with the rock extending across the wall to a doorway that leads to the kitchen. Two antique white, quilted sofas face each other in front of diamond-shaped windows, with a long coffee table in between. Occasional chairs are turquoise. Twin brass fixtures on the rock wall are unusual lamps. The latter play an important part in the overall decorating of the home.

The kitchen has a large center island with sit-down eating space for the family, with plenty of room left for the stove and additional work area. Cabinets are in abundance. A built-in hutch with smoked glass doors protects treasured china and glass. A used brick fireplace dominates one center corner of the L-shaped kitchen. A dinette table and four chairs take up little space. The ceiling sparkles with what appear to be a million tiny, glittering lights. The floor is white, gently flecked with the lightest blue. A new stairway with a white railing enters the kitchen area, and is carpeted in deep blue-green.

An upstairs den is one of the "smaller" rooms of the Brock home. Stereo in the wall is a space saver (left).

Looking into the interesting kitchen area of the residence. A used brick fireplace is among the luxuries (below).

EACH ROOM in the home is individual. One downstairs bedroom is done with an Oriental motif. With the blue-green carpeting (that matches that on the stairway and a throw rug in the kitchen) as a background, Oriental pieces stand out. A suggestion of a headboard is formed by a black filigree screen which seems to be held to the wall by the chains of two hanging lamps. Oriental accessories are used artistically.

Next to this bedroom is the television room, furnished with the obvious necessities, including a comfortable sofa.

There are two downstairs bathrooms. One is done in shades of green and blue and orchid, including a square orchid tub. A second bathroom, adjacent to the second downstairs bedroom, is 19 feet long, and has been carefully decorated in pink and gray. There is a built-in planter to the right of the doorway. Carpeting is pink.

The bedroom adjoining the bath is done in turquoise and floor-to-ceiling glass doors face a private patio and family room across the way.

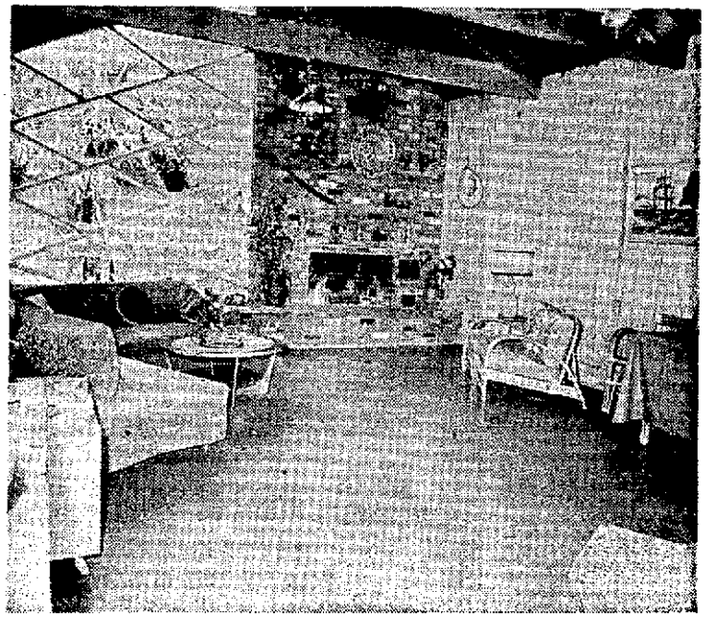

THE FAMILY room has a large corner fireplace of used brick with a hearth that extends across the room. The windows on the far wall extend to the high ceiling. Furnishings in the room include a curved upholstered sofa, rattan occasional chairs, a dining table and rattan chairs, and a service bar. There is still room for a pool table or a ping pong table without crowding.

Two bedrooms upstairs measure about 20 feet in length. A den, bath, and a walk-in closet the size of a small room are also upstairs. Carpeting is blue-green. The bed, long chests of drawers, stereo, and occasional pieces are arranged to maintain spaciousness.

The second bedroom is also done in blue. The den, furnished in Danish modern, is brown with orange accents. Two of the rooms have pole lamps with round globes which have a clock on one side, serving two purposes.

To add to all the other luxuries, the Brocks built a gym on top of the garage.

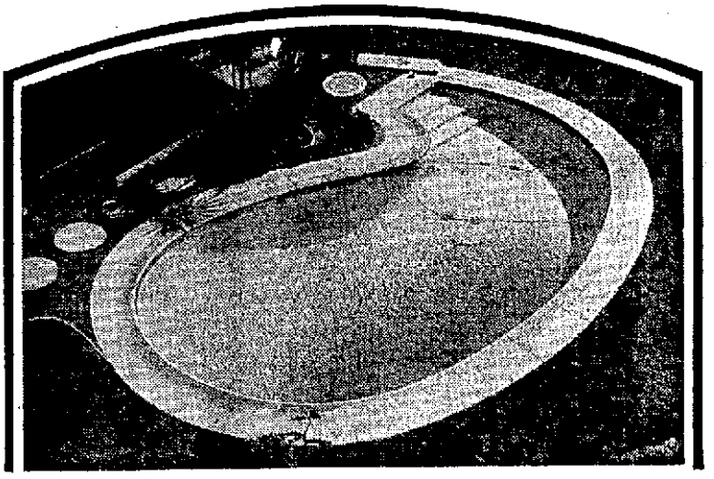

A section of the large family room, one of the several new rooms added to the home (below).

Camera Guild

Winners of achievement medals in contests of the past year will be recognized and new officers will be installed following a dinner of Long Beach Camera Guild at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Jones Dining room, 120 E. 5th St. A travelog also will be presented.

Winners for the year include: 35 mm, AA Group—Lillian Garton, Gerald Church, Elva Hayward, Donald Hayward, Floyd Garton, Chuck Haven, Marion Paglow; A Group—Joe Graves, Bert Laursen, Charles Lawson, Sherman Walley, Margaret Cloonan and Dora Forrest; Stereo—Elva Hayward, Floyd Williamson, Catherine Laursen, Clara Watkins and Church.

This complete FAMILY POOL only $2095*

including deck, electric, and everything you'll need!

Compare this pool's value! For only $27.93 a month you can give your family this beautiful Anthony Constellation pool. Complete. Ready for a summer's fun. Everything you'll need has been combined into one low monthly payment. This is a deluxe pool, now priced lower because of Anthony's greater summer volume. Compare. You'll find the Constellation is larger (389 sq. ft.); has a host of quality features. Ask for free sketch of this pool in your yard.

How Anthony gives greater value. By building almost four times as many pools as any other single builder†, Anthony's overhead per pool is less. This is one way prices can be cut without cutting value—and only Anthony, the world's largest pool builder, can do it.

The Anthony Constellation style 290, is 16' x 30', 389 sq. ft., 3' to 8' deep; has 88' perimeter. Lifetime structural guarantee. Features: (1) coping and deck, total of 27 inches wide around entire pool, (2) electrical hookup to 50 feet. (3) ¾ H.P. pump, (4) filter, (5) skimmer, (6) white plaster interior, (7) steps, (8) cleaning tools, (9) test kit, (10) plans, permits, earth removal. *Summer Special list price for Zone 1. Subject to change for conditions of expansive soil or difficult access.

Letter from pool buyer cites fast construction schedule
"Mr. Phil Anthony:
Recently our pool was completed by you and we wish to take this opportunity to compliment you and your organization on the fine job you did. From start to finish it was handled with speed (17 days) and efficiency."
Sincerely
Gilbert and Betty Harris

The recommendation of satisfied pool owners has helped Anthony become by far the world's largest pool builder.

Crewmen install inflatable bags in spaces between stacks of California fruit in hold.

An Airy Trick

By Lou Jobst

THEY'RE blowing air into shipboard cargoes these days and the customer couldn't be happier.

The newest wrinkle in safe-and-sound oceanic shipping is a trick called inflatable dunnage.

This is the use of air-filled bags in cargo holds to keep cargoes from shifting and banging together.

Placed between plywood sheets and inflated to a pressure of five pounds-per-square-inch, the four-by-eight foot bags can exert a force of 18,000 pounds in two directions, firmly fixing any cargoes prone to movement.

Cargo shifting is dreaded at sea and has often caused ships to sink or founder.

SEA TRIALS have shown the bags will reduce in-transit damage to cargo by 99%.

The bags, which can be installed in a matter of minutes into air spaces between cargo stacks, are made of high tensile strength nylon fabric that is treated with special rubber compound to make it highly resistant to abrasion, water and abuse of rough handling.

Crewmen install inflatable bags in spaces between stacks of California fruit in hold.

An Airy Trick

By Lou Jobst

THEY'RE blowing air into shipboard cargoes these days and the customer couldn't be happier.

The newest wrinkle in safe-and-sound oceanic shipping is a trick called inflatable dunnage.

This is the use of air-filled bags in cargo holds to keep cargoes from shifting and banging together.

Placed between plywood sheets and inflated to a pressure of five pounds-per-square-inch, the four-by-eight foot bags can exert a force of 18,000 pounds in two directions, firmly fixing any cargoes prone to movement.

Cargo shifting is dreaded at sea and has often caused ships to sink or founder.

SEA TRIALS have shown the bags will reduce in-transit damage to cargo by 99%.

The bags, which can be installed in a matter of minutes into air spaces between cargo stacks, are made of high tensile strength nylon fabric that is treated with special rubber compound to make it highly resistant to abrasion, water and abuse of rough handling.

Stainless steel furniture from Cumberland, Canse braid

In homes as well as in apparel, the gray flannel look is setting the fashion pace. Walls above are covered with gray pin-striped wool flannel. Floor is laid with Stephen-Leedom undyed wool carpet.

The Gray Flannel Look

Hooray for gray . . . the latest, newest, freshest color for well-dressed women and well-dressed homes. Gone from the fashion scene for years, the gray-flannel look is back in wardrobes, on carpeted floors, and even on walls . . . such as this home interior which makes use of a wool suiting fabric as a wallcovering.

Gray is the perfect foil for brilliant colors like deep reds and blues. When interpreted in wool, it adds depth and warmth to contrast with the glint of glass and steel in modern interiors.

This silver gray carpet is woven of "natural" or undyed wools — another newsmaker in interior design. The fleece of sheep grows in hues ranging from oatmeal to cocoa, ivory to pewter gray and all the shades in between. The varied-colored wools are carefully mixed by the carpet makers so the overall undyed carpet is composed of many tones for depth and richness. The resulting "natural" look in carpets gives a room a softly-sophisticated appearance.

Here gray is used lavishly for an elegant, yet disciplined, living room. The natural wool carpeting is Stephen Leedom's "Royal-Lok," a luxurious expanse of velvet. On the walls, a darker tone of gray wool flannel with a thin pinstripe serves as a practical and "conversation-producing" wall covering. Black and white flat braid, sharply setting off the artwork, serves as a modern counterpart of old-fashioned molding by bringing architectural detail to the room.

The rose-red and very royal blue of the two upholstered pieces are enriched by the gleam of steel and the gray "look" that is no longer plain jane.

Food

For Weight Watchers

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

IT'S YOURS — at the "cost" of only 250 calories. It's made with new low calorie pineapple slices. Because no sugar is added, there are only 27 calories per slice — 47% less than regular pineapple. The sweet juicy flavor of the pineapple is not changed, only unwanted calories eliminated. Look for this new product on your grocer's shelf right along with other canned fruits, not in the diet section. Keep some on hand to add variety to your menus.

Calorie counters will enjoy the tasty combination of shrimp, pineapple, celery and green pepper. Tossed with just enough oil to coat the ingredients the salad is then seasoned with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Light, Bright Shrimp Salad is a satisfying meal for weightwatchers. Serve with crisp diet crackers for a complete low calorie luncheon.

New, low-calorie pineapple slices are featured in a salad pleasing to weight watchers.

Light, Bright Shrimp Salad

- 2-3 cups cooked shrimp
- ½ cup sliced celery
- ¼ cup diced green pepper
- ¼ cup chopped green onion
- 2 tablespoons safflower or peanut oil
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- ¾-1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- Lettuce leaves
- 8 slices low calorie pineapple

Combine shrimp, celery, green pepper and onion. Pour in oil and toss until all ingredients are lightly coated. Add lemon juice, salt and pepper and continue tossing until well mixed. Arrange 2 slices of pineapple on each of 4 lettuce lined salad plates. Spoon shrimp mixture over pineapple. Makes 4 servings of 250 calories each.

Recipe of the Week

SAVORY pork chops with sour cream are the ingredients of a $5 prizewinning recipe for Diego O. Maestas, 12030 E. 169th St., Artesia. The recipe:

Sour Cream Pork Chops

- 4 thick pork chops
- Salt and pepper
- 4 slices each of lemon and onion
- 4 green pepper rings
- ¼ cup brown sugar, honey or molasses
- ¾ cup sour cream
- ¼ cup chili sauce

Brown pork chops on both sides in a skillet. Season with salt and pepper. Put a slice each of lemon and onion and green pepper ring on each chop. Top each with 1 tablespoon brown sugar, honey or molasses. Mix sour cream and chili sauce and pour over all. Cover tightly. Cook gently until chops are tender, about 45 to 60 minutes depending upon thickness of chops. Serves 4.

Telephone

knows our ring . . . even though we are on a party line. Although he's never had any training, the dog has never bothered the telephone when the ring was for another party."

Speaking of rings, how long should we let the telephone ring before we decide our party isn't home? Well, a recent survey showed that the average person answers the phone after three rings. The telephone company, however, recommends that if you are calling a friend, wait for five rings; if it's someone you don't know, give them 12 rings.

One thing is certain, wherever you are, when in doubt, always answer your telephone as soon as possible and use the simple "Hello." You will never regret it, as an American diplomat once learned to his everlasting sorrow. One quiet Sunday he was on duty at the State Department. He heard the telephone ring, and thinking it was a friend he had given the number to, said cheerfully, "It's your nickel." The caller was Franklin D. Roosevelt.

COIN ROUNDUP

Rare Tickets

By Maurice M. Gould

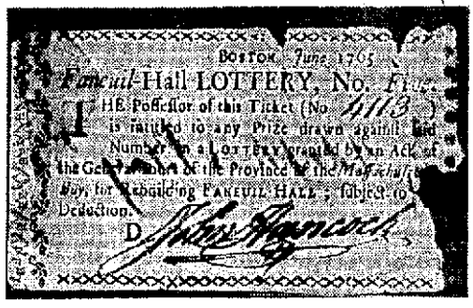

IN ADDITION to the regular series of U. S. coins, many people collect the unusual in numismatics, such as medals, tokens, paper money, transportation items and lottery tickets.

With the legalized sale of lottery tickets at the present time in New Hampshire, and with the expectation that other states will follow suit, a great deal of interest has been created in the collecting of old tickets of former years.

Few people realize that in the early period of our country churches, roads, canals and universities all raised money through lotteries, and lottery tickets are even known with the signatures of George Washington and John Hancock.

A great deal has been written recently about the repairing and rebuilding of the famous Faneuil Hall in Boston, Mass., and this brings to mind a lottery ticket of 200 years ago, the Faneuil Hall Lottery of June 1765.

This lottery was granted by an act of the General Court of the Province of Massachusetts Bay for the rebuilding of Faneuil Hall, and these lottery tickets are signed by the famous John Hancock, whose outstanding signature on the Declaration of Independence has made him immortal in United States history.

Some early tickets may be purchased for as little as $2 to $3, while many of the rare ones with famous signatures could bring $100 or more.

Research is being done by several specialists in this field, and no doubt will result in a reference book which will be of tremendous assistance and attract new collectors to this field.

THE COLONIAL legislature of Virginia in 1618 passed an act declaring tobacco a currency, and the treasurer of the colony was ordered to accept it at a fixed valuation.

Young girls imported into Virginia in 1620 and 1621 as wives for the colonists were valued at 100 pounds of tobacco each.

In 1642, a law was passed making it the sole currency, and contracts payable in money were forbidden.

THE IMPORTANCE of the whisky trade in the early days of Canada is emphasized by one of the scarcer Canadian tokens. This is the piece with a ship and Upper Canada on the face of the coin. The reverse has the legend COMMERCIAL CHANGE 1821 and the words UPPER CANADA on a cask. A slightly different variety of the same token has the two words JAMAICA RUM on the cask.

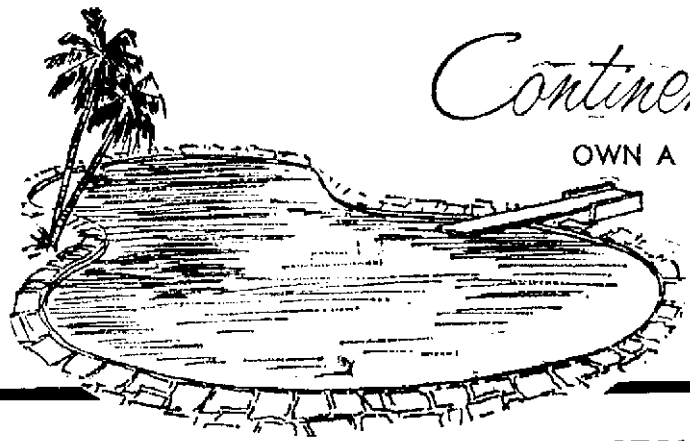

This token is rarer than the UPPER CANADA piece and difficult to find in nice condition. It is much sought after by Canadian Token collectors and brings $75 or more in average condition.

A READER ASKS whether any coins have been issued to honor Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The Philippine government issued a coin in 1947 to mark national independence. Two denominations were struck; a peso, or silver dollar, and a half-peso, or 50-cent piece.

Both of these coins have a large, shoulder-length profile of the general. His name appears on both sides of the bust, and beneath is the date, Oct. 20, 1944, the day that he waded ashore at Leyte to keep his famous promise, "I Shall Return."

A British Clarence Darrow

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

FEW MEN receive recognition as being outstanding in work they love to do and at the same time enjoy a happy and complete private life. Norman Birkett, a lawyer whose fame in England compared with the renown of Clarence Darrow in America, was such a man.

In "LORD JUSTICE," an exhaustive — and sometimes exhausting — biography by the prolific British writer H. Montgomery Hyde (Random House, $7.95), Birkett's career is traced from his humble beginning as the son of a small town merchant to the Lord Justice of England's highest court of appeal.

Along the way, some of England's most famous murder cases are detailed, with Birkett, as defense counsel, showing why he was rated "one of the most famous British trial lawyers and judges of our century."

Expert in criminal matters, his full life brought him wealth, fame and respect. He was one of the judges at the Nuremberg war crimes trials of Goering, Hess, Schacht and other top Nazis.

His prowess was not limited to criminal matters, however. He secured the divorce for Wallis Simpson, thus paving the way for her marriage to Edward after he abdicated as England's king; he defended an author charged with writing an obscene book in one of the earliest such cases.

The book reveals intimately the life of a man famous in his own country, but it also reveals much about English law, upon which America's legal structure is based. For those interested in interesting people, there is much in "Lord Justice" to commend it. For those interested in the law, it is a "must" addition to their library.

$1600 CONTEST for WRITERS
OF UNPUBLISHED MANUSCRIPTS.
Send for contest rules and free Brochure on publishing your book. Dept. LB.
Pageant Press, 101 Fifth Ave., N. Y. 3

A SQUARE-CUT DIAMOND weighing 317.40 carats, the magnificent Cullian II, is in the band of the Imperial State Crown. One of 200 illustrations from "THE BOOK OF DIAMONDS: Their History and Romance From Ancient India to Modern Times," by Joan Younger Dickinson (Crown, $5.95).

TENUOUS relationships among people — husbands and wives, husbands and mistresses, wives and mistresses, parents and children, friends—are explored by B. J. Chute in "ONE TOUCH OF NATURE" (Dutton, $4.50), as fine a collection of short stories as one is likely to come across this year.

Miss Chute writes about an aging actress whose self-delusions are shattered by a young girl; a little boy who has to face up to the fact that his adored elder brother is missing in action; an executive father and son who discover human affection on a hiking trip; a bachelor who learns about family life in a supermarket.

MANY PERSONS with writing talent give up before they give themselves an honest chance to learn the trade, believes Paul R. Reynolds, literary agent. His new book, "THE WRITING AND SELLING OF FICTION" (Doubleday, $4.50) analyzes major and minor problems facing an aspiring author, with emphasis on how to plan, write and market a novel.

A Bandit on the Payroll done for him, which led to his undoing.

He had stopped Reason McConnell's stage on the Funk Grade in Calaveras County. All went well. No one had raised a hand, much less a gun against him. He had his booty and was scrambling away to safety.

AND THEN the unexpected happened. A young hunter, happening along just then, took a shot at him. Except for a nicked wrist Bart was not hurt. He probably congratulated himself on a close call frustrated. Imagine then his surprise when, as Charles Boles he was arrested and charged with the holdups perpetrated by Black Bart. The youthful hunter's shot had knocked off a part of the bandit's shirt cuff. And that cuff bore the laundry mark of Charles Boles.

Boles or Bart was sentenced to San Quentin Prison for eight years. Serving his time he came out, perhaps prepared, who knows, to take up his outlaw trade again. But James B. Hume, still of Wells Fargo approached him. Things had been quiet and prosperous while Bart had been in prison. Hume wanted no more of the holdups. Would Bart refrain from them in future?

Bart, since maybe he hadn't planned to take up his life of crime again anyway, said he would — for a consideration. So it was worked out. Wells Fargo paid Bart a satisfactory monthly pension. And, as a token of faith, the little bandit gave Hume back the gold watch he'd taken from him 11 years before.

You Can Make Seed Necklaces

THERE are many different kinds of seeds that can be strung into necklaces. Watermelon seeds make a pretty black necklace and pumpkin seeds a cream colored one.

Sunflower seeds and kidney beans are easy to buy from a store. The only trouble is that they are so dry they have to be soaked in water to soften them in order to stick a needle through them. This soaking isn't needed when seeds are freshly gathered from the garden.

The girl pictured soaks a few at a time of each kind of seed in a saucer and meanwhile strings those already soaked. She is using ordinary sewing thread, such as you'll find in Mother's work basket, and has doubled it for greater strength after threading it through her needle.

First, she threads on 20 sunflower seeds, sticking the needle through the middle of a flat side of each seed. Then she threads on one red kidney bean seed, but with this seed she pushes the needle through from one end to the other.

You'll see a completed necklace using the same two kinds of seeds around her neck. The materials for these necklaces are easy to find—just needle (not too fine, but very sharp), thread, scissors and seeds. If you wear one of these necklaces to school, every one of your friends will want one too.

Sunflower and red kidney bean seeds are sewn into a necklace, like one the girl is wearing.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Pseudo Voice Aid

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

AFTER surgical removal of the voice box because of cancer, some patients have difficulty in learning to talk again.

However, a new study shows that use of background noise appears to have a beneficial effect in facilitating acquisition of a new voice — pseudo voice, as it is called.

Dr. Sheila Drummond of Melbourne, Australia, says that patients who worked in a noisy environment, such as a timber mill, did particularly well in developing an intelligible voice with acceptable intensity.

So speech therapists asked some of these patients to wear headphones during voice-learning sessions. Music was played through them; "white noise," a humming sound, annoyed these patients, it was found.

The approach seemed to help, Dr. Drummond reports in the Journal of Laryngology and Otology. Patients practiced at home using transistor radios with earpieces.

DIABETES is on the increase all over the globe, reports the World Health Organization.

WHO says increases are biggest where food is plentiful. Overweight persons are more predisposed to the ailment.

INTENSIVE therapy of the childhood disease cystic fibrosis is paying off in extended survivals, according to a report in California Medicine.

For example, prior to establishment of the Cystic Fibrosis Center at Children's Hospital of Los Angeles, half of those who had the disease were dead before the age of 5 years. Now, 50% of those dying are more than 10 years old.

Dr. Lyal D. Asay sums up:

"Early recognition of the disease with subsequent intensive therapy will thus significantly improve the outlook for many children."

A POWERFUL tranquilizing drug, haloperidol, can effectively control symptoms of a dismal mental disorder known as Tourette's disease.

In this disorder, symptoms first appear when the victim is about 6 years old. First symptoms are eye-blinking, face-twitching and quick protrusions of the tongue, followed by involuntary movements of the neck, shoulders and arms.

Subsequently, noises appear which resemble barking, coughing or grunting.

The final feature is the speaking or shouting of obscene words.

Psychiatrists at State University of Iowa say that no method of treatment has been consistently effective.

Yet haloperidol has enabled doctors there to successfully control symptoms in six patients, according to a report to the American Psychiatric Association.

MENTAL retardation is one of the most handicapping of all childhood disorders, an AMA Journal report notes. About 5 million persons diagnosed at some time in their lives as retarded now live in the United States. Some 126,000 are born yearly.

1965 SNAPSHOT CONTEST RULES

1. This contest is open only to amateur photographers. Anyone is eligible, excepting employees of the Independent, Press-Telegram and the Orange County Evening News, and individuals who personally are engaged in the manufacture, sale, commercial finishing or professional use of photographic goods.

2. Pictures taken after July 1, 1964, are the only ones eligible. Either black-and-white or color PRINTS accepted only. Pictures made with any make of camera or film may be entered providing an original negative (black and white) or a color transparency can be furnished. An entrant need not do his own photofinishing. Negatives and transparencies may not be retouched, and no art work may be done on negatives, transparencies or prints. No composite pictures, multiple printing or montages are permitted.

Do NOT send negatives with entries. Keep negatives of color or black-and-white prints until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives and transparencies accepted.) This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, prints or transparencies.

3. No print or enlargement more than 10 inches in the longest dimension will be accepted. Pictures should NOT be mounted or framed.

4. No person who has won a "final" or national award in any picture contest conducted by this newspaper within the past year is eligible for entry. No person may win more than one national prize.

5. Contest opens May 23, 1965 and entries will be accepted until Monday, July 12, 1965. Pictures must be postmarked no later than midnight of the day prior to above final acceptance date, or delivered in person to the Independent, Press-Telegram (604 Pine Ave., Long Beach) by noon of the acceptance date.

6. All entries will be judged on general interest and appeal. Photographic quality, while important, will not be the deciding factor. In order to be entered in the Newspaper Snapshot Awards, an entrant winning a prize for one of the eight best pictures must send the original negative or transparency to the Independent, Press-Telegram, accompanied by, if it contains the likeness of any person, the written consent of such person, or persons, to the use of the picture for purpose of illustration, advertising, or publication in any manner. The entrant must also sign a statement that said picture or a closely similar picture of the same subject or situation has not been and will not be entered in any snapshot contest, or any exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by the Independent, Press-Telegram & Orange County Evening News, and has not heretofore been and will not be offered for publication in any manner, and that he, or she, has not entered and will not enter any picture or pictures in the contest of any other newspaper participating in the Twenty-Seventh Annual (1965) Newspaper Awards.

7. To be eligible for entry in this contest, the entrant must reside in the home-delivery area served by these newspapers.

8. To enter this contest, mail no more than four (4) prints each week as you desire, within the contest dates to this newspaper's "Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor". ON THE BACK OF EACH PICTURE PRINT YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS CLEARLY IN INK.

9. Photographs entered in the Snapshot Contest become the property of the Independent, Press-Telegram and The Orange County Evening News and NO BLACK-AND-WHITE OR COLOR PRINTS WILL BE RETURNED.

Practical Dining Set

Cheryl Miller, star of MGM's "Clarence, the Cross-Eyed Lion," finds this dining set a joy.

By Steve Ellingson

YOUNG, newly married couples starting out in the inevitable apartment, are usually long on ideas and desires, but short on funds and space. And there are times when even with the necessary funds available, the correct size or type of furniture can't be found to fulfill their needs.

Such a dilemma might very well be locating a practical but dainty dining set. The set (see illustration) is compact both in and out of use. When the leaves are folded down, it requires but little space, when up, the table will easily seat six persons for a meal. Few sets are as easy to build, have such a trim well-bred look, yet are as rugged and durable as the furniture of the pioneers.

THEN AGAIN, established families often have the need for a good-looking extra dining set; one to be used to accommodate extra dinner guests or as a popular game table with chairs to match. No matter what your situation, you'll find a definite use for this versatile set.

Construction is simplicity itself and the cost is slight when you build it yourself. Table and chairs are all made of veneered plywood. You may select any type of the many varieties available to harmonize with your particular interior. The full size pattern makes it easy to trace the parts onto the plywood for sawing. The chair legs and cushions are standard sizes available everywhere.

TO OBTAIN the princess dining set pattern Number 378, send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Chili Is an Ocelot

By Eleanor Avery Price

OCELOTS are jungle cats, not toys, therefore the prospective owner of such an animal as a pet should consider all factors involved in ownership before investing money. Ask yourself if you really love cats well enough to take on the responsibility. You'll need lots of patience, sympathetic understanding, willingness to learn the cat's ways as well as to teach him your ways.

You may also need a permit to keep a jungle-born pet. And definitely you will need a veterinarian who can help with the diet, any diseases and handling to enable the pet to live a full life from 15 to 20 years.

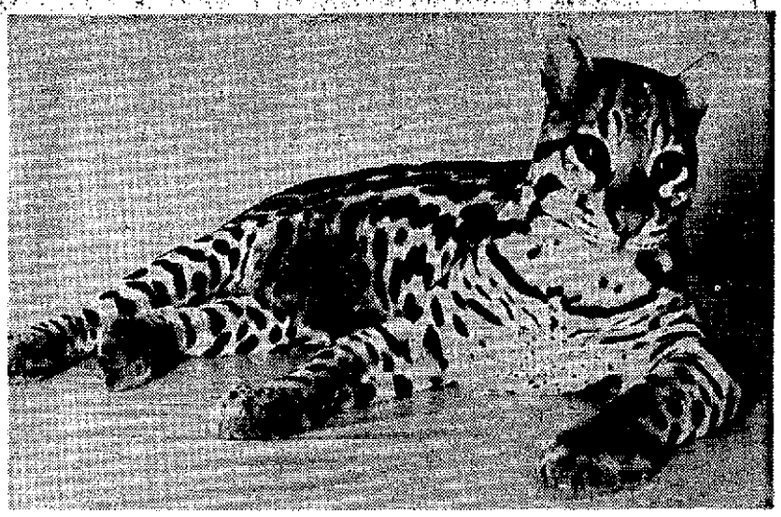

THE OCELOT may grow to weigh 45 pounds and be well over a yard long from nose to tail tip. He will have great strength and be difficult to confine as he can open a door by turning the knob with his mouth. And inside that mouth will be playful teeth. So playful you may need to have the canine teeth filed or perhaps extracted. And he has a way of playing by wrapping himself around objects (a Cheeta does, too) including your friends' ankles. This may be amusing to you, but will it be to them? It won't be amusing to you to find he is a nocturnal animal and only by patience can you switch him to daytime activities and night sleep. And one doesn't fill a tub and go off and leave it, for the ocelot will splash and perhaps even jump in, as he usually likes water.

Even as a kitten the ocelot does not like anyone to approach him from the rear. He dislikes sudden noises and movements and all surprises, but he has great curiosity. This, plus his need for food will draw him to a human, and once he gives his devotion, he becomes a great big lap-warmer. He will listen for a loved one's footsteps and will sleep happily on a loved one's garments just removed. He may make hash out of them, too.

MANY OCELOTS have their claws removed. This saves furniture and makes him more fun to have around. There are those who object to such surgery, but once the ocelot has left his jungle home and become domesticated, he should remain a home pet, and the easier you can make it on yourself and others, the better off the pet will be. He can still climb without claws. But don't let him outside to play unsupervised.

A male ocelot probably should be altered when about five or six months old. The operation is simple but should be done by a competent veterinarian.

ALL-HOUND match at Lynwood City Park and Antelope Valley Kennel Club match at the fairgrounds in Lancaster are scheduled today. Lakewood Obedience Club practice match at Del Valle Park, Lakewood, and Orange Empire Dog Show at Lytle Creek Park, San Bernardino, are set for June 20.

One's Fun, 5 Too Many

By Elsie Woodward

"GOOD morning, Catskill!" children greeted the gray cat at the school gate.

She arched her back and purred, because wasn't she the cat of the Catskill Avenue School in Wilmington, loving the hundreds of pupils there, and loved by them in turn?

Suddenly, and without warning, she disappeared for several days.

"What's happened to Catskill?" the children demanded of each other and their teachers. "Has she run away? Has she been hurt? Has she been catnaped?"

PUPILS didn't know. Teachers didn't know.

Catskill returned, purring joyfully. She answered no questions about where she had been.

A few weeks later she disappeared again.

"Oh, no!" groaned the children, "Not again!"

This time when they searched, they found her—in an outdoor cupboard, four kittens nestled against her. Catskill had found her way to the cupboard by creeping through her secret entrance in the floor.

Three of the kittens were white and the children named them Pussywillow, Catnip and Cattail. One was gray and they named it Catskill II.

ONE SCHOOL cat is fine, but five school cats are four too many, ruled school authorities firmly.

Alice Clegg, the speech teacher who lives in Belmont Shore, took Catskill and her babies home. When the kittens are weaned, they will go to their adopted homes.

When school starts next fall, Catskill presumably will be posted beside the school gate awaiting the return of her young friends from vacation and joyously listening again to their....

"Good morning, Catskill!"

Catskill came to school . . . that was fun. But when she had the 4 kittens (above) . . . well . . .

Shrub for Tropical Effects

Melianthus major offers tropical effects with showy foliage and spikes of red-brown flowers.

By Joe Littlefield

OF ALL THE attractive tropical effect shrubs, Melianthus major has two unusual features over the other such type plants. The bold, gray-blue foliage, a foot or longer and composed of 9 to 11 leaflets, presents a unique texture. The plants send forth a foot tall or taller, terminal spike of red-brown flowers in late winter and into spring.

Gardeners, unfortunately, don't realize the branches tend to sprawl over the ground. The trick is to pinch out the tip growths as the young shrubs develop into bush form. Pinching forces branches to grow stiff, the plants growing compact and full to around six feet tall.

We've seen these plants growing along the coast, and inland too, and one of them has been known to tolerate cold down to around 25 degrees Fahrenheit.

MELIANTHUS blends well with other tropical effect shrubs such as Fatsia, New Zealand flax, bamboo tetrapanax, equisetum, and acanthus to name a few.

The best way to give shrubs a good start is to mix two parts of organic material nurserymen recommend with three parts of soil, when setting out the shrubs.

One plant problem is allowing small basins to remain long after plants have become established. Eventually, the ring of soil breaks down and frequently washes up against the plant trunks, covering them and smothering the bark. The moist soil tends to weaken the bark and slow down growth.

Gardeners should take away this ring of soil several months after plants have become established and new growth develops. They then should furrow rings where the basin had been. Dig several inches deep. The furrow catches and holds water which slowly soaks to the plant trunk, yet has better opportunity to soak equally as far the other way, thereby coaxing roots to grow out and away from the plant.

GARDEN CLUBS

Margaret Emery, member of the board of directors of the Cactus and Succulent Society of America, will report on the recent national convention of that organization and will show slides of the convention area — Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz., when the Long Beach Cactus Club meets at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave. The public is invited.

Various divisions of the begonia family will be discussed by Mrs. Alice Martin of Hawthorne at a meeting of Long Beach Parent Chapter, American Begonia Society, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Community Savings & Loan Building community room, 3901 Atlantic Ave.

Dahlia culture — pinching back, disbranching and disbudding—will be discussed by a panel of expert amateur growers at a meeting of Southern California Dahlia Society at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Community Room of Glendale Federal Savings & Loan Association in Los Altos Shopping Center, 5535 Stearns St., Long Beach.

Orange County Branch, California National Fuchsia Society, will hear a discussion of "Summer Care of Fuchsias" by Kelsey Williams of Buena Park at a meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at George Washington School, Emily and Chartres Streets, Anaheim.

Fuchsias as they are grown around the world will be featured at the 11th Annual Fuchsia and Shade Plant Show June 25 through June 27 in the Floriculture Building, Orange County Fairgrounds, Costa Mesa.

CONQUER FAIRY RING BLIGHT IN DICHONDRA WITH KOP-R-OIL

Unsightly blighted areas in dichondra could mean fairy ring blight fungus is killing your lawn. Immediate action can save your lawn from this disease. Cooke KOP-R-OIL, the year 'round fungicidal spray, provides a highly effective treatment for small patches or the entire lawn.

The active copper also provides a trace mineral supplement which, if needed, greens-up dichondra to its lush deep green healthy color.

KOP-R-OIL is highly effective in treating fungus on camellias, roses, flowers, ornamentals, fruit trees and berry bushes. Powdery mildew, brown rot, peach leaf curl, shot hole fungus, rust, cane and leaf spot quickly yield to the fungicidal action of KOP-R-OIL.

Keep your lawn, flowers and ornamentals in prize winning condition. Use Cooke KOP-R-OIL for year 'round fungus control. Economical KOP-R-OIL is available in pints and quarts at your local nursery.

Tennis

in the nation, to a 5-7, 6-1, 7-5 score in the National Hard Courts and he took Frank Froehling, No. 4, to 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, in the National Clay Courts. And, of course, he had that victory over Graebner, No. 9.

Says Ashe: "Jerry's got all the shots. He's got a very good first serve. He's fast and very graceful and he's 'cool' on the court, or at least appears to be. Like most of us, though, he probably could use more confidence."

SAYS TOLEY: "Jerry has even more potential than he has shown. He has all the strokes. He's strong, he moves well and he competes well. Because of his devotion to his studies, he doesn't play as much in the fall as most of the boys, and this has kept him back some. But we have great hopes for him."

Says U. S. women's doubles champion Billie Jean Moffitt, who learned the game with Jerry in Walker's public classes and who played with Jerry almost daily from age 10 to 15: "Jerry certainly has the potential to become one of America's leading men players, but I think education and a career come first with him. It's tough to mix college and tennis. The reason the Australians are so good is that they don't go to college—in fact, some of them don't even finish high school."

Education and a career do come before tennis with Jerry. He is a serious-minded student who made very good grades at Poly High and who has made very good grades at USC. He's majoring in economics and thinks he'd like to become a teacher "or perhaps some sort of adviser overseas."

"I'LL PROBABLY start graduate work in the fall of 1966," he says. "Anyone like me would be foolish not to be more concerned about an education than about tennis. It would be too big a gamble for me to slack off in my studies just to see how far I could go. I have no plans to concentrate on tennis, even after getting my degree. Being realistic, I know I'm not going to make it to the very top."

Then, reaching the top is not worth the sacrifices? "That depends upon the person," says Jerry. "The sacrifices for me would be tremendous. For someone who does not love school and books and intellectual stimulus and a normal social life, but only tennis, it would be a different matter entirely.

"Tennis, for me, has been sort of a bridge to college and travel. I loved it from my first day on the court and I'm sure I'll enjoy playing throughout life. But let's face it," he added, "it really isn't the most important thing in the world."

Tennis

in the nation, to a 5-7, 6-1, 7-5 score in the National Hard Courts and he took Frank Froehling, No. 4, to 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, in the National Clay Courts. And, of course, he had that victory over Graebner, No. 9.

Says Ashe: "Jerry's got all the shots. He's got a very good first serve. He's fast and very graceful and he's 'cool' on the court, or at least appears to be. Like most of us, though, he probably could use more confidence."

SAYS TOLEY: "Jerry has even more potential than he has shown. He has all the strokes. He's strong, he moves well and he competes well. Because of his devotion to his studies, he doesn't play as much in the fall as most of the boys, and this has kept him back some. But we have great hopes for him."

Says U. S. women's doubles champion Billie Jean Moffitt, who learned the game with Jerry in Walker's public classes and who played with Jerry almost daily from age 10 to 15: "Jerry certainly has the potential to become one of America's leading men players, but I think education and a career come first with him. It's tough to mix college and tennis. The reason the Australians are so good is that they don't go to college—in fact, some of them don't even finish high school."

Education and a career do come before tennis with Jerry. He is a serious-minded student who made very good grades at Poly High and who has made very good grades at USC. He's majoring in economics and thinks he'd like to become a teacher "or perhaps some sort of adviser overseas."

"I'LL PROBABLY start graduate work in the fall of 1966," he says. "Anyone like me would be foolish not to be more concerned about an education than about tennis. It would be too big a gamble for me to slack off in my studies just to see how far I could go. I have no plans to concentrate on tennis, even after getting my degree. Being realistic, I know I'm not going to make it to the very top."

Then, reaching the top is not worth the sacrifices? "That depends upon the person," says Jerry. "The sacrifices for me would be tremendous. For someone who does not love school and books and intellectual stimulus and a normal social life, but only tennis, it would be a different matter entirely.

"Tennis, for me, has been sort of a bridge to college and travel. I loved it from my first day on the court and I'm sure I'll enjoy playing throughout life. But let's face it," he added, "it really isn't the most important thing in the world."

LIKE the fiery phoenix, a fabled Eygptian bird that rose in youthful freshness from its own ashes, King Arthur's Steak House has been revived after a disastrous fire—and now looks younger and newer than ever.

After a blaze which caused $50,000 damage last January, this popular Long Beach restaurant, on Spring Street just east of Bellflower Boulevard, lay dormant for 4½ months while its owners—John Apostle, his brother Tony and John Paulos—developed their rebuilding and redecorating plans. During that period many of their patrons—longing for King Arthur's flavorful prime rib and steaks—asked plaintively again and again: "When are you going to reopen?"

Last week joy reigned among King Arthur's hundreds of loyal friends as the restaurant reopened its doors. With new red carpeting, new booths, new mahogany-paneled walls, new floral decorations, and a new bar, the restaurant is plusher than ever. The menu, one of the most distinguished in town, is now more generous than before, with the dinners including both soup du jour and a peerless green salad, plus oversized baked potatoes with rich cheese sauce, fresh baked rolls and beverage. Dinners start at $2.85 for splendid sea foods and chicken. King Arthur's famed prime rib au jus and top sirloin steak are $3.50. The restaurant is open seven days a week.

Back entertaining again in the lounge is blond, pink-checked Bob Moreau, one of the city's most successful and talented organist-vocalists who performs every night except Sunday. Bob, a recording artist who attracts visits from top professional singers who blend their voices with those of other guests, is now in his sixth year at King Arthur's. He is featured at the multiple keyboards of a new Lowrey organ.

SUNDAY TREATS—Dinner on Sunday should be large and satisfying. It should be prepared with skill and a great understanding of flavor combinations. And it shouldn't cost too much. All of those factors combine at Jones Dining Room and Jones Cafeteria, two fine restaurants at 120 E. 5th St., to produce exceptional dinners, not merely on Sunday but throughout the week. The Dining Room dinners on Sunday, priced from $2.35 to $2.65, offer a host of first-rate entrees, all with shrimp cocktail, soup, salad, potato, vegetable, beverage, dessert.

Mr. Novak Loses Tenure

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The nation's best paid high school teacher has been fired and now makes weekly trips to the unemployment office to pick up his checks.

The vagaries of television, not academic incompetence, have cast actor James Franciscus out of the "Mr. Novak" classrooms and onto the dole.

NBC-TV cancelled the show recently and Franciscus, rather than tackle another series, is gambling on becoming a movie star.

Says he: "Timing is important in getting out of television. I think two years as Novak established my identity. It put me on the map with the public, as well as with the people who produce movies.

"If I did another series now I'd be a TV actor the rest of my life. I'm not even going to make guest appearances on shows like 'Ben Casey.'"

AT 31, FRANCISCUS is setting aside five years of his life on his gamble.

"I figure I have five years to make the move from TV to movies," he explained. "The first year I guess I'll sit around and go crazy while established stars take the good roles. The second year I may get some better roles, but still not the kind I want.

"Maybe by the third year I'll get some good second and third leads. I don't want to carry a picture now. I can't.

"So I've got to sit it out and worry about money and other things."

Unlike the rest of the guys in the unemployment line, Franciscus can sign contracts for hundreds of thousands of dollars simply by agreeing to start in another series. But he's not even tempted.

"I'VE GOT to take the chance now," he said. "I may never have another opportunity to make the break. If at the end of five years I haven't made it, I'm confident I can go back to television.

"But I hope to work my way up into the Paul Newman area. In five years I should be about the right age and degree of maturity."

The handsome, blond Franciscus is a Yale graduate, articulate and determined to follow the successful formula of Steve McQueen and James Garner, two former video stars who are basking on the big screen these days.

He is unmoved by the sudden cancellation of his show.

JAMES FRANCISCUS . . . Goodbye to TV

"I don't like to hear people say it's a shame that Novak was shot down. After all, it had two very successful years and was an excellent series. I say we were lucky to have been on the air.

"But television isn't fun. You work 14 hours a day and spend the weekends preparing for the next show. It's terrible on your family life. In movies you know there's a time limit and that you can count on some leisure.

"Professionally, movies fulfill the artistic needs of an actor. In television you just work hard and fast to get the job done.

"No matter," he concluded, "I probably could earn more money in television in the long run. But I'm going to take a crack at movies because that is what I want to do."

TOP TV SHOWS OF THE WEEK

SUNDAY

"Major White's Walk," at 6:30 p.m., ch. 2, has the Gemini astronaut describing his space experiences as he views the films.

"Bay of Smokes," at 7:30 p.m., ch. 5, tells the story of the creation of the Los Angeles Harbor, with Preston Foster narrating.

MONDAY

"The Berkeley Rebels," at 10 p.m., ch. 2. Harry Reasoner looks at the troubled University of California campus in the light of the new breed of students, focusing on four of the rebel leaders.

TUESDAY

"Hullabaloo," at 10 p.m., ch. 4, in color. Musical hours return for a summer of reprises, with opener featuring sons of another generation's favorites — Gary Crosby, Frank Sinatra Jr. and Gary Lewis.

THURSDAY

"The Defenders," 10 p.m. on ch. 2, repeats "The Blacklist" which won Emmy awards for writer Ernest Kinoy and star Jack Klugman. Story deals with an actor unable to get work because of past Communist connections.

FRIDAY

"Everybody's Got a System," at 8:30, ch. 7, is a light look at various gambling practices in a variety of places in the U.S. and England. Terry-Thomas is host for the hour.

SATURDAY

"Le Mans 24-Hour Grand Prix of Endurance," at 7:30 a.m., ch. 7, is the first use of the Early Bird satellite for sports event. Hour from France is repeated at 10 a.m. for late sleepers.

"Fanfare," at 7:30 p.m., ch. 2, finds Al Hirt hosting a summer musical series with opening guests including Eydie Gorme, Errol Garner and Stan Freberg.

Cite Sullivan

"The Ed Sullivan Show" has been cited by the International Radio and Television Society as "a credit to broadcasting." The citation also took note of the fact that the Sullivan show is television's oldest continuing program.

Sports Today

CLEVELAND OPEN, 1:30 p.m., ch. 9, has the last four holes of the $110,000 tournament, with Tony Lema defending champion. (Champagne Tony in 1964 followed his Buick win with this one, in a sudden-death playoff with Arnold Palmer.)

NBC SPORTS in Action, 6:30 p.m., ch. 4, has Jim Simpson and BBC's Eddy Waring with highlights of England's professional rugby league championship game between Liverpool and Leeds, filmed last month at London's Wembley Stadium.

JOHNNY KEANE, 6:30 p.m., ch. 7, has narrator Horace McMahon with Stan Musial, Joe DiMaggio, Ralph Houk and Mickey Mantle in an hour-long study of the Yankees' new field manager, who never played a single inning of major league baseball and who now faces fan resentment in his replacement of Yogi Berra.

SPECIAL

MAJOR WHITE'S WALK—Edward H. White views films of his own space walk and describes his experiences in a special report at 6:30 p.m., ch. 2. Mike Wallace is reporter, with a space expert evaluating the significance of the EVA achievement.

BAY OF SMOKES—Preston Foster is narrator for an hour-long documentary of the Port of L.A. with its bustling man-built harbor, its growth in the last 50 years and its newest improvements and facilities. Mayor Sam Yorty and harbor manager Bernard J. Caughlin are interviewed, with other highlights of the 7:30 p.m., ch. 5 program including a look at cargo handling, cannery operations, drydocking, sport fishing, sailing, pilot boat operations.

PHIL HILL: Assault on Le Mans—The thrills and heartbreaks of the 24-hour Le Mans road race are seen at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7, as cameras follow the exacting preparations of 37-year-old Santa Monica driver Phil Hill as he leads the first assault by a major American auto manufacturer (Ford) to break the stranglehold of the Italian Ferraris on the European road racing scene. (This year's race will be seen next weekend via Early Bird satellite.)

'HALLELUJAH TRAIN' Premiere—Tapes of last Friday night's celebrity premiere of the new movie at Hollywood's Cinerama Theatre are repeated at 8 p.m., ch. 11, with Bill Welsh mikeside.

Sports Today

CLEVELAND OPEN, 1:30 p.m., ch. 9, has the last four holes of the $110,000 tournament, with Tony Lema defending champion. (Champagne Tony in 1964 followed his Buick win with this one, in a sudden-death playoff with Arnold Palmer.)

NBC SPORTS In Action, 6:30 p.m., ch. 4, has Jim Simpson and BBC's Eddy Waring with highlights of England's professional rugby league championship game between Liverpool and Leeds, filmed last month at London's Wembley Stadium.

JOHNNY KEANE, 6:30 p.m., ch. 7, has narrator Horace McMahon with Stan Musial, Joe DiMaggio, Ralph Houk and Mickey Mantle in an hour-long study of the Yankees' new field manager, who never played a single inning of major league baseball and who now faces fan resentment in his replacement of Yogi Berra.

SPECIAL

MAJOR WHITE'S WALK—Edward H. White views films of his own space walk and describes his experiences in a special report at 6:30 p.m, ch. 2. Mike Wallace is reporter, with a space expert evaluating the significance of the EVA achievement.

BAY OF SMOKES—Preston Foster is narrator for an hour-long documentary of the Port of L.A. with its bustling man-built harbor, its growth in the last 50 years and its newest improvements and facilities. Mayor Sam Yorty and harbor manager Bernard J. Caughlin are interviewed, with other highlights of the 7:30 p.m., ch. 5 program including a look at cargo handling, cannery operations, drydocking, sport fishing, sailing, pilot boat operations.

PHIL HILL: Assault on Le Mans—The thrills and heartbreaks of the 24-hour Le Mans road race are seen at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7, as cameras follow the exacting preparations of 37-year-old Santa Monica driver Phil Hill as he leads the first assault by a major American auto manufacturer (Ford) to break the stranglehold of the Italian Ferraris on the European road racing scene. (This year's race will be seen next weekend via Early Bird satellite.)

'HALLELUJAH TRAIN' Premiere—Tapes of last Friday night's celebrity premiere of the new movie at Hollywood's Cinerama Theatre are repeated at 8 p.m., ch. 11, with Bill Welsh mikeside.

SPECIAL

CHICAGO PARADE—With a tight NASA schedule scrubbing plans of both Manhattan and Washington for parades in honor of the Gemini Twins, the sole honors go to the Windy City, birthplace of Maj. McDivitt. The full tickertape treatment will be seen on all networks at a time to be announced.

BALDWIN-BUCKLEY Debate—There's no echo in the choice of these two for a debate on the question of civil rights for the Negro. Taped earlier this spring at Cambridge University in England, the question is aired by Negro author James Baldwin and the articulate editor of National Review, William F. Buckley, Jr. and seen at 8:40 p.m., ch. 28.

BERKELEY REBELS — Harry Reasoner examines the new breed of college student—restless, articulate, outspoken and militant—as he focuses on four members of the protest movement which has racked the UC-Berkeley campus for the past ten months. The 10 p.m., ch. 2 hour also hears from two faculty members and the father of one of the students. (Maury Green will narrate a locally-produced hour on a similar theme to preempt CBS' "The Nurses" next week.)

SCREEN TEST—Premiere. Marvin Miller is host for a nightly 10 p.m., ch. 13 game show as studio contestants team with movie stars in trying to identify film scenes and players. Wendell Corey and Lynn Bari are celebrity guests for the initial week's shows.

SPECIAL

CHICAGO PARADE—With a tight NASA schedule scrubbing plans of both Manhattan and Washington for parades in honor of the Gemini Twins, the sole honors go to the Windy City, birthplace of Maj. McDivitt. The full tickertape treatment will be seen on all networks at a time to be announced.

BALDWIN-BUCKLEY Debate—There's no echo in the choice of these two for a debate on the question of civil rights for the Negro. Taped earlier this spring at Cambridge University in England, the question is aired by Negro author James Baldwin and the articulate editor of National Review, William F. Buckley Jr. and seen at 8:40 p.m., ch. 28.

BERKELEY REBELS — Harry Reasoner examines the new breed of college student—restless, articulate, outspoken and militant—as he focuses on four members of the protest movement which has racked the UC-Berkeley campus for the past ten months. The 10 p.m., ch. 2 hour also hears from two faculty members and the father of one of the students. (Maury Green will narrate a locally-produced hour on a similar theme to preempt CBS' "The Nurses" next week.)

SCREEN TEST—Premiere. Marvin Miller is host for a nightly 10 p.m., ch. 13 game show as studio contestants team with movie stars in trying to identify film scenes and players. Wendell Corey and Lynn Bari are celebrity guests for the initial week's shows.

PAST U.S. EXPLOITS IN SPACE RECALLED

United Press International

The triumphant conclusion Monday of the four-day space flight of Edward White and James McDivitt may have seemed to some televiewers almost an expected, matter-of-course procedure because of past successes. But do you remember the television experiences of those past successes?

In 1961, astronauts Alan Shepard and Gus Grissom had achieved separate sub-orbital flights, brief ones—15 and 16 minutes each. Then:

Feb. 20, 1962 — John Glenn, a steel-nerved 40-year-old father, embarked on a 4-hour 56-minute mission in a Mercury capsule. As he was fired into space, a CBS reporter, unable to contain his feelings any longer, expressed the thoughts of millions of televiewers who joined in the nervous and emotional experience of the blastoff: "Aw, go, Baby." It was a memorable blending of reporter-audience reaction.

* * * *

THE CAPSULE went And soon viewers had another emotional moment: As Glenn approached Perth, Australia, where it was dark, they heard the message that the people of that city had turned their lights on for him. Later, viewers also learned that Glenn earned $245 in flight pay for his day's work.

May 24, 1962 — Scott Carpenter's mission, also 4 hours 56 minutes, provided one of the most terrifying televiewing experiences video has ever known because of what was described at the time as a 40-minute loss of radio contact upon re-entry. Later on, it turned out that officials had overdramatized the alleged crisis. But at the time there was a nightmarish dread. At New York's Grand Central Station, where a crowd watched the flight on a large CBS-TV screen, there was suddenly silence and grimness. Finally it was reported that a search plane had picked Carpenter's high frequency radio beacon out of the Atlantic Ocean — and that he was in a life raft.

The relief was instantaneous, enormous.

* * * *

AT THE University of Colorado — Carpenter's school — students were gathered in a ballroom named for bandleader Glenn Miller, who disappeared in an air tragedy and never was heard from again.

Oct. 3, 1962 — Wally Schirra went aloft for 9 hours 13 minutes, and it was a breeze. To baseball fans, the nationally-televised playoff game in which the San Francisco Giants beat the Los Angeles Dodgers for the National League pennant on the same day was perhaps more nerve-wracking. As for the Schirra flight, for the first time the Telstar satellite beamed the launching to Europe.

May 15, 1963—After a day's delay because of radar trouble in Bermuda, laconic Gordon Cooper, the quiet man, set out on his 34-hour 20-minute flight. He took along a tiny television camera to send back the first "live" U.S. pictures from space—of himself and the Florida coast. The pictures were hardly discernible to viewers, but they were certainly precedent-setting.

* * * *

AT THE flight's finish, Cooper suddenly had trouble with his automatic control system and it became clear he would guide his craft down from orbit by hand. The tension finally was broken for viewers when a pool reporter on the recovery ship announced jubilantly that Cooper's capsule all at once was in view to the naked eye as it descended from the sky, swinging underneath its parachute.

March 23, 1965 — Gus Grissom and John Young were fired into space for 4 hours, 54 minutes in the nation's first two-man orbital journey. And televiewers sat in later when President Johnson got on the phone on their return, called Grissome and said: "Gus, this is Lyndon Johnson — how are you?"

'Man's World'

Among television programs recently purchased for Canadian airing are three defunct series which aroused considerable public outcry when they were removed from NBC-TV programming.

The series: "It's a Man's World," "The Richard Boone Show" and "87th Precint."

The sale was made by International Enterprises, a department of NBC Enterprises.

SPECIAL

HULLABALOO — The 10 p.m., ch. 4 hour vacated by the distinguished "Telephone Hour" gets a new sound tonight, with the first of 9 summer repeats of the color musicals for a younger generation. Gary Crosby and Frank Sinatra Jr. co-host the opener, with guests including another second generation star, Gary Lewis and the Playboys, plus Danny Meehan, Joe and Eddie, Judy London (in black and white), Herman's Hermits. In mid-August, NBC launches its new Tuesday movies here, with a streamlined half-hour "Hulabaloo" returning in September to the vacated "Karen" slot, while the Phone Hour is shunted off to a Sunday-at-6:30 hour.

Music Award

"Young People's Concerts," featuring the New York Philharmonic conducted by Leonard Bernstein, is the winner of Sigma Alpha Iota's national music award. The fraternity, which represents 42,000 young musicians, designated the CBS series "the finest television series contribution in the serious music field."

'Hero' Drummer

Bob Crane, star of CBS-TV's forthcoming "Hogan's Heroes" series, began his professional career as a drummer with the Connecticut Symphony Orchestra.

BARBARA PARKINS' job as nurse's aide in "Peyton Place," 9:30 p. m. Tuesday on channel 7, includes reporting births to newspaper.

Fashion Plate

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The most elegantly tailored man on the television screen these evenings is Gene Barry in his role of private eye.

He's done more for men's fashions in Hollywood than the brave guy who took the top off his bathing suit at the beach.

Each of his suits costs a minimum $250 and is tailored by one of movietown's leading thread and needle scientists. Barry has a deal—as 50% owner of the "Burke's Law" series — to keep his wardrobe for his own use.

"I'm fighting the Mr. Average look in men's styles," the actor said during a production break. "It's time the men in this country got away from the good gray look.

* * * *

"WHO NEEDS the drooping shoulders and the downbeat attitude? I like to see shoulders point up a little bit. When I put on one of my suits it cheers me up; gives me a change in my point of view."

His jackets are cut shorter than average, the trousers are tighter fitting and the shoulders more padded.

Barry has come to be associated with being a dandy, going back to his role in the "Bat Masterson" series in which he wore a derby and carried a walking stick.

"It's more than just wardrobe," he explained. "There's a certain elegance of mannerism I've tried to develop in both of my shows. William Powell had the same thing going for him in the old 'Thin Man' movies.

"No one has played that kind of role as marvelously as he did, and I'd like to assume the mantle of loveable scamp. It's not easy playing the champagne bubble and making it believable."

RANDY BOONE brings a "killer horse" to a vet, who has a problem of his own—alcoholism—in repeat episode on "The Virginian" at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, channel 4.

Sports Today

WRESTLING, 8 p.m., ch. 5, has Dick Lane with the action at the Olympic.

SPECIAL

ITALY — Hal Sawyer's "Passport to Travel" cameras tour the country most often chosen by American tourists for a return visit, looking at Amalfi, Sorrento, the Italian Riviera and the island of Sardinia. Hour special is repeated at 8 p.m., in color, ch. 13.

HOLLYWOOD'S Traveling Stars—Gypsy Rose Lee, Victor Jory, Lloyd Nolan and Ken Murray show their own movies taken as they travel around the world in the entertainment business. Bill Burrud hosts the repeat color special at 9 p.m., ch. 13.

SECOND SUMMER—Whether it will be calm or chaos is investigated at 10:02 p.m., ch. 28, as Gary Gilson examines films of last summer's race riots in Harlem and Rochester and probes the reasons for the violence. (An earlier show, at 7:30 p.m., probes racial problems in England.)

10:30

5 Richard Diamond, David Janssen
7 ABC Scope: "American Dream—Class of '65." Peter Jennings takes a postponed look at problems faced by American colleges with the booming enrollments, with films and interviews focusing on Ohio State with its "open door" admissions policy.

HEROES—TWO ERAS

Thin Man Vs. 007

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The television reruns of "The Thin Man" movies and the current fad of James Bond motion pictures give film viewers a good chance to compare these two investigating fellows of different generations.

After a close study of the matter, there is no doubt in my mind that "The Thin Man" will be more palatable for viewing and re-viewing in the long run than Bond. "The Thin Man" wears well, improving with age. Bond will be tiresome when the novelty of the flashy gimicks wears off after one or two repeats of the same film.

HOW DO THESE two heroes differ?

"The Thin Man"—as played by William Powell—is, for all his improbable involvements with crime, an isle of sanity, an instructive ideal of grace triumphant, a yielder of gaiety and warmth.

James Bond, tongue-in-cheek or not, does not seem eminently well at base, reflecting a definite tendency toward sadism, not to mention masochism as well.

"The Thin Man," in a remarkable state of affairs considering his profession as a detective, reflects some legitimate reality by having a wife, a young son and a dog. And not only do they not get him down, he actually likes and enjoys them, and has learned to adjust to them and bring them hospitably into his own way of life.

JAMES BOND, for all his pretensions to slick magazine savoir faire, gives the impression of a bull-headed clod who has learned his sophistication by the numbers, just enough to impress girls in discotheques.

Bond's creator, the late Ian Fleming, himself said something to the effect that his super-agent hero was a product of the wildest sort of dreams that men have. Yet the notion that Bond could bring personal and joyous excitement to an otherwise rather mundane setting, as "The Thin Man" did, is an impossible one. "The Thin Man" was also a product of wild dreams—yet what a difference in taste.

When "The Thin Man" movies were made, most of the movie audience was composed of adults. In this era of James Bond, most of the movie audience is composed of youngsters.

WHILE BOND, at base, is the sort of fellow that likes to let you know he is a man who knows good wines, "The Thin Man," on the other hand, might well pass up a choice tootsie for a friendly drink with some engaging partners. "The Thin Man" might occasionally give a hint that his wandering eye has not left him. Bond at his worst does not deal in such subtelties as hints.

Thus "The Thin Man" is infinitely more cool than James Bond, just as Humphrey Bogart outpoints Mike Hammer. "The Thin Man" would prefer Edward G. Robinson to "Goldfinger," just as a real basketball fan would prefer watching the Boston Celtics than the Harlem Globetrotters.

WALL-TO-WALL CARPETING
LOOK MORE SOILED SINCE YOU HAD IT CLEANED?

OUR METHODS ARE DIFFERENT!
Scientific rug cleaning is a highly technical process and technical knowledge is of prime importance. "Home remedies" merely promote rapid soiling. Our process makes your carpets SOIL-RESISTANT. It builds an invisible barrier against dirt. The result — carpets stay clean, up to 5 times longer. Our skilled personnel are trained to do the work efficiently, quickly, quietly and effectively. Carpets dry overnight.

U.S. TV Shows Go With You

By PAUL ALLERUP

LONDON (UPI) — "I told you so!" snaps Ena Sharples in a heavy north of England accent few foreigners would understand — and in 8 million British homes, twice a week, television watchers sit back and chuckle: "That Ena!"

Ena Sharples (actress Violet Carson) is the key character in Britain's top television show, "Coronation Street." She is a sharp-tongued, busybody old widow who tries to run everybody's lives on her street in a mythical north England town.

The show is on half an hour twice a week on the British commercial television channel and nothing since it started on Dec. 9, 1960, has been able to top it in the field of family entertainment. It's pure corn, British corn. Even Americans living in Britain have become fans—after a year or two learning to interpret the strictly homegrown accents.

* * * *

BUT LIKE the rest of Europe and many other parts of the world, the British also tune in to many more internationally known television shows. Iranians, for example, like "Perry Mason" as much as do the British—but they listen to Perry (actor Raymond Burr) pulling his courtroom tricks in the Persian language, dubbed in. Perry Mason follows only the American Forces Network news programs in Tehran in television popularity. A local quiz show, "The 64,000 Rial Question," comes next (64,000 rials being about $850).

A United Press International survey showed that any American tourist homesick for his favorite program has a good chance of finding it, wherever he may be. "Bonanza," a top show in the U.S. is for example the top television attraction in Nigeria. "Gunsmoke" takes second place among Nigerian fans.

* * * *

IN GERMAN, Switzerland and Poland quiz shows take top position, Sweden, Austria, Uganda and Morocco lean to family comedies or variety shows.

RAYMOND BURR

Thrill programs such as "The Saint" and "The Untouchables" get top viewing on Malta. Finland's top is "We Tammelas" ("Father Knows Best"), an account of family life in Finland which reflects the nation's preference in humor — the quiet chuckle rather than the hearty laugh.

Austrians like "Familie Leitner," a once a month program featuring the worries, fun and arguments of a typical Austrian family. The Swedes give favored attention to "Hyland's Corner," named after master of ceremonies Lennart Hyland. It's estimated that when Hyland comes on screen, at least one third of the country's population is watching as he mixed amateur and professional performers in a sparkling vaudeville show.

* * * *

PEAK FRENCH viewing is given to "Cinq Colonnes A La Une," (Five Column Headline—Page One), a once monthly news magazine program that runs 90 minutes. But the most unique of Europe's top television programs, in execution and listenership if not in format, may be West Germany's "Einer Wird Gewinnen."

"Einer Wird Gewinnen" (One Must Win) is a quiz show that draws eight contestants each week from eight countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain. Men and women from Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia have matched wits with West Europeans for the weekly prize of 2,000 marks ($500).

The East-West German quiz show claims an audience of 15 to 20 million over a linkup of the German, Austrian, Swiss, Dutch and Flemish networks.

SPECIAL

EVERYBODY'S Got a System—Terry-Thomas, the madcap British comic with the hyphenated name and hyphenated teeth, hosts a lighthearted, but hard-headed, look at the ways people in the U. S. and Europe give vent to the gaming urge. Cameras watch penny-ante and bet-a-million gamblers at a British betting shop, Aqueduct, a Las Vegas Casino, a posh London chemin de fer club and a New York stock broker's office. Bettors, bookmakers and a casino proprietor are interviewed during the 8:30 p.m. hour, ch. 7, with a bag of coins used instead of drums to keep the rhythm in some sections of the original background music.

SENIOR CITIZENS on Medicare — John Edelman, president of the National Council of Senior Citizens, Inc., offers his group's position in support of present ing show at 9:30 p.m., ch. 7.

SOFT SELL, WARM SOUND

Skitch's Aim: Entertaining TV Ads

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

NEW YORK (UPI) — Skitch Henderson, the video age's Renaissance man,, has set out to prove that commercials can be art.

The goateed composer has organized his own commercial music firm, Clef 10, to take the jangle out of the television jingle.

"It's my first genuine attempt to write fur the commercial market," said Skitch, who is music director of the National Broadcasting Company and the "Tonight Show."

"I've flirted with it, but never set my guns in that direction with any organization.

"Of course, I've been unhappy with television commercials for a long time. The commercial market has been the gathering place of mediocrity. But I'm not trying to compete with anyone. I'm just going into the market with the integrity I've sustained in my career. I'll write the best music I can."

* * * *

IN AN INTERVIEW in his comfortable NBC office, the gently-spoken music man said he has just finished a series of one-minute spots using major popular recording artists to add interest to the commercial pitch. He utilizes the same orchestral accompaniment the singers would expect to have when cutting discs for a top label.

"It's a soft sell with a warm sound," said Skitch. "I like the idea of entertaining while advertising. Europe has been way ahead of us in this sort of thing, but they have plenty of time to prepare their commercials."

In addition, Skitch is writing music for industrial films and television specials for Clef 10. He finds it a tough business for several reasons — the problem of communication with advertising people, of fitting music to unmusical slogans and spiels, of working with people who worry about costs.

* * * *

"I NEVER look at a cost sheet," said Skitch. "I do what I think is aesthetically proper—use as many musicians as I need—and it always works out very comfortably. If there is talk of the budget being too small for what I require, I 'walk.' "

Skitch can get away with this sort of independence because he is one of the most respected figures in the industry due to his versatility as a composer, pianist and conductor.

How many other toilers in television's windowless sweatshops are equally at home on the symphonic podium? This season Skitch is conducting in Houston, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Orlando, Chicago, Hollywood and Stuttgart, Germany, and has just completed an album of the late Grace Moore's repertory with Anna Moffo singing.

SKITCH HENDERSON

He sees nothing incongruous in working on music for a beer jingle while flying to a commitment to conduct Bach, Bruckner and Barber. He claims to work 18 hours a day — in planes, cabs, trains, and occasionally at his desk All he needs is a pencil and score paper to be in business.

* * * *

"I HAVE no ivory tower, but I do have my Valhalla," he said. "That's Sugarbush, Vt., where my wife and I have a house. She gave me a mountain nearby for our anniversary. We don't ski on it yet, but we hope to do something like that with it in the future. It's adjacent to a good ski area."

Skitch left his real moniker, Lyle Russell Cedric Henderson, home in England when his family migrated to the Midwest. He began playing the piano at six and earned his first money professionally as a rehearsal pianist and orchestrator in Hollywood.

Since he joined NBC, he has been a guest director of the NBC Symphony and music director of the Steve Allen and Jack Paar shows—exposure that made him a nationally known personality. His talents run the gamut from baroque music to jazz and he can conduct an orchestra from the piano with as much aplomb as Leonard Bernstein.

"With all my experience, the public often surprises me," said Skitch. "The 'Tonight Show' is a variety show on the mass level and I was a little hesitant to present Julian Bream, the lutelist and guitarist, recently. Well, he stopped the show with a Bach Chaconne. The stage hands and carpenters even stood and stared.

"I think it proves that the public is quick to recognize something above the norm. Bream exudes drama and great talent. Wouldn't it be wonderful if a cigarette company would throw away its television advertising format and just use Julian Bream for one unforgettable minute?"

Current TV Claims

Two seasons back, 20th Century-Fox Television had no programs on the air. The firm claims that next fall it will be tied with Universal for the most current shows on the networks—7½ hours of prime evening time. Four of its programs of this season were renewed, and four new shows and a third segment of "Peyton Place" will be added.

Dean Martin Show

Allan Sherman has been signed to appear on the first "Dean Martin Show", next season on NBC-TV.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Skitch Henderson, the video age's Renaissance man,, has set out to prove that commercials can be art.

The goateed composer has organized his own commercial music firm, Clef 10, to take the jangle out of the television jingle.

"It's my first genuine attempt to write for the commercial market," said Skitch, who is music director of the National Broadcasting Company and the "Tonight Show."

"I've flirted with it, but never set my guns in that direction with any organization.

"Of course, I've been unhappy with television commercials for a long time. The commercial market has been the gathering place of mediocrity. But I'm not trying to compete with anyone. I'm just going into the market with the integrity I've sustained in my career. I'll write the best music I can."

* * * *

IN AN INTERVIEW in his comfortable NBC office, the gently-spoken music man said he has just finished a series of one-minute spots using major popular recording artists to add interest to the commercial pitch. He utilizes the same orchestral accompaniment the singers would expect to have when cutting discs for a top label.

"It's a soft sell with a warm sound," said Skitch. "I like the idea of entertaining while advertising. Europe has been way ahead of us in this sort of thing, but they have plenty of time to prepare their commercials."

In addition, Skitch is writing music for industrial films and television specials for Clef 10. He finds it a tough business for several reasons — the problem of communication with advertising people, of fitting music to unmusical slogans and spiels, of working with people who worry about costs.

* * * *

"I NEVER look at a cost sheet," said Skitch. "I do what I think is aesthetically proper—use as many musicians as I need—and it always works out very comfortably. If there is talk of the budget being too small for what I require, I 'walk.'"

Skitch can get away with this sort of independence because he is one of the most respected figures in the industry due to his versatility as a composer, pianist and conductor.

How many other toilers in television's windowless sweatshops are equally at home on the symphonic podium? This season Skitch is conducting in Houston, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Orlando, Chicago, Hollywood and Stuttgart, Germany, and has just completed an album of the late Grace Moore's repertory with Anna Moffo singing.

He sees nothing incongruous in working on music for a beer jingle while flying to a commitment to conduct Bach, Bruckner and Barber. He claims to work 18 hours a day — in planes, cabs, trains, and occasionally at his desk. All he needs is a pencil and score paper to be in business.

* * * *

"I HAVE no ivory tower, but I do have my Valhalla," he said. "That's Sugarbush, Vt., where my wife and I have a house. She gave me a mountain nearby for our anniversary. We don't ski on it yet, but we hope to do something like that with it in the future. It's adjacent to a good ski area."

Skitch left his real moniker, Lyle Russell Cedric Henderson, home in England when his family migrated to the Midwest. He began playing the piano at six and earned his first money professionally as a rehearsal pianist and orchestrator in Hollywood.

Since he joined NBC, he has been a guest director of the NBC Symphony and music director of the Steve Allen and Jack Paar shows—exposure that made him a nationally known personality. His talents run the gamut from baroque music to jazz and he can conduct an orchestra from the piano with as much aplomb as Leonard Bernstein.

"With all my experience, the public often surprises me," said Skitch. "The 'Tonight Show' is a variety show on the mass level and I was a little hesitant to present Julian Bream, the lutenist and guitarist, recently. Well, he stopped the show with a Bach Chaconne. The stage hands and carpenters even stood and stared.

"I think it proves that the public is quick to recognize something above the norm. Bream exudes drama and great talent. Wouldn't it be wonderful if a cigarette company would throw away its television advertising format and just use Julian Bream for one unforgettable minute?"

Current TV Claims

Two seasons back, 20th Century-Fox Television had no programs on the air. The firm claims that next fall it will be tied with Universal for the most current shows on the networks—7½ hours of prime evening time. Four of its programs of this season were renewed, and four new shows and a third segment of "Peyton Place" will be added.

Dean Martin Show

Allan Sherman has been signed to appear on the first "Dean Martin Show" next season on NBC-TV.

'Wonderland'

"Alice in Wonderland" will get another going-over this coming television season. ABC will present a one-hour, full animated version of the Lewis Carroll classic between Thanksgiving and Christmas. This one will be the product of the busy Bill Hanna-Joe Barbera firm which created "The Flintstones," "Yogi Bear," etc. Matter of fact, Fred Flintstone and sidekick Barney Rubble will turn up on this special. Various film and video stars will "voice" the "Alice" characters. There will be a score by Lee Adams and Charles Strouse, who provided the songs for Broadway's current "Golden Boy" and the recent "Bye Bye Birdie."

DAVID JANSSEN will host Hollywood Palace at 9:30 p.m., Saturday, channel 7.

Griffin Gains

The popular Merv Griffin is riding high these days. In addition to being the star of the new Group W (Westinghouse stations) late night shows five times a week, and syndicated to other stations, his firm has sold a new game show, "Let's Play Post Office," that NBC will put on its daytime air in the near future. NBC already uses his daytime "Jeopardy" game program. And the FCC recently approved the sale of radio station WWCO in Waterbury, Conn., to a company controlled by the star.

SPECIAL

FANFARE — Premiere. Trumpeter Al Hirt heads up one of the few new summer shows on the networks this season when he launches a 13-week musical variety series replacing the vacationing Jackie Gleason at 7:30 p.m., ch. 2. Headliners on opener are Eydie Gorme, Errol Garner, satirist Stan Freberg, the Travelers Three, the Muppets and beauty contest winner Carole Reinhart of Miami, studying trumpet at Juilliard while performing with a Salvation Army band. Produced by Ed Sullivan's company, format will be that of "TV in the round."

TEN SECONDS That Shook the World—Richard Basehart is narrator for David L. Wolper's look at the story behind the dropping of the A-Bomb on Hiroshima on Aug. 6, 1945. Repeat hours is at 9 p.m., channel 11.

MISS CALIFORNIA Pageant — Finalists from 36 counties compete at Santa Cruz for the honor of representing the state at the Miss America contest at Atlantic City. Hostesses for the 10:30 p.m., ch. 7 telecast are two former Miss Americas — Marilyn Van Derbur ('58) and Nancy Ann Fleming ('61), with the reigning "Miss California," Sherri Lee Raap, on hand to turn over her crown to the winner.

'Wonderland'

"Alice In Wonderland" will get another going-over this coming television season. ABC will present a one-hour, full animated version of the Lewis Carroll classic between Thanksgiving and Christmas. This one will be the pdoduct of the busy Bill Hanna-Joe Barbera firm which created "The Flintstones," "Yogi Bear," etc. Matter of fact, Fred Flintstone and sidekick Barney Rubble will turn up on this special. Various film and video stars will "voice" the "Alice" characters. There will be a score by Lee Adams and Charles Strouse, who provided the songs for Broadway's current "Golden Boy" and the recent "Bye Bye Birdie."

DAVID JANSSEN will host Hollywood Palace at 9:30 p.m., Saturday, channel 7.

Griffin Gains

The popular Merv Griffin is riding high these days. In addition to being the star of the new Group W (Westinghouse stations) late night shows five times a week, and syndicated to other stations, his firm has sold a new game show, "Let's Play Post Office," that NBC will put on its daytime air in the near future. NBC already uses his daytime "Jeopardy" game program. And the FCC recently approved the sale of radio station WWCO in Waterbury, Conn., to a company controlled by the star.

SPECIAL

FANFARE — Premiere. Trumpeter Al Hirt heads up one of the few new summer shows on the networks this season when he launches a 13-week musical variety series replacing the vacationing Jackie Gleason at 7:30 p.m., ch. 2. Headliners on opener are Eydie Gorme, Errol Garner, satirist Stan Freberg, the Travelers Three, the Muppets and beauty contest winner Carole Reinhart of Miami, studying trumpet at Juilliard while performing with a Salvation Army band. Produced by Ed Sullivan's company, format will be that of "TV in the round."

TEN SECONDS That Shook the World—Richard Basehart is narrator for David L. Wolper's look at the story behind the dropping of the A-Bomb on Hiroshima on Aug. 6, 1945. Repeat hours is at 9 p.m., channel 11.

'PEYTON PLACE' SETS TV TREND

More Continuing Stories Seen

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—In this nadir year of television just past, a revolution has been fomenting, and like many revolts it is building slowly.

The responsibility lies with a producer named Paul Monash at 20th Century-Fox Television who masterminds "Peyton Place."

"Peyton Place" wound up the regular video season with both its Tuesday and Thursday night segments in the top 10 ratings. Its audience numbers more than 50 million a week, and sponsors are waiting in line.

This is the sort of record dear to the hearts of network executives, not to mention advertising agencies.

Further proof of the ABC-TV series success is the fact that it adds a third segment (on Friday nights) this month and will continue with new shows throughout the summer.

* * * *

MONASH foresees a host of "continuing stories" on television within the next two or three years.

"It is inevitable," he says. "The revolution is just beginning. And it is changing the viewing habits, tastes and patterns of viewers as well as other producers. 'Peyton Place' is the prototype of the television novel."

Monash uses the terms "continuing story" and "television novel" to escape the soap opera label, and with some justification. The latter is a misnomer when applied to his series, especially in comparison with a genuine soap opera recently added to nighttime viewing, "Our Private World."

"We have wide appeal for non-viewers, the people who only watch specials and news shows and who avoid situation comedies and the wild adventure programs," said Monash. "Well-educated people, intellectuals, tune us in faithfully. And now there has been a critical breakthrough, too.

* * * *

"ACTUALLY, the title 'Peyton Place' is a flagrant cheat. It advertises the original novel, and I'm ashamed of that because it promises something that couldn't possibly be delivered.

"We're more 'Lavender and Old Lace.' The series isn't even an emotional peep show. Our best scenes have people groping for each other.

"The real star of our show is the town square. It represents something real to the viewers. And the story lines are a simplification of real life and people. Viewers want to see life simplified."

* * * *

MONASH is well-grounded in television. He won an Emmy in 1958 for his teleplay, "The Lonely Wizard," a biography of Steinmetz, and wrote such video landmarks as the brilliant two-parter that originated "The Untouchables." He also penned outstanding scripts for "Playhouse 90," "Theater Guild of the Air," "Climax" and "Philco Playhouse."

His success has breathed new life into Fox's television activity. His sets occupy five stages and two extensive permanent exterior locations on the crowded lot.

Another contiguous, and somewhat surprising, development of the show is the number of instant stars it has produced.

At the beginning only Dorothy Malone was a full-fledged, recognizable top star. Now Mia Farrow, Ryan O'Neal, Barbara Parkins and others have emerged as fan mail idols.

"My next project will be a continuing story, too," says Monash. "My original thinking was predicated on 'The Young Lions,' the movie story, continued after World War II, carrying the three young soldiers into civilian life.

* * * *

"THE REASON there are not a half-dozen 'Peyton Places' on the air right now—and more than two dozen such projects were started—is that this type of series requires special skills and an unbelievable amount of careful preparation. Viewers will adopt other such shows, but unless they deal with real people it won't mean a thing.

* * * *

"WE'VE BEEN called lurid and provocative," he says. "But I don't think that's the case. There is a minimum of sex and almost no violence. We're trying to create an intimacy between the viewer and the characters in the story—a feeling of knowing and understanding.

"There probably will be more sex on the show in the future, but it will be married sex."

'PEYTON PLACE' SETS TV TREND

More Continuing Stories Seen

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—In this nadir year of television just past, a revolution has been fomenting, and like many revolts it is building slowly.

The responsibility lies with a producer named Paul Monash at 20th Century-Fox Television who masterminds "Peyton Place."

"Peyton Place" wound up the regular video season with both its Tuesday and Thursday night segments in the top 10 ratings. Its audience numbers more than 50 million a week, and sponsors are waiting in line.

This is the sort of record dear to the hearts of net-[illegible] work executives, not to mention advertising agencies.

Further proof of the ABC-TV series success is the fact that it adds a third segment (on Friday nights) this month and will continue with new shows throughout the summer.

* * *

MONASH foresees a host of "continuing stories" on television within the next two or three years.

"It is inevitable," he says.

"The revolution is just beginning. And it is changing the viewing habits, tastes and patterns of viewers as well as other producers. 'Peyton Place' is the prototype of the television novel."

Monash uses the terms "continuing story" and "television novel" to escape the soap opera label, and with some justification. The latter is a misnomer when applied to his series, especially in comparison with a genuine soap opera recently added to nighttime viewing, "Our Private World."

"We have wide appeal for non-viewers, the people who only watch specials and news shows and who avoid situation comedies and the wild adventure programs," said Monash. "Well-educated people, intellectuals, tune us in faithfully. And now there has been a critical breakthrough, too.

"ACTUALLY, the title 'Peyton Place' is a flagrant cheat. It advertises the original novel, and I'm ashamed of that because it promises something that couldn't possibly be delivered.

"We're more 'Lavender and Old Lace.' The series isn't even an emotional peep show. Our best scenes have people groping for each other.

"The real star of our show is the town square. It represents something real to the viewers. And the story lines are a simplification of real life and people. Viewers want to see life simplified.

MONASH is well-grounded in television. He won an Emmy in 1958 for his teleplay, "The Lonely Wizard," a biography of Steinmetz, and wrote such video landmarks as the brilliant two-parter that originated "The Untouchables." He also penned outstanding scripts for "Playhouse 90," "Theater Guild of the Air," "Climax" and "Philco Playhouse."

His success has breathed new life into Fox's television activity. His sets occupy five stages and two extensive permanent exterior locations on the crowded lot.

Another contiguous, and somewhat surprising, development of the show is the number of instant stars it has produced.

At the beginning only Dorothy Malone was a full-fledged, recognizable top star. Now Mia Farrow, Ryan O'Neal, Barbara Parkins and others have emerged as fan mail idols.

"My next project will be a continuing story, too," says Monash. "My original thinking was predicated on 'The Young Lions,' the movie story, continued after World War II, carrying the three young soldiers into civilian life.

"THE REASON there are not a half dozen 'Peyton Places' on the air right now—and more than two dozen such projects were started—is that this type of series requires special skills and an unbelievable amount of careful preparation. Viewers will adopt other such shows, but unless they deal with real people it won't mean a thing.

* * *

"WE'VE BEEN called lurid and provocative," he says. "But I don't think that's the case. There is a minimum of sex and almost no violence. We're trying to create an intimacy between the viewer and the characters in the story—a feeling of knowing and understanding.

"There probably will be more sex on the show in the future, but it will be married sex."

A. Never.

Q. Is Tony Curtis twice the age of his wife, Christine Kaufman? — Joyce Johnston, St. Paul, Minn.

A. Yes; Curtis is 40, Christine 20.

Q. What does Maureen O'Sullivan have to say about Frank Sinatra, a man going on 50, dating her daughter, Mia Farrow, a girl going on 20?—R. Nagel, Little Ferry, N.J.

A. She has stayed out of it, once jokingly remarked, "If there's any female in this family Frank Sinatra marries, it should be me."

Q. The Juliet Prowse-Sal Mineo romance—true or phony?—D. Pennell, New York, N.Y.

A. Phony publicity.

Q. Dinah Shore's parents—was one a Negro or had Negro blood?—Virginia Beres, Detroit, Mich.

A. No Negro blood in the family.

Q. Does Martin Luther King have any connection with the Communist Party? Does he represent them in any way?—Mrs. Ruth Valentor, St. Paul, Minn.

A. No connection, does not represent the Party.

Q. I would like to find out what Raymond Burr—he plays Perry Mason on TV—what he does when he goes to Vietnam to entertain the boys?—T. Sturm, Dallas, Tex.

A. He sits around with the servicemen, swaps stories, raises their morale.

Q. Can Jimmy Durante have any babies? The baby daughter he has—is it his natural daughter or adopted?—S.S., Ely, Minn.

A. Adopted.

Q. Of which country is Danny Kaye a native? — Mrs. Lee Pettrine, Denver, Colo.

A. Danny Kaye was born in Brooklyn, N.Y. in January, 1913.

Q. What is the advance word on the film, The Agony and the Ecstasy with Charlton Heston?—Russell Hayward, Vallejo, Calif.

A. On the basis of its sneak preview in Minneapolis—excellent.

Q. Is it true that there is no love lost between Chet Huntley and David Brinkley? Do they have a friendly relationship?—Johnny Bell, Jr., Baton Rouge, La.

A. Most friendly relationship.

Q. The story that Princess Beatrix of the Netherlands has been doing research in the red light district of Amsterdam—was there any truth to that story? If so was the Princess disguised?—H.K., Buffalo, N.Y.

A. The story is true. She posed as a Salvation Army worker.

Q. This boy Mark Herron whom Judy Garland goes around with—does he have an occupation? Or does Judy keep him on an allowance? Doesn't she earn a thousand times what he does?—B.T., Miami, Fla.

A. Herron is an actor who has played bit parts from time to time. Judy, of course, earns much more.

Q. What is the advance word on the film, The Agony and the Ecstasy with Charlton Heston?—Russell Hayward, Vallejo, Calif.

A. On the basis of its sneak preview in Minneapolis—excellent.

Q. Is it true that there is no love lost between Chet Huntley and David Brinkley? Do they have a friendly relationship?—Johnny Bell, Jr., Baton Rouge, La.

A. Most friendly relationship.

Q. The story that Princess Beatrix of the Netherlands has been doing research in the red light district of Amsterdam—was there any truth to that story? If so was the Princess disguised?—H.K., Buffalo, N.Y.

A. The story is true. She posed as a Salvation Army worker.

Q. This boy Mark Herron whom Judy Garland goes around with—does he have an occupation? Or does Judy keep him on an allowance? Doesn't she earn a thousand times what he does?—B.T., Miami, Fla.

A. Herron is an actor who has played bit parts from time to time. Judy, of course, earns much more.

Weird New Sonic Lure Caught Fish Like Crazy!

By Lyman Walton, Co-Inventor
As Told to Paul Stag, The Weekend Fisherman

Think of it! My new VIBRATING LURE gives loud, GURGLING, SPLASHING, BUBBLING sounds as you skitter it along the surface of the water! Sends out up to 200 vibrations every minute underneath that water! Looks COMPLETELY UNLIKE ANYTHING THAT ANY FRESH WATER FISH HAS SEEN BEFORE.

And has already used this weird sight and weird sound and weird sonic vibrations — in one of its very first Summer trials — to lure fish into attacking it so savagely that they actually knocked it out of the water. Hauled in trout, bass, muskie, walleye, and pike, even when other lures had caught little or no fish right next to it! Here's why —

CAUGHT! 120 FISH IN ONE HOUR!

Yes! Imagine that YOU were there — at Cattail Lake, Illinois, on August 20, 1961. A hot summer day! A beautiful stream-fed pond — 90 by 60 feet wide! Fishermen trying lures, flies, natural bait! But despite the fact that this is a stocked trout farm with no limit, there is only an occasional strike. It looks like a wasted day!

And then, three die-hard friends decide to try their luck with me! We start to cast from the edge of the water. At the end of our lines is an ENTIRELY DIFFERENT LURE — a weird little metal monster that casts like a bullet, and flutters back through the water like a drowning bat!

EVEN EXPERIENCED FISHERMEN WATCHED IN AMAZEMENT!

Almost at once THAT QUIET WATER EXPLODES INTO ACTION! The first strike causes a shout of excitement! And then a second strike! A third, fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth! Beautiful rainbows and browns still shimmering from the water — being pulled in at the rate of more than one every minute!

Now the water is almost exploding with fish striking! Sometimes four and five trout savagely attack one lure at the same time! Fifty — seventy — ninety fish are caught and released! People along the shore stop to watch the spectacle!

In one short hour, we have caught and released 120 fish! All WITH the very same weird little lure that can go to work for you next week, without your risking a penny!

Meet Lyman Walton
co-inventor of the amazing VIBRA-BAT LURE.

WHAT'S THE SECRET? UNDERWATER SONIC VIBRATIONS!

Why did this bat-shaped lure catch fish by the stringer-full — even after ordinary lures, and natural bait have caught little or nothing? For this simple reason —

Because this lure gives off unique GURGLING, BUBBLING, SPLASHING SURFACE NOISES — plus up to 200 sonic vibrations every minute underneath that water — that I believe FISH FIND IRRESISTIBLE!

Yes! I am certain that sonic pulsations are the answer to every fisherman's prayer. I have studied the Navy Fish Biologist reports about the sounds fish make between themselves in the water! I have seen fish follow the propellers of a boat as though they were hypnotized by the sound!

And I have always believed that if I could take those gurgling, bubbling, splashing surface sounds and underwater vibrations — that actually seemed to CALL FISH TO THEM — and build that sound into a "Vibrating Lure" then it could haul in eye-popping catches, even where ordinary lures had caught little or nothing at all! Even in hard-fished waters where the wise old fish run away from ordinary lures!

JUST READ THESE FISH-CATCHING ACHIEVEMENTS! TRY IT AT OUR RISK!

Yes! Research showed me that lures, like fish, create Sonic Vibrations in the water by their movements! So I have designed a lure that I estimate FLUTTERS THROUGH THAT WATER UP TO 200 TIMES A MINUTE! Wing-shaped — bat-like — JERKING AND FLUTTERING MADLY THROUGH THAT WATER — SENDING OUT IRRESISTIBLE SONIC WAVES — GURGLING, SPLASHING, BUBBLING SURFACE SOUNDS THAT TRAVEL THROUGH WATER IN EVERY DIRECTION, AT THE RATE OF 4,760 FEET EVERY SECOND, THE ACTUAL SPEED OF SOUND UNDER WATER!

THIS IS AN ARTIST'S CONCEPTION OF THE VIBRA-BAT LURE AND IT'S SONIC EFFECT UNDER WATER! I believe it to be irresistible to fish! Try it entirely at our risk!

No wonder this "VIBRA-BAT" lure caught a 10 pound 7½ ounce Northern on one of its first tests — only moments after it hit the water — hauled in six bass in sixty minutes in another test, all 2½ pounds or larger — pulled in perch by the dozens in a third test at Belmont Harbor, Illinois, even after live bait and lures had scarcely a strike, and CONTINUED to land so many fish, so quickly, THAT FISHERMEN WATCHED IN AMAZEMENT!

No wonder our tests show this revolutionary new lure hauls in trout, bass, muskie, walleye, pike, salmon and other fresh water fish even in hard fished waters — produces strikes even when other fishermen alongside it are going almost unrewarded!

AMAZING 6-MONTH TRIAL OFFER

You simply cannot believe the fish-catching powers of this amazing lure until you try it yourself, FOR 6 FULL MONTHS ENTIRELY AT OUR RISK! We cannot guarantee, of course, that these amazing VIBRA-BAT SONIC LURES will produce for you in every pond, river or lake everytime you go fishing BUT WE DO GUARANTEE that these VIBRA-BAT LURES will definitely catch MORE fish for you . . . make you agree that this is the greatest little lure you've ever used — OR SIMPLY RETURN THEM ANYTIME WITHIN SIX FULL MONTHS FOR EVERY CENT OF YOUR PURCHASE PRICE BACK!

You and you alone are the only judge! You have nothing to lose! Send in the Six Month Trial Coupon TODAY!

SPECIAL NOTICE

Harrison Industries has told on this page the amazing story of the VIBRA-BAT as related to us by Lyman Walton.

We have received signed statements from Lyman Walton and other fishermen that these facts are correct.

Incidentally — the words "Gurgling — Splashing — Bubbling" are Walton's particular translation of the weird sound. Actually no two fishermen would agree on a description of this sound. But you will agree on its amazing results, or your money back!

GERMAN YOUTH AND THE NAZI ATROCITIES

"TELL ME, DAD, DID YOU EVER KILL A JEW?"

The young Germany: Teenagers from Frankfurt, Munich and West Berlin pose for portrait after discussing their nation's past with Parade.

by LLOYD SHEARER

Twenty years after the end of World War II, the most feared, hated, and envied people in Europe are still the Germans.

There are several reasons for this:

(1) No people in the history of modern civilization has inflicted more death and devastation through war than the Germans. In World War II, which they started with the connivance and approval of Josef Stalin, they killed somewhere between 20 and 25 million persons.

(2) In the whole, long, sordid record of man's inhumanity to man, of brutish, savage, fiendish cruelty, there has been nothing so unspeakably barbaric as the ferocious, systematic German extermination of European Jewry.

When one reads: "From 1940 to 1945 the Germans under Adolf Hitler mass-murdered almost 6 million Jews," the number is so staggering that it loses reality and becomes meaningless, a number, nothing more. Six million murders! How does one relate to that figure?

It is only when you sit in a German courtroom as I have in Frankfurt, listening to the individual narration of concentration camp horrors that the number acquires meaning.

A hose is shoved into the body of a teenage Jewish girl. The water power is turned on full force so that her insides are flushed out in pieces, and she bleeds to death. A father and son are drowned in a toilet pit of human defecation for the amusement of camp guards. A pair of 15-year-old children with unblemished complexions are carefully murdered so that their skins can be used for translucent lamp shades. New-born infants are taken from their mothers, held by their ankles, whirled like lassos overhead, then bashed to death against brick walls.

The murders no longer are integrated into a number. In their telling they become the monstrous crimes of monsters.

MANY UNPUNISHED

(3) Despite the belated attempt of the West German government to track down the Nazi criminals, many of the worst have gone unpunished, largely through the complicity of fellow Germans. Both the East and West German government are filled with former Nazis in high and low places.

Four major Nazi criminals are at the moment living in South America. Walter Rauff, SS general who operated the mobile gas chambers used in the Jewish extermination program, resides under his own name in Puerto Provenir, Chile. Gerhard Bohne, the legal adviser of the Nazi mercy killing program, lives in Buenos Aires under the name, Alfred Kurt Baudinger. Eduard Roschmann, commander of the Jewish ghetto in Riga, Latvia, also lives in Buenos Aires. He uses the name, Friedrich Wegener. Dr. Josef Mengele, chief physician at the Auschwitz Concentration Camp in Poland where he was known as "the angel of death," is believed to be living in Paraguay under an assumed name.

South American government employees are notoriously corrupt, and when the West German government several years ago tried to extradite Rauff and Bohne on charges of killing 97,000 Jews, Chile and Argentina refused on the grounds that the charges were political not criminal.

Although many German men were depraved and black-hearted in their treatment of Jews, Poles, and other concentration camp victims, it is surprising to learn from the atrocity trials that the SS women in Himmler's forces were frequently more brutal than the males.

A handful of these women were hanged by the Allies after the war, but most of them escaped punishment and live in Germany today, respectable, gray-haired middle-aged and old-age women. There are thousands of them who were members of Himmler's SS (elite guard) and the record shows that they represented a cross section of German womanhood—girls in their teens, young women of good education and excellent families, many of noble blood, plus many semi-illiterates of little or no education.

A handful of these women were hanged by the Allies after the war, but most of them escaped punishment

These females were taught that Jews and all enemies of the Third Reich were "unworthy of life." After several weeks of basic training and indoctrination, they were sent to Dachau, outside Munich, for instruction in techniques of murder. They were then assigned to more than 260 camps in Germany and occupied Europe where they were assisted by other German women, civilian criminals released from German jails.

According to Rudolph Hoess, first SS commandant of Auschwitz, these SS women competed with his SS men in devising new and more devilish means of torture and death. Hoess wrote in his memoirs that they were most enthusiastic at mass slaughters of prisoners and even more so at the orgies which frequently followed.

Pery Broad, one of the Auschwitz SS guards on trial in Frankfurt, wrote in his account of Auschwitz life: "The women were thrilled by the knowledge that they had inflicted great pain" on their prisoners. Countless survivors have testified that SS women were extraordinarily proud of their cruelty, and vied eagerly to help in the mass gassings so that they could be rewarded with extra rations of tobacco and liquor.

German society nourished Hitler, and its complicity in Nazi cruelty is irrefutable.

(4) Despite the savage butchery Germany inflicted upon Europe, despite the fact that the Germans started and lost the war, West Germany is today the most prosperous nation in Europe with the highest standard of living. Moreover, of the 15 members of NATO, only the United States boasts stronger armed forces. West Germany is also the world's third leading industrial power, ranking behind the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.

What sort of retribution, many Europeans ask is this?

FEAR & JEALOUSY

Two of the major ingredients of hatred are fear and jealousy. Europeans are afraid of Germany's armed might, her past glorification of war, her ruthlessness toward the weak, her penchant for extremes. They are jealous of her ambition, her industry, her ingenuity, her pride in hard work. All this added to the German history of unbridled cruelty, leads to continuous hate.

How long can this hate be sustained and projected? For how long must the sins of the fathers be visited upon their sons? Unto which generation—the second, the third, the fourth? Must the new Germany pay for the sins of the old? Is there really a new Germany? Do the Germans ever change? How long their period of atonement? And most important of all, can the new generation of Germans change the image of Germany throughout the world?

What sort of boys and girls are these sons and daughters of the Nazis? I have been interviewing them for three years in and out of Germany. Listen to them speak and judge for yourself.

Renate H., 23—"Please don't write my full name." —was born in Munich during the war. She personifies the lack of understanding between the Hitler war generation and the postwar generation. Her father used to be "a good policeman and a good Nazi," now works as a minor civil servant. Renate is employed by a large electrical firm in Berlin.

"I have broken with my parents, especially my father. It is sad, but it is true. I brought it on myself. I just had to know. For so long there has been this conspiracy of silence about what he did in the war. It is true in so many families. Block out the past.

"One evening I said to him, 'Sag mir, Pappi, hast du jemals ein Juden getötet?'—Tell me, Dad, did you ever kill a Jew?'—He grew red with rage. 'How dare you ask such a question? Have you no respect, no decency?' He was furious. I have never seen my father so angry. But I did not retreat.

"I said to him, 'You and Mummy will never discuss the war with me. It has always been every time I raise a question, the same answer, "You could not understand. You could not understand." Now I have heard from friends that you were stationed at Theresienstadt [Ed. note—a ghetto and concentration camp established by the Nazis in 1941], and since I am your only child, I am asking that you tell me the truth so that I can understand. How can you be so sure that I cannot understand if you do not try me?

"He could not bring himself to discuss the past with me. Later when I asked my mother, she said, 'How could you be so cruel? Your father is a good man. He has a conscience. Whatever was done in the past is finished. Why bring it up again? What is the point? All these trials. Do they do any good? No. I tell you, your father is a good man. He works hard. Do not bother him with what happened before you were born.'

"I do not think our family is typical. In other German homes where there is not so much guilt feeling, the parents discuss Hitler with the children. And usually if the children ask about the Jews and the concentration camps and all the atrocities, the answer is the same, 'We didn't know these things were going on.' Some of us believe all of it, some of us believe some of it, and some of us believe none of it. I think maybe that is why among my generation, we feel basically indifferent toward our parents. We like them, but also we wonder about them and their standards. My generation of Germans is the skeptical generation, but also the free generation, free of prejudice and traditional principles, free to make our own choice, live our own lives in our own way."

INTERVIEWER: Your name, please?
YOUNG MAN: Stauffenberg. Patrick Stauffenberg.
I: Where do you come from?
S: A small village in Schwaben, in southern Germany.
I: Are you any relation to the Klaus von Stauffenberg, the German army officer who tried to blow up Hitler and his headquarters in 1944?
S: I am from that family, a distant relative.
I: Where did you get the name, Patrick?
S: My mother is half-English, half-American.

Nazi brutality is shown in this recently discovered 1944 photo. Note how man at left grins as he aims pistol.

I: Did your father fight in the war? Is he still alive? If so, what does he do?
S: He was in the army. He was a private. Now he is working for a press agency in Munich.
I: Have you ever discussed Hitler Germany with your father?
S: Many times.
I: Was he responsive and informative?
S: Very much so. He has always answered my curiosity about those times. He has tried to explain. In 1933, 1935 even the normal, intelligent Germans felt it was right to join or support the Nazi Party. They were quite taken in by Hitler, even the big industrialists who financed him. Now, it is easy to say they were stupid. But they thought Hitler would leave them alone. A dictator never leaves anyone alone. But Hitler and Goebbels and that whole crowd, they were devilishly clever. They changed the law very slowly so that people would not notice too sharply, and in the end, of course, there was no law at all.

GUILT FEELINGS

I: Among your father's generation and your grandfather's generation, do you think there is any feeling of guilt?
S: Very much so, especially where the Jewish people and their extermination is concerned. You see, Hitler never tried to hide his anti-Semitism. Right from the start he showed his true feelings. Old Germans can say, "We didn't know about this. We didn't know about that." But they certainly knew what Hitler was doing to the Jews. They just lacked the strength of character, the bravery to object. All the German newspapers used to carry signs, "Death to the Jews. Death to the Jews." In 1933 the Nazis began to boycott the Jewish stores. In 1935 they passed the Nuremberg Laws. In 1938 they burned down the synagogues all over Germany, almost 300. So when they tell me, "We didn't realize what Hitler was doing to the Jews."—I just walk away. The older generations made a terrible mistake in this. A famous author once wrote, "If you let the flame rise, you will never extinguish it." The German people let Hitler raise the flame and did very little about it until in the end they were caught in the same flame. Of course, today they don't like to admit it, but in their hearts they share the feeling of guilt. But how long can anyone go on feeling guilty?
I: In the German schools you have attended, do the teachers instruct about the Hitler period and mention the atrocities?
S: The young teachers who did not live through that era, teach about it. Most of the older ones who knew it firsthand, avoid it.
I: As a young man who has traveled around Europe, do you find that the world accuses you for the sins of your parents' generation?
S: Unfortunately there is a great deal of that. After all, about 50 per cent of the people in West Germany today were not even born when Hitler was in power. It is really most unfair to ask a son to explain the behavior or motivation of his father. In a sense we are prisoners of history. Many of us are tired of the trials going on and on. But we realize that in a way they are necessary —to see that justice is done, to prove to the world that there is decency and justice in the German character, to wipe clean our own stains.
I: Do you think your generation has any talent for democracy or is capable of following a Hitlerite successor?
S: My generation is not strongly political. It should take more interest and participate more in politics. It must be taught that people who don't rule themselves will in turn be ruled. I think that we have too much sense, too much knowledge to follow another demagogue like Hitler. Certainly, I hope so, for after all we must prove to the world that we not only have a new face but also a new heart.

According to Rudolph Hoess, first SS commandant of Auschwitz, these SS women competed with his SS men in devising new and more devilish means of torture and death. Hoess wrote in his memoirs that they were most enthusiastic at mass slaughters of prisoners and even more so at the orgies which frequently followed.

Pery Broad, one of the Auschwitz SS guards on trial in Frankfurt, wrote in his account of Auschwitz life: "The women were thrilled by the knowledge that they had inflicted great pain" on their prisoners. Countless survivors have testified that SS women were extraordinarily proud of their cruelty, and vied eagerly to help in the mass gassings so that they could be rewarded with extra rations of tobacco and liquor.

German society nourished Hitler, and its complicity in Nazi cruelty is irrefutable.

(4) Despite the savage butchery Germany inflicted upon Europe, despite the fact that the Germans started and lost the war, West Germany is today the most prosperous nation in Europe with the highest standard of living. Moreover, of the 15 members of NATO, only the United States boasts stronger armed forces. West Germany is also the world's third leading industrial power, ranking behind the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.

What sort of retribution, many Europeans ask is this?

FEAR & JEALOUSY

Two of the major ingredients of hatred are fear and jealousy. Europeans are afraid of Germany's armed might, her past glorification of war, her ruthlessness toward the weak, her penchant for extremes. They are jealous of her ambition, her industry, her ingenuity, her pride in hard work. All this added to the German history of unbridled cruelty, leads to continuous hate.

How long can this hate be sustained and projected? For how long must the sins of the fathers be visited upon their sons? Unto which generation—the second, the third, the fourth? Must the new Germany pay for the sins of the old? Is there really a new Germany? Do the Germans ever change? How long their period of atonement? And most important of all, can the new generation of Germans change the image of Germany throughout the world?

What sort of boys and girls are these sons and daughters of the Nazis? I have been interviewing them for three years in and out of Germany. Listen to them speak and judge for yourself.

Renate H., 23—"Please don't write my full name." —was born in Munich during the war. She personifies the lack of understanding between the Hitler war generation and the postwar generation. Her father used to be "a good policeman and a good Nazi," now works as a minor civil servant. Renate is employed by a large electrical firm in Berlin.

"I have broken with my parents, especially my father. It is sad, but it is true. I brought it on myself. I just had to know. For so long there has been this conspiracy of silence about what he did in the war. It is true in so many families. Block out the past.

"One evening I said to him, 'Sag mir, Pappi, hast du jemals ein Juden getötet?'—'Tell me, Dad, did you ever kill a Jew?'—He grew red with rage. 'How dare you ask such a question? Have you no respect, no decency?' He was furious. I have never seen my father so angry. But I did not retreat.

"I said to him, 'You and Mummy will never discuss the war with me. It has always been every time I raise a question, the same answer, "You could not understand. You could not understand." Now I have heard from friends that you were stationed at Theresienstadt [Ed. note —a ghetto and concentration camp established by the Nazis in 1941], and since I am your only child, I am asking that you tell me the truth so that I can understand. How can you be so sure that I cannot understand if you do not try me?

"He could not bring himself to discuss the past with me. Later when I asked my mother, she said, 'How could you be so cruel? Your father is a good man. He has a conscience. Whatever was done in the past is finished. Why bring it up again? What is the point? All these trials. Do they do any good? No. I tell you, your father is a good man. He works hard. Do not bother him with what happened before you were born.'

"I do not think our family is typical. In other German homes where there is not so much guilt feeling, the parents discuss Hitler with the children. And usually if the children ask about the Jews and the concentration camps and all the atrocities, the answer is the same, 'We didn't know these things were going on.' Some of us believe all of it, some of us believe some of it, and some of us believe none of it. I think maybe that is why among my generation, we feel basically indifferent toward our parents. We like them, but also we wonder about them and their standards. My generation of Germans is the skeptical generation, but also the free generation, free of prejudice and traditional principles, free to make our own choice, live our own lives in our own way."

INTERVIEWER: Your name, please?
YOUNG MAN: Stauffenberg. Patrick Stauffenberg.
I: Where do you come from?
S: A small village in Schwaben, in southern Germany.
I: Are you any relation to the Klaus von Stauffenberg, the German army officer who tried to blow up Hitler and his headquarters in 1944?
S: I am from that family, a distant relative.
I: Where did you get the name, Patrick?
S: My mother is half-English, half-American.

Nazi brutality is shown in this recently discovered 1944 photo. Note how man at left grins as he aims pistol.

I: Did your father fight in the war? Is he still alive? If so, what does he do?
S: He was in the army. He was a private. Now he is working for a press agency in Munich.
I: Have you ever discussed Hitler Germany with your father?
S: Many times.
I: Was he responsive and informative?
S: Very much so. He has always answered my curiosity about those times. He has tried to explain. In 1933, 1935 even the normal, intelligent Germans felt it was right to join or support the Nazi Party. They were quite taken in by Hitler, even the big industrialists who financed him. Now, it is easy to say they were stupid. But they thought Hitler would leave them alone. A dictator never leaves anyone alone. But Hitler and Goebbels and that whole crowd, they were devilishly clever. They changed the law very slowly so that people would not notice too sharply, and in the end, of course, there was no law at all.

GUILT FEELINGS

I: Among your father's generation and your grandfather's generation, do you think there is any feeling of guilt?
S: Very much so, especially where the Jewish people and their extermination is concerned. You see, Hitler never tried to hide his anti-Semitism. Right from the start he showed his true feelings. Old Germans can say, "We didn't know about this. We didn't know about that." But they certainly knew what Hitler was doing to the Jews. They just lacked the strength of character, the bravery to object. All the German newspapers used to carry signs, "Death to the Jews. Death to the Jews." In 1933 the Nazis began to boycott the Jewish stores. In 1935 they passed the Nuremberg Laws. In 1938 they burned down the synagogues all over Germany, almost 300. So when they tell me, "We didn't realize what Hitler was doing to the Jews."—I just walk away. The older generations made a terrible mistake in this. A famous author once wrote, "If you let the flame rise, you will never extinguish it." The German people let Hitler raise the flame and did very little about it until in the end they were caught in the same flame. Of course, today they don't like to admit it, but in their hearts they share the feeling of guilt. But how long can anyone go on feeling guilty?
I: In the German schools you have attended, do the teachers instruct about the Hitler period and mention the atrocities?
S: The young teachers who did not live through that era, teach about it. Most of the older ones who knew it firsthand, avoid it.
I: As a young man who has traveled around Europe, do you find that the world accuses you for the sins of your parents' generation?
S: Unfortunately there is a great deal of that. After all, about 50 per cent of the people in West Germany today were not even born when Hitler was in power. It is really most unfair to ask a son to explain the behavior or motivation of his father. In a sense we are prisoners of history. Many of us are tired of the trials going on and on. But we realize that in a way they are necessary —to see that justice is done, to prove to the world that there is decency and justice in the German character, to wipe clean our own stains.
I: Do you think your generation has any talent for democracy or is capable of following a Hitlerite successor?
S: My generation is not strongly political. It should take more interest and participate more in politics. It must be taught that people who don't rule themselves will in turn be ruled. I think that we have too much sense, too much knowledge to follow another demagogue like Hitler. Certainly, I hope so, for after all we must prove to the world that we not only have a new face but also a new heart.

BRINGING UP BABY®
HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF FIVE

SUNSUIT—BABYGRO® BY KAPART®

Refreshing ways for summer days

The "good old summertime" is a great time for your baby. But sizzler days pose the problem of how to keep baby cool. Cooling systems to take the simmer out of summer:

• On most days baby will fare best with just a sunsuit or diaper. On "scorchers" he'll keep cooler with a cotton shirt to soak up perspiration.

• Splash-happy baths or refresher sponge-downs with tepid (not cold) water are swell cooler-offers. A bit of baking soda in the water helps prevent prickly heat.

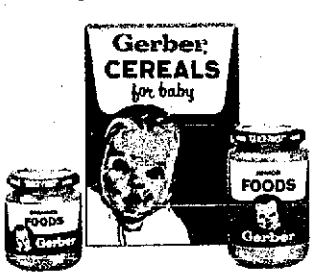

• Offer plenty of cool water or fruit juice. Heat may make baby extra-thirsty.

Refreshment unlimited
Happy, refreshed and nourished is the baby who gets Gerber Fruit Juices. For these delicate, fruitful juices are palate-pleasing, thirst-quenching and brimming with vitamin C. That's the vitamin baby needs daily to help keep gums and other body tissues in good condition.

There are nine oh-so-nice choices: Gerber Orange Juice, Apple Juice, Orange-Apple, Orange-Apricot, Orange-Pineapple, Pineapple-Grapefruit, Prune-Orange, Apple-Cherry and Mixed Fruit Juice.

Summer cooler for thirsty toddlers
2 tbs. Gerber Egg Yolks
1 can Gerber Orange Juice
2 tsp. sugar • 1 cup milk
Blend with beater and serve to smiles

Other cool views
1. If baby takes an outdoor snooze in his carriage make sure to park it in a shady nook so the sun won't ovenize the carriage.

2. A slightly later bedtime for an older tot will give him a sleeping benefit from the cool of the evening.

Appetite inviters
Summer supper menus take on special magic when they feature a Gerber Strained or Junior Dinner. Like Chicken Noodle Dinner, Beef & Egg Noodles or Macaroni, Tomato, Beef and Bacon, for example. Or the new Vegetables with Ham and Bacon.

These tasty dishes combine vegetables, meat and cereal, suitably seasoned to invite a truly hearty appetite. Twelve wonderfully tasty varieties.

Important footnote: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business ...our only business!"®

YOUNG GERMANS DISCUSS GERMANY PAST AND FUTURE

Boy, 15: "What all of us want is peace. We believe in live and let live. It is not right to confront us with the sins of wartime Germany."

Girl, 16: "I think it is important for the new generation in Germany to know the truth about the old so we can avoid their mistakes."

Patrick Stauffenberg: "My generation is not strongly political. It must be taught that people who don't rule themselves will in turn be ruled."

Patrick Stauffenberg: "My generation is not strongly political. It must be taught that people who don't rule themselves will in turn be ruled."

Ingrid Wolf, 23, blue-eyed blonde who appears on our cover, was born in Dresden, now in East Germany. Her father, formerly an officer in the German Army, teaches school in Hanover. Ingrid has worked in France, as a mother's helper with a Jewish family in England, is currently employed as an information clerk at Victoria Station, London.

"You ask about my generation. I tell you this: my generation rejects the past. We are tired of all the time feeling guilty for what our elders did. We are responsible only for ourselves, also not to do harm to others.

"I think among us there is not much need for religion. I do not know why this is. I do not know any German people of my age who are religious. I think the average German girl believes in this motto, 'I love whom—when and where I like.' Many young Germans today prefer to feel European rather than German. I believe this is because they have learned from history how a whole country can be led into war and disaster by listening to such lies as, 'This is good for the nation. This is good for the nation.' That is the same excuse Hitler used over and over again when he wanted the people to do things which were really against their nature.

"All of us have heard very much about the Hitler era, but we do not understand much about it, and we do not think we should be punished for it. I have worked for a Jewish family in England, and I could not find nicer people anywhere, and they do not seem to have the bitterness or the revenge feeling of many Englishmen.

'HARD FOR THE INNOCENT'

"I do not see any point in why the Auschwitz trials which have been going on in Frankfurt month after month, should continue. Most of the Germans I know feel exactly the same. They should stop already. The truth is known. Nobody denies the truth. But who wants to hear it over and over again? It poisons the air. It makes it very hard for the innocent.

"A few months ago young West German soldiers—many of them were not even born when Hitler died—went to Denmark for some NATO maneuvers. Everywhere there were signs calling them Nazis, telling them to go home. How can we build a new Germany, a new Europe if all the time we are presented with the crimes of the old? My generation wants to be judged on the present, not the past. Do not hold me to account for my grandfather."

Ursula Uhr, 21, born in Breslau, raised in Wetterau, daughter of a doctor, has traveled in seven countries, believes young German women of her generation "are pretty much like other girls all over the world, with this exception: In West Germany the average age for a girl to get married is 26, and I think, too, that many German girls would prefer to marry Americans or Englishmen. In German families the husband rules, and the wife follows. In England and America, I think, the hausfrau has it easier.

"Anyway we are different from our mothers' generation, because now so many German girls go out to work. We have jobs. These make us more sophisticated, more alert. We know what is going on in the world. But I must say we are not particularly interested in politics. Women have the vote in West Germany, and I believe they are basically conservative. They vote the way their husbands tell them to vote.

"About the horrors of the past, I think we shall never forget them. They should not be forgotten, because when you remember how badly it hurts, you never put your hand in the fire again. But if you forget, then it's easy to do the same thing over again.

"People abroad have been very nice to me, but in many cases the German abroad is most unpopular. He is loud and arrogant, the ugly German. But he is no more typical of us than the ugly American is of you."

Germany's youth today is a youth with no illusions. It is a pragmatic generation whose members ask the world to judge them only on what they themselves do. Good or bad, they have divorced themselves from their parents. As such, they feel free of preconceived ideologies and full of bright promise. Ten years from now we shall see what they have done to and for the new Germany. □

Doctor to patient: "Now that you've seen your electrocardiograph, we're agreed, are we not? For the next six months—no drinking, no dancing, no smoking, no women, no excitement, no big eating, no tennis, no motoring—but above all, try to enjoy yourself."

A mother, saying good-bye to her daughter who was off on her honeymoon, gave her a last word of advice: "Above all, darling, remember this. Never argue with your husband—just weep."

"Every time I ask you something," the angered husband said to his wife, "you answer all my questions with another question. Why?"

"Do I really do that?" the wife replied.

The manager called in one of his top salesmen and angrily waved beneath his nose the expense account the salesman had filed.

"This is robbery," he screamed. "Highway robbery! I was once a salesman myself. I know what things cost. I don't mind the ordinary larceny, but this swindle sheet is outrageous. How in heaven's name," he exploded, "can you possibly spend $198.50 for food in a single day in New York?"

"Easy," explained the salesman. "All you do is skip breakfast."

An American banker received a European prince who wanted a loan. "Take a seat, Your Highness," the banker said.

"Sir," protested the nobleman. "I beg you to remember that I am a prince."

"Okay," said the banker. "A prince? Well then, take two."

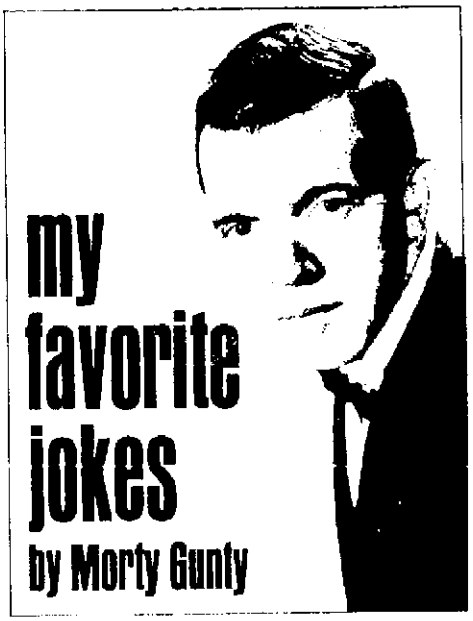

The wife of a corporation president presented him with a bottle of shampoo. "What's this for?" the executive asked.

"Oh, it's not for you," his wife said. "It's for your secretary. She seems to be losing her blonde hair all over your suits."

A man strolled into a bar and ordered a martini. Before drinking the martini, the customer removed the olive and dropped it into a small glass jar. He then ordered two more martinis and followed the same procedure. All in all, he ordered 12 martinis, dropped each olive into his glass jar, downed the drink. When eventually he staggered out of the place, a customer near-by turned to the bartender and said, "That beats me. That's the strangest thing I've ever seen."

"Nothing strange at all," explained the bartender. "His wife just sent him out for a jar of olives."

TWO NEW SPAGHETTI SAUCES

by Beth Merriman
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

What's spaghetti without a good rich sauce? Here's a new recipe for clam sauce that will turn an ordinary plate of spaghetti into a genuine treat. Since some like red sauce and others white; this recipe was created for both tastes. Cooked one way, it's white; add tomato sauce, it becomes red. Either sauce is delicious over thin spaghetti. Serve with healthful, crisp tossed-green salad.

WHITE CLAM SAUCE

¼ cup vegetable or olive oil
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 or 2 garlic cloves, minced
½ cup water
½ cup chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon oregano
1½ tablespoons flour
2 cans (8 oz. each) whole clams*

Heat oil and butter in skillet. Add garlic; cook until lightly browned. Cool slightly. Add water slowly. Stir in parsley, salt, pepper and oregano. Blend flour with enough clam juice to make a smooth paste; stir in. Add clams and clam juice; cook and stir over medium heat until slightly thickened. Makes about 3 cups. *or 1 can (7 oz.) minced clams

RED CLAM SAUCE

Before adding flour and clams stir in 2 cans (8 oz. each) tomato sauce; simmer 10 minutes. Continue as above.

1½ tablespoons flour
2 cans (8 oz. each) whole clams*

Heat oil and butter in skillet. Add garlic; cook until lightly browned. Cool slightly. Add water slowly. Stir in parsley, salt, pepper and oregano. Blend flour with enough clam juice to make a smooth paste; stir in. Add clams and clam juice; cook and stir over medium heat until slightly thickened. Makes about 3 cups. *or 1 can (7 oz.) minced clams

RED CLAM SAUCE

Before adding flour and clams stir in 2 cans (8 oz. each) tomato sauce; simmer 10 minutes. Continue as above.

PHONY SCHOOLS

HOW SWINDLERS FLEECE THE GULLIBLE WITH PROMISES OF QUICK EDUCATION, INSTANT JOBS

by ROBERT E. MACKIN & CHARLES W. STICKLE

"You can start earning in only 6 weeks, and your salary potential is $20,000 a year."

Encouraged by this statement, Ed Foster, an aircraft worker threatened with an imminent layoff, listened attentively in his living room as the "registrar" explained how attendance at a near-by school would equip him to double his income in the "magic new world of computers."

Foster was urged to take an "aptitude test." After scoring "above average," he enrolled in the school and paid the full tuition of $750. He was graduated eight weeks later with "high honors."

It was then that Foster was to matriculate in a more exacting school—the proverbial College of Hard Knocks.

When he asked the school to help him find a job, he learned that its placement office knew of no "immediate openings." He was told to contact employment agencies and send résumés to prospective employers.

After three frustrating weeks, he finally obtained a job interview with the personnel director of an insurance company. The interviewer was polite—and brutally frank.

"I can't understand how you could think you are qualified for a job in this highly specialized field with your superficial training," he told Foster. In the weeks that followed, Foster heard similar comments during other job interviews.

Ed Foster needed no computer to analyze the situation. He was one of the thousands of Americans who are being gypped every year by education quacks who promise high-salaried jobs and glamorous careers in a wide variety of vocations.

H. B. Montague, chief of the U.S. postal inspection service, who reports that a crackdown by his office has led to investigation of 130 phony schools, says: "The education swindlers take millions of dollars away from hard-working, sincere individuals who are trying to improve themselves."

'a major racket'

"Phony schools, charging exorbitant fees, offer superficial training by incompetent instructors and promise immediate placement in jobs. They are a major consumer racket which deprives students of an opportunity to enroll in the many legitimate schools that can prepare them for better jobs," declares New York state Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz.

Seldom has a racket hit such a wide cross section of Americans. Prime targets are the hundreds of thousands of individuals who are increasingly concerned with the diminishing job opportunities available to the unskilled. Elderly pensioners, middle-aged couples planning retirement and the unemployed are easy victims. The cry of education hucksters reaches a crescendo when high school graduates are thrown into the job market.

More and more job placement directors are annoyed by the large number of unqualified job applicants who are products of phony schools.

William Adams, director of education of the Data Processing Management Association, a nation-wide organization of 18,000 professionals in the electronic computer field, states: "Members of our association are incensed by the low caliber of job seekers from bogus schools."

The education quacks are quick to seize upon the demand for skilled employees in fast-developing and booming industries.

One San Francisco promoter played up the scarcity of qualified mechanics and technicians and high wages paid in the aviation industry. In an intensive mail order campaign, he falsely claimed his school was approved by air lines, jet engine manufacturers and the U.S. government. He hired salesmen who enrolled more than 3,000 students in a course costing $600 before U. S. Post Office inspectors obtained indictments charging mail fraud. Officials of major aircraft companies testified during a trial that the course was worthless.

In some sections of the U. S., the boom in heavy construction has created a shortage of trained workmen to operate bulldozers, graders, scrapers, tractors and steam shovels. It has also triggered high-pressure sales promotions by education racketeers.

The experience of a Milwaukee man is a case in point.

After paying $575 in tuition, he left home to take up temporary residence in a southeastern city where the school had its "training grounds." He expected intensive on-the-job instruction and plenty of homework. He expressed his disappointment this way: "The first day, we just stayed around the camp and didn't do anything. The second day, a mechanic-instructor told us to take turns operating a grader, but never told us how to start it. The third day, the machine broke down. For three weeks, we were shuffled around the camp. An instructor was with us only one other day."

employers suffer too

Employers who hire "graduates" of bogus heavy equipment schools have had their own bitter experiences. One construction contractor reported that he had employed a graduate who could not even start the equipment and had had to pay $1,000 to repair a road scraper damaged by another graduate.

According to Reese Hammond, director of Organization, Research and Education, International Union of Operating Engineers, AFL-CIO, many heavy equipment schools "offer absolutely no assurance of employment and generally use outmoded equipment." He also points out that they provide little actual experience in the operation of the machines.

While the training offered by most of the bogus schools is superficial at best, some victims of the racket never get to attend a class. In Newark, N.J., men paid $190 for a course in carpet laying on the promise of employment or refund of their money. The promoter, whom they described as a smooth and convincing talker, vanished with $5,000 in enrollment fees before a single class was held.

The attraction of a glamorous career is often the stimulus which leads many individuals to enroll in the bogus schools.

"Trade your wings for a wedding ring" was the slogan of a New York correspondence school which said it would train women for "exciting" jobs as air-line hostesses.

Prospective students were informed by representatives of the school that there was an acute shortage of flight hostesses because so many left to marry prosperous air-line passengers. One student, a grandmother, was told there were no age limitations and she could be a stewardess provided she "loved to travel in foreign countries."

The real thing: American Airlines Stewardess College offers a six-and-a-half-week training course. This air line recognizes no stewardess training but its own, finds it easier to train than to untrain candidates.

The school, which operated for 2 years, enrolled more than 1,000 students. Despite assurances of free lifetime placement, only 12 students found jobs in the industry.

The sky is literally the limit when it comes to promises by phony air-line school promoters.

Some racket schools operate with names simulating those of major air lines. Two promoters recently convicted of fraud did business as "Pan American Technical Schools, Inc." and "United Jet Schools, Inc." Neither, however, had any connection with the well-known air lines. One girl, who aspired to be a hostess, was led to believe the school representative was connected with Pan American World Airways because he always carried one of its flight bags and had her make out her tuition check to "Pan American Personnel."

hostesses, the fascinating world of television, motion pictures and the stage tempts many victims to invest in theatrical instruction.

Not long ago in New York, Attorney General Lefkowitz uncovered a talent school which promised roles in a forthcoming motion picture extravaganza to students, who paid up to $990 for theatrical training.

Individuals with little or no talent were accepted by the school after a superficial audition. The promoter praised their latent talent but advised that they needed professional coaching to qualify for a part in the film. Boasting of a half-million dollar budget and a staff of 22 script writers headed by a veteran Hollywood director, he claimed that talent scouts and casting directors had expressed avid interest in the film.

When a court order ended the promotion, it was revealed that the "extravaganza" existed only in the promoter's imagination. The reputed "veteran Hollywood director"—whose bank account was $33 overdrawn—had had no experience in film directing and had never been in Hollywood.

Whatever your education interest may be, the gyp school promoters are ready to take advantage of it. Perhaps no other confidence game numbers so many innocent victims.

It has trapped individuals eager to obtain jobs in federal and state civil service and as real estate appraisers, radio announcers, disc jockeys, fashion models, practical nurses, private detectives and travel agents.

In several cities post office inspectors recently cracked down on the operators and salesmen of four schools offering training for government jobs.

In Wichita Falls, Tex., a federal grand jury returned an indictment against 3 men charged with taking $10,000 from students in a correspondence course for real estate appraisers.

Attorney General Lefkowitz, in branding a disc jockey training school a "vicious scheme," said: "The school 'graduates' more and more students every week while the alumni remain unemployed."

In Houston, promoters of a correspondence school for practical nurses were fined $16,000 for falsely claiming that their courses would equip women for state vocational examinations.

Authorities agree that in almost every case where a student has been the victim of a bogus educational program, he could have obtained bona fide instruction in any vocational field for the same amount of time, money and effort.

There are literally hundreds of schools which meet high educational standards and equip their students for better jobs. Their graduates hold well-paying, important positions with many companies. Their curricula and facilities meet exacting criteria of professional educators. None of them, however, promise "instant" employment.

taste and compare

A few simple rules will help you to distinguish between the legitimate school and the bogus study program:

- Compare the curriculum, facilities and equipment of several schools offering the same type of training. Visit classes in session. The bona fide schools will welcome you to observe their teaching methods.
- Check the background of instructors. Take the time to find out if they have had working experience in the field. Are there enough instructors to provide adequate attention to the students?
- Obtain a list of recent graduates and interview them. Did they get jobs or promotions as a result of the training? Would they recommend the school? Don't be satisfied with the comments of two or three graduates. Some education racketeers have paid graduates to give phony endorsements.
- Call upon personnel directors of companies which from time-to-time have job openings in the field in which you will be trained and find out which schools they recommend as adequate preparation for positions with them.
- Be wary of fast-talking "salesmen" who pressure you into enrolling. Legitimate schools do not resort to such tactics.
- Check with your state Department of Education, the Veterans Administration, the National Home Study Council in Washington, D.C., or your own high school or vocational school guidance counselor.

And remember, don't be fooled by guarantees of immediate job placement. No reputable school will make such a promise.

Real Relief from Hemorrhoids

When simple hemorrhoids cause agony and embarrassing itch, use DeWitt's ManZan—now even more effective with Allantoin to aid natural healing. ManZan also contains benzocaine to ease pain, and a vasoconstrictor to help reduce swelling. For soothing action and fast palliative relief, try

MANZAN OINTMENT OR SUPPOSITORIES

Our argument for Jockey support is full of holes

We've always assured you that a man needs Jockey support. Now that concept is full of holes. It's the new Jockey Super brief with the double-mesh pouch. It molds itself to a man . . . gives him the support and protection he needs plus ventilation.

Two more innovations: a higher-rising waistband for extra comfort and a double-reinforced seat for longer wear. The Super* brief has the same exclusive 13-piece construction as our classic brief and the same no-gap front. You have to try it to believe it, and that will cost you only $1.50. Look for the package with the blue diamond.

If you don't want holes, you can save a little money. Get the classic Jockey brief for just $1.25 or $3.69 in the 3-pack.

Jockey MENSWEAR

It's not Jockey brand if it doesn't have the Jockey boy!

JOCKEY MENSWEAR, KENOSHA, WIS.—A DIVISION OF COOPER'S, INC. *PAT. APPLD. FOR

This new book will make you look and feel younger, slimmer and stronger—this summer!

In just 90 seconds of your day, you can double your strength, put a youthful spring in your step, make your body firm and vibrant, bring a healthy glow to your face—and without heart-taxing calisthenics, exercise equipment or dieting. All you need are those 90 seconds and a copy of How to Exercise Without Moving a Muscle. Published by Pocket Books, Inc., the vital new book by Vic Obeck, athletic director at New York University and a member of the President's Council on Physical Fitness!

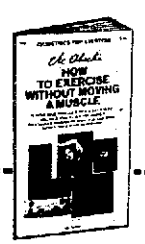

What's the secret? Isometrics, the all-new approach to the best physical condition you have ever known.

What is it? Simple, effortless muscular contraction, explained in detail through Vic Obeck's tested and proved 15-exercise plan, each step of which can be performed in as little as 6 seconds a day!

Easy to do! Anyone—young, old, stout or slim—can take advantage of this scientifically planned isometric program. You can do isometric exercises anywhere, anytime regardless of activity, even sitting down.

If you can spare 90 seconds a day, you can increase your body power by at least 5 per cent a week. Think of it—a new YOU in just a few short weeks!

Today—now—take your first step toward better health, toward greater physical well-being. Send $1.00 for your copy of How to Exercise Without Moving a Muscle.

Alicja steadies herself...

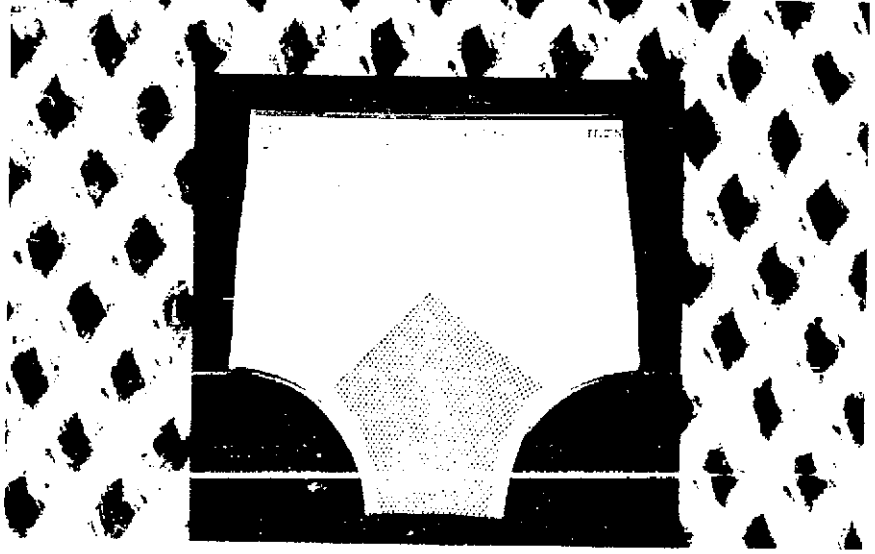

...before being flipped...

...into double somersault—and lands feet-first on bar.

THIS CHICK REALLY FLIPS

She's a little mite of a thing and the final stunt of her act in this season's Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus leaves audiences limp. From a standing position on a narrow fiberglas bar held by two male partners—one of them her husband, Marek Mecner—83-pound Polish circus performer Alicja Mecner is vaulted straight up, does two complete somersaults and jackknifes back to land feet-first on the bar! Exciting? Those watching her do the awesome stunt never fail to feel they have taken part in a daring adventure. Difficult? Despite the fact 21-year-old Alicja has been doing the double flip for 2 years, it is far from a set routine. So far this year she has wrenched her back and sprained an ankle. But all trouper, the gallant little lady goes on with the show!

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BIRTH CONTROL INJECTIONS. A birth control method for women involving once-a-month injections will be administered to between 3,000 and 5,000 women at 50 birth control centers throughout the country for the next 2 years. The nation-wide test has been started by the Squibb Institute for Medical Research, a branch of the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. The injection consists of an ovulation-inhibiting compound and will supplant the oral contraceptive pills now taken daily by thousands of women. The mixture, composed of 100 milligrams of progestogen and 10 milligrams of estrogen, is injected into the muscle and released slowly throughout the system. The injectable contraceptive is a good two years away from commercial marketing. When Squibb eventually does release it, the price will certainly be competitive with the pills. Whether women will want to go to their physicians once a month, or whether they can learn to inject themselves after initial treatment remains to be seen. The ideal solution to the birth control problem is a pill taken once a month which would provide protection against pregnancy. Research with that objective is under way in pharmaceutical houses everywhere.

WOMEN RECRUITERS. What sort of female college graduates is business looking for? It wants coeds who have majored in science, math, economics, or library science. Company recruiters, now touring the campuses of Wellesley, Sarah Lawrence, Smith, etc. say they are not particularly interested in liberal arts graduates unless the girls have secretarial skills. The coeds who have secretarial skills are not particularly interested in getting jobs as secretaries. They argue that good secretaries get stuck, are held down by bosses who don't want to transfer them.

EXERCISE. After a heavy, hearty meal, take a walk. Don't lie down and nap. That's the advice of Dr. Gerhardt Volkheimer, a German specialist from the Humboldt University Medical School. Dr. Volkheimer claims that complete repose after a heavy meal can result in a sudden heart attack since it can cause an accumulation of chyle, a fatty fluid produced during digestion. The chyle develops in the thoracic duct. Upon awakening, the person may propel enough chyle into the blood stream to cause a fat embolism in a vital coronary artery.

TRAVEL SAFETY. Last year 314 million people traveled on the nation's railroads for a total of 18.3 billion passenger miles. There were only 11 passenger fatalities, which means that last year the railroads were twice as safe as domestic air lines, 20 times safer than travel by private automobiles. Each year passenger train service becomes less and less available in many sectors of the nation.

TEN MILLION YEARS AGO, THE SIERRA NEVADA MOUNTAINS WERE ONLY ROLLING HILLS, AND THE MERCED RIVER A SLUGGISH STREAM

THROUGH ENSUING MILLENIUMS, THE HILLS WERE THRUST SLOWLY UPWARD, AND THE RIVER CUT A WIDE VALLEY BETWEEN THE SLOPES

AS CENTURIES PASSED, THE VALLEY BECAME A DEEP CANYON, AND CHANGING CLIMATE CAUSED SNOW AND ICE TO FILL IT ALMOST TO THE SURROUNDING PEAKS

WHEN THE SEA OF ICE MELTED AWAY, ITS GRINDING ACTION LEFT A U-SHAPED GORGE WITH SHEER WALLS

ICE CAME ONCE MORE, AND THE RESULTING GLACIER PILED UP A DAM OF ROCK AND DEBRIS, IMPOUNDING A HUGE LAKE

THEN EROSION GRADUALLY FILLED THE LAKE BASIN WITH SILT CREATING THE FERTILE YOSEMITE VALLEY...

AND OVERLOOKING THE VALLEY, THE ICE POLISHED FACES OF EL CAPITAN AND HALF-DOME HAVE BECOME FAMOUS THROUGHOUT THE LAND FOR THEIR BREATH-TAKING BEAUTY AND GRANDEUR
